At the close of the programme lunch was served to the two hundred or more who were present. Afterward the younger folk adjourned to the community hall where a couple of enjoyable hours were spent in music and dancing.

The address read as follows:

"To Mr. and Mrs. George Berry, Centreville —

"We, your friends, relatives and neighbors are met here tonight to do you honor on this, the fiftieth anniversary of your wedding day.

"During your long residence in our midst, very many changes have taken place, not only in this immediate neighborhood, but in Canada and the world at large. You have rejoiced in seeing our vast Dominion advance year by year in population, in wealth, in prosperity and in national greatness. It is to men and women like yourselves honest, sturdy toilers of the field that much of the thanks for this commendable progress is due.

"Your excellent reputation as kind neighbors, successful farmers and loyal citizens is too well known to require any special mention. We are glad indeed to have this opportunity of meeting you and expressing our appreciation of the many kind acts you have performed, the helpful advice and counsel you have so cheerfully given, and the ready word of sympathy spoken in times of sorrow and distress, during your long sojourn in our midst. We trust and hope that you may be spared to each other, to us and the neighborhood for many years to come.

"May the evening of your life here be happy and peaceful, and may you in the Heavenly Life receive that glorious reward promised to all faithful souls.

"Signed on behalf of all,
"H. A. EARLE."

ICE CUTTING TEN DAYS LATE

UNPLEASANT TASK.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 20—Ice-cutting on Attwooll & Sheppard's pond began on Thursday, January 19, ten days later than last year. The ice is of excellent quality but is only about twelve inches in thickness as compared with 16, 18 or even 20 inches in former seasons.

The men were wet through more than once on Thursday when the rain started, and their task was far from being a pleasant one for the initial day of work at the ice.

A number of farmers in the vicinity come in and cut the ice required at their respective home, while the supply lasts, in addition to the amount cut for local supply in private homes, hotels, restaurants, stores, etc.

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep you bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; make a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidneys trouble and backache.

MRS. EDWARDS PRESIDENT, ETC.

"One of the vital portions of the work is Canadianization, and I don't mean to Canadianize the other fellow, but ourselves. Many people think always in a provincial way. One of the great glories of this continent is the fact that on it we have two great Federations in the United States and Canada, and it is therefore important that we, each one of us, shall become citizens of all of Canada. What interests the Maritimes and British Columbia should also be of interest to us. In these days of wider communication afforded by the radio and the telegraph, a common meeting ground is the International Council of Women." Mrs. Wilsons went on to speak of her own experience at Geneva and to the realization there that, although we might not approve of a country like Germany in war time yet that disapproval did not necessarily mean that many of its women, such as encountered in the meetings, might not be charming and attractive and cultured, a realization that made for a broader international outlook.

Not a Feminist.

Repeating the feeling uttered by herself in younger days that the success of the Council was probably due to the fact that its members discussed its problems at home with their husbands, "a pronouncement that shows you that I am not a real feminist," Mrs. Wilson spoke of the idea advanced by Chesterton that women should not worry over a single vote when they could be empresses in their own homes, and the fact that parents wield such an enormous influence over their offspring.

"It is very hard for lads to go straight, because they are trying to tread the narrow path of virtue and still carve their own financial way in life." The study of such things as Citizenship and Equal Moral Standard, she declared, would necessarily broaden the outlook of any woman and make her a better parent.

An idea of the scope of the various committees was then outlined by Mrs. Wilson. Alluding to the Citizenship committee, she advanced the idea, which is being sponsored by one of the Councils, that Canada has arrived at a period in her history when her status has been sufficiently recognized to give her citizens, by right, a title to the word "Canadian," instead of being listed merely in the census, and in other ways.

"A weak spot in the Council and also in the feminine make-up is the fact that when we have passed a resolution we think we have finished with the matter, and a twenty-year-old resolution may often be used to excuse inactivity along the same lines. A resolution is only a beginning to the real work."

In connection with the work of the Mental Hygiene committee, reference was made to the long struggle before two conclusions were finally arrived at; "that there are mental defectives and that it is our duty to do something for them."

Speaking of the ameliorative legislation passed recently in Ontario in the way of the Mothers' Allowance and Workmen's Compensation Acts, the National president recommended further endeavor in having the Old Age Pension bills passed in the various provinces.

Work in the Conservation Committee was especially fitting for women, she thought, they being fitted by nature to protect life and conserve its resources. A consideration of the necessity of conserving our forests was urged, Mrs. Wilson speaking of the many tax-free communities in Europe, whose imposts are borne by the wooded areas in their vicinity which have been planted and tended through generations, and whose afforestation has been made a matter of immediate and constant concern.

Oil Pollution.

Another National committee of this type is the one devoted to efforts to prevent oil pollution, which has such a destructive effect on shipping, on bird life and even on the harbors where the waters are polluted by the excessive oil deposits from sea-going vessels. The coal supply of the country was another national affair, and the struggle to maintain the country's parks from private interests, "many of whose heads have their homes in Montreal," was another matter of interest.

In the Education committee, attention should be turned to the necessity of training more children for the soil and other types of labor, rather than encouraging them in pursuit of white collar jobs for which many were unfitted by mental capacity.

Regarding the committee on Equal moral standard, Mrs. Wilson said if the ideals of Sir Galahad and a proper sense of the sanctity of their own bodies were inculcated into the minds of the rising generation, especially of the boys she thought the commercialized traffic in women and children, which had become such a widespread menace, might be decreased.

She spoke of the necessity of repatriation of foreign-born girls residing in houses of ill-fame and referred to the quick clean up in vice conditions in Cuba, formerly one of the worst vice centres, after matters had been made uncomfortable by the police for those engaged in this loathsome business.

Adverting to a consideration of the finer aspects of the work of the Council the National president urged the necessity for support and co-operation in the work of the Committee and Fine and Applied Arts, and spoke of the efficacy of musical training for young children. "If beautiful music is in their hearts and in their homes, they will not so easily be fascinated by the vulgar modern songs."

Further efforts towards a decrease in infantile and maternal mortality, Canada ranking second highest in the world in figures concerning the latter," and I don't know why this should be, when we have such a beautiful country," training in Household Economics problems, and increased endeavor in solving Immigration questions, were also spoken of.

"The study of the Immigration question is a big subject. My own idea is that the theory is one thing and practice is another and it is up to us to see that these new comers who come to us shall have a friendly welcome because one ill-used family here can send back very damaging reports to the British Isles for instance and it is from the British Isles that we should try and get most of our new citizens for although we welcome other classes still we would like Canada to remain essentially British in outlook and ideals."

Playgrounds for the adolescent as well as for the very youthful child, were strongly recommended as a deterrent to vice. A study of the League of Nations work and aims was also strongly advised. A Town Planning Committee, to see that houses erected should be beautiful, rather than ugly, was another consideration. Mrs. Wilson concluded with the advice that the Local Councils should constantly worry their National convenors, so that the latter might be in a position to discover problems of different localities.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the speaker by Mrs. Edwards.

Routine Business.

Mrs. Edwards recommended to the Council members patronage of the picture "Roses of Picardy," to be presented at the Regent Theatre during the first four days of next week, under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League.

Votes of thanks occupied the attention of the meeting prior to the reception and service of tea which followed the business session. Sincere expressions of appreciation were accorded The Examiner, for reports and courtesies extended the Local Council, to the Y.W.C.A. for the use of the green room for monthly meetings and for kindness extended throughout the year, to the retiring officers and to those who helped in any way with the entertainment yesterday, and also to Mrs. F. A. Hodgson, who is leaving the city shortly, and who has been a faithful member of the council.

Mrs. Edwards alluded to the fact that Mrs. Hodgson had always done everything possible to keep the posters of the city at a high standard; also to her occupation of a unique position, in being for many years in charge of a business which made her the only woman proprietor of a poster plant in the Dominion.

STONE COMMITTED ON FRAUD CHARGES

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Jan. 20.—Arthur T. Stone, of Madoc, Ont., described as the general manager of the Art Stone Company, of Belleville and Detroit, was committed yesterday by Magistrate Maxwell, to stand trial on five charges of obtaining money by false pretence, with intent to defraud. Preliminary hearings were held on two of the charges, those of Ernest Egley, local railroader, who has charged Stone with obtaining $200 from him in June of last year, and Mrs. Maude Dilts, wife of Howard Dilts, who invested $100. In the others, Stone waived preliminary examination through his counsel, Hugh Cameron.

Witnesses claim Stone had said that he had orders for 10,000 cases of hand cleaner from the F. W. Woolworth Co., Limited, and that on that order alone his commission was $2,100. Howard Dilts, in telling the court how he purchased two shares in the Stone Company in November, 1926, said that the defendant painted his industrial venture in glowing colors, going so far as to declare that he intended holding a big picnic of the shareholders at Port Stanley in August of last year, and refunding the shareholders all the money they had invested. They were to retain their stock holdings in the company. Dilts stated Stone had said he had 214 acres of stone deposits in Belleville.

Mrs. Egley said that she had heard the defendant say he had orders for his product from the F. W. Woolworth Co., Limited, the T. Eaton Co., and the Robert Simpson Company. She understood the orders were for stone chips for bulb planting and for hand cleaners and cleansers.

William J. Phelan of Toronto, buyer for the F. W. Woolworth Company, testified that his company had purchased about three tons of crystal rock through the defendant at a total cost of $63.70. Mr. Phelan deposed that other orders, about three, had been given for crystal rock, but had been returned by Mr. Stone, with the explanation that he was unable to fill them.

Edward W. Knowlton, of the T. Eaton Company, Toronto, said that he knew nothing about the Art Stone Company. There were records on file of orders having been given to the company for Stone products.

Thomas A. Wilson, assistant controller of the Robert Simpson Company, said that the company had no dealings of any kind with Stone or the Art Stone Company. Herman Ponsford, president of the Ponsford Construction Company, denied that any order had been placed with Stone or his company.

A feature of the evidence remarked upon by Magistrate Maxwell, in committing Stone for trial, was that the stock was sold for three different prices per share, although the stock certificates issued place the par value of each share at $100. Mr. Egley testified that he paid $100 a share for his stock; Mr. Dilts said he bought two shares for $100 in November, 1926, and that when Mr. Stone returned to his home on July 18, he was offered five shares for $100.

$500,000 COSTS IN $120,000 CASE

Privy Council Decides It After Seventeen Years' Litigation.

LEADING MEN DEAD.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 20.— That the way of the litigant is long, hard and expensive was never better proven than by the judgment of the Privy Council yesterday condemning the Cedars' Rapids Manufacturing and Power Company to pay the de'Beujeu estate $120,000 and all costs for certain water rights and one island in the St. Lawrence, 26 miles west of Montreal, which form part of the power development but has aided in lighting the city since 1915.

The cases lasted 17 years minus five days, having opened January 24th, 1911. For 15 years, the value of land has ceased to be the real basis of the struggle. Costs were the true issue, the case ends with law expenses estimated at almost a half million dollars. And while the matter has been in process of adjudication and re-adjudication, four of the main figures linked with it died—Sir Alexandre Lacoste, who was the representative of the estate; Francois De'Sales Bastein, K.C., umpire of the first arbitration board; Hon. Louis Telier, umpire on the second arbitration board, and Percival W. St. Georges, C.E., the company arbitrator.

The first offer for the property was $4,700. That mounted to $173,000 later in the case, then came down to $120,000, the final award. Two arbitration boards sat, one holding sessions for three and a half years. There was one appeal to the Superior Court, one to the Court of Appeals, two to the Supreme Court and two to the Privy Council.

CAIRO LIKES SHAKESPEARE.

Shakespeare in English was a success in Cairo, Egypt, where the government back a season of plays by the Bard recently. The government had guaranteed gross receipts of $21,500, but $630 in excess of this was taken in at the Opera House box office. Crowded houses were the rule, and when "Hamlet" and "Othello" were given, extra seats had to be arranged. Not only did the English patronize the productions, but at some performances half the audiences were Egyptians. They especially enjoyed "Hamlet," and frequently interrupted the performance with their enthusiastic applause.

I got where I did not have any health at all, was not able to follow my usual line of work. I saw Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery recommended for stomach trouble so I decided to try it and it relieved me of my indigestion and weak stomach and built me up in health. Latest Comment on Grain and Industrial Markets. — Closing Quotations on the Principal Active Stocks.

THE MINE MARKETS.

Mining Corporation was in strong demand this morning, apparently on account of speculators desiring to obtain what are considered the valuable rights on these shares, in connection with Flin Flon.

The Mining Corporation management have expressed their wish for shareholders to have stock registered in their name immediately, and to forward their subscriptions for the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting shares as soon as possible.

Also Mining Corporation's interest of 150,000 shares of Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company, Limited, can be considered a very valuable asset to the company and consequently a reason for higher prices in the stock.

Amulet, selling ex-rites, opened up this morning at $1.00 per share below yesterday's closing prices, which is apparently the value placed on the rights to be issued to shareholders on record, January 20, 1928.

Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves were much stronger this morning, and by the appearance of the whole market higher prices are indicated.

Premier Gold has been attracting considerable attention of late and has experienced a spectacular advance during the past day or two. Ore reserves at the Premier mine are stated to be in splendid condition, finances in good shape and the outlook for the property splendid. Also the stock has an added attraction by paying annual dividends amounting to about 10 per cent on current quotations. Another reason advanced for the activity in the Premier stock is the report that mining stocks are experiencing a greater volume of trading and public interest on the West Coast than for some time.

Although very encouraging reports are coming through regarding results of the Noranda Smelting, the stock re-acted this morning to below $21.00 per share. Probably this is on account of a rumor on street regarding the value of the ore run, which was stated to be not so high in gold values as at first anticipated. Extraction is reported at 95 per cent, which can be considered quite favorable, particularly on account of the Noranda plant being new and more or less just broken in.

The market showed much greater strength this morning and has a strong indications of an important upward movement. Many stocks are regarded as selling very near or even below their intrinsic values and as a result very little news of possibilities and developments at the respective mining properties appears discounted.

Cold Weather In West Causes Advance In Wheat

CHICAGO, January 20 (Canadian Press).—Cold weather endangering domestic winter wheat where there is no blanket of snow did a good deal to turn the wheat market upward early to-day. Meanwhile corn values were easy, owing largely to improved conditions for the movement of corn to market. Opening unchanged to ½ cent higher, wheat subsequently scored gains all around. Corn started at 1-8 cent to ¾ cent decline, but afterwards rallied. Oats were firm. Provisions advanced.

Opening prices were: Wheat, March 129¾, May 130¾. Corn, March 89 1-8, May 91¾. Oats, March 54⅜, May 56.

Few Big Advances Feature General Gain

TORONTO, Jan. 20. — Canadian Press. — Spectacular advances in individual issues against a generally steady background, marked to-day's session of the Toronto stock exchange. Cockshutt Plow Preferred, an active leader of the morning, climbed 15 at 135. Loblaw preferred jumped 16 at 175 after a series of quiet advances. Bell Telephone and Shredded wheat both advanced points at 160 and 75. Famous Players, which like Loblaw, is generally very quiet, climbed six at 58. The main stocks in the list generally firmed moderately. Canadian Oil gained 1 at 60, while British American and Imperial were steady with yesterday. Petroleum eased fractionally; liquor stocks eased slightly. Pacific Burt climbed five at 136; Dominion Stores 1½ at 115, and building products fractionally; Nickel eased a fraction.

Standard Exchange Trend Is Irregular

TORONTO, January 20 (Canadian Press). — The market on the Standard Mining Exchange was irregular to-day with Mining Corporation, Nipissing, and Wright Hargreaves going higher, and Noranda dropping 90 cents. Mining Corporation was the market feature, adding 36 cents to yesterday's gains and selling up over the 5.40 mark. Nipissing advanced to around 5.80. Wright Hargreaves recorded a gain of 25 points to sell around 5.95.

Premier was strong in early trading, going up to 3.25, but dropped sharply later, finishing the morning at 2.65 bid. Amulet, selling ex rights, was back at 4.00, a loss of eighty. In the Kirkland Lake group Teck Hughes lost slightly at 9.75, Beaver slumped thirteen at 199, and Kirkland Lake lost 3. Noranda lost nearly a dollar at 20.50.

New York Market Recovers Losses

NEW YORK Jan 20. Canadian Press.—Further recoveries took place in to-day's stock market, although the advance was not accompanied by any substantial increase in trading. Buying seemed to centre in a few special issues in the leading groups of stocks, with indications that pools furnished much of the activity.

Despite the reduction in call money from 4 to 3½ per cent and the decrease of $32,000,000 in brokers' loan last week, the credit situation was still a source of some uneasiness and tended to restrict operations for the advance. This was probably due to the further liquidation of United States Government securities by Federal Reserve banks, which was interpreted in some quarters as an official effort to restrict the volume of credit available for securities speculation.

There was little in the day's business news to influence the price movement.

Hardware Business Is Much Improved

"Hardware and Metal," Toronto comments on hardware and metal market movements as follows, in the issue of January 14th:—

Since salesmen returned to their territories and are calling on the hardware trade again, business has brightened up after the holiday lull. Orders in general hardware are mostly for sorting purposes after stock taking, however, and are not of very great volume. Winter lines of sport goods are enjoying active movement in many sections of the country.

The compiling of the year-end statement is almost completed with most retailers who close their financial year with the calendar year. Several firms with whom Hardware and Metal has been in communication, have stated that 1927 was a profitable year for them. The figure total showing the volume of business in some cases does not record such a marked increase over 1926, but that may be accounted for by the gradual decline in market prices of most commodities during the year. Competition is becoming keener each succeeding year, and margins of profit are growing smaller. Greater volume of business has to be done now to show the same total of profit.

Changes in price are more numerous this week and include a complete revision of prices of one line of oil stoves and heaters. The list prices on inside frosted electric lamps have been reduced. A new list of prices on rope, it is announced, will be issued on January 25, becoming effective from February 1, and is said will show material reductions in some products listed, particularly manila rope. Galvanized clothes line wire has been reduced in price, and a reduction in other wires is looked for in Eastern Canada.

The primary lead and tin markets have been showing considerable weakness lately and have reflected an influence on solder prices. These have been reduced from one half cent to one cent per pound.

The January volume of business going through iron and steel jobbers is reported to be keeping up to the total for December, which was exceptional for that month.

TORONTO, Jan. 20. — (Canadian Press.—Mrs. Barbara Deignton, struck by an axe in the hands of her husband last Saturday, to-day in hospital showed the first faint signs of returning to consciousness. For six days her recovery from six compound fractures of the skull has been despaired of, but a very slight improvement to-day led to the hope that her condition may become less critical. Her seven year old daughter, Joan, is slowly recovering from head wounds.

MAYOR VISITS KIWANIS CLUB

Songs By Dr. J. C. Smith and Birthday Message Feature Weekly Meeting.

BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

Dr. J. C. Smith, of Lakefield, entertained Kiwanis Club to-day with two musical selections, "Mandalay" and "The March of the Cameron Men," sung in splendid voice.

The meeting was almost entirely given over to business, but time was found for a short address by His Worship Mayor Denne, and the reading of an anniversary message from Kiwanis International President Henry C. Heinz, by Carl S. Browne, and a report on the District Trustees' meeting by Harry C. Huffman.

Joseph Wearing was booster, and prizes went to W. S. Merrell, Dr. G. Ray Scott, and Dr. J. J. Craig.

Mayor Denne expressed appreciation of the civic work done by Kiwanis Club, and made special reference of the assistance given by the club to the Industrial Exhibition. He made an appeal for support during his term of office in an effort to build a greater and better Peterborough.

President's Message.

The message read by Mr. Browne was as follows:

As the pendulum of time swings on into eternity, the mile posts on life's highway chronicle our progress, and in the observance of this Thirteenth Anniversary of Kiwanis, we may well pause and consider the achievements of the past and responsibilities of the future.

Like the flag of a nation, which has no other significance than that given to it by its people—their character, their accomplishments, their efforts, their hopes and sacrifices—so an organization has no other character than that given to it by its members. "By their fruits ye shall know them."

Organized as a single club in Detroit, January 15, 1915, Kiwanis has grown into an organization of 1,669 clubs in the United States and Canada, with over 100,000 members.

The objects, at first vague and indefinite, have developed into positive statements of purpose, and were incorporated into our By-laws and Constitution adopted in Denver in 1924. These objects stand forth as Holy Writ, and commend themselves to our soul and to our mind. Each year, subsequent to their adoption, we have endeavored to translate these objects into definite activities by various objectives. The work for the under-privileged child, our efforts for better citizenship, vocational guidance and placement, business standards, and closer relations between the farmer and the city man, have furnished our members with opportunities for unusual service.

The metamorphosis of things and the transition of time have developed into our modern day civilization a need of an influence such as is exerted by Kiwanis clubs. In this day of material success, when finance is enthroned and money is king, the heart interest developed through the human and spiritual relations of man to man is needed to direct the way. Great wealth and great power carry with them increasingly grave responsibilities. They also expose the recipient to the dangers of pride, arrogance and selfishness In the midst of material success, may we respond to the promptings of the human and the spiritual in all our relations.

Through the past thirteen years, Kiwanis has developed an efficient organization, through its International, district, and club units. With this machinery, with worthy objects and challenging objectives, we should all strive to make Kiwanis greater during the coming year.

We may well look back upon the past with pardonable pride. Our present is commanding. Our future holds forth prospects for greater service and usefulness. Our organization will continue to prosper as Kiwanis answers the needs of the times in developing individuals, contributing to community progress, and creating international leadership.

District Trustee.

Mr. Huffman, who represented the Club at a District Trustees' meeting at Kingston a week ago told of the discussions there pertaining to Kiwanis affairs. The Peterborough Club was honored by the appointment of Charles H. Elliott as chairman of the District Committee on Agriculture, and special reference was made to the efficiency of this Club. Announcement was made that the District Convention will be held at Kingston on September 24 and 25.

A motion to increase the Club dues to take care of running expenses was carried unanimously. It was pointed out that none of the money collected from the public in any of Kiwanis activities such as the Produced in Canada Exhibition is used for running expenses. These public contributions are kept in a separate fund in trust for underprivileged child work and other public activities. The costs of running the club and entertaining guests are met out of the dues collected from the members.

MUCH THUNDER IN WINTER.

Thunderstorms occur every two days in winter in the British Isles, according to a census made between October, 1926, and March, 1927, for use this winter. In that time there were storms somewhere in the country on 96 out of the 182 days recorded. January, with 23 storms, had the highest number in Great Britain and Ireland, while November, with 18, topped the list for England. The stormiest districts were the central portions of the west coasts of Scotland and Ireland. There were no thunderstorms whatever in many parts of the East Midlands and northern countries of England.

Be stubborn if you want to. But a fellow who sets his head seldom hatches out much.

W.M.S. MEETING

placing the church at our disposal; for the beautiful solos rendered and the able assistance of the choir and organist; for the C.G.I.T. for the excellent pageant; and last, but not least, for our missionary, Miss Shipley, who so ably addressed us. If we have omitted anyone we hope they will kindly accept our heartfelt thanks. We are sorry it has been found necessary to divide our Presbyterial, but we have enjoyed the fellowship together and trust the future holds success for both.

The report of the business committee was presented by the convenor, Miss E. Dunoon, and showed forty per cent. of the fifty-six auxiliaries were represented at the convention. An invitation to hold the next annual meeting of the Peterborough Presbyterial at St. James' Church, Peterborough, was accepted.

A most inspiring and successful convention was brought to a close by the singing of a hymn, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds," and the closing prayer by Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, B.A.

Tea for those remaining over was provided by the W.M.S. of St. Andrew's United Church.

A well-stocked table of missionary literature was maintained in connection with the convention, with a table of 'free' pamphlets. Mrs. J. John of St. Andrew's Church was in charge of the literature.

Arrangements for billeting the delegates was in the hands of Miss M. Dickson and Mrs. Wilgar, with Miss Hamilton in charge of the post office.

The address of the retiring president, Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, B.A., of Norwood, was of great interest.

Mrs. Lawlor based her remarks on the theme, "The W.M.S. as a factor in the development of an abundant life," as found in the 10th verse of the 10th chapter of St. John's Gospel, "I have come that ye might have life, and that ye might have it more abundantly." This, she believed had not only reference to the life to come, but that His coming would bring an abundant life to His followers here on earth. More than mere existence is necessary for this abundant life.

Man has a four-fold nature—spiritual, intellectual, physical and social and in order to enjoy life abundantly it is essential that there be a complete development of all phases of this four-fold nature.

An ideal society is one in which every member has an opportunity for complete development. As their representatives, the missionaries, report their work; the members are convinced that the W.M.S. is a great joy producer, in other words a factor in developing the abundant life.

The W.M.S. work is divided into two parts. The work overseas, including West China, South China and Honan, Japan, Korea, India, Africa and Trinidad. In Canada the work is with the Orientals, in British Columbia, Vancouver Island; the Indians in the Pacific Coast, and all European foreigners in Western Canada, also in ports of entry and numerous cities and towns throughout this province as well as in parts of Quebec. The work both at home and overseas is conducted under the four-fold plan, evangelistic to the spiritual, educational to the intellectual, medical to the physical and social service to the social, corresponding with the four-fold nature of the individual.

When the society's missionaries first entered the service it was with but one objective, to engage in evangelistic work and to develop the spiritual nature. This met with a great measure of success, many being brought from spiritual darkness into light. Women to whom the future meant only dread and terror, were overcome with joy to learn that Christ came to save them, and that the future life was something to look forward to. The Evangelistic Department has not only served souls but has built churches, Sunday schools and trained native workers. A Sunday school convention in Korea was a feature of this year's work. In Africa a distinct mission of the United Church of Canada, was effected. In Canada the same features are developed. The growth of the native leadership and the sense of responsibility on the part of the native Christian for the evangelizing of their own people are the most inspiring features of the work. This is especially evidenced in China, where the native Chrisian is trying to carry on the work since the withdrawal of the missionaries from that field.

The missionaries who had been raised in a Christian atmosphere where an abundant life was possible, saw the necessity of directing attention to the other phases of the work. The scope of their work was enlarged and attempts at once made to produce better physical conditions, which in many places were indescribable. In many huts in Africa no larger than fifteen feet in diameter, lived often eleven human beings, together with 16 to 18 goats. Living for generations in this way with beasts, their natures had become beastly, in thought, conversation and even in appearance. They are ignorant of anatomy and the laws of health, so lack pure and nourishing food, and in many places have no good water supply. These conditions lead to unchecked epidemics.

Realizing the necessity in the face of all this ignorance and danger, missionary doctors and nurses were sent out. They have forced the care for the sick, hindered waste and stopped epidemics. As technically called, it is the work of "preventive medicine." It would be impossible to estimate the value of the work done along this line. Only a few years ago professors in political economy, advocated the doctrine that famines in these ignorant heathen countries were unavoidable. They advised that not too much sympathy be expended upon them, and to allow them to die off, and so re-establish the balance between numbers and food supply. The missionaries have proven, however, that this is all unnecessary and India and parts of Africa are living monuments of the changed conditions. The hosptial work has relieved physical suffering, restored health and the people rejoice in healthy bodies.

In Canada the W.M.S. engages in three types of hospital work. There are large and important hospitals under the church itself, to which it contributes liberally, the Women's Missionary Society's own hospitals, which it established and supports entirely; the work known as hospital units, which are only cottage hospitals, but which reach out with home visitation and service to the surrounding district.

Two fine new hospitals were opened in July, 1926. One is 85 miles from a railway, and the district is peopled by Scandinavians, French Canadians and Indians. The other is Arthur Hospital, 1,000 miles north of Vancouver, blocked for eight months in the year, patients coming in from great distances over lonely trails. The changes made possible by the W.M.S. permits them to realize something of the abundant life.

Schools of all kinds are opened wherever the Society carries on, as part of the intellectual phase of the work. Not only are there schools corresponding to the Public Schools but grade after grade has been added, until the schools now reach from Kindergarten to Universities, from which students graduate yearly and become in turn teachers and leaders in their own lands.

Mrs. Lawlor gave many instances of the success of some of these students, many of whom are now filling professions as lawyers, doctors and teachers. Great stress has been made in the training for leadership. Who will deny that these people to whom new doors have been opened will not have a greater joy in living? she asked. In other words they will live more abundantly than if they had not developed the intellectual side of their nature.

The three phases cited refer particularly to the individual but in efforts to develop the social side it affects relations with others. Everywhere the W.M.S. aims at improving social conditions. In fact social service work today is one of the greatest avenues of work in which the W.M.S. is engaged. One of the first evils that had to be fought in China was the opium habit and traffic.

The obligation to serve others is one of the chief lessons of the Sermon on the Mount, and the social service work of the Missionary is to apply these ideals to the problem of the community and of the nation. She educates the children and teaches them that womanhood and manhood are of equal worth; contends that neither their feet nor their minds should be bound, as in China. She cares for the orphan, the blind, the refugee from famines, flood and massacre. She has brought life and joy into the life of the outcast in India. The missionaries have done another thing of greatest value. They have presented an object lesson of a Christian home, where all the members of the family dwell in love and where there is no superiority nor inferiority.

In Canada the social service department is emphasized in community missions where "Friendliness" is the keynote, and everything is taught in these centres, "from bathing a baby to preaching a sermon." The community missions carry on all four phases of the work from Atlantic to Pacific. The Department of the Stranger in connection with the W.M.S. work is also a vital factor in producing the abundant life. In this department there are both national and international connections. It begins with the work at the ports and reaches down to the smallest auxiliary. It is splendidly organized and shows its ability and efficiency in caring for its special task.

The Supply Department aids all other departments. The needs of hospitals, community missions, the children and the aged of the Indian reserves, are all supplied from this department. The whole effect of the work has tended to the uplift of society.

While the members of the W.M.S. are not missionaries, the work is made possible by their efforts at home.

The organized work from Baby Bands, Auxiliaries, Presbyterials, Conference Branch, to the Dominion Board, cannot fail to make our lives more complete, said Mrs. Lawlor, urging all those not connected with this great woman's organization to join forces with them, and enjoy a more abundant life and become a factor in promoting that abundant life in others.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Lawlor's address, Mrs. H. F. Doig, sang in beautiful voice a solo, "O Divine Redeemer," by Gounod.

The address by Miss Minnie Shipley, missionary from Honan, China, was a revelation in many ways to those who had the great pleasure of listening to her.

She told first, what a joy it was to her to meet with these groups of W.M.S. workers in the homeland, and with the individuals. It was a thrill to come home to a new United Church. She told of the United Church in China—"there they call you the 'Mother Church,'" she said.

In her description of religious conditions in China she went back to the earliest times. Even then there were evidences of their belief in a Supreme Being. As an example of this was their Temple of Heaven at the gates of Pekin, with its roof as blue as the sky. Here, too, was their Altar of Heaven—a raised platform, twelve feet in height, on which the Emperor knelt for worship and prayer to the Supreme One, on behalf of his people. In this prayer appear many words and phrases similar to those found in the Old Testament. In many temples were found boxes beside the altar, bearing close resemblance to the Ark found in the tabernacles of the Israelites. In their own literature is found a story which is parallel to that of the flood and Noah. Is it possible to think of their conception of the Supreme One coming down from Noah?

Thus their religious instincts were expressed in their buildings and in their language more than six hundred years before Christ. It is known that there were colonies of Jews in China before the birth of Christ, and China is the only country which absorbed the Jews in their midst.

"Think of Paul's journey westward to Europe, what it has meant to them and to us!" said Miss Shipley.

Religion is the soul's search for God until it finds its satisfaction in Him. History proves the Chinese a religious-searching people. One of the early emperors sent out an embassy seeking the truth, but they found Buddhism instead of St. Paul's teaching. In the eleventh century a Buddhist philosopher introduced the abstract principle "Li," which he made supreme. "Li" translated is "Truth," as used in John, "I am the way, the truth, and the life." The masses of the common people not accepting this, held to their conviction that there is someone to whom men are responsible and who controls blessings and punishments, so they worship and pray to what they call the "Reverend Heavenly Father" who sends rain or withholds it, who causes sunshine or withholds it, who causes winds to blow, and who controls their lives and destinies. Thus there are first, scholars holding "Truth" as the supreme principle, second, the masses with their images, and holding to the fact that there was someone in control. All, however, believe in a future life. This is shown by their "ancestor" worship and by their provision for their dead in their spirit life. This is their background.

But it is these Chinese people, who in these days of turmoil are doing the thinking, are holding to the best they believe in, to the best they have always had, and are waiting, not talking. China will go forward now, if she will accept the "True One, even Jesus" as the personification of their word "li." (I am the Truth), and as a revelation of what they have always sought in a Supreme Being, as Christ the Saviour, accepted for imself and not associated with Westernism and what they have seen called Christian. Up to the war, they were eager to accept anything and everything from the West. Now they are trying to seek for the best, to discriminate and take only what is good.

How is such a presentation of Jesus to be made? In all ages, God has entrusted the message of His church. His church in China embraces half a million people among a population of four hundred million. How can the Chinese church make such a presentation? Not under foreign leadership and not while it is recognized as an institution transplanted from foreign lands.

This does not mean that the work of the missionary in China is done. Christians cannot say that with three hundred and ninety-nine and a half million still unwon. But it does mean a most delicate task ahead for the missionary who must become a close and helpful friend in consultation and advice, while the Chinese church decides for itself whether they will act on such advice or not. The gift of prayer is needed more than ever. Is the young Chinese Church able for such responsibility? It has been during the evacuation of the missionaries and they will be learning as time goes on.

Without knowing what the year was to bring forth, there has been training and preparation. In North Honan, the augmentation scheme was employed. In this way the congregations gradually assumed the responsibility and support of their own church. The work was done now under local sessions and also with the help of the missionary.

It is the day of testing for the young church in China. It is such a day as Hebrew prophets called "A day of the Lord." Is the Chinese church strong enough for the responsibility? Are the missionaries big enough to work in their church as helpers? Is the Western church big enough to continue helping a struggling young church in its immense task?

"Many have desired to see the things which we see, and have not seen them."

Delaney and Heeney Signed for Elimination Bout

HEAVIES MEET ON MARCH 18TH

Rickard's New Assistant Celebrates Promotorial Debut by Promoting Bout.

SHARKEY-RISKO NEXT

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (Canadian Press).—John M. "Tex" Chapman, accustomed only to the whims and fancies of six-day bicycle racers, took full possession of Madison Square Garden in the absence of Tex Rickard yesterday and celebrated his promotorial debut by signing Jack Delaney and Tom Heeney to a 15-round joust on March 16.

Achieving his end where the original "Tex" had given up in high dudgeon before leaving Wednesday night for Miami, Fla., Rickard's newly appointed assistant hauled the fight managers before him yesterday, and in half an hour talked them into splitting half of the gate receipts evenly between them. Papers will be signed today.

The match forecast the final line-up of the "elimination" campaign to name Gene Tunney's opponent next Summer. Tex is reviewing the heavyweight program to sign Jack Sharkey and Johnny Risko to a 15-round bout on March 12 with the winners of both matches meeting early in April for the fight to challenge Tunney's supremacy in July. Jack Dempsey probably will face the title holder for the third time here in September.

The endurance contest between managers of Heeney and Delaney entering the second day, was brought to a sudden halt and general agreement when challenges of the New Zealander's courage reached the ears of Bernard Mortimer, British promoter and one of Heeney's stockholders. Mortimer went into private session with the remainder of the Heeney bondsmen and came out with an offer to bet the $10,000 on the Anzac and an agreement to split the purse.

Negotiations had been prolonged by Heeney's desire for five per cent more than Delaney.

During the general barter of services yesterday, no mention was made of Paulino Uzcudum, the fifth starter originally selected by Rickard for the final elimination fight. The Spaniard left yesterday to fight Romero Rojas in Mexico City, January 29, and will meet George Godfrey, the new "black menace," in Los Angeles in February.

Meet To-night.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan 20. Canadian Press. — Jack Delaney, who abdicated the light heavyweight boxing throne in search of heavyweight laurels, and Jack Humbeck, 205 lb. Belgian "cyclone," yesterday completed preparations for their ten round clash at the Argonne A. A. here to-night.

Delaney, fresh from a 20 second knockout victory over Sully Montgomery in New York last Monday, plans another whirlwind attack to gain the decision and another rung in the heavyweight elimination ladder he has started to climb. Humbeck who has yet to be flattened after 69 bouts, is just as anxious for victory and a little attention from the manufacturer of boxing's heavyweight title contenders.

Delaney expects to scale about 181 pounds, a weight that will force him to give away more than 20 pounds to his ponderous opponent. Thirty two rounds of preliminary skirmishing, including an eight round semi-final, are scheduled for the evening.

Haugen Is Chosen As Olympic Member

CHICAGO, Jan. 20 (Canadian Press).—Anders Haugen of Minneapolis, Times national ski-jumping champion and member of the last Olympic team, was chosen yesterday by the National Ski Association to be the third member of the American ski team, to represent the United States in the St. Moritz event, February 11 to 19.

In the 1924 Winter Olympic Games at Chamonix, France, Haugen scored the longest jump of the international tournament, but was ranked fourth in the final point standings. The Eastern donors of the fund raised to send the American ski team chose Rolf Monson, of Brattleboro, Vermont, and Charles Proctor of Dartmouth College, to complete the American trio.

WILL TAKE ICE.

Ross Robertson, Canadian champion and holder of the American five mile skating record, established last winter at Saranac Lake, when he defeated a big field, including Charlie Gorman of St. John, N.B. LONDON CLUB WINS SECOND ROUND PLAY

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 20 (Canadian Press).—That the Queen's Racket Club of London, England, will hold a strong hand in the deciding of the Canadian championships here was assured yesterday when all three of the English players triumphed in the second-round play. The first of the trio to score a victory was E. W. Kempwelch, who defeated R. M. Rebmod of Montreal, three straight games. Then came the victory of Hon. C. N. Bruce over J. A. Holland, another Montrealer, while the third win was scored by J. C. F. Simpson, champion of England, over J. M. Van Alen of New York.

The meeting between Van Alen and Simpson was the feature of the day. Van Alen, although defeated, gave a good account of himself, and in each of the games, at one time or another, led the English player. Van Alen won the first game, which was set at three, by 16—15. He served to Simpson is a way that caught him off his guard, but once settled down to his game Simpson won the next three games and the match.

C. C. Pell of New York, holder of the Canadian singles title, also won his second round match. He defeated F. C. Dobell of Montreal, in straight sets.

SUNDERLAND WINS FROM NORTHAMPTON

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Sunderland defeated Northampton in a replayed game from the third round of the English Football Association Cup ties yesterday. The score was three goals to nil in Sunderland's favor. The match was played at Northampton. The winners meet Manchester City in the fourth round.

Sunderland won because their staying powers were superior. The two teams battled to a three-all draw at Sunderland on Saturday. Twenty thousand people saw the match yesterday, which was played under almost perfect conditions.

Northampton had much the better of the game in the first half and McInroy, the Sunderland goalie, was tested on a number of occasions. Near half-time a penalty was given against Sunderland but Allon shot over the bar.

Sunderland showed marked superiority over Northampton in the second half and pressed for most of the period. Halliday netted twice, while Clumas got a goal from a penalty.

Londons' smallest shop, which houses a successful art furnishing business, is fifteen feet long by 42 inches wide.

ONE-MINUTE INTERVIEWS

WALTER HAGEN SAYS:

I'm a firm believer in the power of psychology as relating to golf or any other sport.

I'm with these football coaches every minute who have cards plastered all over the players' dressing room to this effect, "The team that won't be beat, can't be beat," "Think victory," "Have the will to win," and the like.

No doubt there are a lot of better golf players than I am, but not until the game or tournament in which I am participating is over and some player, other than myself, has been declared the winner, am I convinced of the fact.

Then the proof is only temporary. The winner, as well as any other player who finished ahead, only has proved to me that in said event they were better than me. However, that doesn't hold good for the next game or tournament, for fame is fleeting in golf.

I have never entered any competitive golf match with a thought other than that I was going to win. No matter how badly things might break for me, I always cling to the belief that my opponents may run into just as much tough luck.

While often disgusted, I am never discouraged over a poor shot from the tee. It is my thought that a good recovery will always wipe out a shot that lands in the rough.

My opponents fear me because they know I never quit, no matter how poorly I am playing. Incidentally, there is a reverse English to the power of psychology. For when players realize some one who never quits is a close contender, a player noted for coming from behind, that thought doesn't tend to make their play any steadier.

Fans Paid $46,600 For 5 Attractions

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 20 (Canadian Press).—Winter may be considered the "off" season in sports, but Boston fandom paid $46,600 to witness five indoor attractions here in the last week. The Bruins-Canadiens National Hockey League game Tuesday topped the list with a $13,000 capacity house and 20,000 disappointed customers. The Bruins and Chicago and the Argonne A.A.'s Munn-Roberti fight drew $10,000 each. Ernie Schaaf and King Solomon were worth $8,500 and a wrestling show at the Arena on Monday netted $5,100.

The feature game will be between Tool Room and the Engineers. The Tool Room will use their City League team with the addition of Eddie Foley and Clarke of the Peterboro Seniors. The Engineers are depending on Jack Killoran, the former City League player who is staging a remarkable comeback in the hockey ranks. Several former college players will be out with this team.

Baby Saves Family; Gives Alarm of Fire

FORT WILLIAM, January 19. —A baby girl, 2½ years old, daughter of Mrs. Mary Burnais, saved her mother and five young brothers and sisters from possible death from flames when she was wakened by smoke and gave the alarm of fire in their home at 4.30 o'clock yesterday morning.

Scrambling in all haste in nightclothes, the mother managed to get five of her little ones to a neighbor's home in safety, while her eldest, a lad of 14 years, ran to pull a fire-alarm box.

LOW RANK TEAMS WIN N.H.L. GAMES

Americans Beat Maroons and Pirates Beat Ottawa.

BOTH GAMES CLOSE.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The Americans are trying to dig themselves out of the depths. They began with a creditable victory over the strong Montreal Maroon team last night, the gang of huskies who were champions of the world two years ago. Lionel Conacher, driving in a goal in a fast and furious second period which gave them the margin of victory, 1 to 0. As the Ottawa Senators were beaten by the Pittsburg Pirates, the Americans made a big gain, and they may defeat that aggregation of former greats, champions a year ago, when the teams meet next Tuesday evening.

Pirates Win

PITTSBURG, Jan. 20.—The Pittsburg Pirates flared from behind here last night to trim the world's champion Ottawa sextette, 3 to 1, in one of the most sensational ice classics ever staged in historic Duquesne Gardens. A throng of 5,000 frantic fans cheered the home team throughout sixty minutes of such millilng as is seldom seen in the National circuit, and when at the conclusion of hostilities the Bucs were returned victorious they were tendered an ovation made up in warmth and volume for the bitterness of the many hoots and catcalls they had been subpected to throughout their unfortunate early season career.

SAYS AUGSBURG HAS BEST TEAM

Haddock Declares Amateur Association Will Not Approve Any Other Club.

WOULD STAGE PLAY-OFF

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 20 (Canadian Press).—William S. Haddock, president of the United States Amateur Hockey Association, said here yesterday, that if the Augsburg College team of Minneapolis is not approved by the American Olympic committee as the American Olympic hockey team, "the United States will not be represented at the Winter Olympics."

Haddock declared he would not approve now of any other team, but Augsburg College. He sent an agreement to Major-General Douglas MacArthur, chairman of the American Olympic Committee, pointing out to him that the "sport governing body selects the team and the Olympic committee gives formal approval only."

Advised that General MacArthur had declined to reconsider his decision not to approve the Augsburg team Haddock said that no other team would have the Amateur Hockey Association's approval, and declared it was "a representative college hockey team reflecting credit on school and country.

In his telegram to General MacArthur, Haddock stated that the University Club of Boston and several other teams throughout the country had been given an opportunity to represent the country, but that they could not raise money for expenses. Augsburg College, he said, "qualifies as to calibre and money."

Haddock said the Augsburg team has met and defeated all comers for two years. The team, he said, "is unquestionably as good as in previous Olympics, would defeat all countries with the possible exception of the Toronto Grads., Canada's representatives, and would have more than an outside chance to defeat them."

According to Haddock, the Augsburg team has made all arrangements to sail on January 25 to participate in the meet at St. Moritz.

Would Determine Entry.

BOSTON, Jan. 20. Canadian Press. —George Owen, Sr., chairman of the University Club Hockey Committee, yesterday told the Associated Press that the University Club would be "very glad" to meet the Augsburg College hockey team of Minneapolis in a test match to determine the Minnesota sextet's fitness as the American Olympic hockey entry.

"The University Club has absolutely no intention of sending its team to the Olympics," Chairman Owen said. "That has been found to be impossible for several very good reasons, among them the fact that our club is composed of young business men who could not afford the long absence or a last minute change in plans. Nevertheless we would be very happy to meet the Augsburg team either in Boston or New York if it might help in any way to determine the fitness of the Augsburg team to represent the United States at St. Moritz."

Chairman Owen said that his knowledge of the Augsburg Olympic situation was confined to newspaper accounts, but intimated that if an Augsburg - University game was sought officially he would be glad to co-operate.

Harris Only Manager Who Plays Regularly

BY BILLY EVANS

Is the playing manager a more effective leader than the bench pilot, or vice versa?

Taking the records of 1927 as a basis for comparison, the odds would be 2-1 in favor of the bench performers if you consider the eight clubs that finished in the money in the two major leagues.

In the American League the New York Yankees, managed by Miller Huggins, who didn't even leave the bench for the coaching lines, won about as they pleased from the rest of the field.

In the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates, chaperoned by one Owen Bush, who confined his activities to the coaching lines as far as actual participation in the game went, finished in front after a gruelling campaign.

The world series provided a struggle between a retiring leader who literally stuck to the bench throughout the season, Miller Huggins, and a fiery, peppery pilot, Owen Bush, who started chattering in the first inning and never once quit, no matter how badly his club was trailing.

The outcome of the world series, which was won by the Yankees in four straight game, was a signal triumph for the non-talkative manager as typified by Miller Huggins. However, that doesnt' always hold good.

Of the four clubs that finished inside the money in the American League, these being New York, Philadelphia, Detroit and Washington, only one, the fourth-place club, was led by a playing manager, Stanley Harris being in charge at Washington.

The first four in the National League at the close of the season were Pittsburgh, St. Louis, New York and Chicago. Of these, the only team to have a playing leader was the St. Louis Cardinals, presided over by Catch-Bob O'Farrell, who since the close of the season has been demoted in favor of Bill McKechnie, a bench boss.

MacArthur Will Not Reconsider Decision

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (Canadian Press).—Expressing regret that no tryouts were held to select a United States Olympic hockey team Major-General Douglas MacArthur, chairman of the American Olympic Committee, yesterday declined to reconsider the decision disapproving choice of the Augsburg College team of Minneapolis as not sufficiently representative.

At the same time, General MacArthur disclosed that the University Club of Boston, which he said was regarded in the East as "fully equal of any hockey team in America," had applied for designation as the Olympic team.

The suggestion has been made that it is not too late to have Augsberg and the University Club meet in a tryout, either in Boston or New York to determine which was best fitted to go abroad, but General MacArthur said no tryouts "were being contemplated."

MILLBROOK, Jan. 20.—Millbrook Lodge I.O.O.F. No. 308 held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening, the annual installation of officers being the outstanding feature of the occasion.

The attendance numbered around one hundred and fifty, including about forty brother Oddfellows who motored out from Peterborough as members of the installing staff, or as visitors for the special occasion.

Brief addresses were made by visiting officials, and others, and following the formal session supper was served in the dining-hall, the social committee and other members of Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, looking after this important item in the evening's program, discharging a debt to brethren from the Subordinate Lodge who performed a similar service on the occasion of installation of officers in the Rebekah organization last week.

Brother David Hampton has been the treasurer of Millbrook Lodge for twenty-seven years, having first been elected to this position in 1900; he has been a charter member since 1894, and actively connected with Oddfellowship in an official capacity for over forty-five years.

This establishes a unique record, and taken in conjunction with his long connection with the Masonic Order, means that he has an honored place in the affection and esteem of his brethren of fraternal circles in the community.

BOY AGED TEN TRAVELS ALONE

Trip From Los Angeles to Glasgow Has No Terrors For John Barbour.

GOING TO SEE FATHER.

TORONTO, January 20. — With a bright red pencil much worn at the point stuck firmly in the pocket of his light tweed suit with "longs," young John Wylie Barbour, aged ten years, stepped off the Canadian Pacific train yesterday morning en route to St. John for half an hour's stroll around the Union Station. Alone he is travelling from Los Angeles to Glasgow, Scotland, on a visit to his father, whom he has not seen for six years, during which time he has been living with an uncle in Los Angeles. There are no terrors for him in the long journey, and he is quite happy, although he misses school, being in "B-6 and getting on nicely." He spends a great deal of his time when not looking at the scenery in drawing, then the pencil comes into action. Asked how he liked Scotland he remarked on his being there before, up until he was four, so, of course, he could speak with some freedom of the country of heather and hills. He has so far made friends with the train crew, and will no doubt become a favorite on the Canadian Pacific steamship Melita, on which he makes the voyage.

SEVEN TEAMS IN DOG DERBY

TWENTY MILE COURSE.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., Jan. 20. — (Canadian Press).—Seven dog teams lined up here to-day for the beginning of Lake Placid's first sled dog Derby. The Derby was divided into two races, to be run to-day and to-morrow over twenty miles of snow-covered roads. Competing against six men drivers was a lone woman, Mrs. E. Ricker, Jr., of Poland Springs, Maine. Derby rules limited each team to seven dogs and stipulated that no changes could be made in the teams after the beginning of the Derby.

WOMAN DIES; MAN GUARDED

Other Woman in Triangle Under Bond Pending Husband's Recovery.

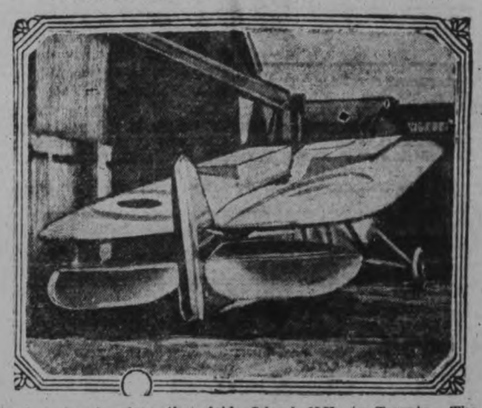
HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 20.—(Canadian Press.) — Mrs. Clare Gaudet, who with Dr. Harold Guilfoyle was shot in Guilfoyle's apartment on Wednesday night, died to-day in hospital here. Dr. Guilfoyle, who was wounded in the temple, is expected to recover but may suffer blindness. Mrs. Guilfoyle is held as a material witness in the case in ten thousand dollar bonds and a police guard is stationed at Dr. Guilfoyle's bed in the hospital.

Belief In Witches Saves Four Slayers

SZEGEDIN, Hungary, Jan. 20. (Canadian Press).—Four men today owed their freedom to the belief in witches. The men had a sick friend who told them his illness was due to the visits of a beggar woman who cast a spell over him. As the invalid told his tale an old woman entered the room, begging for alms. She was unable to answer the questions put by the four. They accepted the story she was a witch and hacked her to pieces.

They were accused of murder. The Superior Court reversed their conviction, saying the attendant circumstances pointed to the presence of a witch.

PLANE FOLDS TO FIT GARAGE



Here's a handy plane that folds up to fit a garage. Flight Sergeant Tom Livingston used the little Fairchild monoplane to fly from Long Island, N.Y., to Toronto. The machine is a cabin plane, but the wings fold back against the fuselage and enable it to be stored in a comparatively small place.

CHANGES PROPOSED IN JUVENILE COURT

York County Grand Jury Advocates Raising the Age Limit.

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—Considerable interest has been created in York County following the action of the Grand Jury of the Assize Court in recommending that the extension of the jurisdiction of the Juvenile Court so as to include adjacent rural areas was a matter worthy of investigation. The raising of the age limit of the accused in Juvenile Courts from 16 to 18 years was also recommended.

In an itnerview last night Magistrate T. H. Brunton expressed the opinion that he hadn't the slightest idea of what the Assize jury meant by the recommendation.

Powers Already Secured.

"The Juvenile Court has already secured powers in the county," he aid. "I was appointed Judge of that court about a year ago. In the matter of raising the age limit of the accused in Juvenile Courts, I am strongly of the opinion that it would be a very desirable thing to do."

To raise the age limit, he explained, it would be necessary to secure the ratification of the Ontario Legislature.

Crown Attorney Frank Moore stated that he believed the recommendation of extending the jurisdiction of the Juvenile Court was "a wise suggestion."

"We would probably have better methods of handling the juvenile cases than we have at present," he said. "We have to work in conjunction with the city in many cases at present and we would be able to handle them all properly if the recommendation were acted upon."

Attorney in Favor.

With respect to the raising of the age limit the Crown Attorney was strongly in favor of such a step. It would then be possible to deal with all those arrested between the ages of 16 and 18 in the Juvenile Court and not as if they were hardened criminals, he thought.

Children's Aid Inspector Horace D. Ramsden didn't see where there would be any advantage in adopting the recommendation of extending the jurisdiction of the Juvenile Court, and believed that the County Assizes were capable of dealing with the cases effectively. Inspector Ramsden approved of raising the age limit, as he thought many cases dealt with in the higher court at present could be given greater consideration in a Juvenile Court.

W. D. Annis of Scarboro', Treasurer of the County Children's Aid Society, expressed his preference of seeing the present system continued.

"Major Brunton as County Magistrate has been wonderfully efficient in dealing with the juvenile cases, and I would not care to see any change," he said.

MADGE BELLAMY NOW A DEMURE IRISH LASSIE

Discards Her Flapper Characterizations in "Colleen."

Madge Bellamy has temporarily cast aside her flapper personality to play the part of a dainty Irish miss in Fox Films "Colleen," which Frank O'Connor directed and now playing at the Regent Theatre.

For the past two years, ever since she created "Sandy," Madge has been identified with intriguing flappers or ingenious poor girls who "modeled" for a living, until these roles have established her in a definite screen personality.

But in "Colleen" she proves that she has not forgotten how to be a little country maid. She makes of Sheila Kelly, a girl with a temper of her own, but with wit, beauty and charm to boot.

"Colleen" is the story of two race horses, two old Irish squires and an Irish lad and lassie. Frank O'Connor, whose lapses into brogue would betray his nationality if his name and face did not, was in his favorite element while directing this picture.

"ROSES OF PICARDY"

This big picture, which is being presented during the first four days of next week at the Regent Theatre, under auspices of the Catholic Women's League, played to capacity houses for one week recently at the Regent Theatre, Toronto, at prices ranging from 50 cents to $1.50. Tickets here are at the usual prices and may be purchased from members of the League or from Bond's and McDermid & Jury's Drug Stores.

"Roses of Picardy" may justly be described as one of the highest achievements of British film production ever presented in London. It is a tribute alike in plot interest, massiveness, photography, direction and good acting to the efforts of producers and artists overseas. From its opening to its close it is a picture whose excellence and story draws the greatest admiration and the keenest attention and interest of those beholding it.

"Roses of Picardy," though its action and interest are firmly embedded in the years of war that engulfed Europe, is removed from the average type of war picture. It has a deeper purpose than merely that of presenting activities on the battlefront, and the plot, its beginning centred in many interests, converge to the super-climax that will live long in the memory of those who witness it.

The appeal of "Roses of Picardy" will probably find a more responsive chord in the hearts of women than of men, though the interest for the latter is not by any means lacking. The story centres around a woman in a gripping and powerful drama which deals with the periods of anguish through which her love passes. In heroic sacrifice and romance it converts her into a modern Madonna.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE GARDEN OF ALLAH."

This feature, filmed from Robert Hichens' immortal drama of love and passion, owes its interest to the peculiar situation with which it deals. Unlike many films, it hews fairly strictly to the text of the book and anyone who has seen the play will also recognize the adherence to salient features, although the ending of the picture is banal and really constitutes a let-down in a production which has an amazing degree of interest in its unfolding. Probably the weak finale is due to a sort of collapse in emotional fervor suffered by the hero, who appears to be a sort of in-between person whose passions drag him to one side, while his intellect, refusing to be submerged, leads him to higher things. He is irritating. Worrying in his monastery cell over his subjugation to religious vows and longing for the freedom of the world, he continues to worry later, when he leaves the monastery, over his broken vows and to harass his wife with unrevealed, conscience-stricken pangs of remorse.

Ivan Petrovitch is very handsome, but he lacks the fire usually associated with the Slav temperament. His acting reminds one of Thomas Meighan's stuff, in a sort of bewildered acquiescence to a blind Fate that sends him hither and thither without guiding from his own mind. He is the Father Adrien of the well-known story, the Trappist monk who leaves his desert monastery at Staouell and goes forth to find the happiness the cloister has robbed him of. He meets, journeying to the oasis of Beni-Mora, "queen of the desert," the blonde English beauty, the mildly sweet Domini Enfilden, who parents are dead and who seeks a refuge in the desert from the tyrannical whims of a father whose life was marked by hatred of religion.

Boris also meets Count Anteoni, the cultured gentleman who dwells at the desert's edge and whose garden constitutes the title of the tale. The Count vaguely remembers having met Boris previously, the actual encounter having occurred during his visit to the Trappist monastery, and he warns Domini against the dark, tragic man with whom she has become infatuated. The warning has the suual effect in such cases, and the girl and Boris are married, to embark immediately upon a desert honeymoon. When a mighty sandstorm ensues, and the Count visits their desert home, he finally recognizes Boris as the former monk and the latter tells Domini the truth. This moment constitutes a curious semi-colon in the picture, for the figure of Boris, never very strongly marked, commences to fade from this point. Domini takes the initiative and sends Boris back to the Trappist monastery. The last we see of him is his figure, clad in up-to-date garments, disappearing down the corridor of the ancient place. Then Domini retires to her garden and dwells there with Baris' son and the memories she has massed from her brief romance.

The heroine's role is beautifully portrayed by the lovely Alice Terry and there is a good deal of atmospheric attraction in the scenes from the African desert.

The program includes the usual entertaining short reels and a stirring episode of "The Collegians" series.—Jeannette.

AT THE GRAND.

A good evening's entertainment is better for the health than forty dollars worth of medicines and F. Stuart-Whyte's new success, "Dick Whittington and His Cat", marking the Anglo-Canadian producers return to the Dominion after an absence of some years, must be rated far ahead of "a good evening's entertainment."

It is a production on which there has, literally, been years of preparation. During the time when Mr. Whyte was shooting moving pictures on the Zambesi River, directing feature films in the South African diamond mines or in the Indies or in the interior and elsewhere in Australia, he spent most of his spare time in the development of book, music and lyrics for another pantomime or so. "Dick Whittington" was the culmination of many months of labor.

Since the frame-work of the production had involved such an unusual amount of early effort, Mr. Whyte decided that the balance of the undertaking would be carried out in exactly the same manner.

This accounts for a number of unusual features—the addition of a superb troupe of dancers, the Palace Girls—the election of the cream of English pantomime stars and a number of unusually fine singing voices—special orchestrations and harmony effects—extra comedians—and last, but far from least, a remarkable array of scenic backgrounds, with costuming and lighting effects to match.

It would be well to make special note of the dates for the local engagement. Almost everybody else will and this is one occasion when seats will be very much at a premium. "Dick Whittington" comes here, to the Grand for one performance next Thursday night.

BIBLE SOCIETY SPEAKER HERE

Rev. T. Smetham, of English Society Will Give Address on Work.

NOTED AS ORATOR.

Noted as a clever speaker, Rev. T. Smetham, of the British and Foreign Bible Society, will be the speaker at the annual service of the Peterborough Bible Society, which will be held on Monday, January 30. Sunday, January 29, will be Bible Sunday, on which day local or visiting clergy will set forth the good work of the Upper Canada Bible Society, which is in charge of the work in Ontario to the congregations of the Peterborough churches. During the following week the annual canvass for funds will be made.

Discussing Rev. Mr. Smetham's retirement after 25 years' faithful service as a district secretary in England, the official publication of the Society says:

"The retirement of the Rev. T. Smetham from the position which he has occupied for nearly twenty-five years is a sorrowful event for great numbers of his friends. During all this period he has rendered unstinted service to the Bible Society is a district secretary, and wherever he has gone he has won friends, not only for the Society, but for himself. Mr. Smetham is a man of unusual gifts; very effective on the platform, and even more effective, perhaps, in speaking to individuals. We rejoice with him in the success which has attended his efforts, and we who have loved this man of the sunny face and heart of gold, pray that he may live long amongst us. It is impossible to think of him as old. He is among the youngest of us, but as men count years, he has reached the retiring age."

He felt the club could enlarge to a great extent its field of usefulness and to this end asked the continued assistance and co-operation of the officers and members.

APSLEY PEOPLE ENJOY DANCES

Reeve and Councillors Entertain Ratepayers at One Affair.

MARRIED PEOPLE MEET

APSLEY, January 20. — The new Reeve and Council of Burleigh and Anstruther gave a dance in the Parish Hall on Monday evening, which was attended by more than two hundred people, a great number coming from South Burleigh, Haultain, Mount Julian, Young's Point, and Lakefield. As many as six sets in the square dances were going at one time and the capacity of the hall was taxed to its utmost. Refreshments were served about midnight, and the party broke up at 2 a.m., having spent a most enjoyable time.

On Friday evening the postponed married people's party was held in the Parish Hall, and so successful was it that it may become a monthly affair during the winter. About 60 persons attended, and with five fiddlers present there was no lack of music. A real old-fashioned party, reminiscent of the early days, was enjoyed, everyone joining in the old-time dances with a zest that was good to witness.

The young people staged a dance in the Town Hall the same evening, but were somewhat handicapped for music, only a mouth organ being available. Those who played for the married people were John Coones, John McColl, Will Staples, Mrs. R. Scott, and Miss P. Spence. Refreshments were served, and the party broke up at 1 a.m., after R. H. Knox had proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Spence, for the delightful time provided and enjoyed by all, which was vociferously applauded.

Though Dante tried to console himself with the thought that in death Beatrice was more truly his than in life, he went through months of bitter grief. He tried writing melancholy verse, "that a few melancholy verses might stand me instead of tears," he says. He was quite disconsolate.

Then he plunged into a life of gaiety, in an effort to forget his sorrow. And later he went in for politics and really took an active part in municipal affairs. A year after Beatrice's death he saw, one day, a figure that reminded him of her, and followed it through the crowds.

Dante contrived a meeting with the "young and very beautiful lady" who so much reminded him of his beloved Beatrice, and for some time devoted himself to her. He found her delightful and finally rebuked himself because his "eyes began to be gladdened overmuch by her company."

So he turned back to the contemplation of his soul's bride. He determined to write a poem describing a visit to Paradise. Beatrice, as the figure of Divine Truth, would meet him at the gates of heaven and act as a guide. And so he began one of the world's great poems, the Divine Comedy.

Y.M.C.A ANNUAL MEETING IS HELD

Dormitory Department.

The dormitories during the early part of the year were well filled. Since the fall, however, there has been a serious falling off in the number of domitories occupied, owing to the fact that a considerable number of our residents left the city at about the same time, and others did not come in to take their place. During the same period there has been a serious falling off in transients, with the result that our revenue from this source was seriously curtailed.

Bowling Department.

The bowling alleys have continued to be in good demand and at present there are five leagues operating twenty-five teams.

Finances.

It was confidently hoped that it would be possible to not only meet current expenses but to wipe out a deficit of over five hundred dollars incurred during the two previous years. Owing to the serious falling off in revenue from dormitories and some other sources and unavoidable increase in certain expenses it was impossible to reach our objective financially and an increase in our deficit amounting to approximately two hundred dollars was unavoidable. It should be pointed out that we will attempt to operate on a budget including the same amount in subscriptions as in the year 1917 and 1918 whereas our operating costs are seventy-five per cent. greater than at that time.

The Association building has continued to be a meeting place for various civic and religious associations without charge.

The Ladies' Auxiliary has served the Association in its characteristic, efficient way and have added to its service by providing supper for the Y's Men's Club, which is a great deal appreciated by the club members.

The Board of Directors have given faithful and careful attention to the affairs of the Association and deserve the thanks of the members for their interest and devotion to the work.

Looking Forward.

At this time we should not only work back over the year that has gone, but try to catch a vision of the future and its possibilities. Our greatest problems at the present time are not particularly those of finances. The problem is that of providing for the needs of our members and for extending the influence of the Association to a larger number of young men and boys. At the present time it is practically impossible to serve in the membership any larger number than we are doing at present, particularly in the physical department. The survey of the locker accommodation shows that practically fifty per cent of the men's lockers are occupied by at least two members and in some cases more than this number are accommodated. There is no room to install more lockers in the present over-crowded locker rooms and our present situation shows that we have reached the limited accommodation in this department.

Our present swimming pool is decidedly unsatisfactory, being without a filter and on account of its location and construction it is impossible to keep it in any sanitary and attractive condition. Owing to the antiquated heating system it is impossible to heat the water during the winter months. The location of our bowling alleys makes it very difficult to keep them in the attractive condition which should be characteristic of equipment maintained by the Association.

These unfavorable conditions call for the consideration of means for overcoming them and it is encouraging to be able to report that the directors at a special meeting considered favorably the plans for an extension on the south side of the building which have been laid away for some years.

JOLLY JINGLES By Graham Hunter

Beauty Treatments Lead To Boys' Arrest; Two Youths Given Life Terms For Murder

DUBUQUE, Iowa, January 20 (Canadian Press). — Two boys, under twenty, whose make-up of rouged cheeks, painted lips, and pencilled eyebrows has given way to the pallor that follows two months in jail, began serving life sentences to-day for slaying the grandmother of one of them. Leonard Cota, 18, and Howard Kramer, 19, were yesterday sentenced to life imprisonment for killing Cota's grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth McKitrick, of Zwingle, Iowa. It was the boys' "beauty" treatments that aroused the suspicion of the detectives, and led to their arrest six days after they had bound and gagged the aged woman and left her to die on the floor of the house while they looted twenty thousand dollars in cash and an equal amount in securities, nearly all of which was recovered.

Following the play, the Keene people entertained the visitors with a supper and dance, and the boys were unanimous in their appreciation of the hospitality shown by the people of Keene.

The United Church Sunday School, of Bailieboro, held its annual meeting on Friday evening, January 13. The officers were appointed as follows

Gas in the Stomach Is Truly Dangerous

Gas, Pain, Bloating and a feeling of fullness after eating are almost certain evidence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

Too much acid irritates the delicate stomach lining, frequently causing chronic Gastritis and dangerous Ulcers. Food ferments and sours, forming a gas that distends the stomach, and often seriously affects the Heart.

It is genuine folly to neglect such a condition or to treat with artificial digestive aids that cannot neutralize the stomach acid. A better way is to get from your druggist some Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets) and take a little after each meal. This famous but simple and inexpensive stomach sweetener and anti-acid can be depended upon to prove its value in less than five minutes. In most instances, relief comes instantly! Pleasant and perfectly harmless to use—Bisurated Magnesia does give wonderful relief in nine out of ten cases. Ask your Doctor or Druggist.

Young Deer Is Seen Half Mile From City

A young deer was seen last night a half mile east of the city on the Warsaw Road by Harry Kearney. Mr. Kearney lives east of the Curtis brickyards, and early in the evening while returning home he saw a fawn on the road in front of the brickyards. When he saw the animal it ran east along the road. He followed for some little distance but lost it in the swamp.

The fawn is believed to have been chased down from the north by dogs, and yesterday the dogs of George Curtis took up the trail and chased it down to the road.

The Y.W.C.A. aeroplane campaign for new members for the gymnasium has resulted in 37 new pupils embarked on the Healthland to-day in the past week. The campaign will continue for another week.

Fire Brigade Makes Three Trips, Two to Ashburnham on Friday.

1927 LOSS $33,645.52.

After comparative quiet, the fire brigade received three calls on Thursday afternoon. The first of the trio came in at 1.25 p.m. from 219 Caddy street; the second at 1.48 p.m. from 169 Edinburgh street, and the third at 5.33 p.m. from 678 Armour Road. They were chimney fires.

A glance over Fire Chief Gimblett's records this morning revealed that in 1927 there were 438 alarms and 54 fires with a total loss of $33,645.52. This is a small loss, said the Chief, when it is considered that there are some 21,700 people in the city.

REV. J. H. DUDGEON DIVERTS ATTACK FROM THE EXAMINER BUT FAILS TO SWAY C. A. S.

oard Objects To People Learning Its Business Through Press.

SHELTER DISCUSSED.

esignation of Matron and Caretaker Are Accepted, Effective May 1.

The regular meeting of the Board f Management of the Children's ld Society was held in the board om behind the City Clerk's offices, nd was presided over by Mrs. W. H. ibbs, in the absence of the presi- ent, Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave. rs. R. J. Devey occupied the chair efore the arrival of Mrs. Gibbs.

Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, whose first ppearance as a Board member was egistered yesterday, battled unsuc- essfully with several senior mem- ers over the difficulties between he matron and caretaker of the helter, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Brooks, nd the Board itself.

The verbal debate between Rev. Mr. Dudgeon and the ladies acted s a welcome diversion to the press, gainst which concentrated vials of rath from the majority of the embers had been directed previous o this. Most of the members were f the opinion that too much in- ormation with regard to the differ- nces between themselves and Mr. nd Mrs. Brooks had been "broad- asted throughout the province" by The Examiner and stated so in no ncertain terms. However, before he discussion was ended, a great eal more had been said than at the revious meeting.

The barrage was opened by Alder- man Stocker, bringing up a ques- ion, after hearing the minutes, re- garding the resignation of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks, asked for at the last monthly meeting.

Rev. Mr. Dudgeon: "The Examiner made charges of cruelty and neglect against Mr. and Mrs. Brooks. I don't think it was a matter of ne- glect and cruelty to the children. It was their age and inefficiency in general rather than cruelty. It should not have been broadcasted over the whole province, and we feel keenly about it. Some action must be taken by someone, in order to cor- rect this matter." Mr. Dudgeon then went on to ask that a resolution be passed by the Board, denying the statements that such charges were made.

Secretary Edgar: "But such charges were made, and the resolution passed at the last meeting, asking for res- ignations of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks, was the result of the discussion that took place when those charges were made. If you try to change this now, with such a resolution as pro- posed by Mr. Dudgeon, the public will say: 'What are you discharging these people for' I don't think this board can pass a resolution similar to the one Mr. Dudgeon has just asked for."

Rev. Mr. Dudgeon (reading from a letter which he said had been sent him by Dr. Blagrave, president of the Board): "The Board does not need to bring any charges or sub- stantiate them. They brought no charges'." Then he asked: "Now, who are we to believe?"

Reiterates Charge

Mrs. Welsh: "I certainly made a charge against them. I found Mr. Brooks whipping a child at the Shelter. I was at the sewing meet- ing and heard the little thing scream. It was sobbing and crying. I went in to the other room and found that he had been slapping the child."

Rev. Mr. Dudgeon: "Did you tell the board why that child was whipped?"

Mrs. Welsh: "Yes, because it had wet its little underclothes."

Rev. Mr. Dudgeon: "No, it was because it would not let its little brother help it."

Mrs. Welsh: "I beg your pardon. Its little brother was not in at the time."

Mrs. Wiggins: "And Mr. Brooks said: 'I will spank that child when and where I like'." She continued: "It is only a baby."

Rev. Mr. Dudgeon: "It is four years old."

Several ladies in unison: "It's only three years old."

Mrs. Fanning: "Those children are put in that room and no one can go near them. They are shut in the sewing room."

Mrs. Darcy: "I was there and I heard a child crying. It wanted to go to the bathroom and it couldn't get the door open. It was frightened with whipping"

Board Has Responsibility

Mrs. Gibbs: "I am very sorry that this situation has turned up, but if

Opposes Supervision Of Atlantic Flying

LONDON, March 21 (Associ- ated Press). — A stand against Government supervision of trans- Atlantic flying was taken in the House of Commons yesterday by the Air Minister, Sir Samuel Hoare. The Minister told the Commons that in his opinion it would be unwise for a depart- ment of the Government to ob- tain legislative powers of that kind.

He added that while he agreed in the advisability of not at- tempting such flights until better qualified machines are available, he thought formidable difficulties would be found to stand in the way of any attempt at control by the Government.

His statements came in reply to suggestions that the Government impose some sort of control on people desiring to fly across the Atlantic to be sure that they possessed adequate knowledge of the air and navigation and pro- perly equipped machines.

D. G. H. MELTON IS LEAVING CITY

Utilities Commission Accepts Resignation of Accountant With Regret.

SUCCESSOR NAMED.

A special meeting of the Utilities Commission was held in the City Hall on Tuesday afternoon at 4.00 o'clock for the purpose of officially accepting the resignation of D. G. H. Melton, accountant of the Commission, and confirming the appointment of other officials due to his departure from the service. During the meeting, members of the Commission express- ed their regret at the resignation of Mr. Melton in a resolution which also expressed their wish that he might enjoy health and prosperity in his new field of labor. Chairman G. S. Matthews presided.

The Resolution.

The resolution as passed reads:

"Resolved that the resignation of D. G. H. Melton as accountant, be accepted, to take effect on April 14, 1928, and that in accepting his resig- nation, this commission express its sincere regret that Mr. Melton is leaving its employment and its deep appreciation of his work in re-organ- izing the accounting methods in the office and the excellent condition to which he has brought the office methods and work and also its best wishes for his complete success in the position to which he is going."

In acknowledging the expressions of his well-wishers, Mr. Melton stated that for some time he had received certain offers to return to the manu- facturing business, which he did not feel he could accept, preferring to re- main in this office until he had com- pleted the work which he had in mind.

A further offer has now been made which he did not feel he could re- fuse. It would necessitate his leaving town, which he very much regretted, but even this would not mean the severing of his many friendships in business or otherwise.

He bespoke the support of the citizens generally for the commission which they now have and particularly the staff of the commission under the supervision of Mr. Dobbin, for it and its staff is regarded highly in muni- cipal circles in the province, and for this reason alone should merit the undivided support of all public-spirit- ed citizens.

Newly Appointed.

Replacing Mr. Melton is a man who has had experience and shown ability as assistant accountant in Manager R. L. Dobbin's office since 1921, name- ly, Howard Clegg. His appointment was confirmed at the meeting, as was that of James Turnbull, who will take his position in Mr. Dobbin's office.

Homeless Workers Hold Demonstration

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Mar. 21.—(Canadian Press.)— Several hundred homeless workers from different parts of Denmark held a demonstration before Parlia- ment yesterday asking for help.

While marching through the city the workers were joined by un- employed men and some com- munists and by the time the procession was ended it had swelled to 10,000 persons.

Not long ago a procession of 300 homeless men started to march from Kjellerup, Jutland, to Copenhagen to ask for work or money with which to emi- grate, but the march was stop- ped at Veile, a town in Jutland, and the workers were turned back.

BIBLE SOCIETY LADIES GUESTS OF EXECUTIVE

Canvassers Who Made Success of Recent Canvass Are Entertained.

SUPPER AT Y.M.C.A.

Rev. J. S. Harrington of Upper Canada Bible Society Speaks On Work Helped By Ladies.

More than 100 workers for the Bible Society met last night at the Y.M.C.A. when the men of the ex- ecutive tendered a supper to the ladies who had done the actual canvassing. Supper was served in the gymnasium, catering being done by G. H. Roper, while a bevy of young girls served.

H. B. Cowan was chairman. He read out the list of amounts ob- tained, showing the total for the city to be $1,123.10, with two districts yet to be canvassed. He explained that each church had been given a dis- trict, large or small, in proportion to the size of the congregation, and that comparisons of the amounts re- ceived by each group would be un- fair.

To correct any misunderstanding, he stressed the point that the sup- per was not being paid for from the money collected, but was being pro- vided by the men of the executive as a tribute to the ladies for their work.

Much credit for the success of the effort, added Mr. Cowan, was due to the secretary, G. H. Roper, for his work in organizing and arranging the canvass.

The Rev. J. S. Harrington, secre- tary of the Upper Canada Bible So- ciety was the speaker of the even- ing. "There has been real co-oper- ation between the office in Toronto and the local workers. It is upon the collections that the success of the effort depends. This meeting is a tribute to the work which you yourselves have done," said Mr. Harrington. "In the few moments we have together, I will try to give some vision of what the work means throughout the world."

He began with the story of a lit- tle girl who wished to send her few cents of savings to buy a Bible to help settle things in China. This, he said, illustrates what the society depends on for its funds. Many be- lieve in the Bible Society, but it is only by means of a canvass that much of the money can be obtained. Few are met who say they have no interest in the work.

The suggestion had been made, said Mr. Harrington that some of the money should be definitely used in making a new translation. He felt that this would be done and that in a year or so there will be a copy of the Bible sent to the office in To- ronto as one of a new edition trans- lated at the expense of the city of Peterborough. The name would probably be one which those present had never heard but those who had helped would derive strength and blessing from the thought that they had helped.

Mr. Harrington reminded his hearers that the missionary societies of the world are dependent on the Bible Society for the translations used for their work. No church could say that it could get along without the Bible Society because none of them has the men or the equipment.

The more this partnership in the Lord's work is realized, the sooner will all the world be Christianized, said Mr. Harrington, urging that all missionary societies set aside a day each year to pray for the society and give thanks to God for the work it is doing. The society is built upon prayer, is sustained by prayer, and cannot succeed unless there is a body of praying men and women throughout the world praying for its work.

Rev. J. W. Gordon, representing the Ministerial Association, said that the work of the society was dear to his heart, and that he felt that a community which did not support the Bible Society was out of touch with the work. He felt that it is easy to do a fine thing when each person does his part, and he was pleased that the poor showing of recent years had been corrected. He paid tribute to the work of the ladies, who had done the lion's share of the work most enthusi- astically.

The Rev. William McDonald asked the blessing before supper, and the Rev. J. D. Paterson pronounced the Benediction at the close of the meeting.

DORIS McDONALD NOT TO HANG; HUSBAND'S SENTENCE STANDS

Governor-General Signs Order Commuting Woman's Sent- ence to Life Term.

MUCH INTEREST SHOWN.

Confession Made By Woman That She Shot Taxi-Driver Repudiated By Husband.

OTTAWA, March 21. Canadian Press. — The Governor-General at twelve-thirty to-day approved orders- in-council, granting commutation to Doris McDonald and confirming the sentence of death passed on her hus- band George.

The approved orders were received by the state department by special messenger at twelve-forty this af- ternoon. The sentence on Doris Mc- Donald is commuted to life impris- onment.

A few minutes after the order in council was received the state de- partment telegraphed the govern- ment's decision to the sheriff at Beauharnois Judge Walsh, who tried the case, and the counsel engaged.

OTTAWA, March 21. Canadian Press. — The decision to change the sentence of Doris Palmer McDonald from death to life imprisonment, comes after many weeks of suspense, during which hundreds of petitions from Canada and the United States have poured into the Department of Justice and some have been made directly to the Governor General.

His Excellency it is stated, has taken an active interest in the case during the past few days and it was his signature this morning that made commutation of the sentence official.

The murder for which Doris Mc- Donald and her husband, George, were sentenced to death, was com- mitted on July 17, on the Malone- Caughnawaga highway, near Hunt- ingdon, Que. Adelard Bouchard, a taxi driver, was found murdered. The McDonalds, who were sought on for- gery charges in this country and the United States, returned to Montreal after the crime, and escaped to the United States. They were arrested on August 11th, in Butte, Montana, where a confession was alleged to have been made to a captain of de- tectives. Extradition followed and in Valleyfield on December 17 they were both found guilty under highly dramatic circumstances. The youth- ful and pretty Doris collapsed in the prisoner's dock. A feature of the case was the jury's recommendation for mercy in the girl's behalf. Ac- cording to the confession, she took the gun from her husband (or the third man who was never caught,) and shot Bouchard. While still alive he was pushed into the water filled ditch by the side of the road after having been robbed of seventy dol- lars. In an affidavit issued during the past few days, George McDon- ald absolved his wife of all blame in the murder of Bouchard. "She had not one thing to do in the murder, or helped in any way," said McDon- ald in his sworn statement.

Seldom has a Canadian capital case aroused such interest in the press of the two countries. Since December every fragment of infor- mation regarding the somewhat ob- scure histories of the McDonalds has been made news and meagre infor- mation regarding the condition and mental attitude of the guilty man and woman has been broadcast.

Helen Martin, 17 years old, has been missing since Sunday night, and although a thorough search has been conducted, no trace has been found of the girl by the police. She was engaged as a domestic servant in the home of Dr. McPherson, and on Sun- day evening she left to go to St. Andrew's United Church. The last time she was seen was on Murray Street about 6.45 p.m., going west.

She is described as about five feet four or five inches in height, medium build, with dark straight bobbed hair. She was dressed in a fawn-colored corduroy dress, small black felt hat, light colored stockings, brown oxford shoes, and a dark coat of smooth cloth.

Any person having the slightest clue as to the whereabouts of this girl or of having seen her after 6.45 on Sunday night, is asked to com- municate with Chief Constable New- hall or the Police Matron, who will investigate the report immediately.

City Prominent In O.M.L. Road Book

The City of Peterborough is to be given prominent mention in this year's edition of the Ontario Motor League Road Book, according to an arrangement made by the Peterbor- ough Automobile Club, affiliated with the O.M.L. and the Chamber of Com- merce.

The Road Book has an annual dis- tribution in excess of 15,000 copies, which are given to members of the Ontario motor clubs and distributed through the American Automobile Association to interested parties in the United States.

The write-up submitted to the editor of the Road Book stresses the industrial advantages of the city as well as tourist attractions.

The 1927 issue of the Road Book contained 260 pages, giving detailed routes, maps and road information of all Ontario points and the more popular routes in the United States.

SCRIBES ENJOY TRIP THROUGH DURANT PLANT

Representatives From Every Daily in Ontario is Guest of Durant Motors.

AT LEASIDE.

Factory Covers Nearly 15 Acres of Ground, Made Up Of Several Buildings.

Newspapermen from all parts of Ontario were the guestsof Durant Motors of Canada, Limited, yester- day, when they attended a luncheon served in the spacious cafeteria at the plant. The luncheon was follow- ed by a trip of inspection through the entire plant, showing every phase of the construction of Durant automobiles.

There were between thirty-five and forty in attendance representing practically every daily newspaper in Ontario. At Leaside they were wel- comed by Roy D. Kerby, general manager, and Phil. J. Duggan, sales manager and accompanied by these and other Durant executives, they adjourned to the specially decorated dining room.

A pleasant surprise was the brev- ity of the few speeches made by the company officials after the luncheon. Mr. Kerby expressed his pleasure and that of all his associates, in hav- ing so many newspapermen present. He assured his audience that no at- tempt would be made to do any "sell- ing" and that the meeting had been arranged solely for the purpose of acquainting the newspapermen of the province with the methods em- ployed in building Durant cars.

Mr. Duggan spoke briefly on be- half of the sales organization and pointed out that Durant dealers were to be found from Glace Bay to Vic- toria. He reiterated Mr. Kerby's warm words of welcome and further assured the visitors that while the best of materials and workmanship went into every Durant automobile it was for the purpose of letting rep- resentative citizens see it all for themselves that this and similar

MANUFACTURERS INVITED TO CITY

British Business Men To Tour Canada in August and September.

A financial paper recently gave the information that a party of British business men would tour Canada during the months of August and September of 1928, under the auspices of the Federation of British Indus- tries, 39 St. James Street, London, England. The article further stated that the majority of the manufac- turers who had decided to come were interested in points in Eastern Can- ada, and were making arrangements to make trips either individually or in small groups to various cities, such as London, Hamilton, and Ottawa, while their headquarters would be in Toronto.

As Peterborough now has British industrial ties and as there is much in Peterborough of interest to the British manufacturers, an invitation has been forwarded to the party to visit this city, by the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. It has been felt by some that in addition to American branches an attempt should be made to interest British capital in the location here of British indus- tries.

The proposed visit to Canada of this party of British manufacturers looms up as an item of first import- ance provided a certain group is able to visit the city of Peterborough and take back overseas with them, a fav- orable report.

In the event of the party accepting the invitation, various local bodies as well as the City Council will be asked to take part in the entertain- ment of the party.

Westminster Cathedral, London, is being decorated in mosaic work, and the task will require at least a cen- tury.

Two Aviators Dead; Rumor Unconfirmed

Bangor and St. John Both Hear Story From Northern Maine Plane Said To Have Crashed Into Side of Mountain Near Brownsville.

INVESTIGATION INTO RUMORS BEGUN BY PRESS AND RAILWAY DETECTIVES

BAGNOR, Maine, March 21 (Canadian Press).—Intense excitement was caused to-day by the circulation of a rumor that the plane in which Captain Hinchliffe and the Hon. Elsie Mackay began the trans-Atlantic flight from England last Tuesday had been found, with their bodies, near Patton, Maine. A careful investigation, however, by the Associated Press, failed to con- firm the rumor.

Heard in St. John

ST. JOHN, N.B., March 21 (Canadian Press)—A report that Capt. Hinchliffe's plane had been found crashed on a mountain- side near Brownville, Maine, with both aviators dead in their seats, startled this city to-day. The report came simultaneously from railway service wires and commercial telegraphic lines. Pinkerton detectives attached to the Greenville Railway service were investigating.

BALLOT STUBS NOT INCLUDED IN SOME RETURN ENVELOPES FROM SOUTH OTTAWA RIDING

Commission Has Recess To- day While Lawyers Open Envelopes.

FEW ERRORS FOUND.

One Poll Gave Sparks Extra Vote—Unused Ballots Tally.

TORONTO, March 21 (Canadian Press).—Having in three hours ex- amined the contents of almost fifty envelopes from the polling sub-divi- sions in the Ottawa South Provincial Riding, counsel before the Ballot In- quiry Commission failed to-day to find trace of any of the missing ballots or discover anything shedding a light upon the medley of mysteries the inquiry has to date unearthed. In many cases, the stubs of the used ballots are missing from the en- velopes provided for that purpose. In other instances the deputy returning officers have failed to write up the summary reports of their polls on the forms provided in the poll book. In one instance to-day, Russel Sparks, Liberal candidate, was credited by the D. R. O. with having received one more vote than there were ballots marked for him. The counsel agree, however, that in general the election was well conducted.

The Commission, comprising Supreme Court Justices Magee and Hodgins, will not hold another ses- sion until to-morrow. In the mean- time, J. Starr, K.C., counsel for the Commission, and J. McRuer, counsel for W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, are continuing the opening of poll- ing sub-division envelopes and check- ing the ballots found therein.

Witnesses from Ottawa will be heard to-morrow, and the King's printer will produce unprinted ballot paper, etc., from his stores to indi- cate the quantity and bulk of the material that is missing.

In Poll 28 it was found that the D. R. O.'s report showed Russel Sparks to have received one more vote than there were ballots marked for him. The other figures were accurate.

Except for a partly used ballot pad, no stubs for used ballots were found in the envelope for Poll 29. The un- used ballots tallied. There were 133 stubs missing. According to law, all stubs of used ballots should be re- turned by the D.R.O.

In Poll 40A, the D.R.O.'s summary in the poll book was not filled in. En- velopes were properly endorsed, how- ever, and checked with ballots inside.

In Poll 39 there was one loose, un- used ballot which was torn through the serial number.

In Poll 48 the stubs of the used ballots were missing with the except- ion of part of one pad with some unused ballots still on it.

100 MEN ON LIST IN LOCAL OFFICE

Employment Bureau Hopes To Place Many of These When Spring Opens Up.

FARM HELP WANTED.

The records at the Employment Bureau on Charlotte street this morning showed that there are only about one hundred names on the lists and many of these will be placed during the next week or so provided the spring-like weather continues.

It seems to be not generally known that the local office does not serve the city alone but that it receives applications for workmen in certain lines from employers in other towns and cities and if a man seeking em- ployment here has filled out the ap- plication form properly, he may re- ceive employment in some other town.

Farm laborers are likely to be in demand almost immediately and there are openings in other special lines of work, already listed.

DOUBTS RUSSIAN SCHEME FOR DISARMAMENT POSSIBLE UNDER PRESENT CONDITIONS

LEAGUE WORK REVILED.

GENEVA, Mar. 21. — (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters.)—Profound doubt that the Russian scheme of complete disarmament is possible under present conditions was expressed by Lord Cushendun, British delegate, in an elaborate criticism of the Soviet proposals before the preparatory committee of the League of Nations on disarmament yesterday.

Lord Cushendun, the former Ronald McNeil ,who succeeded Viscount Cecil as Great Britain's chief delegate at Geneva, stated at the outset that he was going to be rrank and he caried out his promise. There was no use coming to Geneva if frankness was not used. He then proceeded to draw an historical sketch of the League which had been set up to establish peace. If it did not establish that then it had not cause for existence.

For the seven years in which the League had been established it had received no support from Russia where on every occasion its works had been reviled. Why now, asked Lord Cushendun, this sudden change of front? "The Soviet delegation is not here to help the League solve

ROADS TO APSLEY SPOILED BY THAW

Return of Cold Weather Enables Stage to Get Through With Mail.

APSLEY, March 21.—The thaw in the early part of the week made the roads impassable for a few days and the stage and mail was unable to make the mid-week trip to Lakefield. However with a recurrence of the cold weather, it was able to get out on Friday morning, and with a temperature of 4 degrees below zero, the roads hardened up though the deep holes made it dangerous for horses. This time last year, robins, blackbirds, and blue birds were common, but the only sign of spring this year is a few crows.

Tower Again Nemesis Of Parachute Jumpers

PARIS, March 21 (Canadian Press). — The Eiffel Tower, for the seventh time, yesterday proved the Nemesis of parachute jumpers when Marcel Gayet crashed to death from 400 feet altitude.

Gayet, a jeweller by trade, and working in his spare time on inventions under the name "Botal," leaped from the second platform of the famous tower. Previous tests with sandbags had been successful, but when he took the leap himself, the parachute failed to open and he was killed.

Gayet was experimenting with a modified military parachute designed to open quickly for low flying planes. Although the test was unofficial, a crowd of aviators, aviation engineers, and army experts was present, and it was before their horrified gaze that he fell to death.

The experts who watched the fatal test are seeking information as to whether the air current shooting through the huge arches of the great tower were responsible for the tragedy, as successful leaps from aeroplanes were made repeatedly from much lower heights.

MILLBROOK MAN IS 80 YEARS OLD

Cornelius Crossley is Guest of Honor at Birthday Party.

MILLBROOK, Mar. 21.—Cornelius Crossley, of Millbrook, was honored at the home of his son, Thomas Crossley, at "Belmont Farm", Port Hope, on Friday evening, it being the occasion of his eightieth birthday.

During the afternoon and evening thirty or more of his relatives and friends from Millbrook, Newtonville, Newcastle, Welcome and Port Hope, assembled for the celebration of the happy event. Precisely at six o'clock the guests assembled in the dining room for the birthday supper.

The table was attractively decorated in a color scheme of mauve and white, beautiful boquets of roses adding to its charm, and was centred with a handsome birthday cake, surrounded by eighty candles which were lit by two of the grandchildren of the guest of honor, Verna and Dorothie Crossley.

Following the time spent about the supper table, the remainder of the evening was pleasantly passed with games, music, and conversation reminiscent of the "day of long ago."

During the day Mr. Crossley was the recipient of many letters of greeting, as well as a number of callers who extended congratulations in person. Although so advanced in years, Mr. Crossley is in possession of all his faculties to a remarkable degree, and is enjoying good health in the 'sunset years' of his life.

NEW YORK AND LONDON URGED TO CO-OPERATE

Financial Stability of Work Depends On It, Says Financier.

PLETHORA OF FUNDS.

United States' Prominence Is Result of Slow Growth.

LONDON, March 21. — United States leadership in international finance, and her position as the foremost creditor nation of the whole world, are due far less to economic gains which she may have made as a result of the World War than to her steady, forward progress over a period of more than a century, E. H. Simmons, president of the New York stock exchange, said yesterday in an address before the members of the American chamber of commerce here

Wants Co-operation.

Simmons, in advancing this theory, traced the reasoning by which he arrived at which a conclusion and expressed the conviction that close co-operation and complete harmony between New York and London in the conduct of their international affairs are essential if sound standards of foreign borrowing and safe and cautious foreign investment are to be maintained

American markets, Simmons said, apparently face the unprecedented and seemingly paradoxical condition of a scarcity of investments rather than a scarcity of funds and therefore there is necessary a "thorough overhauling and revaluation of many of our oldest and most familiar financial methods and practices." Under these circumstances, Simmons deemed it expedient to stress the conditions which "make it more necessary than ever before to arrive at a closer and more intimate accord with Great Britain—the most extensive holder of foreign securities in the world."

RELIEF PLANE FORCED DOWN

Airship Carrying Provisions To Snowbound Villagers Lands Near Alcona.

CRACKED CYLINDER.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Mar. 21.—(Canadian Press.)—The army transport plane which took off from Selfridge Field here yesterday for Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, to carry mail and provisions to the snowbound village of Detour was forced down near Alcona late yesterday. A cracked cylinder caused the pilot, Lieut. C. C. Coppin, to land on the ice.

The plane, which was flown here Monday from Fort Riley, Kansas, also carried Sergeant Byron C. Newcomb of Selfridge, who has had much experience in winter flying. The plane was to relieve another transport ship which had made two successful flights from Sault Ste. Marie to the isolated village before it was damaged in an attempted take-off from the ice of St. Mary's river at Sault Ste. Marie.

The plane will be repaired this morning by men now stationed at the winter training camp of the First Pursuit Group at Oscoda, about 30 miles south of Alcona.

Officials at Selfridge Field declared that the plane would be in Sault Ste. Marie by to-night, available for transport service Thursday.

The plane had made a brief stop at Oscoda, where it was equipped with skis for ice landing.

NURSING CLASS PICTURE TAKEN

Opening Meeting Held at Lakefield Under Women's Institute Auspices.

COURSE IS CLOSED.

LAKEFIELD, March 21.—The Home Nursing Class, which has been given under the auspices of the Women's Institute, held an open meeting on Thursday afternoon, to which an invitation was sent to the members of the Warsaw Institute and about sixteen ladies availed themselves of the opportunity. During the afternoon, a group picture was taken of the class and the instructor, Miss Alexander, and also a moving picture of two nurses arranging the bed for a patient who is to be propped up. The nurses were Misses Edna Frankish and Margaret Richardson, and the patient was Miss Cressa Crowe. A pillow was rolled in a sheet and placed under the knees of the patient and fastened firmly in position by the ends of the sheet being tied to the head posts of the bed, then nine pillows were placed in position and the patient laid back on them where she rested in comfort.

Following this, afternoon tea was served, the members of the Junior Institute serving. Nearly one hundred ladies were present and enjoyed the opportunity afforded.

Mrs. David Miller, of the Warsaw Institute, thanked the members of the Lakefield Institute for their invitation which had given them such a delightful afternoon. The Warsaw Institute was privileged to have Miss Alexander for four weeks last year and she taught even more than nursing. "Much depends on the personality of the nurse and Miss Alexander is one of the best. The department has secured wonderful women as nurses and delegates and it behooves all of us to make the most of the opportunities which they give", she said. Mrs. Miller urged attendance at the convention if possible.

Miss Cullen sang a solo, her sweet voice being heard to advantage in the song, which as a compliment to Miss Alexander, was suggestive of the land of the bluebell and heather. In response to an encore, Miss Cullen gave "Smiling Through." Miss Parker, a past president of the Prince Edward County District Woman's Institute, spoke a few words, Miss Parker was in the village and hearing that Miss Alexander was holding a class she paid a surprise visit, bringing greetings from Prince Edward County. Miss Parker extolled Miss Alexander and spoke briefly of the importance of the Institute which is a splendid organization and a great help to women.

Mrs. J. H. Payne, president of the local branch spoke a few words, and announced that the Institute delegate would visit Lakefield on June 13 and will be in Warsaw the previous day.

Those present from Warsaw were: Mesdames A. F. Choate, G. E. Choate, D. Munro, T. Clements, Vivian Jackson, Theodore Douglas, Rufus Payne,

IRISH COSTUMES FEATURE SOCIAL

MILLBROOK, March 21. — The "Saint Patrick's Day" social evening, under the auspices of the Women's Institute, held in the Town Hall on Friday evening, was largely attended and proved a most enjoyable event.

A feature of the gathering was the number of guests who came in costume, the ladies outnumbering the men in this respect, the prizes awarded in this connection going to Mrs. T. H. Harkness and Mrs. H. J. Armstrong; and to Joe Thorndyke and his father, Charles Thorndyke. "The Wearin' of the Green" was emphasized in the make-up of those competing for the prizes, shamrocks on white dresses, and green hat-bands, with the familiar symbol of Saint Patrick's Day as a decoration for the coat lapel, featuring the costumes of the ladies, and the gentlemen, respectively.

R. J. McKnight, Reeve of Cavan, was in the chair for the program, which was much enjoyed, the numbers including choruses by the Institute members, "God Save Ireland" and "The Birth of Saint Patrick"; a song, "I'm going to take the next boat back to Ireland," by Joe Thorndyke; a recitation by Bernice Smith; a tenor solo, "That Old Irish Mother of Mine," by Chas. Thorndyke, the encore being "Annie Rooney," Miss Ruth Thorndyke accompanying her father; a wand drill by girls from the Continuation School; Miss Annie McMahon accompanying; a character song, "On the Sidewalks of New York," by Joe Thorndyke and Dalton Brown, the latter being dressed as a girl for his part; a playette, "When Women Have Their Rights," by Anna Rowland, and Johnston Rowland and Kenneth Little; a song, "Take the (h) 'L' out of Kelly," by Lloyd McMahon, with "The Butcher's Daughter" as encore; a song, "When I'm Dreaming of Ireland, I'm Dreaming of You," by Misses Ruth Thorndyke (who sang the verses), Audrey Larmer, Vaneta Ingram and Margaret Armstrong, the accompanist being Miss Myrtle Russell; and a final solo, "My Wild Irish Rose," by Mr. Thorndyke.

After the program dancing, both round and square, filled out the time happily, music being supplied by Messrs. M. Todd, J. Rusk, and W. Todd, L. H. Morton "calling off" when the square dances were in progress.

Supper was served about midnight, and it was not until after 1 a.m. that the enjoyable gathering was brought to a close.

Mrs. C. Thorndyke, president of the Institute, Mrs. H. J. Armstrong, and Mrs. Robert Brown formed the committee in charge.

AN ORIENTAL LESSON

For many years I have been pointing out the bad effect that comes from using too much starchy food. Apparently, the Orientals have come to realize that their downfall and retrogression are due to the use of too much rice. A writer in a Japanese publication has pointedly brought out some interesting comparisons between the diet of the Oriental and that of the Occidental world. He said in part

"China was once the forerunner of civilization, but now she has dropped from the first line of progress. Is this not the result of her rice diet? The people of Java also have retrograded because of this diet. The people of the Orient and of the South Seas feeding on rice cannot keep step in the march of civilization with Europeans and Americans. The retrogression of India, great in the olden days and famous for her culture, is entirely due to the rice diet of her people. Our own ancestors, it would seem, had large physique and superior brain power at one time. But as in India and China, with the introduction of Buddhism, they lost the habit of eating meat. And from the lack of needed vitamins they suffered deterioration of body and brain. The reason why the Japanese have today brain power so far superior to the Chinese is because of the seas that surround them on all sides. They enjoy the opportunity of catching fish and gathering shell food."

This writer has the opinion that much of the yellow color in the Oriental skin is due to the heavy rice diet, although the climatic conditions of Japan are not so different from those of Europe and America. When the fair skinned European or American stays long in Japan his skin gradually acquires a peculiar yellow tinge. White people turn black under the African sun, but when they return home their skin resumes its original white color.

Those Orientals living in the larger cities where green vegetables and meat may be more easily procured do not have as dark skins as those natives living in the interior where rice is the principal food.

There is no doubt but that the white polished rice may be used under the proper conditions, and in proper quantities with the right mixture of green vegetables and meats, but polished white rice alone makes an unbalanced diet and one sadly lacking in vitamins and organic minerals. Those who wish to use rice in their diet will do better to use the unpolished or brown rice which can now be secured in any health food store and in many of the larger groceries. This unprocessed rice is fully as wholesome as wholewheat. It may be used as a mush, or in the pulverized form, the flour used for making muffins.

It is better not to use any kind of rice with meat at the same meal. Rice combines better with the non-starchy vegetables. No fruits nor sweets should be used at the same meal with rice. The best plan is to use whole rice mush seasoned with butter or cream (no sugar), and the desired selection of non-starchy, succulent vegetables.

Questions and Answers.

Question Mrs. J. G. asks "Is a blood count of 3,900,000 hemoglobin dangerous? I certainly think your articles are helpful."

Answer You are mistaken in the report of your blood count, as you doubtless refer to the number of red cells, and not to the hemoglobin, which is the color of the blood and measured in percentages. When the number of red cells falls below four and a half million, it must always be considered a sign of disease. As yours is below four million you should certainly do everything you can to find what is causing such a decrease. The blood examination alone will not tell the cause. You must have a complete diagnosis, with urinalysis, x-ray examination, and a thorough body examination made by a competent diagnostician. Do not delay this examination.

Question Mrs. A. J. writes "Kindly explain if it is true that the citric acid fruits have an irritating effect on the bladder. I have a bladder weakness and it seems to be aggravated whenever I drink orange juice or lemon juice. Also, how does a wholewheat product and brown sugar go together?"

Answer Those who have cystitis or any bladder irritation will often notice an added irritation when they take any acid fruits or go on a fast. This is because of the large amount of toxins being eliminated. This increased elimination is due to the stimulation of the eliminative functions through the use of the acid fruits, or to fasting. The acid of the fruit of course does not reach the bladder, but is converted and really has an alkaline reaction. Any irritation caused when these fruits are used is because of the added elimination of toxins. It is not advisable to use any kind of sugar with wholewheat or other grains. This means brown sugar, honey, maple syrup, as well as the commercial white sugar.

Halifax, N.S., March 20.—(Special)—"I can truly recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from kidney troubles", writes Mrs. E. Young, who lives at 101 Barrington Street. "WHERE WOMEN ARE NEEDED"

HAMILTON, Ont., March 21 (Canadian Press).—Dr. Esther Loring Richards, associate professor of psychiatry in Johns Hopkins University and described by a Toronto doctor as "the most outstanding woman pyschiatrist in the United States," has been lecturing in Toronto. In the course of an interview Dr. Richards expressed the opinion that "opportunities should be created for women on the staff of a hospital in exactly the same way as for men."

It is not an unreasonable opinion. Perhaps it would not be wise to appoint female physicians to hospital staffs merely because they are women; but if they are competent and experienced their sex should not count against them. There might be difference of opinion on that subject; but there is no room for difference of opinion on the question whether or not women should be represented on the committee appointed to pay periodical visits to the Ontario hospital for the insane. That committee has been appointed. All its members are men. When it is considered that females constitute a large proportion of the patients in the institution, the reasonableness of having one or two women on the visiting committee is plain. Female patients, if they have a grievance, will talk more freely to women about it than to men; in fact, a woman of delicate feeling would probably prefer to suffer in silence rather than converse with men on the subject.

Apart from this consideration, we would have more confidence in the inquisitorial ability of a woman than in that of a man in regard to sanitary conditions and matters affecting the comfort of the inmates, males as well as females. It is to be hoped that Hon. Goldie will soon correct the error which he made when, in appointing that visiting committee, he left women off it.

Miss Bertha Hill, of the Madrigal Singers, will give a solo at the sacred concert on Sunday evening.

THURSDAY, MARCH 22, 1928.

Many planetary influences contend today, according to astrology which reads general conditions as good.

For the successful continued power is indicated and this fact may be discouraging to many who covet places already occupied.

In politics new leaders will gain power, but they will be in the thrall of old traditions, astrologers predict.

Surprises in the choice of candidates for President of the United States are foretold and there will be much party dissension.

This is a sway which is better for action than for planning future enterprises. It is well to push big matters.

This is a flattering sign for initiative, but the judgment should not be trusted. Begin what has been carefully outlined.

Increase in deceit, intrigue and adroit dishonesty has been predicted by those who study the stars.

Access of selfishness and egotism is foretold, for there will be added greed for money and power as the year advances.

Plots of many sorts are supposed to be encouraged under this sway which is not fortunate for domestic happiness.

The seers foretell for children who have come into the world since the great war the most stupendous responsibilities in the future and likewise superb achievements.

If the stars are rightly read there are today myriad big souls incarnated in the bodies of very young folk and these will redeem many world ills in the future.

The new generations are wiser and better than the old all who have prophetic vision declare.

Children born on this day probably will rise far above the average of humanity. Many leaders of men are born under this sign.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 21, 1928.

SPEAKING TOO LONG.

Mr. Bourassa's tactics in delaying the Budget vote subjected the member for Labelle to considerable criticism both in and out of the House, but sober second thought leads to the conviction that there was considerable provocation to explain his conduct.

Although other members in Parliament are confined to speeches of forty minutes' duration, the Prime Minister and the leader of the Opposition are given unlimited time, and both took advantage of this privilege to a wearisome extent in their contribution to the Budget debate.

Mr. King, in fact, spoke for three hours and five minutes and Mr. Bennett's effort took two hours and ten minutes.

When two leaders encroach upon the time of the House for five and a quarter hours it is not to be wondered at that a protest is forthcoming.

Both speeches lost much of their effect by reason of their length—few orators exist who can sparkle for three hours at a time—and there is every reason to think that both the Premier and the leader of the Opposition would have scored much more heavily had they concentrated their ammunition and been satisfied to cut down their contribution to reasonable lengths.

British parliamentarians set an example in this respect that might with profit be followed at Ottawa.

THE MONDAY ABSENTEES.

Premier Ferguson's rebuke of those members of the Legislature who absent themselves from the House on Monday will be echoed throughout the Province.

Several Mondays ago there was barely a quorum in the Legislature when it opened, and on Monday of this week the Premier declared "there isn't one private member who has a public order before the House here this afternoon."

This is a condition that needs to be dealt with seeing that the members of the Legislature have been elected to look after public business and are reasonably well paid for the time they spend in such duties.

If they cannot spend week-ends at home without absenting themselves from the Monday sessions, they should be told by their party leaders in plain language that the week-end trips home will have to cease.

There is no excuse for the progress of the Legislature being held up by the absence of members who are supposed to be in their seats, nor is there any reason why millions of dollars in estimates should be passed by a half-filled House.

The business of the Province is surely of sufficient importance to demand the attendance of the members, and those who habitually miss the Monday sessions should be marked down by their constituents as men who are too busy to be elected for duty in Queen's Park.

WELCOMING THE CHOIR.

Members of the famous Mendelssohn Choir, returning to Toronto the other day after a series of triumphs in Detroit and Cincinnati, were welcomed only by the station attendants and "red caps."

"We are not a hockey team or a movie actress," was the explanation given by one of the choristers, and it should occasion some thought.

The great Toronto choir has given the Queen City and Canada generally publicity of the most valuable kind in its yearly concerts in the United States, where its wonderful singing has served to advertise this country as the home of cultured people—not the backwoods so many good folks over the border seem to visualize when they think of Canada.

The choir's performances have been a revelation to American music-lovers, and its visits across the international line have advertised Toronto to a surprising degree.

Yet its triumphs create no excitement at home, and it is allowed to return without a sign that the Queen City is proud of what it has done.

A movie actress would not be treated that way.

A bunch of professional cowboys would be able to draw a City Hall welcome with the Mayor posing in a ten-gallon hat.

But the Mendelssohn Choir is only one of the best choral organizations in the world, so what is the use of getting excited over a body of singers?

MR. GORDON'S REMINISCENCE.

Now that the Hon. G. N. Gordon has glowingly apostrophized the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, disclosing a broad vein of respect for the late leader of the Conservative party, it might not be altogether surprising if similarly amiable expressions were also to be published by political personages, probably not immediately, but some time or other in the more or less dim and distant future signalized by the appearance of milennial phenomena.

Of course, Mr. Meighen and Mr. Gordon are both withdrawn from public life, although their retirement may be only a temporary absence from the nation's forum.

Were not V. J. McElderry and J. F. Strickland young Conservatives to whom destiny has not revealed her favors or her frowns, it is conceivable that either of them, with the battle memories of Mr. Gordon, might extol the abilities and personality of the Hon. Mr. King, and that Joseph Wearing might break into loud applause for the high talents and vigorous, verbal resources of the Hon. Mr. Bennett.

Nor is it beyond the realm of eventuality that Mrs. Howard Fallis, whose attentions to the Hon. Mr. King have been everything but gentle and sweet and laudatory, may some day in her reminiscences reveal a stinted measure of respect for the Liberal leader, which none of her contemporaries in the field of Canadian politics would dream of suspecting or imagining today.

Political warfare does beget many an enmity, and strains more friendships, but partizan passion does not often bite deeply and incurably into the relations between lawyers who become political opponents. Their reading and their practice, in brief, their profession, develops the broad outlook, the habit and disposition of investigating and weighing. The lawyer questions and doubts and seeks evidence; he sees both sides of a case and appreciates the good qualities and intentions of adversaries.

By the uneducated person, on the other hand, an outstanding political opponent is often suspected of treasons and certainly of spoils, but as the years close behind the careers of men in public life, like Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Robert Borden, and of others they selected as their associates, the worthiness of public respect emerges more clearly from the mists of disputes and controversies that dwarfed the men and their achievements.

BLUE SKY LEGISLATION.

The intention behind the bill introduced into the Ontario Legislature by Attorney-General Price last week with the object of better regulating the sale of securities, will undoubtedly have the support of a large part of the general public. For years the subject of preventing frauds in the sale of securities has been the subject of earnest study by those charged with the administration of the law, and this is not the first effort that has been made to deliver trustful people from the crooks who from time to time seek to capitalize the desire which exists in most human breasts for sudden gain. While mining shares and oil stocks are generally associated with the activities of high pressure and crooked security salesmen, these are not the only fields in which these gentry operate. Cases have been known of securities of so-called industrial concerns being offered and sold to unsuspecting people where the investment qualities were no better than that of questionable mining companies. The stocks which are handled by these crooks are generally priced sufficiently low to make them enticing to people who have had little experience in the purchasing of securities, and for this reason mining and oil stocks perhaps lend themselves better to such operations. It is realized, however, that the more public money is lost in worthless ventures, the less there is for legitimate trading, and for this reason many brokers and security salesmen have put themselves on record as favoring the proposed legislation. In some quarters, however, the apprehension is expressed that this legislation may be an initial step in the way of Government interference in business. Those who take this position express the sentiment that while regulation of unscrupulous salesmen is a good thing, the innocent should not be made to suffer for the guilty. In the provisions of the bill as outlined last week, however, there does not seem to be anything very burdensome to the legitimate salesman or dealer.

That the Attorney-General of the Province is entitled to have his hands strengthened at this time especially will be freely admitted. New promotions are being brought out at such a rapid rate that the average person cannot keep himself informed regarding them. Some of them will turn out to be great successes, many of them to be failures. Money is needed for their development, while at the same time the public want to have a share in the profits that accrue. It is most desirable that the chances which they take should be fair ones. The proposed law among other things provides for the registration of brokers and securities salesmen. This will not only enable the Government to keep some sort of check on the salesmen but will also enable the would-be buyer to find out something about the man offering him stock. The main difficulty, however, lies with the public itself who will not take advantage of the means put in their power to protect themselves. Crooks are generally fast workers. They visit a city and work it (if they can) until it becomes unsafe when they fold their tents like the Arabs and silently steal away. Sometimes they are caught—not always. Their path would be made a great deal more difficult if the prospective customer would do a little investigation work on his own account before investing. Despite the arguments of the high pressure salesmen, it is seldom there is such a great rush that the stock will be all gone before next morning. Blue Sky legislation provides some means of protection for the investor, but without his co-operation it cannot attain complete success.

Of very similar nature to the bill already proposed is the idea expressed in the announcement of Premier Ferguson in Toronto this week to the effect that steps were being taken by the Government to protect real estate men "worthy of the name" against the operations of the crooked promoter. If the actions of unscrupulous real estate salesmen can be regulated it will be an achievement ranking with that of restricting the activities of high pressure security salesmen. While much is heard of the misdeeds of the dishonest mining promotors, it should not be forgotten that the widow and the orphan have almost as frequently been the victims of sharks selling lots in swamps and waste land far from any centre of population which might even eventually justify the values asked. Honest reputable real estate dealers have at times suffered somewhat from the dishonorable tactics of these salesmen, while many people who could not afford to lose a cent have frequently been induced to purchase lots which later turned out to be almost valueless. If the Government can evolve a scheme of preventing or reducing such happenings it will be greatly to their credit.

In this case, however, as in the case of the sale of securities all the responsibility cannot be laid on the Government. Loopholes are frequently found in laws, which were thought to be absolutely impregnable. Crooks are quick to discover them. While legislation may make the path of the dishonest promotor more difficult, it is not likely that it will eliminate him altogether.—Monetary Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

There are to be no more beauty pageants at Atlantic City, but the usual number of young women will manage to get themselves photographed in bathing suits, nevertheless.

The public-houses in the Irish Free State were closed on St. Patrick's Day. And they can't blame this upon the British Government.

Canada and Czecho-Slovakia have signed a commercial convention, but so far there has been no decision about sending Ambassadors. May we suggest Mr. Bourassa for the post?

The battle over Regulation 17 having been suspended for five years, there is a splendid opportunity for those who have been arguing about it to find out what Regulation 17 was.

Toronto elects a solid Government slate to the Legislature, but that doesn't interfere with the fun outside members get out of knocking Toronto legislation when it makes its appearance.

And now they tell us the maple syrup season is not going to amount to much. Which means, of course, that we're going to pay handsomely for the sweet stuff.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que, March 21 (Canadian Press).—There was a good demand from foreign buyers for Canadian grain here yesterday and a moderate amount of business was done in oats by local exporters.

A feature of the local grain trade was the demand from exporters for wheat and sales of several loads of No. 3 Northern were made at three cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, c.i.f. Bay Ports. The tone of the market for coarse grains was firm with a moderate trade passing.

In sympathy with the continued strength in the Winnipeg cash wheat situation a stronger feeling developed in the local market for Spring wheat flour and prices were advanced ten cents per barrel. The export and local trade continued fair. The undertone to the Winter wheat market was firm, but the demand was quiet.

The inquiry from the United States for all lines of millfeed continued good, but owing to the small supplies available the volume of business was small. Prices were unchanged. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet but firm.

A fair trade was done in fresh eggs and prices were firmly maintained. The receipts were 3,323 cases.

The weakness that developed in the local potato market on Monday was again in evidence yesterday, and prices scored a further decline of five to ten cents per bag. This was attributed to the large receipts and the small demand.

The market for imported beans was active and prices were steady. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked to arrive were made at $3.50 per bushel, ex-track, and broken lots at $3.60 per bushel, ex-store.

The butter market displayed further weakness and prices scored another decline of ½c per pound. The demand was quiet. The receipts were 533 packages.

The demand for cheese was confined to small lots, but prices ruled firm. The receipts were 416 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 21 (Canadian Press).—European demand on a large scale for wheat from North America gave an upward trend yesterday to the wheat market here. It was estimated that 1,600,000 bushels of wheat and 200,000 bushels of rye were taken for export. All deliveries of rye touched the highest prices yet this season.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm ½ to ⅝ to ⅞ cent net higher, with corn at 1 to 2½ cents advance; oats ⅛ cent off to ¼ cent up; provisions unchanged to a rise of 15 cents.

Indications of broadening of trans-Atlantic need of breadstuffs became evident early in the day, but first advances in price were virtually wiped out as a result of profit taking sales and by assertions that liberal purchase of Argentine wheat for Europe had been effected. Besides announcement was made that more or less wheat had been booked to come to Chicago from Omaha. Unexpected strength of the Liverpool wheat market, however, as well as big export business in North American wheat led to a sharp rally here as the day drew to an end. A stimulating factor toward late buying of wheat was notice that wheat which had been obtained on Chicago March delivery contracts was being taken out of warehouses here and shipped east. More than 4,000,000 bushels decrease this week in world's available supplies of wheat was also the subject of attention. Talk was likewise current that territory East of Chicago has only small reserve supplies, and that there is likely to be a steady demand for wheat to go to Eastern domestic mills.

Corn rose to fresh high price records for the season. Very active buying which accompanied the upward swing of the market was based largely on indications that much elevator corn is going east from here all rail, despite nearness of the opening of lake navigation. Further export business in corn was said to be in progress both by way of the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic Seaboard as well, and there was a decrease of corn arrivals throughout the west. Aggressive speculative selling which was witnessed at times failed to exert any lasting effect.

Oats values were unsettled by weather conditions which favored seeding.

Provisions developed firmness.

GOD'S MINUTE

The Lord preserveth the faithful.—Ps. 31:23

Almighty and Most Merciful One, we humble ourselves before Thee and adore Thy power as well as Thy love, Thy bounty, as well as Thy compassion; Thy sovereign providence as well as Thy forgiving mercy. Lord, give to us. Thou knowest better what to give than we to ask. Direct graciously all the affairs of each of us this day, be in the performance of the household duties and sanctify our home life; go out to the business of life this day, and prosper their labors and their plans. Find some blessed helpfulness for each of us today, and let us also find it. Encompass in like manner with Thy gracious providence all our loved ones, in their homes, in preparation for life work, in their daily avocations, in their accustomed places or on a journey, in sickness or in health. Lift our eyes above the narrow little circle of our own horizon in life, to the great work of God, and to the Kingdom of God, of which we are a part. Lord, forgive us our sins; they are many, and they humble us to dust. Guard and guide our ways this day, that we may go to meet temptation "led of the Spirit", and so shall "find the way to escape" and go safely forward in the way of faith and hope and loving service of Thee. In Jesus' Name. Amen.—Melvin Grove Kyle, D.D., LL.D., Philadelphia, Penn.

Pays For Skins Stolen In 1885

OTTAWA, March 20.—(Canadian Press).—The Canadian Treasury was enriched by $90 Saturday because a man's conscience bothered him over a deed committed during the Northwest Rebellion nearly half a century ago. A letter to Hon. James A. Robb, Minister of Finance, containing the money in United States currency, was signed "A. Nunn," and bore a Toronto postmark.

The letter said: "In the Canadian Northwest Rebellion of 1885, a fellow took some beaver skins from Government stores and gave me five of them. A receiver is as bad as a thief, and this thing has been on my conscience a lot and I wish to get rid of it before I die. I don't know what beaver skins were worth up there at that time, but say $5 apiece. This would be $25 for the skins. Then interest for 42½ years at 6 per cent. would be $63.75, in all $88.75. I enclose in this letter $90, which I hope will discharge this claim in full.

"If you put a piece in the paper I will know you received the money all right."

MRS. J. A. SEGER FIRST PRESIDENT

Hiram Walker Gains Three In Fairly Heavy Trading

TORONTO, March 21 (Canadian Press).—Hiram Walkers and International Nickel were the strong and active leaders of a generally firmer list on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, in fairly heavy trading. Walkers soared to 62¾, more than three points above yesterday's while Nickel improved 1½ at 92¾. Mackay Common gained another two at 125, but the Preferred slid back to 80. The firmer spots included Canners Issues, McKinnon at 38, British American Oil at 37, Great West Saddlery at 25, McColl Frontenac at 34⅞, and Massey Harris at 41. Twin City was soft, easing back to 45, with Bell Telephone selling back to 166 for slight loss.

Strength in March Delivery Wheat Scores Advances

CHICAGO, March 21 (Canadian Press).—Wheat values scored decided fresh advance early to-day with March delivery showing most strength. Unfavorable crop reports from numerous sections of domestic winter wheat territory were current. Opening ¼c to ⅜c higher, wheat afterward showed additional gains. Corn, oats and provisions also developed firmness, corn starting 3-8c off to ½c up, and subsequently rising all around.

Chicago—Wheat, March 141¼, May 139½; corn, March 99 7-8, May 102¼; oats, March 58 7-8, May 58½.

Vipond Is Active Leader Makes Twelve Point Gain

TORONTO, March 21. Canadian Press. — Vipond was the feature of to-day's session of the Standard mining exchange, climbing sharply to 80 in the first session for 12c gain on top of yesterday's 14c advance. Kirkland Lake sold off to 190 on the annual report. Gains and losses were about equally divided in fairly heavy trading on a broad list. The firmer issues included also Hudson Bay Smelting at 17.60, Jackson Manion at 82, Pend O'reille at 17.10, Noranda at 18.45, and Sheritt Gordon at 7.25. The easier stocks were Barry Hollinger at 117, Dome, 15 down, at 10.50, Howey at 126, McIntyre at 27.00, Mining Corporation at 355 and Sudbury Basin at 10.35. Wright Hargraves eased five at 495 and Teck Hughes ten at 8.55.

Many Advances Recorded. Trading Moves at Fast Pace

NEW YORK, Mar. 21.—(Canadian Press.)—Speculation for the advance continued at a terrific pace on the New York stock exchange to-day, with oils and coppers joining the upward movement for the first time. Radio and General Motors, touching new high records at 162 1-4 and 175 7-8, respectively, were again the leaders of advance, although larger individual gains were recorded by a number of specialties, half a dozen of which soared eight to 17 1-4 points. Nearly 2,500,000 shares changed hands in the first three hours of trading, with ticker at least 15 minutes behind the actual market.

The day's news was mixed in character lowering of the call money renewal rate to 4 1-4 per cent. had a tendency to quiet speculative fears of an early increase in money rates, although recent advance in the sterling rate brings it to a level where gold exports to England may again be profitabde. Weekly steel trade reviews reported that industry was holding its recent gains and better trade conditions were reported from the copper and oil industries. Some disappointment was apparent as a result of further falling off in freight car traffic in week ended March 10.

The Mission Circle and the Young Women's Auxiliary of George Street United church entertained the Circles and Young Women's Auxiliaries of the other United churches of the city in the auditorium of George Street Sunday school last evening.

The guests were received by Mrs. J. E. Todd, Mrs. A. I. Brown, Mrs. E. Coon, Miss Thelma Paxman and Miss Helen Burns.

A very interesting program consisted of a piano duet by Misses Alda Bartlett and Loreen Lorriman, a reading by Miss Evelyn Miller and a vocal solo by Miss Elmer Coon.

Mrs. Knox gave a talk on Indian Missions with illustrated slides. A contest followed in which the audience divided in groups. This was followed by the service of dainty refreshments by a bevy of younger girls from the Missio. Band, wearing green and white aprons and caps decorated with shamrocks.

The table was lovely with its decorations of green and silver basket of spring flowers with green candles in silver candle holders. The baskets in which the sandwiches were served were prettitly decorated in green.

Canadiens Take 3-0 Decision From Americans

CANADIENS SAFE IN BYE POSITION

Defeat Americans 5-0 — Boston Loses on Home Ice.

MONTREAL, Que., Mar. 21 (Canadian Press).—Canadiens clinched first place in the resultant bye in the Canadian section play-offs by taking an easy 5 to 0 victory from the New York Americans in a National Hockey League game here last night. The game proved to be but a workout for the sectional leaders who held command of the play at all stages. Had the red shirted Canucks applied a bit more pressure, they could have won by a larger margin. As it was they would have scored more but for some brilliant work by Forbes between the Yankee posts.

The Americans, with only two substitutes, were never in the picture, and seldom threatened to score against Hainsworth. Morenz scored three goals for Canadiens, while Joliat and Gaudreault got one each.

Bruins Lose at Home

BOSTON, Mass., March 21.—The Boston Bruins dropped their last home game of the season here last night, to the Toronto Maple Leafs, six to two. Carson featured the play of the visitors, scoring in each of the three periods. Smith, Herberts and Keeling also made tallies for Toronto and Galbraith and Harrington were responsible for the Bruins' pair of goals.

The Bruins appeared to be trying out a new passing attack for the Stanley Cup series. It was not a success. The passing itself was excellent but the timing was away off. A trio of Bruins made a score of thrilling advances, but almost every time they reached Toronto territory they either hurried or delayed their passing and, as a result, they appeared a trifle ridiculous.

LEAFS HAVE STRONG TEAM

Toronto's Baseball Acquisition Over Winter Makes Big Difference in Line-up.

GOOD INFIELD.

ALBANY, Ga., March 21 (Associated Press). — Toronto's baseball acquisition over the winter months makes a lot of difference in the team that takes the field this spring over the one that finished the 1927 campaign.

Two men brought in from other leagues will be watched closely. They are Warren Cote, shortstop bought from Toledo, and Joe Rabbit, a fast outfielders from Omaha.

Cote rounds out the Toronto infield and gives it smoother appearance than it has had in several campaigns. Cote is a real shortstop. He not only takes care of his own job, but he adds life to the infield it didn't have before.

Toronto is happy to have this boy, and believes he will mean much to the success of the club.

The other star acquisition is an outfielder who was lightning itself in the Western League. Rabbit stole 49 bases, and when a player does that nowadays, it attracts notice, for base running is often referred to as the lost art. Rabbit circled the bags in the same time Maurice Archdeacon made, according to his claims, and that is as fast as any man can run them.

Cote's coming makes only one change in the infield this year over last. But in the outfield are three new men—Rabbit in right, Stanley Keyes of Asheville in left, and Sumpter Clark, last year Albany, Ga., manager, in centre. The centre field berth belonged to Merwin Jacobson, but there was disagreement between the player and club because of a salary cut.

The infield has Dale Alexander on first, Leslie Burke on second, and Billy Webb on third. Alexander is a young giant who can wallop the ball and is improving steadily, as a fielder. Burke should have a good year. Webb is a veteran of the League and a reliable performer. He was manager of the Buffalo club a year and a half.

The catching staff has Lena Styles, veteran, George Rensa, until recently a coal miner, and Fred Wamsley, an Ontario hockey star. Styles is a fairly good catcher. Rensa is regarded as a coming star. Little is known of Wamsley except that he has a disposition to hit the ball hard, and that is no fault.

The pitchers are Jess Doyle, Don Hankins, Clarence Fisher, John Prudhomme, and Claude Satterfield, right handers, and Don Songer and William Martin, left handers. If Rip Collins reports, there will be another first-class right hander making Toronto as good as any club in the League for pitching. Some rival managers rate it as the best hurling corps of all.

Several youngsters are getting trials, but likely the pitching staff will be pretty much as here set forth.

Assisting Bill O'Hara this year is Fred Burchell, in 1926 manager of the Newark Club, which looked for a time as if it would win a flag. Burchell is an old pitcher, and O'Hara played on the Orioles together. He is handling the pitchers as his principal duty.

WINNING TEAM IS HONORED BY TOWNSPEOPLE

CLUB BAGS FOR BOYS.

School Board Makes Presentation in Recognition of Third Successive Victory.

MADOC, March 21.—The Masonic Hall in Madoc was the scene on Friday evening of one of the largest community gatherings held this year in this village.

The occasion was a community social evening for the purpose of doing honor to the high school hockey boys and the presentation to them of the Whitty Memorial Cup, which they have won this year for the third time in succession.

A splendid program of music and speeches was provided, and even standing room was at a premium. The town orchestra provided several selections in the earlier part of the evening, and the program proper was introduced by the speech of the chairman, E. C. Tufts, reeve of the village. He stated the purpose of the gathering and spoke words of enthusiastic praise of the conduct and achievements of the boys of the M.H.S. hockey team. He also announced that the new covered skating rink for Madoc village was an assured project, and that all being well the rink would be erected during the summer months, and be ready for use next winter.

The town orchestra was then called on for selections, and a varied program was given, and many of the loved Irish tunes were included.

The Madoc Wandering Minstrels then put on a half hour's program of music and fun causing roars of laughter. The High school program followed which was introduced by selections by the Lower School orchestra of piano, violin, guitar, banjos and ukes. A song by First Form boys, Messrs. Caskey, Kinkaid and Yearwood was well given, and was followed by a piano duet by Misses Mary Holmes and Francis O'Riordan.

A song by second form girls was given by Misses Mildred Tufts, Bernice Ellis and Nora Nayler, and then followed several selections by the School Orchestra.

The next item was a song by the Upper School girls, "Jackie Boy" which was heartily applauded, the girls responding by singing "Old King Cole". The presentation of the Strathcona Medal for marksmanship was made by Lieut. Ted Nayler to Robert Whytock as the successful cadet in several successive tests. Lieut. Naylor congratulated "Bob" and in presenting the medal expressed his assurance that these tests helped to train the cadets in the careful use and manner of handling the gun, and made sure that the boy so trained would never be guilty of carelessness in that respect.

A piano trio by Misses Marion Robertson, Lucy Foster, and Lamoine West, was very pleasing and the highlight of the school entertainment was a thirty-minute program put on by the Madoc High School Minstrel Troupe (the senior boys of the school), who with their jokes, parodies on the hockey situation, and their school songs filled in a very enjoyable and extremely funny half-hour.

J. B. Hough, principal of the public school and coach and manager of the M.H.S. hockey team was then called upon to present the cup. He expressed his disappointment that the person expected to present the cup was unavoidably absent, and went on to state that he, with two others, had been the ones to donate the "Ben Whitty Memorial Cup" seven years ago, in honor of a beloved schoolmate who now rests in Flanders Field. He spoke of the pleasure it had been to him to be asked to aid and manage the team, and the joy it had been to coach and encourage the boys who had been willing to train and practice clean hockey and good sportsmanship. It gave him sincere pleasure to present the cup to the keeping of Capt. Charles Phillips for the M.H.S. hockey boys.

Charlie, in accepting the cup thanked Mr. Hough and the donors, and hoped the team would always prove worthy of the honor. He also thanked the community for generous support throughout the season, and the teachers for the ready help they have always given in the lunches and the social evenings; also expressing the hope that though this team would soon be disbanded, the school would always be able to furnish a team that would bring back the cup to Madoc. A rousing school yell from the boys was speedily returned by the shrill yells and cheers of the girls.

The Colin Dafoe on behalf of the hockey team read an address to Mr. Hough appreciative of his good offices, and asking his acceptance of a Parker Dufold pen and pencil from the team, and the presentation was made by Melbourne Caverly.

An address of congratulation from the W.C.T.U. of Madoc to Mr. Hough for the high standards he had been able to set for the boys and conveying the thanks of the mothers was read by the chairman, and handed to Mr. Hough, who in a few words expressed his thanks to the boys and his pleasure at any good he had been able to do while working with the boys.

Duncan Brown, principal of the High School, was then called on and after offering hearty congratulation to the boys spoke for a short time on the benefits of sport to the boys and to the community in their appreciation of the recreation thus offered.

Alex. Rupert read an address to the teachers and each was presented with a large box of chocolates, the presentation being made by Hubert Nickle.

To the efficient and energetic secretary-treasurer of the team an address was read by Jack Ross, conveying the thanks and appreciation of the boys and Campbell Wallbridge presented him with a gold seal ring as a memento of the occasion.

The chairman of the High School Board was then called to the platform and after speaking of the splendid work and conduct of the boys and the excellent support they had received, he presented each of the boys with a handsome club bag with his initials in silver, from the Board, hoping that these would bring memories of the hockey season of 1927-8 to mind when they were far away from Madoc and Madoc High School.

School yells and refreshments daintily served by the ladies brought the program to a close and the floors were speedily cleared for dancing and St. Patrick's Day was ushered in by a good old-time community dance in which everybody took a part, and it was truly "the wee sma' hours" before the home waltz was played and the gathering broke up.

LEAGUE PLAY-OFF GAME POSTPONED

Soft Weather Keeps Curlers Off Ice—Campbellford News.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 21—Soft weather yesterday made the porposed hockey final for the honors of the town league an impossibility. Unless the weather turns much colder in the very near future, the game will remain as it was left Monday night, a tie between the Hydro and Outlaw teams.

Curling has been a thing of the past for several days. The ice is not yet so far gone that a cold snap of reasonable severity would not give the curlers another round at the roarin' game.

Dumping salt in the sugar bowl and making free with the Worcester sauce is not to be tolerated at the Royal Cafe. This was impressed on three young men of the town when the proprietor summoned the police after they had patronized his place of business. Detained by the officer and brought back to the restaurant, the youths admitted having committed the offence. The owner set the damage at three dollars, but the police officer could not agree that this was a correct figure, and demanded that the Oriental detail the amount. The result was a substantial reduction and the young men paid the shot rather than be hailed into court, where the costs of the court would have to be taken into consideration.

There will be every facility at hand for the prospective purchaser of a new automobile this season. Two new agencies are already established the latest addition being the Nash Sales and Service at the corner of Bridge and Rear Streets.

DOUBTS SOVIET PLAN POSSIBLE

the problem," he asserted, "and we have the right to ask what the real motive of the Soviet is."

Quotes Isvestia Article.

He quoted from a recent article in Isvestia, the official Soviet organ, treating the League with contempt. This scorn, declared the British delegate, was shared by the Soviet delegation which had come to Geneva "only to unmask the capitalist states." This sally was greeted smilingly by the delegates.

"I am not prepared to be a party to any sabotage of the Russian proposals," continued Lord Cushendun. "They deserve careful examination. But if there is any sabotage it is sabotage of the League of Nations." This statement created something of a sensation among the assemblage.

Analysing several articles in the Russian draft, Lord Cushendun said that no illusion was made in it whatever to the League and the document had not been registered with the League secretariat. The Russians, he thought, might have paid this harmless compliment to the League for it was unnecessary to insult in in this way.

The British delegate proceeded to show the necessity for examining the Soviet proposals clause by clause. He did not think it necessary to reject the whole convention for there were some articles which might form the basis for discussion. "We should neither accept nor reject it," he declared. "Peace is he aim of the Soviets but what kind of peace? There are international wars and there are civil wars. Are the Soviets against civil wars? They are creating such wars in other countries and unless they are prepared to give some assurance that they would abstain from interference in the internal affairs of other countries they would defeat the obpect of their own convention."

Naval Clauses Impracticable.

Alluding to some troublesome neighbors of the British Empire, Lord Cushendun drew attention to his government's responsibility for maintenance of public order. He doubted whether the absence of arms would make war impossible. Turning to the naval clauses of the Russian draft plan he gave reasons for believing them to be impracticable. He pointed out what Britain already had done in the reduction of naval armaments of which no mention had been made of the Soviets. "Britain already has announced," he said, "that she is prepared to abolish all submarines providing others do the same and is even prepared to go further in the reduction of capital ships."

Following Lord Cushendun, Dr. W. A. Riddell, Canadian representative, paid tribute to the British delegate's masterly criticism of the Russian draft and complimented Baron Saito, the Japanese delegate, for his important contribution to the debate. Dr. Riddell declared it was absolutely necessary that the governments should examine the Russian proposals before they were considered by the League. He was without instructions from his government on the subject.

Statistics show that Winkler has won eleven scoreless games and participated in four scoreless ties for a total of 15 shutouts.

Connell, who faced Winkler in the Stanley Cup finals last season, is credited with seven wins and seven ties without a goal being scored against him.

Happy Holmes, of the Detroit Cougars, with two scoreless victories last week, moved into third place with 12, followed by Lorne Chabot, New York Rangers, George Hainsworth, Canadiens, and Roy Worters, Pittsburgh, with 11 shutouts each. Clint Benedict, of Montreal, is next with six.

OFFER GARDEN FOR PLAY-OFFS

Bruins May Not Be Able To Use Home Ice for National Semi-finals.

START MARCH 27TH

NEW YORK, Mar. 20.—(Canadian Press.)—The Madison Square Garden Hockey Club, through Col. John S. Hammond, who controls the Rangers, yesterday wired an offer to the Boston Bruins to use the Garden ice for National Hockey League play-offs. The offer was prompted by reports that the Bruins, present American group leaders, may not be able to use their home rink.

Col. Hammond said the garden offered the Boston club use of the local rink on terms similar to those accepted by the Chicago Black Hawks last season.

The play-off schedule now calls for the Rangers to meet either Detroit or Pittsburgh, March 27 and 29, in the first play-off series. The club winning that series plays Boston, March 31, and April 1 to determine the survivor for the inter-group finals for the Stanley Cup.

VISITING CURLERS ARE APPRECIATIVE

MILLBROOK, March 21.—The members of the local curling club, through the president, F. P. Stinson, are in receipt of a most appreciative letter from the rink of the Gravenhurst club, which came here for a challenge game in connection with the Carew Cup competition, on March 2. The letter was signed by E. W. Gaudrie, and thanked the members very much for the hospitality during their recent visit. "Everybody appeared to be anxious to give us a hearty welcome and we certainly did enjoy ourselves, even though we did fail to lift the cup."

GRADS LOSE TO CEMENT COMPANY

Victors To Meet Warsaw For Lakefield District Hockey League Championship.

LAKEFIELD, March 21. — The Canada Cement Company's sextette won their way into the finals of the district hockey league by defeating the Grove Grads in a hotly contested game on Monday night. To win the Casement Cup the Cement team must defeat Warsaw in a sudden death game for the district championship.

The play was keen all through and was fairly clean. Mr. K. A. Mackenzie handled the bell and sharply checked any attempts to "mix it."

The game was called at 8.30 and although the crowd was small the enthusiasm ran high and the applause was deafening at times. Juvenile voices were lifted in shrill support of their particular stars and the game lacked nothing in thrills. Hamilton for the Grads was their star player, safe and sure; he staged many spectacular rushes, which however were too vigorously checked to count in the scoring. When he rushed up the ice the Concrete boys in a body prevented his getting through, and turned the play back to the stronghold of the Grads.

Loosemore as usual worked hard and was a valuable asset to the team but he shot wild on several occasions when he seemed sure of scoring. Moore was in excellent form, and kept the score down by his splendid work in the nets. Putnam, a new comer, was valuable on the defence. Kelly was back in the Grads' ranks and played a strong game. Kelly and Wood were useful in the wings, while Atwood was in great form he was called on but seldom.

For the winners Louis Sabatino was outstanding, his speed and skill contributing much to the Cement victory; the team played without subs, and each man playing his limit for the entire time, which meant a strenuous evening even for such veteran players. Hamblin during the first period played in a rather casual manner but tightened up in the second period and although two slipped past him in the third he was "on the job" and stopped many. Hill and J. Sabatino were, like the Cement Company's trade mark, "concrete for permanence,"for many promising rushes ended at the blue line, by reason of their heavy checking. Blewett was good as usual and got in much fine work around the nets. Wingett, the junior member of the team was at his best and bids fair to be a strong player another season. He is fast and not afraid to check the big fellows but is inclined to hesitate too long before shooting when close to the goal, and is a little given to the practice known as "chopping wood." He has improved greatly and is no longer confused by the applause and the spot light. Loosemore got in the first counter after 13 minutes of fast play in which everyone had puck but no one had it long. Two minutes later Blewett shot from close up on a pass from Wingett.

One minute afterward Wood shot another for the Grads but after one minute Blewett tied the score. The first period ended with a tie score—two all, and no penalties.

The Cement team held the second period for their own scoring four goals and getting a safe lead. The Grads worked hard and played well but were outclassed and their attempts to score were checked . The scoring during the period was as follows:

1. Blewett, 5 minutes; 2, L. Sabatino, 8 minutes; 3, L. Sabatino, 2 minutes; 4, Blewett, 3 minutes. Blewett and Hill for the Cement team and Putnam and Loosemore for Grads, served short terms in the penalty box during the second period.

The Grads had the advantage in the third period. Hamilton and Loosemore each finding the nets in 10 minutes and 5 minutes respectively. The pace was fast and every man did his best but neither side could get away. The Cement aggregation played with only four men on the ice for a while as three of their stalwarts rested in the penalty box, J. Sabatino, Blewett, and Wingett being the offenders.

The last five minutes was perhaps the speediest of the whole game, the players although tired, were making a last big push ,but no one scored, and the game went to the Cement team with a score of 6-4.

Win 7-5 Tussle.

The Grove hockey team went to Peterborough on Monday to play the return game with the team from the Collegiate Institute. On both occasions the Grove were winners, winning on Saturday by one goal and on Monday by a score of 7-5. The score was 4-1 against them in the first period but the Lakefield team tightened up and won. Nielson, Peck and Bogg scored; Smith and Hunt played their usual valuable game.

Hewitt, Dunkerly Taylor and Woods were interesting players for the losers.

HUNTER'S HAND IS BADLY HURT

Francis Ruttan's Gun Goes Off While He Is Picking It Up.

WAS FOX HUNTING.

TRENT RIVER, March 21.—Francis Ruttan met with a painful accident on Monday while fox hunting at Beaver Creek, ten miles north of Marmora, in company with Hiram Revoir. The young man was travelling on snowshoes, and in going down a hill his gun caught and fell in a hole in the ice. He had his hand over the barrel of the gun when it went off, and sustained injuries to the right hand,tearing the skin off his knuckles and injuring his little finger.

For a long time, he lost his hearing by the close contact of the gun to his head. He was brought to his home here last night. Medical aid was summoned. One small bone was removed. The patient suffered intensely, but fortunately his hand will be saved.

Secretary's Report.

Madam President and Members of the Ladies' Curling Club, I beg to present the following report of the activities of our club for the season of 1928. The curling year which is being brought to a close to-day seems to exemplify to no small degree the truth of the old proverb, "A poor beginning makes a good ending." The first two weeks of the year seemed to augur ill for the devotees of the "roaring game" and some of the less optimistic were overheard making plans for other pursuits. However about the middle of January games got under way and since that time, weather conditions have been fairly favourable and it has been possible to complete all the competitions for all the trophies. And now as another season draws to its close, all the members, seasoned curlers and beginners alike, are unanimous in declaring that it is a good game, than which there is no better, that the club has had a successful year and that much of the success has been due undoubtedly to the unfailing tact and wisdom of our president, Miss Davidson.

"It is a pleasure to record the club's sincere gratitude to Mrs. Waddell who for a second time has donated a cup as a consolation trophy to the Gibson competition. Of this, as well as of the new and unique trophy donated by Mr. Alex Gibson, the club is justly proud.

"This year there were thirty-one members enrolled in our club—seven scheduled rinks and three unattached players. Of this number there were only two, who were new members, two who for the first time experienced the efficacy of the 'only cure for all maladies sure.'

"The rink which enjoyed the thrill of being the first winners of the new Gibson Trophy was that skipped by Mrs. W. J. Oke, with Miss H. Fanning as vice-skip, Mrs. Beal playing second and Mrs. J. Comstock lead.

"The first names to be engraved on the new Consolation Cup will be those of the members of the rink skipped by Mrs. W. H. Hill— with Mrs. R. H. Turner as vice-skip, Mrs. M. Comstock as second player and Mrs. D. Carlisle as lead.

"The vice-skips' bonspiel was won by the same rink as had the honour to capture the Gibson Trophy, viz., the rink skipped by Miss H. Fanning, composed of Mrs. W. J. Oke, Mrs. Beal and Mrs. J. Comstock.

"The Sturgeon Trophy games, always so keenly contested and so greatly enjoyed, resulted this year in a victory for the rink skipped by the president of our club, Miss N. Davidson, with Mr. M. Chenhall acting as vice-skip, Mrs. M. Comstock playing second and Mr. H. Huffman as lead.

"The 'pay as you enter games' arranged by the Games committee in which a second player acted as skip with a lead as her valuable vice, proved the source of much enjoyment from various standpoints. The winning rink was not yet decided when this report was written, but to either one of the rinks skipped by Mrs. Beal and Mrs. Darcy the congratulations of the club are due along with some rare and valuable prizes.

"This club was for the first time in several years not represented at this year's Ontario Tankard competition, which was held in High Park Club, Toronto. Unavoidable circumstances prevented the Tankard skips, Mrs. W. A. Turner and Mrs. C. E. Jamieson, from completing their rinks and so the local club is forced to take consolation until next season from the thought of 'what might have been.'

"In closing may I quote the following few lines which under the title 'Life's Game of Curlin'" seems to offer subsantial food for thought during the coming months when our brooms are stored away and our rocks are lying idle?

"Life's Game of Curlin'."

This life's a game o' curlin';
Played on mighty slippery ice—
A great and glorious bonspiel
Where every hog's a sacrifice.
The pebbled sheet's not quite level;
There's a bad run 'here and there;
Tough spots too, there are in places,
Calling for the greatest care.
But the skip's a tried old war-horse
He knows where to hold the broom,
He knows the runs and tough spots,
Knows the weight and where there's room.
What! You've missed? The tough ice spoiled it?
But you didn't get the broom—
And a guard's just past the hog line.
Dont's sit down and fuss and fume.
Sure that's right, you have another,
Try again and pull the port,
Get a sure grip in the back hole,
Get the broom and don't be short.
Put 'er in upon the button—
That's the ice, now watch the weight—
Sweep you Tartar, brush the surface—
Let 'er curl, she's coming stranght—
Past the guard—she's sure a beauty—
Sweep 'er! Sweep 'er! That's enough!
You're a curler! That's a-shootin'!
That's a winner! That's no muff;
When the game is fairly won
And you step aside for others
All the world will say, 'well done.'

Would Bar Sinclair From Race Tracks

BALTIMORE, March 21 (Canadian Press). — The Maryland Racing Commission announced last night, through James F. Hayward, secretary, that it had requested owners of the four one-mile tracks in the state to bar the horses of the Rancocas Stable, owned by Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, because of his connection with the Teapot Dome oil scandal.

The communications were sent to the four leading racing associations in Maryland, including Pimlico, Bowie, Havre de Grace, and Laurel.

The action of barring Sinclair's mounts on Maryland's tracks was said to be purely a state affair, and no official communications will be sent to Kentucky or New York racing authorities in the matter.

BEARS READY FOR OPENING

Mammaux Wants to Pitch the First Game if Johnson Unable To Do So.

TRAINING NEWS.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Florida, March 21.—A baseball manager must be given credit for the organization he surrounds himself with. It already has worked to the advantage of the Newark Bears for with Johnson ill the spring training goes ahead at full speed under the capable direction of George McBride, who Johnson selected as his assistant manager this year.

Johnson went to Jacksonville Sunday night to spend two days with diagnosticians. His slow recovery from a recent case of flu has caused much alarm, for Johnson had not even been able to work out with the boys. And here he was expecting to win 25 games in the International League this year.

Some have already guessed that he will never pitch another game. But they were only guessing. Walter Johnson is a big man who always has lived cleanly and it is doubtful if he is going to become an invalid this young in life. He doesn't think so, but he is considerably exasperated.

While Johnson is trying to get well his Bears are trying to get in tip-top shape and show the baseball world that they are as good as they look on paper.

Al Mammaux, the hardest working pitcher in the league last year, and the greatest winner, too, is perhaps right now in better shape than the veterans of the slab. Mammaux wants to pitch the opening game if Johnson is unable to do so.

Jack Bentley is down to his best weight, 195 pounds. He hasn't been that trim for a long time. He believes he has a good year ahead.

Hugh McQuillan hasn't been in camp long enough to know his shape. He will work slowly, but with good Florida weather should be ready for regular work by the start of the season.

Lloyd Davies, another good southpaw to aid Bentley, gets a set-back by reason of a twisted knee. He did it pitching in a practise game. The dirt of the infield here is none too good and the players have complained of sore legs. Davies, however, should be all well and going at top speed by April 18.

There are pitchers galore. Bill Moore, once a dandy looking youngster at Rochester, is getting another good start this spring and believes this time he will get in winning form and stay there.

Those named are the better known of the boxmen, but the remainder of the staff is good enough to make any manager envious. Don Brennan, former Georgetown star, has a world of speed and a good curve, too. This big fellow is working hard to get a regular berth. So is Jimmy Lyle, a tall boy who came up from Williamsport.

Charles Fischer is another left-hander. He did good work at Johnstown. Earl Howard, with the club last year, is working hard to stick.

This is a fine pitching staff, and all it needs is another good catcher. The catching staff now is composed of Bill Skiff and Frank Usemann.

RICHARD DIX HAS STRONG ROLE IN ORIENTAL DRAMA

Have you ever read about the hair-raising exploits of Captain Kidd, Long John Silver and all the other pirates and buccaneers in story books?

Piracy as colorful is flourishing today just as it did in the days of the Spanish main.

Chinese river pirates are attacking ships today as they have for centuries. The only difference is that they have improved their methods. Organized bands of marine marauders operate up and down the Yangtse River from Shanghai, stripping luckless vessels they capture. They even attack ocean-going steamers.

Authority for these statements is Edward S. (Tex) O'Reilly, former member of the International Police Force at Shanghai and later drill-master for the Chinese Imperial Army. Observations along the Yangtse River over a period of three years were set down recently by O'Reilly and offered to Paramount. His story "Shanghai Bound" was snapped up at once as a Richard Dix starring vehicle. It has proved ideal material, according to critics.

Dix plays a captain of a Yangtse River steamer in the picture, and his efforts to take a cargo of American refugees down the river to Shanghai and safety form the skeleton of the plot. River pirates, spurred on by hunger, greed and revenge, are the obstacles in his path, and he overcomes them only after hard fighting all the way down.

Mary Brian is the American girl Dix saves. Jocelyn Lee, Charles Byer, George Irving, Arthur Hoyt, Tom Maguire, Frank Chew and Tetsu Komai appear in other important roles. More than 150 Chinese appear in the fight scene. Luther Reed directed.

AT THE REGENT.

"CRADLE SNATCHERS" A RIOT OF FUN ENDING RUN.

"Cradle Snatchers," Fox Films riot of laughter which has been playing to crowded houses at the Regent Theatre, is nearing the end of its run and will have a final showing this evening. This is the comedy drama which as a stage play jammed a Broadway theatre for two years and then toured the country with a half dozen road shows.

Louise Fazenda, J. Farrel Macdonald, Sammy Cohen, Ethel Wales and Dorothy Phillips are the principal fun-makes in the cast.

HARK! HARK! THE DOGS DO BARK FOR RINTY.

And why shouldn't they bark? Dogs are not so unlike humans after all. Didn't all of us bark when Lindy came flying over our town! We had a right to bark! So have dogs, and humans, too, when the greatest of dogs, and the most human, comes to us by way of the silver screen direct from Warner Bros. Hollywood Studios.

"Jaws of Steel" is Rin-Tin-Tin's latest thriller, and it comes to the Regent Theatre to-morrow for a run of three days. Ray Enright is again the director, and Jason Robards, Helen Ferguson, Baby Mary Louise Miller, Robert Perry, Jack Curtis and George Conners are in the cast.

"Jaws of Steel" is a rousing story from the pen of Gregory Rogers, and Charles R. Condon made it into a screen play. It is by far the most thrilling of Rinty pictures and that is saying a lot. A waif pup, grows up on the desert, and becomes a menace to cattlemen. He finally finds the people who befriended him in his puppyhood, the Warrens and their little girl. They are in danger from crooks who are trying to get their claim because they have struck gold. What Rinty does to accomplish this will make you shout as if you were at a Big League ball game when Babe Ruth was making a home run! Rinty is coming! Hark!

CAREW CUP TAKEN TO FENELON FALLS

Leaves Millbrook After Year's Stay—Score of Game 15-12.

MILLBROOK, March 21. — The place occupied by the Carew Challenge Cup, among the bonspiel trophies won by the local curling club, is now vacant; a rink from Fenelon Falls carrying off the trophy in a challenge game here on Monday night, the score being 15—12. The cup, which was won from a rink skipped by W. Oke of Peterborough last year, has been held in Millbrook for over twelve months.

Different rinks of the local club have successfully defended the Carew trophy in four successive games this winter, the challenging rinks coming from Cobourg, Stouffville, Beaverton, and Gravenhurst; it was won once by default on the part of a rink of the Granite Club, Toronto.

The visitors arrived on the 9.35 p.m. train on Monday, and the game, which was witnessed by quite a large number of spectators, lasted until after 1 a.m. The ice was as good as weather conditions would permit, and there was some clever stone-trundling on both sides, the visitors finally having the best of the play by three points. The rinks were:

G. L. Northey	R. H. Edmunds
A. W. Robson	G. W. Sayles

By ends the score was:

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

THE IRISH GIFT

God gave the Scotch their native thrift,
God gave the English power,
Yes, God gave every race some gift
And every land her dower.
Where each can sing a bit;
And, when the Irish came along,
God gave the Irish wit.

It's true enough that's all he gave
As far as I can see;
And so, with nothing they could save,
What good would saving be?
What good is power, I'd like to know,
And all the arts of war?
They would not use them on the foe,
But fight each other more.

It's true enough that's all he gave
The Irish race indeed;
But weary, sick, beside the grave,
That's all the Irish need.
They'll whisper with their dying breath
A word to make you smile,
Yes, snap their fingers at old death
And dance their final mile.

God gave the Irish wit; and then
What did the Irish do?—
Make glad the hearts of Irishmen,
O'Day and Donahue?
Ah, no, they did the same with mirth
They did with all they had—
Scattered their gift around the earth
And made the whole world glad.

MANY CHAMBERS BEING REORGANIZED

Becoming More Recognized as Factor in Municipal Development.

That the Chamber of Commerce is a recognized factor in the development of a community—in the co-ordination building force—in the awakening of a civic consciousness, and in the creation of a healthy community outlook was the statement made recently by Secretary Stinson of the local chamber, supported, as he pointed out, by interest shown in different parts of Canada in the re-organization of existing Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, and in the creation of new local organizations.

Oshawa has just successfully completed its campaign for a strong Chamber of Commerce. Claresholm and Nanton, Alberta; Tilbury, Ontario; and Verdun, Que.; have also recently set up local organizations.

The present Boards or Chambers at Stratford and Kingston, Ontario; at Merritt, B.C., at Souris, Manitoba, and at Middleton, N.S., and the Eastern Townships associated Boards of Trade in the Province of Quebec are all showing new life and are formulating constructive programs for their respective municipal welfare.

The Chambers of Commerce at Edmonton, Windsor, and of course, Peterborough, have also, this past month, been actively at work in a campaign for a larger membership.

New Boards of Trade or Chambers are being contemplated for the Towns of Clinton and Lindsay, Ontario; Slocan Park, B.C., and Wetaskiwan and Viking, Alta.

Grandmother finds way to grow old gracefully

"I don't try to keep up the pace of the younger generation," says this 65-year-old woman. "I leave that to my grandchildren.

"But just because I lead a quiet life doesn't mean that I'm not perfectly well. I never felt better. Everything about me is normal and functions as it should. I make sure of that by taking Nujol regularly. Nujol keeps me in good condition."

When people become less active, Nujol becomes even more important for good health. For Nujol not only prevents the excess of body poisons (we all have them) from forming, but aids in their removal.

All of us—old and young alike—lead more or less sedentary lives. But Nujol helps make up for this lack of exercise. It keeps the body functioning as Nature intended.

Even if you think you're perfectly well, try Nujol. It was perfected by the Nujol Laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey). Take it for three months and just see if you don't feel better. Nujol can't possibly upset you. It contains absolutely no drugs or medicine. Be sure you get the genuine.

MEN'S CLOTHING IS VARIEGATED

AT BRASS' STORE.

Stripes and checks, checks and stripes—that is the song of the men's outfitter this spring. Suits are checked or striped, ties are striped, shirts are striped, socks are checked, and so on all along the line.

The Brass Store offers a wide assortment of the season's latest goods and most lines shown bear out the above. What few articles are not variegated are of bright color—witness a blue fedora hat, with blue band—unless intended for more or less formal wear.

Even underwear is colored. It is milady alone who will start dressing by donning undies of delicate hue, for brother's B.V.D.'s are likely to be just as pretty. The two-piece underwear for summer wear is becoming the vogue now by the way. The best may be had in coat style or pullover, while the drawers are in various styles.

Socks are checked in a great variety of patterns and colors. The substantial and plain grey sock of the not long distant past would be hard to find. Ties are striped. Mogadors are very popular now, with knitted ties of the better grades. While the colors are brighter more attention is being paid to proper combinations, so that the startlers of recent years are not now on display.

The popular shirt is one with collar attached. Solid colors and stripes are in favor, with the plain white shirt still the thing for any affair at all formal.

Hat crowns are lower and the brims smaller. The fawn and grey colors continue smart, but for the man whose color permits the blue one mentioned before is the real thing. Altogether it looks like a colorful spring.

LONDON TEACHERS MAY GO ON STRIKE

Join Pupils in Protesting the Dismissal of Two Masters.

LONDON, Ont., March 20.—Unless the Board of Education agrees to reinstate both C. K. Bluette and E. C. Leibner, Central Collegiate Institute masters, the city is faced with a strike of both teachers and pupils next Thursday. Students and officers of the Teachers' Federation are silent concerning the issue, pending the Board meeting on Thursday, but they make no secret of their plans to take action of some kind if the order of dismissal is not revoked.

The students are openly preparing to strike; while the teachers have not stated what action they will take, a strike of pedagogues, supported by the Provincial Federation, is being mooted.

Backed by Parents.

The students, with the backing of their parents, are demanding that the Board either reinstate the teachers or give reason for their dismissal. If the teachers are guilty of grave offences, the full facts should be published; they should not be sent out under the cloak of secrecy to take positions in other towns or cities, the petition contends. But both protesting bodies claim that there are no such grave reasons to warrant the trustees in their secret action.

The committee of seven originally named by the Central Collegiate pupils to deal with the situation, expanded its strength to 25 over the week-end. Monday afternoon a mass meeting was held in the Collegiate auditorium, notwithstanding the fact that the Board of Education has already hotly protested against students meeting in the school to organize "rebellion."

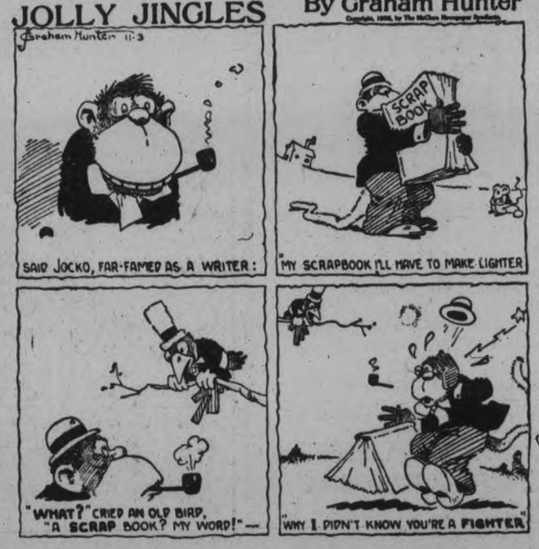
If the teachers go on strike Thursday, it will constitute a precedent, it is stated. The Teachers' Federation has used force before in Ontario, but, according to Secretary E. O. Hall, of the local branch, has never needed a weapon stronger than a sort of labor boycott under which places made vacant by unjust dismissal were not filled. If, however, the London School Board should fight this weapon, it is rumored that the local federation, with Provincial backing, is ready to call a general strike of the pedagogues.

Situation is Local.

TORONTO, March 19. Canadian Press. — Officials of the Ontario secondary school teachers' association decline officially to discuss the situation in the London Collegiate brought about by the dismissal of two teachers from the staff.

"We are interested, of course, in anything that concern the teachers of the province," said Walter Keast the president of the teachers' federation. "I think, however, the London situation is largely local. We are following it because we are interested, naturally, but that is all I can say now."

JOLLY JINGLES — By Graham Hunter



BOY TRIES TO JOIN PARTY FOR CANADA

Bursts Into Tears When Put Ashore From Steamer at Liverpool.

ST. JOHN, N.B., March 21.—Bursting into tears because he could not come to Canada and make his fame and fortune in this country, a 14-year-old boy was led down the gangplank of the Canadian Pacific steamer, Minnedosa, prior to the sailing of that vessel from Liverpool for this port, it was learned yesterday on the arrival of the big steamer at St. John. The incident was related by Captain M. R. Gibson who was bringing out a party of 12 boys under the auspices of the social service branch of the church of England.

The little lad was determined to come to Canada and see the wild and woolly West. Learning from the Canadian Pacific officer at Liverpool that the Minnedosa would sail from that port on March 9, he thought all he had to do would be to walk aboard. So he was at the dock in plenty of time and seeing there some of the other lads about his age, he joined them. On going aboard it soon was found that he did not belong in the party and he was removed from the vessel, but not before he had made a strong plea to be taken along. He was filled with the spirit of adventure and desire to see the world and burst into tears as he was led away. Asked what his father would say if he left home, he replied. "Oh dad won't mind."

The boys in charge of Captain Gibson were a healthy bright and intelligent looking lot. They ranged in age from 14 to 17, and as one expressed it, we're eager to see the new land, especially the cowboys out west.

"WHAT RUBBING DOES TO THE THINGS YOU WASH"

By MILDA DORAN ROSS
Home Economics Counselor

RUBBING increases wear and tear. It wears through fibres and frays cloth. It takes paint or varnish off woodwork. China patterns fade. Silverware plating wears off.

"I find that the perfect cleaning agent is one which requires minimum rubbing. Here Princess Soap Flakes prove most effective. They foam quickly into soft suds which literally dissolve grease and dirt, and practically eliminate rubbing. Use them for your filmiest garments and most important washing tasks. They will not hurt anything that can be washed in water at all. Princess Soap Flakes contain no harsh chemical filler or harmful free caustic, which are so hard on fine fabrics and on your hands. Economical, too—a little of this pure soap goes a long way."

ST. ANDREW'S Y.P.S. VISITS BURNBRAE

Campbellford Young People Give Program at Joint Meeting.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 21.—The Young People's Society of St. Andrew's church, Burnbrae, entertained the society from the Campbellford church in the Sunday school room of their church on Monday night. Garnet Thain presided for the opening devotional exercises which consisted of a hymn, scripture reading and prayer by the Rev. D. A. MacKenzie. Mr. Scott, Campbellford, then took the chair and the program was put on by the visitors from Campbellford. The Mises Blue, with their Hawaiian giutars, gave the first number and also the eleventh number on the program. Both were greatly appreciated. Miss Lillian Hay's readings were deservant of the sincere applause which they won. Miss Dorothy Reynolds, Miss Jerome Barnum, E. A. Bedford, and Stewart Anderson also contributed to the vocal solos on the program. Miss Marjorie Ackerman's reading won loud applause. There were also a piano solo by Miss Ruby Townsend and a piano duet by Miss MacGregor and Miss Eva McKelvie.

After the program was ended contests were in order while supper was being prepared. The most interesting of these was the leap year proposal contest which afforded a great deal of amusement for participants as well as spectators. The lunch came as the most delightful number of the program and before taking their departure, the Campbellford Society suitably expressed its appreciation of the pleasant evening spent with their sister society.

Next Monday evening, Campbellford will be at home to Warkworth. It is expected that there will be a good attendance and a most enjoyable evening is anticipated.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR INDIGESTION

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and get little more than slight temporary relief—sometimes not even that.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial corbonate, citrate or milk, but pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment, and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion.

IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

KNOX CHURCH

Both services in Knox Church on Sunday were devoted chiefly to Sacred music. Large congregations were in attendance, the extra seats in the gallery being necessary for the overflow at the evening service. Frank Oldfield, baritone, Toronto, well and favorably known in Peterborough churches, was the special soloist, and he more than realized the expectations of those who were responsible for securing him as the feature of the day.

Usually special services are arranged to make the central messages emanate from the pulpit, and when the music portion predominates it is sometimes regarded as a sacred concert attraction. It was otherwise in this case. Mr. Oldfield is different. His fine personality and his sympathetic spirit impressed his congregation, and his messages in sacred song were a blessing to the people. The rendering of familiar hymns under settings that gave full range of expression through the medium of his fine voice were very effective, each one a sermon in itself. He sings with such ease and fulness; his tones are so rich and mellow that he lays his hearers under a charm that lingers long after the last note has died away. When the subject requires, there is a robustness and strength that rouses the dreamer out of his reverie, as in his rendering of "Why Do The Nations?" from Handel's Messiah, during the evening service. It was heart-shaking, almost terrifying in its effect, with its recurrence of the mob clamor of mad revolt. But for the worshippers his closing numbers, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," in the morning, and "Sun of My Soul," in the evening, were the most satisfying of all his generous numbers for the day.

He was well supported by the Knox choir which, as usual, filled the choir circle completely. Well rendered anthems were given at both services, and there was inspiring leadership for the familiar hymns in which the large congregations joined so heartily.

Preliminary to evening worship, the organist, R. J. Devey, gave a recital, consisting of four numbers, that delighted those who came early to secure comfortable seats, and found themselves privileged to hear an unannounced feature.

The pulpit messages were delivered by the minister, Rev. William McDonald, in his usual clear and forceful manner, and were designed to bring home central truths of the Christian career. The theme for the morning was, "The Main Issue in the Christian Career," a lesson derived from the final instructions given by the Master to the Apostle Peter in the wonderful morning scene by the Sea of Galilee, as recorded in the Gospel of St. John. For some reason Peter sought to divert attention from himself to his companion, John, but the Lord rebuked him, and once again commanded him to concentrate upon the main business for the remainder of his career; 'Follow thou Me.' From this incident the speaker brought home the present danger of being diverted from the central issue in every Christian career, which can only be made successful by personally following Jesus, and then enlarged upon the meaning and possibilities of such faithful and devoted allegiance to Him, closing with the promise and prospect of that fulness and satisfaction that He will give to every one who makes this the main issue in his life.

For his evening subject the preacher took another lesson out of the experience of the leading Apostles, when after arrest, imprisonment and summary trial for preaching Jesus and the Resurrection, they were released with dire threats of consequences if they should repeat their offence. "And being let go, they went to their own company." The subject was, "The Testing Hour of Liberty." The early Christian Church passed through these hours of peril, when at first persecution fell upon her leaders, and again when they were set at liberty after the fear of punishment passed. The Apostles earned their reputation for boldness and courage by standing firm for their Master's cause in the hour of liberty as in the hour of trial.

After enlarging upon the ideal of liberty as sought for and enjoyed by humanity in this age, the speaker pointed out its perils as well as its privileges, and reminded his hearers that only those who had subordinated their natures to the highest law of life were able to endure the testing hour of liberty and make a success of life. He pointed to some of these hours in life, in childhood, youth and maturity, as the particularly important crisis when the bent of nature reveals itself as the restraints of school and home and work are removed, and the individual is at liberty to follow those pursuits that are the expression of his true nature. The best safeguard of those hours is furnished us by God when He made man in His Image and after His likeness. He has confidence in man that when he is truly free he will turn back to God again.

Sin is the great enemy of all freedom. The Savior has been given man to break the bondage of sin, and set man free that he may come back to God. The Prodigal Son was not free when he took his share of the father's inheritance and set out to have his fling in the gay city. He was free only when he came to himself in his poverty and hunger. Then he turned back home again, willing to take even the lowest place as a slave therein. Death is the final hour of liberty, when the soul is free from all earthly restraints and limitations and stands alone before the great white throne of judgment. There, the individual is revealed for what he is. There, the unjust are unjust still; and the righteous are righteous still. The tree lies as it falls.

The day will long be remembered in Knox Church, and is likely to establish a custom to make the musical service an annual event at this season.

SALVATION ARMY

Reading from the 2nd chapter of the Gospel of St. Luke, verse 42 on, Mrs. Ensign Green said, "At the time of this story, Jesus was 12 years old and this is doubtless the most important age in life, for it is here childhood ends and impressions made will be lasting. Mary, His mother, must have realized this, for in company with Joseph she had taken her son to the Feast of the Passover. For a few moments might I take you back to your 12 year-old days. Some travel back a long way, others a short distance—can you recall something that came into your life—some of the castles built in the air, your ambitions. Up to those days our belief in Heaven and Jesus Christ was very sure and definite. I recall now, how, following having been a bad girl during the day, restlessness kept sleep away from me and how, only when I had gone to my mother's bedside and told of my wrong doing and how she had told me that I must also confess to Jesus, then came rest. You will know just what that meant to me. Up to this interesting age children are not 'too big' to kneel and pray, for if you watch the Sunday school it is the 'tiny tots' and the young children who are first to kneel to pray. Surely this period in the life of all is the time of lasting impressions.

"There are two dominant thoughts I wish to point out in the passage we read—Jesus lost and Jesus found. I especially want to talk to the backsliders here, you who once served God and loved to do His will. I cannot understand why you do not return to the love and kindness of Jesus. We read that Joseph and Mary had been blessed at the services and gatherings at Jerusalem; they had started the return journey without Jesus. Seems to me that's the way many a backslider has started without Jesus. There is nothing worth while in life that it is not necessary to take Jesus into your confidence on. Jesus was lost in the crowd by His parents—you know the experience, the goodbyes and handshakes following the breaking up of the crowd attending the Army's Congress or maybe a Church convention—how easy it is to miss your friends and get started on your journey home. How like the backslider, so busy with the material things—lost Jesus in the hurry and bustle of life; till now you have no time for Him. But remember, you will stand one day at the bar of judgment, and you will have to find time to face your God.

"Joseph and Mary had gone a day's journey before they missed Jesus. There was probably quite a crowd returning to the home town and the parents naturally thought Jesus was in the company. How many have thought they were saved and everything was alright with them—but there was no definite assurance of sins forgiven, without which there can be no gift of eternal life. How many here have gone a day's journey without Jesus—alas! Many have gone days, and months, and years. 'They took their eyes off Jesus'—and how many of you have done the same, maybe just for a moment, and the result one sin followed another and tonight you are outside the fold and family, and it seems as though you will never get back to Jesus. But there is a welcome if you will return. We must ever 'Watch and Pray.' It also says they ceased to walk and talk with Jesus; if Mary had held the hand of Jesus He would not have been lost. So, too, I think if you had walked and talked with Jesus you would not have been seating in the seat of the backslider. Possibly you kept company with those who didn't help you. You were not His entirely. There are many reasons why people lose Jesus, you know how you lost him, think it over.

"How He was found—they sought among their kinsfolk. I think possibly Mary went one way and Joseph another and enquired of all their friends as to whether they had seen their Son. They sought Him sorrowing; we mothers here can especially feel for Mary, and you backslider and sinner here must seek Jesus in the same way.

'With a sorrow for sin

runs the lines of the song you have often sung and that is the way you must seek in.

"'They went back to Jerusalem' and so you must go back to the place where you parted with your Saviour, and you know well where that was. Maybe some one here forgot to pray, another refused to do the will of God. You will have to go back and do His bidding, might possibly be to teach a Sunday school class, or wear Salvation Army uniform—you know what it was. Perhaps you took some ungodly advice and now you are in your present condition. But at last 'They found Him' in the temple of prayer. Tonight, you are in the house of prayer and you can find Jesus again and cease from your backsliding. And you sinner friend, can also find Him tonight—you do not realize what you are missing in not accepting Him as your personal Savior."

5000 Years to get its start
...and in less than 4 years it has spread to millions

IN the British Museum there is a treasured document known as Eber's Papyrus. It is a medical treatise . . . perhaps the oldest in existence. And it lends surprising evidence to the proverb that there is nothing new under the sun.

For it tells us that in the time of the Pharaohs, an Egyptian doctor prescribed Yeast for Health.

Nor was he alone in his knowledge. In classic Greece, Hippocrates, the Father of Medicine, taught his scholars of its benefits.

Through the perfecting of Yeast growing by Fleischmann's and its wide distribution, this age-old food has reappeared in Canada during the last decade, bringing health and joy in living to hundreds of thousands of Canadians.

TODAY Yeast—the healthful vegetable—comes to us as a fresh, pure, natural food.

It is the same Yeast known to our forefathers: still stimulating, still nourishing, still invigorating. Only now we understand its "vital principle" a trifle better—and we are prepared to accept it as a palatable health food for our daily diet. We no longer feel it can be eaten only as an ingredient in other foods. Yeast is a food itself . . . and a most vital one.

In the last four years—since The Fleischmann Company has offered fresh, pure Yeast in foil-wrapped cakes for the family table—it has become a daily health food for hundreds of thousands of Canadian men and women who find in it a food that means a better enjoyment of health . . . and, therefore, of Life itself.

Many testimonials—unsolicited, sincere, grateful—have come from these folk who eat Yeast daily, and their word-of-mouth commendation is doing much to make Yeast a daily food among families in Canada.

* * *

When The Fleischmann Company first announced the "daily diet" message to the world, people were amazed at the description of old-time Yeast in this new scientific role!

Dietitians have long known the "unseen peril" hovering over the lives of modern men and women. Habits of quick eating, of ill-chosen foods, the nervous strain of hey-day bustle, these have undermined the daily health of the modern generation in Canada, in all other parts of the world. Chronic constipation has become the commonest ailment of the Twentieth Century.

For the first time in history, mankind has available—in palatable concentrated form—a vegetable food which corrects the ill effects of modern habits of living and eating.

Fleischmann's Yeast conditions the whole intestinal tract. Helps to clean it and keep it clean. Strengthens it as you would strengthen your arm—by exercise. Enables it to eliminate the poisonous waste which would otherwise discharge its slow-distilled poisons into the system.

These poisons are responsible for premature old age, loss of vigor and vitality, skin and stomach troubles. And as the body grows weaker, resistance is lessened and the way is left open for serious and even fatal disease. But Yeast restores the vigor and beauty of health in a way no medicine or cosmetic can . . . in a way only Nature can!

* * *

Are you troubled by our Twentieth Century Malady of Improper Living? Do you get up in the morning feeling tired, and "jumpy," your tongue thick, your mind foggy? Does your mirror reveal a face drawn, ugly pimples, wan skin, an unhealthy complexion?

Do you feel fag, a weak stomach, a breath that is unpleasant? These are the warning signals of the modern ailment, of Chronic Constipation, common to all of us in these latter days!

Don't worry! You can quickly regain your natural health and vigor by eating Yeast as part of your daily diet!

* * *

Do not expect overnight results. Yeast is not a medicine. It is a wholesome, natural, corrective food. You would not expect sudden muscular development from a few days' exercise.

But if you give Yeast a fair test, you'll be sure to note a vast improvement in your vitality, in your appearance, in your general outlook on life and things and people everywhere about you—you'll be quick to sense the "new man" within you at the end of the first ninety days!

You surely owe it to yourself—to those depending on your efficiency and fitness—to try it!

And you'll never want to abandon your Yeast-before-meal daily diet—any more than your morning tub or tooth brush. For—you will be enjoying sheer joy of living; of zesty appetite; of ruddiness and bracing health—which fresh Yeast can bring you!

Why not give yourself that fair trial at once? At least ninety days, three cakes daily.

That the greatest modern ailment is incomplete elimination. That its effects are many, and often apparently remote from the cause. That most people, even when they have identified the cause, don't know what to do about it except to take medicines. Medicines which strike a blow to the system, upset normal functioning in order to get their effect. And that, next time, must deliver even more nervous shock to get the same result. In the end, they simply aggravate the trouble they are taken to correct.

The only permanent, the only natural relief must come through diet. We can safeguard our health by adding to our diet a corrective food which supplies the lacking elements. Such a food is Fleischmann's Yeast.

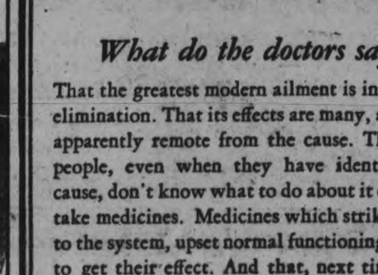
"A year ago last June while trying my examinations at High School, my face broke out in a terrible rash and I had a temperature of one hundred and two. Mother was worried as to what to do about my face. My father was taking Yeast at that time and mother thought it would help me. I took two Yeast cakes a day and in a short time the rash disappeared.

"I would highly recommend Yeast to anyone in a run-down condition or to anyone troubled with skin disease."
ADELBERT BOND, Toronto, Ont.

"During my spring training of 1926 I suffered with constipation, and it interfered with my activities considerably.

"A friend of mine who had been eating Fleischmann's Yeast for 3 months asked me to try it. The results I obtained from Fleischmann's Yeast were astonishing. I used 2 cakes a day and must say the pep and vitality that Fleischmann's put in me was more than I anticipated.

"I might say that the 1926 baseball season was the best of my career. Many thanks to Fleischmann's Yeast."
W. BRANDT, Vancouver, B.C.



"I have been a merchant for 22 years. Finally the long hours and close confinement began to tell on me. I was always tired. Troubled with pimples. Constipated . . . Within 3 weeks after starting to eat Fleischmann's Yeast my old energy returned. The pimples disappeared. My whole system was 'toned up.' My work now seems a pleasure instead of drudgery."
HERBERT W. HALLIDAY, Vancouver, B.C.

Eat a cake of Fleischmann's Yeast before each meal. Many delightful ways of eating Yeast are suggested in a very interesting booklet on Yeast for Health which we will be glad to send you on request.

REV. J. H. DUDGEON DIVERTS ATTACK

we take these children away from their own homes and put them in another environment, we must look after them. We must think of the child first—always These children are in fear—terrified. I like Mr. and Mrs. Brooks very much, but we have to stand for the child every time. These people lose their tempers and the children have to stand for it. One lady told me the man was white as a sheet with rage—she never saw a man in such a temper"

F. H. Dobbin: "I am afraid, Mr. Dudgeon, you have no case"

Rev. Mr. Dudgeon: "Well, we will see"

Mrs. Devey: "Mr. and Mrs. Brooks are too old for the position. Mr. Brooks may be a very good man on the outside work, but he is not for the inside. And Mrs. Brooks is past the age for caring for children. The woman is tired out."

Mrs. Gibbs remarked that Mrs. Brooks did not hire enough help.

Rev. Mr. Dudgeon: "She denies that to me, and she says the children are clean in body and clothing. That is a serious charge to lay."

Mrs. Devey: "They were not clean. We were there at the time of the reception, and the children were not clean."

Rev. Mr. Dudgeon: "He says they get their bath every week."

Mrs. Devey: "I will stand up for what I said and I will say it again; that those children are not kept as nice as they were previously. I think that Mrs. Brooks is too old for the position. The ladies of the Board will tell you that the children have come in there in dresses not fit to wear."

Mrs. Welsh: "I took nine safety pins out of the underclothes of one little child there. Nine safety pins: Not a button on them! There are always two sides to every question."

Rev. Mr. Dudgeon: "There are a number of people down in the South Ward that have been there as often as you have and they say different."

J. Abraham: "I heard Alderman Stocker say at the last meeting that Mr. Brooks was a bit rough with a boy."

Alderman Stocker :"I don't just remember——"

Chorus: "Yes, you did!"

Alderman Stocker: "Well, I'm not one that is used to taking back what I say: I recall that I said something like that."

Mrs. Welsh: "The fault lies with the Appointment Committee. They did not bring Mr. Brooks before the members."

Secretary Edgar interposed to assert that it was not necessary to bring any charges to get rid of a matron and caretaker.

Later on in the meeting, Alderman Stocker rose to read from a slip of paper the resignations of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks, the same to take effect with the term ending May 1st. The resignations were accepted by the Board.

Accounts Passed

Mrs. James Fanning read the accounts of the Purchasing Committee, which were passed for payment, as follows:

Stocks' Bread Company, $22.22; Bell Telephone Company $3.95 and $4.40; R. Neill, $4.75; Mr. Hambidge, $2.50; R. Denne, $2.85; E. F. Mason, $14.11; Peterborough Milk Products, $8.82; Singer Sewing Machine Company, $1.05; Higgins' Hardware Company, $7.75; W. H. Meredith, $8.80; R. Fair, $1.75; W. A. Giles, $1.50; J. M. Greene Music Company, $2.50; John Edgar, $16.52; Hall Store, $2.98; Total, $106.45.

Mr. Edgar reported: Applications for children, 5; brought to the Shelter (not wards) 3; returned to parents (not wards) 3; children made wards, 3; complaints received and investigations made, 7. There were 20 children in the Shelter during the month, and 12 at the end of the month.

Mr. Edgar also read an announcement of the annual meeting of Children's Aid Societies to be held in Toronto on April 18th and 19th, and announced that Joseph Wearing would speak on that occasion on some of his experiences in connection with the workings of the Children's Protection Act.

With regard to a legacy of $500 left the society in the will of the late G. Walter Green, said legacy to be payable in 1934, the executors of the estate wrote that the heirs were willing to make over to the society at the present time the sum of $347.07, which, compoundd at five per cent. interest, would amount in the year 1934 to the sum of $500. It was decided to accept this offer and enough from capital account to make it possible to purchase a $500 at once.

The committee appointed at last meeting, composed of Mesdames Gibbs, Welsh, Devey and Fanning and Messrs. Stocker and Abraham to deal with the matter of advertising for and hiring a new matron caretaker for the Shelter, was empowered to go ahead.

SCRIBES INSPECT DURANT PLANT

meetings were being held throughout the production season.

Frank B. Averill, factory manager, H. C. McCasland, resident engineer, Charles Edward purchasing agent, George Davis in charge of sales promotion and others were introduced and the trip through the plant was started.

The Cahhis Line.

This commenced at the beginning of the chassis line. The first operation was that of fabricating the steel chassis frame by means of compressed air machines which rivetted the rivets cold. It was explained that this method did away with the natural shrinkage that follows the rivetting of hot rivets. The cold rivets fills the hole in the frame with metal when it is clinched under a pressure of 20 to 25 tons, thus making the chassis frame as nearly as possible one sturdy piece.

The chassis frame when completed, started on the chassis line and gradually it seemed to gather together as if by magic the various units that go to make an automobile. The rear axle was put in position then the springs—all as the chassis moved slowly on the "chain" that inch by inch brought it nearer to completion. Fast, expert hands handled each operation and though it was done quickly there was no mistaking the fact that each operation received the utmost care and attention. Finally, after about 15 minutes, the chassis was completed to the point where it was ready to be enameled and go through the baking ovens.

Druing the period that the chassis were slowly turning through the ovens, a sub-assembly was going on apace. Various units were being installed on the Red Seal "L" head Continental motor so that when the chasses emerged from the enamel ovens, its motor was ready to be installed.

Compressed air hoists are used for all lifting and one of these handled the powerful motor as if it were a toy, picking it up quickly and lowering it gently to its position in the chassis. Expert hands soon had the motor bolted to the frame in a rubber mounting and as the job, completed to this point, continued its journey on the ever-mounting chain, the fenders and running boards, the steering wheel and radiator were added as were also the several "finishing touches" required in the construction of a Durant motor car.

This brought the completed chassis under what is called the "hatch" through which the Durant built Hayes-Hunt bodies are lowered but at this point the trip of inspection was halted, insofar as the chassis is concerned and was resumed in the body building plant.

Body Building Plant.

Of the half-million square feet of floor space that comprises the Durant plant, a goodly share is taken up by the body building department, which includes the Duco plant and the trim shop. The visitors started this part of their trip of inspection at the point where the hardwood frames are fashioned into a four-door sedan, two-door sedan, or coupe. This frame-work is put together in what are known as "jigs" which, in turn, hold the sections together while they are matched and joined. These "jigs" bind the framework while the glue sets and while heavy screws are driven into place by compressed air screw-drivers.

The wooden framework then slowly passes down the body line for its doors, and the metal work. Hundreds of hammers kept up a continual din as the workmen skillfully attached the metal to the frame and gradually automobile bodies came into being.

As they were finished, they were sent on to the Duco department where it appeared that unusual care was taken to see that each individual body received the utmost attention. Duco spray booths equipped with the most modern tools, were arranged in such a way as to permit the finest of workmanship with a minimum of waste motion. Still carried along a line or track, the bodies were sprayed and baked until finally they emerged from the last ovens in most attractive colors and ready for rubbing and a final coat.

The last operation, in the Duco department was the striping, and here it was again noticed that only the greatest care and the most skillful workmanship could possibly meet the demands of the factory inspectors.

A most unique, self-operating track system automatically forwarded the bodies, thus Ducoed, to the trim-shop where the glass was put in the windows, the electric wires, cables, etc., were installed, the handles put on the doors—and everything made ready for the upholstering. Quickly but nevertheless neatly and expertly, the finest of upholstering material was put into the bodies.

Battery of Machines.

On the right of this "line" there is a battery of electric sewing machines kept constantyl humming to keep the workme supplied with materials. It was one of the busiest spots in the whole plant.

Each body was thoroughly inspected before being passed and once passed it was ready to be lowered down the 'hatch" to the completed chassis at the end of the chassis line and at the point where the newspapermen halted their journey to see the bodies being built.

After watching this work from the upper floor the visitors went down to the chassis line again and there they certainly marvelled at the way in which the bodies were put on the chassis. Every move of the mechanics was the right move at the right time. The body was no sooner lowered than the whole car was automatically moved over a pit. Men with compressed air wrenches soon had the body fastened securely to the chassis and the whole car ready for the brake testing machine.

Brake Testing.

This is a most delicate piece of machinery for all its size. With its aid the mechanics are able to adjust the Bendix four wheel brakes with absolute accuracy—and then the car was ready for the final test department. This is the most critical department for every individual car must pass a most rigid inspection before it has this department's endorsation and it must have this approval before it can pass on to the shipping department. Each car is taken out of the plant and run for several miles. When the plant is in full production, upwards of 175 cars a day there is a continual stream of cars going and returning from a proving run. When any defects are found the car is turned into an another special department that corrects the condition and then the car must pass again through the final test before it is marked "O.K."

The Durant motor plant covers nearly 15 acres of ground and comprises a series of separate buildings, each of which is splendidly ventilated, well heated and having walls that are principally all windows. The working lines are all on the south side of the buildings so that the work is done in bright daylight much to the advantage of the product itself and the men engaged in this interesting work.

When the visit through the plant was over, the newspapermen expressed their delight at what they had seen and voiced their appreciation of the opportunities extended to them by the executives of the company of thus seeing for themselves "how Durant cars are built."

B.Y.P.U. OBSERVES ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Address By Rev. W. S. Edgar Given Gilmour Church Society.

The Gilmour Memorial B.Y.P.U. held a very enjoyable St. Patrick's social in the basement of the church on Monday evening, after the regular meeting of the society, which was conducted by Rev. W. S. Edgar whose subject was "Why join the Church."

The program was in charge of Miss Leila Sanderson, for which the members were divided into different families having typically Irish names in each group were pa, ma, and the baby, and in most cases the baby turned out to be the biggest person in the group.

Various competitions were entered into by the different groups such as the best Irish song, potato peeling race, etc. A prize was given for the most points. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Brussels, Belgium, and Paris are to be connected by special motor highway.

PERSONALS

Excellent results have attended the labors of Mrs. A. J. Langford, in her ladies' Bible class, at St. Clare avenue United church, Toronto, of which her husband, Rev. A. J. Langford, formerly of Trinity United church in this city is the pastor. When Mrs. Langford took over the class on her arrival in Toronto, nearly two years ago, the membership was down to twenty. The attendance at the class now is usually in the neighborhood of 130 members. Last week the ladies of the class honored Mrs. Langford on the ocacsion of her birthday by a dinner served in the church banquet hall by two teams of the organization. A pleasing feature of the proceedings was the presentation to Mrs. Langford by the president on behalf of the class, of a framed picture of herself painted by L. S. Kimpton, the well known Toronto artist. At the dinner which was planned by the members as a surprise to Mrs. Langford, many ecomiums were passed upon her, and her influence for good in the community life. In conversation with The Examiner yesterday, Mrs. Langford declared that she and her husband were very happy in their Toronto charge, and had found a host of friends among the church people of the Queen City.

One of the prettiest of the many St. Patrick's teas which have been held during the past ten days took place yesterday afternoon and evening at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Morgan, under the auspices of the Women"s Association of Murray" street church. Mrs. Morgan was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Bertram Jackson, president of the society, and Mrs. J. H. Sutcliffe. Mrs. D. A. Loomis officiated as treasurer. A sale of home-made cooking was in charge of Mrs. R. G. Gavine, Mrs. H. H. Tewsley, and Mrs. F. M. Somerville. The ladies were ushered into the tea room by Mrs. W. D. Scott and Miss Stratton. Tea was poured during the afternoon by Mrs. V. Eastwood, Senior, and Mrs. W. R. Breyfogle, and coffee was poured in the evening by Mrs. J. Moulton and Mrs. Robert Scott. Tearoom assistants were Mrs. N. Barrie, Mrs. G. P. Edwards, Mrs. J. Wearing, Mrs. C. Lapp, and Miss Mary Stratton. In the evening, assistants were Mr. G. Post and the Misses Mildred Irons, Clara Doughty, Elizabeth Webber, Isabel Scott and Mary Scott. A very enjoyable program,in charge of Mrs. C. B. Westbrooke and Mrs. H. H. Graham, was given in the afternoon and evening, and included songs by Mrs. J. Custance, Miss Helen Barrie; Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe and Dr. J. S. Graham; piano solo numbers by the Misses Mildred Hetherington, Miriam Purdy, and Elizabeth Webber, and a banjo and harmonica duet by Miss Margaret Eastwood and Mr. H. H. Graham, also a reading by Mr. C. B. Westbrook. Accompaniments were played by Mrs. J. S. Graham and Miss Frances Routley. The decorations of the rooms and arrangement of the tea table were especially attractive. The reception room had vases and bowls of hyacinths and daffodils and the home-made cooking table was covered with a white cloth, fringed with a row of large green shamrocks. The tea room was charming and was arranged by Mrs. Eastwood. The table had a large oval cloth of Italian cutwork and filet and was centred by a green basket filled with white tulips, ferns and white narcissus, with butterflies hovering over the blossoms. The basket was framed in white tulle which had a circular ring of tiny dancing Irish lads and lasses. At either end of the table stood a figurine in Irish china, depicting a colleen and her swain. Green baskets for mints and green crystal service plates were used. The overhead electrolier was shaded with a design in cutout shamrocks, while the windows and buffet were banked with artificial Irish moss, in which Irish dancing figures were placed. On the buffet was a tall silver basket filled with daffodils.

When umbrellas first came into use in the Occident they were regarded as a decidedly feminine fashion. And apparently that opinion still prevails in some quarters. If you have ever observed the campus of a co-educational college on a rainy day you have seen that the umbrellas—colored umbrellas with colored raincoats to match—are carried only by members of the fair sex. Still, looking at the umbrella situation by and large, they are very nearly as masculine as they are feminine.

But parasols are different. It is only under the burning glare of a tropical sun that the Occidental male cares to be seen carrying a sunshade. Parasols are as feminine as fans or bracelets or earrings. And now that more feminine fashions have been revived—the parasol assumes importance.

A really new idea in the way of sunshades is the sports parasol. These are made of printed linen or silk with short ferrules and substantial handles usually of wood. At Palm Beach and other resorts parasols of this sort have been carried as the final touch to the smart sports ensemble, the parasol always taking up the color scheme or decorative note of some other accessory of the costume. Sometimes parasols are sold with matching accessories—as a scarf, a handbag, a hat or even a sports jacket.

Broad-brimmed hats have been seen at the resorts and the prediction has been made that they will be revived to a great extent for summer, but at some of the resorts where fashionable French women congregated for the late winter weeks the parasol appeared to put the wide brimmed hat entirely in eclipse. Little light-weight, close-fitting hats—of the sort that might be called bonnets—were worn on the beaches and during the sunny hours of the day and with them parasols matching or in harmony, which made a brim of any sort entirely unnecessary.

The complete warm-weather-wardrobe has parasols of many sorts—and for more elaborate afternoon wear those of lace take preeminence.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

Uncle Wiggily
By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE MACARONI

"Keep close to me now! Don't get separated! We must keep close together!" called Uncle Wiggily to Baby Bunty and little Vallie, the new rabbit child. The three bunnies were flying through the air, toward their hollow stump bungalow home, they hoped, but they could not be sure.

For many things had happened since they started traveling and as Baby Bunty looked down and saw something strange on the earth below the little rabbit girl became more and more certain that another adventure was going to happen them.

"Oh, look!" called Bunty, pointing down with one paw. With the other paw she held fast to Uncle Wiggily for she did not want to lose him.

"What is it?" asked Vallie, who was holding to Mr. Longears with both her little paws.

"Look at the people down there!" went on Bunty, still pointing. "They are hanging a lot of white shoe strings out on their porch railings to dry. How funny!"

"Hello!" exclaimed this strange rabbit.

Uncle Wiggily was saying again "Keep together now! Don't get separated. Don't get lost. If we lose each other high up here in the air there's no telling when we may find each other again! Keep together!"

But he stopped saying this long enough to look down and when he saw what Bunty and Vallie were looking at he sort of twinkled his pink nose and went on

"Well, I might have expected it. I didn't think that Dutch cow tossed us half far enough on her horns. I might have expected it!"

"Expected what, Unkie Wig?" asked Baby Bunty snuggling up as close as she could to the bunny gentleman while she floated along through the air.

"I might have expected that one toss would never send us all the way home from Holland," went on Mr. Longears. "We're going to land, I think," and he looked down again. "Yes," he continued, "we're much nearer the ground than we were."

"What land is it?" asked Vallie, who had come to Uncle Wiggily in a basket on Valentine's Day. "And what are all those funny things like white shoestrings hanging all over?"

Before Uncle Wiggily could answer, all of a sudden he and Bunty and Vallie fell gently down into a field, right in the midst of a lot of soft, dangling strings of what seemed to be dough, or flour paste, and the rabbit gentleman, who became all tangled in these "white shoestrings," as Bunty spoke of them—Uncle Wiggily suddenly cried

"Macaroni!"

"What's that?" exclaimed Vallie who had also become tangled in the white strings. "Is he talking Dutch?"

"That's Italian," chuckled Mr. Longears who wasn't much hurt by his fall. "We have landed in Italy and what Bunty thought were white shoestrings hanging on porch railings are strings of macaroni."

"What's macaroni?" asked Bunty. "I mean what's it for?"

"To eat," answered Uncle Wiggily. "I'll tell you about it in a minute." He began to untangle himself from the half dried strings of flour and egg paste and then, through the field into which the three traveling bunnies had fallen came hopping another rabbit gentleman, wearing a black hat, with green rooster feathers on it.

"Hello!" exclaimed this strange rabbit and though he spoke Italian, Uncle Wiggily seemed to understand it. "Who are you, where did you come from and where are you going?"

"I am Uncle Wiggily," answered Mr. Longears, and he told who Bunty and Vallie were, adding "We traveled to Holland on a runaway kite we were flying in the March wind. After seeing many sights in Holland a Dutch cow kindly offered to toss us home through the air. So she tossed us with her horns and we were flying along nicely, hoping soon to be home in my hollow stump bungalow when, all of a sudden, Bunty looked down and saw something queer."

"It was this macaroni," explained Baby Bunty, untangling a long string from around her neck. "And I'll tell the world it's queer!"

"Oh, you shouldn't use slang!" whispered Vallie. But Uncle Wiggily was explaining to the Italian rabbit how the three travelers dropped down out of the air, the cow not having tossed them far enough to send them back home when, all of a sudden, the Italian rabbit whispered

"Quiet, if you please! Listen!"

So they all listened, standing there in the midst of the macaroni field and they heard some sweet music being played. At the same time the macaroni which was hung in many rows on long lines of fences, began to shake as if the wind was blowing it. But there was no wind.

"Here they come!" said the Italian rabbit. And what happened next you shall hear tomorrow, when the story will be about Uncle Wiggily and the accordion—that is if the wind doesn't blow, through the keyhold and tickle the back of the rocking chair.

FOURTH PETERBORO' TROOP.

The meeting opened with flag break followed by inspection in front of the corners. The patrol boxes were inspected.

Fred G. McNeely, president of the boys' hobby show, came down to see the troop. Mr. McNeely talked to the Scouts for awhile, telling them about the hobby show. He gave everyone in the troop an exhibit list and some tickets. In the Scoutcraft department Mr. McNeely wishes to see a large number of exhibits in section 7, a map of a good hike in the vicinity of Peterborough.

The talk was followed by a session of tub tilting. One of the Kangaroos defeated the winner of most of the other 'heats', a Crow.

The instruction periods were held in the corners under the P. L.'s. A verbal message was read out by the S. M. As there was not time at the end of the meeting the message will be received next week.

The council fire was then prepared. 'O Canada' opened the council fire, followed by a number of other songs. Mr. Corbett read a story to the troop. Excitement ran high as the points were added up. The Kangaroos are now hopping along in the lead again. The Kangaroos have 173½, the Owls 172, and the Crows 155½. Norman Orbell was invested into the troop this week and is now a member of the Owl patrol. Ronald Asquith passed his second class cooking on a hike held a week or so ago. Gordon Hardie passed his service test.

Each Scout is to bring a kazoo, a mouth organ or a uke for the council fire next week.

Any Scout wishing information about the Scoutcraft or camp craft department of the hobby show may ask the directors, Jack Heffernan or Garry Johnston.

Defends Reputation Before Commission

CHICAGO, March 21 (Canadian Press). — Dave Shade, the San Francisco middleweight, defended his reputation as a boxer before the Illinois State Athletic Commission yesterday.

Shade was ordered to explain what appeared to be an unsatisfactory showing in his match with Del Fontaine, of Winnipeg, claimant of the Canadian middleweight title on Monday night. Members of the Commission believed Shade might have finished his opponent, with the result that payment of his purse was held up.

The coast boxer, however, convinced the Commissioners that in his last 88 bouts he had only succeeded in knocking out two opponents; that he did not grant Fontaine favors, and that he gave his best efforts.

What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

III—Of What Stuff Is Religion Made?

A PHYSICIAN of foreign birth, whose practice was on the lower East Side of New York, told me that almost everybody prays before he dies, and that no matter how long he has lived in America, or how well he may know the English language, he prays in the language to which he was born. Jesus of Nazareth on the Cross did so. Whether He could speak Greek we do not know; some of the men who stood near the Cross used that language and so could not understand Him when He cried: "Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani." But Mary, the mother, understood; it was their native Aramaic, the language of her little boy.

In one of his cleverest essays Maeterlinck considers the number of classifications and generalizations which a dog must make in early life, as, for instance, to decide whom he should admit through the door as a friend and at whom to dash out in the dark. He says that the dog does not spend much time in looking up at the sky; one glance is enough to show him that there is nothing he can dig out of that. But the earth may be dug into, and interesting objects found therein.

Man Looks Up

Man also digs in the earth and finds not only rabbits and woodchucks, but potatoes and oil and iron and gold. And he must dig or he cannot live. But man has not been content, as has the dog, with a single upward glance. Delving away with aching arms, pushing himself relentlessly in the battle for existence, wherein all the forces of the universe seem to be his foes, he has continued to glance up.

However absurdly, he has made himself believe that he is more than the beasts; that behind the riddle of the stars there is an answer; beyond the storm and sun, a Power, and that the Power can perhaps be bribed or persuaded to treat him as a friend. Uncontent to live and just and die, he has fashioned himself religion.

Help or Hindrance

How was it that he came to do this? Of what stuff is religion made? Has it been to man a help or a hindrance in his upward struggle? And whether a help or a hindrance, if it be merely the child of his own imagining, has he not now become strong enough to discard its assurance and walk courageously alone?

"If we go back to the beginning," Holbach wrote, "we shall find that ignorance and fear created the gods; that fancy, enthusiasm or deceit adorned or disfigured them; that weakness worships them; that credulity preserves them; and that custom respects and tyranny supports them in order to make the blindness of men serve its own interests."

This is one of those broad assertions which philosophic rebels like to utter but which, in poor theologians, they are quick to condemn. Whether fear and weakness created the gods no man can say, for no man now living was present when the gods were created, and all the records are long since gone. The German scholar, Heinrich Schmidt, assuming for the purpose of illustration that the first human beings were on this planet two hundred and fifty thousand years ago, tried to illustrate with a clock face the long period of unrecorded as against the brief period of recorded history.

If the residence of the human race on earth be represented by the twelve hours from midnight to noon, and men began a few minutes after midnight to split bone in order to get the marrow out, or to chip flints for arrows, then they had a long time to work in the dark before they began to write down their progress. Measured on this clock face all recorded history, including the building of the Pyramids and much that went before, occurred in the last half-hour; and the events about which we have positive knowledge belong to the past five minutes.

Dreams or Shadows

We know that when the curtain of history is first lifted every race and tribe is revealed in possession of some sort of religion, but as to how or where primitive man began the first crude creation of his faith the scientists can only conjecture. They imagine that his dreams may have had something to do with it. Or perhaps his shadow suggested another self, a kind of existence that was not solid and material. At least he saw things happening about him when no one was in sight to make them happen.

The wind blew; what made it blow? Water flowed from under solid rock; what caused it to spring forth? There was thunder and lightning and rain and hail, and above all there was the sun. What made the thunder, the lightning, the rain, the dark and the life-giving sun?

Personality

Primitive man wondered, and gradually he began to make the great discovery of personality. He himself did the things he wanted done, and he supposed that the objects about him were also alive and did as they chose. He assumed that a spirit lived in the spring, and a god rode in the storm, and that the sun was the greatest of all the gods. As for the wind, the very word "spirit" means just that. So, in the beginning, there were presumably as many gods as there were things to be explained, both good and bad.

There must have been a god for the east wind and for the west wind, a god for the sunshine and a god for the rain, a god not only for joy and pain but for each of the many joys and pains, the good luck and the sorrows.

Tomorrow—Blood Sacrifice.

"Thanking you and Gin Pills for the relief given me and scores of others that I recommended them to."

EXTRA!

An Examiner Extra announces that the Germans have broken the British front, following up bombardment which started at 5 o'clock this morning.

What Canada was Doing.

So little has ever been published about the part that the Canadian corps played in holding off the German offensive in March, 1918 that many people still think the Canadians took no active place in the long battle line. During the next few days The Examiner will print the story of the Canadian part in this battle as it is told in the war history.

It is quite true that the Canadian corps was not as heavily engaged in these battles as were some British and French armies but it is the opinion of experts that probably the reputation of the corps had something to do with the refusal of the enemy to attack along the front which it was holding. And then too, Marshal Foch had his own reasons for not drawing the Canadian corps into the breach made by the enemy between the British and the French armies. As a matter of fact, from the broken line at Amiens and from the threatened breach at Bailleul, came the cry to the corps for help: "Send us the Canadians; they are at full strength and doing nothing."

The reason that they were not sent is told in "Canada and the Great War" as follows:

"One Canadian unit did go to Amiens, and with hundreds of machine guns helped to slow down the German thrust. But that old, wily father of the allied command, Marshal Foch, was in supreme power; he would not let the Canadian divisions be used, Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig pleaded in vain. Foch was adamant. At that time in a cosmopolitan mess at Villers-Bretonneux—brigadiers without brigades and British staff officers without an army to work with—the writer heard the Canadians called, in no friendly mood, "Foch's Pets." The big Canadian colonel of motor machine guns and armoured cars, which were then out fighting desperately, was a good defender of Canada's name, but the best retort came from a dapper French staff officer, who had been vainly trying to knit together across that German wedge, now almost at Amiens, the divided French and British forces.

"'Foch's Pets" he cried as he rose to his feet and saluted the Canadian colonel. "Foch, the old brave knows, my comrades; he is no fool." And Marshal Foch did know; yet even the great Allied Commander-in-chief could not have dreamed what the men from British North America would mean to him when the tide of war again turned even before the year was out. History now shows that in those last victorious hundred days Canada's men at arms were always the very centre—the spear-heads —of his main British offensives."

When the widely heralded German offensive opened on March 21, the 3rd Canadian division was holding the line in the Mericourt-Avion sections; the 4th division held the Lens-St. Emile front; the first was at Hill 70, and the second was in corps reserve in the Anchel area. Three days later the third division alone was holding the Asheville-Mericourt-Avion sections; the fourth division the Lens-St. Emile Hill 70 sections; the first division was in army reserve in Chateau de la Haie area, and the second division was in general headquarters reserve in the Mont St. Eloi area. In other words, two divisions were holding a front of 17,000 yards

The importance of the section held by the Canadian corps in the crucial days of March, 1918, has been pointed out by General Sir Arthur Currie, and no elaboration is needed here.

While the changes in the dispositions of the corps were being made, the greatest projector-gas bombardment in the course of the war was carried out by Canadians on the night of March 22nd. This demonstration because of its importance in drawing enemy reserves from important parts of the front will be told about in detail to-morrow.

The Canadians were not inactive on this day of the breaking of the great offensive or on any of those stirring days which followed, although the people at home and in England knew nothing of their activities.

Obituary

ROBERT CASWELL.

TORONTO, March 21.—(Canadian Press).—Robert Carswell, well known construction contractor, died here yesterday at the age of 89 years. He had been ill for a week from pneumonia. Mr. Carswell was born at Colborne, Ont., and educated at Brighton and Belleville.

MRS. EDWARD CORKERY

ENNISMORE, March 21. — Mrs. Edward Corkery died suddenly early this morning at the home of her brother, James Sweeney, of Douro. She suffered a paralytic stroke, and died very shortly after.

The remains are being removed to her home in Ennismore to-day.

Mrs. Corkery had attended a play in Harmony Hall in the evening, but was taken ill during the night.

She is survived by her husband and five sons, John, Martin, Francis, Fergus and Vincent, all at home. Another son met death a few years ago when a barn was burned during a silo filling. Mrs. Corkery was a native of Douro. Mrs. Margaret Fitzgerald, of Indian River, is a sister.

Funeral on Friday morning at 9.30 a.m., to St. Martin's church and burial in St. Martin's cemetery, Ennismore.

MRS. ROWE.

STIRLING, March 21. — Mrs. Rowe, a resident of Hubble Hill, was taken suddenly ill last Thursday of appendicitis, and rushed with all speed to Belleville Hospital, where an operation was performed, but without avail. The funeral was held at Mount Pleasant Church on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Rowe was a widow, and leaves five children and her brother-in-law, Harold Rowe, with whom she resided, to mourn her death. Mrs. Rowe was in her 39th year.

ARTHUR FREDERICK PARISH.

The death took place in the General Hospital, Sarnia, of Arthur Frederick Parish, the second son of Mrs. Edith Bradley, of Peterboro, and the late Joseph Edwin Parish of London England, after a very short illness. He leaves to mourn, his sorrowing wife and two children Frederick and James, also his mother and two brothers, Joseph of London, England, and George of this city.

BIDWELL SINE.

STIRLING, March 21. — In the passing of Bidwell Sine, one of Stirling's oldest residents has gone. Mr. Sine was born on March 11, 1839, and had always lived in Hastings County. He was one of the pioneer settlers of Limerick Township, near St. Ola, having gone there in 1861 with several others from Rawdon Township. About that time Mr. Sine was married to Elizabeth Ham, a daughter of Mr and Mrs. William Ham, who were among those who settled at St. Ola. About 45 years ago Mr. and Mrs. Sine left the north country and settled again in Rawdon Township, near Harold, where they resided for 25 years, when they moved to Stirling. Having no children of their own, Mr. and Mrs. Sine adopted two of Mrs. Sine's nieces.

In 1913 Mr. Sine was left to mourn the death of a faithful wife. His second wife was Mrs. Margaret Weyman, who is left to mourn his death. Mr. Sine was a devout member of the Methodist Church for a great many years.

The funeral service will be in St. Paul's United Church on Tuesday at 1.30 p.m., burial to be in Bethel Cemetery at Sine, 4th Con., Rawdon.

ANDREW SHEARER.

LAKEFIELD, March 21.—The funeral of the late Andrew Shearer took place on Thursday last to the Lakehurst Cemetery, after a service at his late residence, Lot 11, Concession 4, Harvey. Mr. Shearer, who had resided in Harvey for the past forty-three years, was well-known in the community, and held in high esteem by his neighbors, as was testified by the fact that, for more than forty years, he had held the office of Sunday School superintendent in what is now known as the Lakehurst United Church, and for thirty years he was secretary-treasurer of the Lakehurst Public School.

Mr. Shearer had been ill for some time, and died on Tuesday, March 13, in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterboro, at the age of seventy-three years. His wife predeceased him twenty years ago, and one son and daughter also predeceased him.

He is survived by three daughters: Miss Gertrude at home, Mrs. Bert Atkinson of Dinsmore, Sask., and Mrs. David Irwin of Harvey.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Clarkson, Weir, Thompson, Barcroft, Windover and Flynn.

The funeral service was in charge of Rev. Mr. Huston, of the Lakehurst United Church, assisted by the minister of the Buckhorn United Church.

ROBERT PAUDASH.

HIAWATHA, March 21.—Robert Paudash of Hiawatha, Ont., died at his home on March 14, at the age of 87 years. He was a resident of this place all his life, and for many years Chief of the Massasaga Band, which his father and grandfather had also led. The three were staunch British subjects, and the medal presented by King George III. for military service in the war of 1812 and two others are still possessed by the family. The funeral was held at the United Church on Friday, March 16, at 2.30 p.m., Rev. R. Garratt officiating. He was laid to rest in the Hiawatha Cemetery overlooking the beautiful waters of Rice Lake. Those left to mourn are his widow, daughter of the late Rev. Robert Brooking, a famous missionary; a beloved and only daughter, Lucy, and three sons: Johnson and Andrew of Lindsay, and George, present Chief of this place; also two step-sons, Robert and William Anderson, living here. Chief Paudash has for many years been a members of the Methodist, now United, Church of Canada. He died with a fond hope of a mansion in that upper and better world. The massive oak casket was draped with the British flag, under which he loyally fought in former years, as did his sons in the late World War. The lovely floral offerings, of which he was so passionately fond, were placed in the coffin with him. Five of his favorite hymns were used at the funeral.

ANN MARIA GRIFFIN.

After an illness of three years' duration there passed away at 309 McDonnel Street this morning, March 21, Ann Maria Griffin, eldest daughter of the late Jonathan Griffin. Born and educated in Lakefield, she had spent almost her entire life in that village and Stoney Lake district, only coming to Peterborough last October. Her father, a contractor, operated a planing mill there, and was one of the early settlers. She was a member of St. John's Church, Lakefield.

Left to mourn are two sisters, Miss Mary Augustus Griffin, with whom she lived on McDonnel Street, and Mrs. Charles Finnemore, of Toronto.

The funeral will take place at 2 p.m. on Friday, March 24, from 309 McDonnel Street, to Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. W. J. Creighton and Rev. J. D. Paterson conducting the services.

HOBBERLIN CUP WINNERS DINED BY ADMIRERS

St. Peter's Hockey Club Are Guests of Honor at Enjoyable Function.

MANY CONGRATULATIONS.

Players Are Given Good Advice By the Hosts of Evening.

The prowess of St. Peter's Hockey Club in winning the junior city honors three years in succession and thus taking permanent possession of the Hobberlin Cup was fittingly recognized last evening when admirers of the team entertained the players at an informal and most enjoyable dinner in the Downyflake Tea Rooms.

The friends of the club who made possible this enjoyable function were Messrs. J. E. Sullivan, A. J. Reynolds, John R. Corkery, Wm. Prindible and Martin Roche, who were the hosts for the occasion and saw to it that their guests thoroughly enjoyed the function.

After full justice had been done to the splendid menu, J. E. Sullivan, who made an efficient chairman, congratulated the members of the team upon their splendid playing and good sportsmanship. He regretted the absence of Lew. W. Lebarr, Sr., the maanger of the team, to whose efforts to promote junior hockey and baseball he paid a warm tribute. Few people realized what his assistance to young players had cost Mr. Lebarr in money and time. Mr. Sullivan advised the players of St. Peter's to continue to play the game fairly and clean and counselled them to regard sports in the right light, so that they would receive most benefit from participation.

A. J. Reynolds proposed the toast to St. Peter's Hockey Club, warmly congratulating the team upon its fine playing. So proud had he been of the team that after seeing the final game he would have advocated a dinner for them had they lost, for the match was of such a nature that a team could lose with credit. Mr. Reynolds also gave the boys some good advice about playing the game for the game's sake, reminding that victory was not the chief goal.

Rev. Father Corkery, replying to the toast, expressed his pleasure at being able to closely follow the activities of St. Peter's team after an absence from the city of some six years and added his congratulations to the players. Rev. Father Corkery pointed out St. Peter's school handicapped in that the nature of the playground interfered with the making of a rink there and recalled the old school on Murray street, where beautiful grounds had been available.

Frank Carroll, captain of St. Peter's team, voiced the thanks of his team mates to the hosts of the evening.

Martin Roche, Wm. Prindible and John R. Corkery all expressed their satisfaction with the playing of the team and congratulated them upon their great showing in winning the honors three years in succession. Mr. Corkery added a word of advice as to the desirability of not giving too much prominence to sport to the detriment of studies or business.

The chairman thanked the press for its publicity in regard to St. Peter's team, and F. D. Craig responded on behalf of The Examiner.

The occasion was most enjoyable and a fitting finish to a successful season.

RUMOR HINCHLIFFE'S PLANE FOUND DENIED

OPPOSE SOVIET PROPOSALS FOR DISARMAMENT

Twenty-two countries Represented on Preparatory Committee Against Plan.

GIBSON TAKES FLOOR.

Maxim Litvinoff To Speak Again To-day in Favor of Scheme.

GENEVA, March 22 (Associated Press).—Twenty-two of the 25 countries represented on the preparatory committee for a disarmament conference are lined up against the Soviet plan for immediate complete disarmament.

Hugh S. Gibson, United States; Calixto Whitmarsh, Cuba; Baron Rollin Jacquemyne, Belgium; Jonkheer Rutgers, Holland; E. Heening, Sweden; M. Sokal, Poland, and M. Markovitch, Jugo-Slavia, added their criticisms to those of Lord Cushenden Tuesday, making the Russian defeat overwhelming.

Notwithstanding this, Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian vice-commissar of foreign affairs, and head of the Soviet delegation, will speak again today in favor of his plan, after which he may withdraw if the plan is either discarded or referred to the various governments by the delegates for instructions.

Answer to Bid.

Ambassador Gibson surprised everybody by taking the floor yesterday. It had become generally understood that the United States would not reply to the bid contained in M. Litvinoff's speech Monday for United States support for the Soviet project. All attention was centered on him as he began with a direct answer to the Soviet in these words. In the opinion of the delegations, consistency, sincerity and logic should impel a country which had proposed a multilateral pact against war to support the proposals now before us for im-

W. BREYFOGLE IS CLASS POET

Elected To Office In Senior Class at Dartmouth University.

A LEADING STUDENT.

HANOVER, N.H., March 22 (Special to The Examiner).—Dartmouth College displayed unusual interest in the election of officers for the class of 1928, which was held during the afternoon and evening of yesterday; the results being released this noon.

John M. McAvoy, of Phoenixville, Penn., was chosen as president of the class. Prominent among the other class officers elected was William A. Breyfogle of Peterborough, Ontario, who was chosen class poet. The election of both McAvoy and Breyfogle, who are two of the most prominent and poplar members of the Senior Class at Dartmouth, was made unanimous.

The Ontario student, who has been very active in academic affairs, also assumed a leading part in having the resolution advocating that all seniors in good scholastic standing be allowed to cut classes at will following the Easter recess, presented to the administration officers of the college.

THE WEATHER

The temperature last night got down to the freezing point, but no lower. Yesterday it rose to 39 degrees. Our general thaw has yet to come, but it can not be much longer delayed. A general break-up is due any day now. I was told by a town official yesterday that some of the streets were swept and scraped on March 17th last year. Yesterday I mentioned a gentleman saying he had seen several orioles and black birds yesterday morning. I have been informed by others that it must have been a case of mistaken identity, and that the oriole is one of the last birds to arrive. However the first-named gentleman reiterates he was not mistaken. We will let it go at that. A resident of the south end tells me he saw a swan heading towards the north this morning, his head and long neck peering downward as he passed over the city.—W. P.

His Excellency addressed the inaugural banquet held here recently in connection with the campaign for new members to be held on League of Nations day, April 17. Yesterday the officials of the society were gratified with the request of His Excellency to be the first of the new "hundred thousand."

OLIVER WHITE RECEIVES GIFT

LEAVING FOR ENGLAND.

The 21st Battalion Club together with ex-members of other units, met in the Sergeants' Mess at the Armories last evening to bid "bon voyage" to Oliver White, who leaves on Saturday to take up his abode in England.

Vice-President George Melton said they met that evening to say farewell —or rather au revoir—to their friend and comrade, Olly White. If it had not been for Comrade White, the 21st Battalion Club would not have got off to a flying start in 1919, since when, through his enthusiasm, it has become the most successful Battalion Club in Eastern Ontario. On behalf of the club and of his many soldier friends assembled, he asked their dear old comrade to accept a very small token of their great esteem.

Fred Hart spoke in felicitous terms of his association with Mr. White in the many enterprises which the club had organized, and mentioned that of the nine annual re-union banquets Mr. White had attended all but one.

Bobby Muir said that he felt that something was going out of his life when he thought of the departure of his old comrade. His one hope was that it might not be long before Mr. White would again be with them—if only for a holiday.

Sid Whatley, in a moving speech, recalled that Oliver White was a charter member of tthe original Returned Soldiers' Club, which eventually blossomed into the Peterborough Branch of the G.W.V.A. He was their first secretary-treasurer, and had always proved to be a true friend and comrade to his fellow ex-service men. Mr. Whatley wished Mr. White health, wealth, and prosperity upon his return to the Motherland.

The recipient, in rising to reply, was accorded musical honors. He said he could not express half what he would like. He never dreamt that his old comrades thought enough of his poor effort to give him such a useful and costly present. From the bottom of his heart he thanked them, and he hoped that each and every one would, if they were ever in the Old Land, call and visit him, for he would assure them a real welcome.

The remainder of the evening was given to harmony, every man present being called upon for a song or as an alternative to tell a yarn.

Midnight arrived all too quickly, and an enjoyable evening closed with all joining hands and singing "Auld Lang Syne."

ENGINEERS HEAR ABOUT BIG BRIDGE

P. L. Pratley, M.E.I.C., of Montreal, Will Be Speaker To-night.

The usual fortnightly meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada will be held in the Chamber of Commerce of 8.15 p.m., on Thursday, March 22.

The speaker will be P. L. Pratley, M.E.I.C., of the firm of Monsarrat and Pratley, consulting engineers, Montreal, designers of the Montreal Harbor bridge. Mr. Pratley visited Peterborough just two years ago, giving at that time an address on the substructure of the bridge. The title of his address on Thursday evening is "Progress with the Montreal Harbor Bridge," and will deal with the completion of the substructure, and the beginning of the steel work. The meeting should be a most interesting one and all members and friends are urged to attend.

ANGLERS MEET TO CONSIDER SAVING FISH

Many Tourist Centres Represented at Meeting in Toronto To-day.

SEASON TOO LONG.

Spokesman Says They Will Ask For Restocking and More Rangers.

TORONTO, March 22. Canadian Press. — Not merely sport, but the second greatest industry of the province, was the paramount interest of the anglers of Ontario, who met here to-day for the protection of the game fish of the country. Over a dozen important tourist centres of the province were represented.

"Matters that seem to us to need investigation," said W. George, Orillia, as spokesman "are duration of the season, which is far too long now, the stocking of lakes, the establishment of bounds and the putting on the job of a proper number of rangers who are properly qualified to do the work intelligently."

"We think there is not enough being done by the government and what is done is not the most advisable," he added, suggesting that a commission of investigation might be sought.

Deer Season Discussed.

TORONTO, March 22. — Canadian Press. — Deer hunting and the deer season were discussed by the Ontario legislature's fish and game committee to-dav when a considerable difference of opinion developed over the period of the season in different parts of the province.

A special committee was appointed to decide on dates and report back to the main committee. No action was taken on the suggestion that the use of dogs in deer hunting be forbidden, and it was considered that the prohibition of the shooting of fawns and does was unworkable, though hunters will be asked to spare these wherever possible.

McDONALD TAKEN TO VALLEYFIELD

Will Be Hanged Sometime Tomorrow Morning—Appeal Considered.

VALLEYFIELD, Que., March 22 (Canadian Press). — George McDonald was in the death cell of the local jail here to-day awaiting execution some time between midnight and eight o'clock to-morrow morning for the murder of Adelard Bouchard, a Lachine taxi driver, last summer. The doomed man was brought here by a circuitous route and was ushered into the prison secretly, attracting practically no attention. He was accompanied by six armed guards.

Everything is in readiness for the execution. Executioner Ellis, with his assistant, arrived here to-day, and will inspect the scaffold.

McDonald did not see his wife, Doris, before leaving Montreal. Mrs. McDonald will remain in Montreal Women's Jail for some days before being transferred to Portsmouth Perlitentiary to serve the life imprisonment sentence which has been given her by the Dominion Cabinet in place of the death verdict passed by the trial judge at Valleyfield last December.

Last minute efforts tending towards a stay of the execution of George McDonald may be made during today by his counsel, J. Legault, K.C. Mr. Legault said he was considering the matter and would decide within a few hours whether or not he would make an appeal.

Before the cell which holds their son, John McDonald, of Sydney, N.S., and his wife, of Portland, Maine, came together today after an estrangement of many years. Their daughter, also of Portland, joined in the pathetic reunion.

The hour of execution is not yet definitely determined but the coroner has been instructed to arrange for an inquest tentatively at eight tomorrow morning.

On his last day on earth, barring a stay of execution, George McDonald is in good health and this morning joked with his guards. He was more composed than his parents at the farewell meeting.

DESTROYER HITS SUB.

Periscopes of British Under Sea Vessel Damaged in Crash.

LONDON, March 22. Canadian Press. — The British submarine R-4 and the Destroyer Thruster were in collision off Portland this afternoon. In announcing the news of the collision the admiralty stated that the damage appeared confined to both periscopes and one periscope standard of the submarine.

Jail Break Avoided In Sing Sing Fire; Inmates Hurt As Blaze Makes 125 Jobless

OSSINING, N.Y., March 22.—Fire which started in the Sing Sing prison mattress shop at noon yesterday destroyed $75,000 worth of property, played havoc with prison routine for an hour and exposed this community to the possible danger of a jail break, which did not occur Three prisoners were hurt fighting the flames.

The 1,650 inmates, under surveillance of extra guards, either helped the Ossining firemen put the fire out or remained docile during the sudden confusion, when thick smoke and the prison gates invitingly open for the fire apparatus seemed to offer chances for escape. The principal effect of the stubborn fire, aside from the damage, was to render more acute than ever the unemployment situation at the prison. It threw 125 convicts out of work.

The building which burned was two storeys high, 175 feet by 65 feet, one of the older prison edifices. Its second floor contained the mattress shop, where the fire started, and the paint shop, both packed with inflammable material. On the ground floor were the prison tin shop, blacksmith shop and machine shop. Neighboring structures which caught fire but were saved were the shoe shop and barber shop. The fire's cause is as yet unknown, and Warden Lawes is investigating.

A guard discovered smoke issuing from the roof about noon, when there were few men at work within. Prisoners and guards were already running from the place and gave the alarm.

The prison fire department, composed of keepers and convicts in charge of Keeper Frank McLaughlin, former Ossining Fire Chief, started work. Warden Lawes gave orders for keepers to bring 200 trusties back from outside the prison walls. He summoned all guards off duty and commanded all prisoners except the fire fighters to their cell blocks. From several of these the convicts could watch the fire.

Soon the prison firemen saw they needed help and called the Ossining fire department. Extra keepers took stations at the prison gates and the fire companies drove through. They stretched hose to all prison hydrants and through the iron fence to the Hudson River. Firemen soaked the neighboring buildings and then concentrated on the flaming structure. The burning mattress hair gave forth dense smoke, but no prisoners, as far as could be learned took advantage of the screen.

STUDENTS' STRIKE SPREADS TO OTHER QUEEN'S FACULTIES

Arts and Science Students Also Aroused Over the Suspensions.

DANCE WAS CAUSE.

Drinking Bout Also Reported—Senate Stands Firm On Punishment.

KINGSTON, Ont., March 22 (Canadian Press).—At a huge mass meeting of all the students of Queen's University at noon to-day, it was decided to go on strike immediately because of the suspension of three students who attended a dance on the night of the college frolic, and it was also decided that the students will stay out until they have been given a definite guarantee by the Senate of the University that they will be granted the attendance they will lose as a result of being out. The meeting also passed a resolution stating that they will enforce the rule regarding students not in favor of the resolution attending classes. The resolution came from the Arts, Science and Medical faculties in favor of the strike, while the girl students decided against striking, though when the motion was taken almost half of them voted in favor of a strike.

The situation was by far the most serious that has ever occurred at Queen's, and was attributed by speakers at a mass meeting to the inefficiency of the student government at the university. At the same time the meeting passed a resolution appointing the presidents of the faculties and the president of the Alma Mater Society to meet the Senate of the University with a view to having the matter settled. Notification was received from the Senate that it would be impossible to deal with the matter until March 29.

Excitement Widespread

The entire University is seething with excitement, which is reflected to some extent throughout the city. Another aspect enters into the affair with the Arts and Science men aroused over suspension of two other students because of alleged participation in a drinking bout in their boarding house.

The students in general were up in arms after the incident of suspensions over a dance. This dance had been arranged by three senior Medical students to follow the college frolic, less than two weeks ago. At seven in the evening they were notified by the Senate that they must not hold the dance, and accordingly it was turned over to a private individual. Later the Senate suspended three students who attended the dance.

The students, who held a mass meeting to-day, placed a large poster labelled their "Bill of Rights," calling for the resignation of certain members of the Senate, and cancellation of its decisions regarding suspensions, as well as demanding allowance for attendance at classes during the period of the strike. This poster was torn down, but the students busied themselves making others, it was understood.

Senate Stands Firm

"The Senate is unanimous in its decision to take a firm stand in the matter," said Principal Taylor today. "Apparently the whole issue of student government will have to come to a showdown.

"Our position is this: We don't force students to come here to Queen's, but if they do they must be prepared to respect the traditions and regulations of the University."

Oil Committee May Go to Three Rivers

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Canadian Press. — A sub-committee of the Senate Teapot Dome Committee may be sent to Three Rivers, N. M., in an effort to obtain the full testimony of Albert B. Fall about the naval oil leases.

This matter was considered by the entire committee yesterday afternoon after information had been received from newspaper sources that Fall had stated he was ready to "tell" since his physicians had informed him he had only a few months more to live.

The committee finally decided to send Fall a telegram saying that a sub-committee would be sent to Three Rivers if he was ready to testify in full.

Oxford Dictionary Bought For Library

It will be of interest to the citizens of Peterborough, and more especially to teachers and students to learn that the Public Library has recently purchased a copy of the Oxford Dictionary, which is declared to be, without a doubt, the greatest dictionary ever published in any language. When it is stated that it took seventy years to compile, an idea is gained of the vast study and the erudition brought to bear in carrying out the achievement. The Public Library in purchasing this dictionary has made a very helpful addition to its stock.

NAVY INCIDENT HAS HUMILIATED BRITISH SEAMEN

Much Publicity Attends the Royal Oak Naval Affairs.

CARTOONISTS LAUNCH JIBES

Kenworthy Demands Fullest Publicity Be Given Court Martial Proceedings.

LONDON, Mar. 22. — The Royal Oak scandal is still causing much public agitation, and Commander Kenworthy, Laborite, is demanding that the fullest publicity be given to the court martial proceedings at Gibraltar, involving Rear Admiral Bernard St. Collard, Captain K. G. D. Dewar and Commander H. M. Daniel.

It is understood that the charges against Commander Daniel and Captain K. G. D. Dewar, who will be tried separately, will be based on regulations forbidding the passing of comment or criticism on the conduct of superiors, as may bring such officers into contempt. Meanwhile Rear Admiral William M. Kerr has been appointed to succeed Collard.

Cartoonists Active.

A newspaper cartoonist is emphasizing the comic side of the affair. The idea of a dance with a jazz band in attendance on board a British battleship as a prelude to the suspension of three senior officers and hauling down of a rear admiral's flag during naval manoeuvres, is not only humiliating to the navy, but has given newspaper cartoonists the opportunity to gibe at the admiralty.

One cartoon depicts fully dressed naval officers on board a battleship playing jazz instruments, while three other officers go through the weird contortions of the charleston. The cartoon is entitled Syncopated Naval Discipline on the Royal Oak.

The course was three and a half miles over ordinary hunting country. Col. Payton, on Hallington, won.

Gold Shipment Sent To Europe

NEW YORK, March 22.—Canadian Press. — Europe drained $3,000,000 from the American gold reservoir yesterday. The first consignment of the metal to England this year was made by the International Acceptance Bank in shipping $1,000,000 to London on the Aquitania. The American Exchange-Irving Trust Company sent $2,000,000 to Hamburg.

Although the purpose of the shipment to England was not revealed, with the pound sterling at $4.85¼, close to the year's high level, it was believed in some quarters to be an exchange operation. At this price the rate was higher than it was on December 7th last year, when the first gold since 1924 went to the London market.

Francis Brown, the architect, had on request, sent some outlines of the church, which were inspected by the committee. They decided to visit the Toronto church in a body on March 29. The committee feel that there is sufficient money in sight to justify beginning to build in the early spring.

JOKER BLAMED FOR REPORTS ABOUT WRECK

THREW STATE INTO FLURRY.

C.R.F.A. Plane Unable To Find Any Trace of Wreckage Around White Cap Mountain.

GREENVILLE, Me., March 22 (A.P.).—The possibility that the monoplane Endeavor, in which Captain Walter Hinchliffe and the Hon. Elsie Mackay set out from England last Tuesday for a trans-Atlantic flight, might have been in the Moosehead Lake region apparently was dissipated by yesterday's developments here.

The "joking" report of a passenger on the morning train to Bangor that a wrecked plane and two bodies had been found on White Cap Mountain, 25 miles from here, caused insistent rumors that the bodies of the missing English fliers had been found.

John W. Haines, Great Northern Paper Company detective, traced the source of the reports to the passenger, who had intended the remark as a joke, he said. The rumors galvanized Northern Maine into a furore of excitement that rapidly seeped to other sections of the state.

A Canadian Royal Air Force plane, piloted by Captain Charles Bath, sent from Ottawa to investigate reports of a plane heard in this vicinity last Thursday, landed on Moosehead Lake late yesterday afternoon on the heels of the rumored finding of the bodies.

The flier was accompanied by Mechanic Anderson.

Captain Bath covered the 85 miles to Greenville from Megantic, Que., where he had laid over for two days for favorable weather, in 54 minutes. He reported seeing no wreckage during the trip.

Investigate 20-Mile Area

Shortly after his arrival, the Canadian flier hopped off again in company with Detective Haines to cover the 20-mile region between Greenville and Kokadjo, where the motor of an aeroplane was reported to have been heard Thursday morning.

The Canadian plane returned after slightly less than an hour's search of the entire territory. Three occupants sighted nothing resembling a wrecked plane, they reported. Haines stated that the visibility was good and that the topography around White Cap Mountain stood out in clear detail. They could have spotted any unusual feature on the ground, he declared.

The plane, equipped with skis, made a perfect landing on the lake here on a four-inch cushion of snow.

Captain Bath stated he would remain in Greenville overnight and return to Ottawa this morning.

May Have Been Tractor

Thorough investigation by the detective into the report that two Kokadjo residents had heard a plane revealed that a heavy tractor, owned by the Great Northern Paper Company, was in the habit of making a 54-mile trip from Cooper Brook to Greenville every night. The trip consumes all night, and on the morning in question, it developed that the tractor had reached Kokadjo about one hour later than usual. Further, Haine's questioning unfolded that the governor on the tractor's motor had become broken that night, thereby speeding up the engine so that its exhaust could have easily been mistaken for that of an aeroplane.

YOUNG PEOPLE HEAR ABOUT OLD RAILWAY

F. H. Dobbin Gives Address To St. Andrew's Y.P.S.

"The Wrecking of the Old Cobourg Railroad," was the subject of a very interesting and somewhat humorous address given by Frank Dobbin at the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Church.

Under the leadership of Victor Barry's group, the following program was well rendered, each number receiving a hearty encore.

Piano Solo, Miss Mae Pollock; Harmonica and Guitar Selection—Misses Crantham and Naish. Banjo Solo, Frank Clarke.

St. Andrew's Young People have accepted the invitation of All Saints' A.Y.P.A. to meet with them on Monday, March 26.

At the following meeting there will be a missionary program, under the leadership of Miss Jean Anderson's group. The meeting will be held on Monday, April 2.

BYRD AIDES TO TEST NEW FORD PLANE

Bennett and Balchen To Make Flight In All Metal Monoplane.

TRIAL ON SKIS PLANNED.

Experiments Indicate Fokker Will Not Be Taken On Polar Hop.

NEW YORK, March 22. —Another long cross country flight in the Bellanca plane, which will be one of three machines taken by Commander Richard E. Byrd on his South Pole expedition, was made on Tuesday. After completing tests last week in Canada with the plane, Floyd Bennett and Bernt Balchen, who will be two of Commander Byrd's pilots on his southern trip, flew the Bellanca to Detroit to the Ford Airport. There they will test a new all-metal three-motor Ford-Stout monoplane which has been built for Commander Byrd.

The trip to test this plane made it seem more likely that Commander Byrd will take a Ford with him instead of a Fokker, which he used on his North Pole flight and on his trans-Atlantic flight. Both the pilots at Detroit are skilled test pilots. Bennett was with Commander Byrd on the North Pole flight and will be second in command of the expedition and Balchen was a pilot on the trip of the America across the Atlantic, and has been pilot for the Atlantic Aircraft Corporation since Commander Byrd brought him to this country from Spitzbergen.

Balchen has since then taken out his citizenship papers. He is an able pilot and navigator, as well as mechanic and all around handy man on any expedition in cold climates.

May Not Take a Fokker.

When Commander Byrd first planned his South Pole trip he intended to take a Fokker with him, but certain difficulties made this seem inadvisable, and it is believed now that he intends to use a Ford. Edsel Ford was one of Commander Byrd's chief backers on his North Pole flight, and has helped him in many ways in preparing for the South Pole expedition, one of the most difficult ever undertaken.

It is not expected that Commander Byrd will take two three-motor planes with him to the Antarctic, as his plans ave called for one tree-motored ship and two single-motored. If he takes the Ford with him, he will undoubtedly leave the Fokker behind.

One of the great advantages of the Ford plane is that the wing may be disassembled and packed away more easily than the Fokker wing, which is of wood and in one piece. Getting

CAVAN COUNCIL RECEIVES $4,804

Amount of Subsidy Paid By Highways Department For Road Work.

MILLBROOK, March 22.— Communications were received from various sources at a recent meeting of the Cavan Council, one being from the accountant of the Department of Highways enclosing a cheque for $4,804.79, the amount of subsidy paid to Cavan for work done on the roads in 1927. One from the counties' treasurer notified the council that a patient had been admitted to the Sick Children's Hospital from Cavan Township, and that the township would be responsible for half of the fees. Hubert Gardiner asked for further grant of 10 cents a rod for the wire fence erected by Mr. Fallis on the Emily boundary.

C. Richards was awarded the printing contract for 1928 for the sum of $200. The clerk was instructed to purchase one office and four other chairs for the township office. A by-law was passed to appoint fence viewers and pound keepers for the ensuing year.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid: Millbrook Telephone Co., $2.89; James Douglas, $90; J. N. McGill, $9.75; W. Widdis, $11.75; J. Blodgett, $6.82; N. A. Fallis, $8.13; N. Ward, $9.88; L. H. Gibson, $105.85; Richards & Richards, $54.10; H. Kincaide, $12; J. V. Sisson, $40; G. H. Hooton, $3; J. N. McGill, $37.50; miscellaneous, $54.

Representatives from the Adams and Sawyer-Massey Companies waited on the council and it was decided to purchase a Sawyer-Massey leaning wheel grader with engine hitch.

Voice of the People

A WONDERFUL WORK.

To the Editor of The Examiner.
Sir:

The churches are at last learning to get to the unfortunate. What is known as the Yonge Street Mission, 381 Yonge street, Toronto, feeds as many as 500 men a day sometimes. The good being done there is colossal. There is no blow about it and no one is making a living out of it! It is all voluntary and every cent subscribed by the public goes for the direct benefit of the poor. Nor are there any frills like bands and concerts which cost money but furnish more entertainment for the players than for the poor. But the important thing about it is that with a suitable hymn or so and a word or two of comfort hundreds of hungry men get a good meal with attendants from the various churches glad to do the work and to be active in the work of the Lord without first taking a share for their own living expenses. The day of making relief an occasion of expensive shows and advertising is at and end there and ought to be elsewhere. People who are in real earnest do not do that kind of thing.

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

SCHOOL CONCERT IS GREAT SUCCESS

Pupils of Omemee High School Present Fine Program.

OMEMEE, March 22.—The pupils of the Omemee High School delighted a large audience in Coronation Hall on Friday evening where they presented an excellent program. By the aid of a lantern, the various numbers were announced.

Miss Ross, the energetic principal, in a few opening remarks expressed the appreciation of the teachers and pupils for the interest shown in the school, after which the curtain was raised and the voices of between twenty and thirty scholars, seated around a campfire, peeled out in old familiar choruses such as "Just a Song at Twilight", "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia", and "Glory, Glory to Omemee." The next item was entitled "Ha! Ha! The Awkward Squad" in which a number of raw recruits caused much merriment in misunderstanding orders given by the officer. But, in the next scene, after ten days' training, marked improvement was noticed in discipline and quick action.

The Harmonica Band, composed of Ross Widdis, Morgan Rowland, Gordon Marshall, Erroll Windrim, Edward Lowes and Arthur Williamson, received much applause.

Lockinvar, a pantomime, was cleverly given, Miss Eileen Rutherford took the part of Lockinvar, Miss Christina Connell, the bride, and Miss Lorraine Best, the groom. A piano solo by Miss Lenore Jamieson was well received.

The dumbell drill, given by nine boys with music supplied by Morgan Rowland, on the mouth organ, showed much careful training. At this time, Rev. E. W. Rowland, presented the Deyell gold medal to Audrey Weir, for having secured the highest marks of any candidate in Victoria County at the Entrance Examinations last June. Mr. Rowland, in making the presentation, spoke of the honor Audrey has brought to her school, to her village, and also to her parents, Rev. A. T. and Mrs. Weir.

"Golden Slippers", the popular catchy chorus, proved a hit with the audience, after which Errol Wilson gave a humorous reading entitled "Lavinsky at the Wedding." A short skit, "Pat's matrimonial venture", with Eleanor Sherin, Eileen Rutherford, and Ross Widdis, representing the different characters and displayed much Irish wit and humor. This was followed by the "Irish Jig" by several girls in costume, and a duet entitled "Irish Eyes" by Ethel Stephenson and Eleanor Sherin.

Probably the best number on the program was the "Trail Scene" in "The Merchant of Venice" which was given by James Mackey, Floyd Parsons, Morgan Rowland, George Dickson, Edward Lowes, Ethel Stephenson and Jane Earle, each of whom was a star in his part. To James Mackey, as Shylock, the Jew, goes special praise, as kept all eyes upon him as he sharpened his knife in anticipation of the pound of flesh to be taken from Antonia's breast if the bond was not fulfilled. Before the presentation of this scene, Gordon Marshal gave a splendid synopsis of the play leading up to the trial.

A pretty folk dance followed, and the audience was attracted to Edward Lowes as "Bluestone the Magician." A short skit in which the Merchant of Venice of today was depicted was cleverly acted by several of the boys and girls. The Harmonica Band gave a selection after which a girls' drill was splendidly performed to the music of "Marching Through Georgia" played by Floyd Parsons. As a closing number, "The Maple Leaf Forever", was sung in chorus while the Union Jack was displayed and guarded with crossed swords. The proceeds amounted to about one hundred and twelve dollars.

DOES NOT WANT TO SEE HUSBAND

Breach Opened Between Doris McDonald and Husband in Past Few Weeks.

CITIZENS RESENTFUL.

MONTREAL, Que., March 22 (Canadian Press).—Doris McDonald does not want to see her husband, George, before he dies on the Valleyfield scaffold, Friday. A breach between husband and wife, although they were in widely separated jails, opened in the past few weeks.

The trouble between the pair began during the weeks following the trial, and Doris ceased to write to George after her alleged "confession" from Denver. She also appeared to be annoyed when McDonald gave a statement confessing to the murder, and when notified of the communtation of her own sentence, told her attendants she felt sorry for him, but she never wanted to see him again.

Previous to this time she had repeatedly told the nuns of the Good Shepherd that she would rather die than live without her husband. Officials presume that Doris thought that her confession would save her husband and that she felt grieved at not being able to make this sacrifice. It is thought that she relied on her sex to save her from the gallows.

Citizens Resentful

MONTREAL, Que., March 22 (Canadian Press).—Citizens of Lachine, the home of Adelard Bouchard, who was murdered last July, and for which crime George McDonald is to hang at Valleyfield, Friday, are somewhat resentful because Doris McDonald, George's wife, is not going to hang with her husband. Doris yesterday had her death sentence communted to one of life imprisonment. Opinion, expressed in several interviews there yesterday, is that the law should have been allowed to take its course and there is a feeling that Doris should pay the supreme penalty alongside her husband at the Valleyfield jail Friday morning.

Family Affected

The immediate members of the Bouchard family seemed most affected. "Speak to Uncle Joe, he knows," said young Arthur Bouchard, son of the murdered taxi driver, at his late father's garage, where he is, in spite of his years, bravely carrying on as the family bread-winner. Mrs. Bouchard was apparently so affected by the news of Doris' reprieve, that she refused to be interviewed.

"Uncle Joe," otherwise known as Josephat Dubois, brother-in-law of the murdered man, termed the commutation granted to Doris as "the rankest injustice."

WARSAW SCHOLARS HONOR ST. PATRICK

Senior Room Pupils Entertain Juniors at Concert.

WARSAW, March 22.—The pupils of Warsaw School observed St. Patrick's day on Friday afternoon. The room was prettily decorated with shamrocks and other reminders of the Emerald Isle.

The junior room pupils were guests, while the boys of the senior room gave the following program: duet by Clarence Payne and Sidney McCauley; a violin trio by Ivan Clements, Sidney McCauley and Clarence Payne. A debate, "Resolved that the torrid zone offers greater advantages to man than the temperate", proved a keen contest. Clarence Payne and Sidney McCauley upheld the affirmative and Ivan Clements and Clarence Tedford were on the negative. After commenting briefly, Miss Young awarded the decision to the negative.

The boys of the senior room sang, "Tipperary" after which there were several Irish readings. Rev. H. B. Herrington briefly addressed the pupils. William Myles acted as chairman and in his opening remarks, showed how St. Patrick taught the doctrine of the Trinity by the shamrock.

A dainty lunch of candy, cake and cocoa was served by the girls of the senior room.

St. Patrick's Social.

Warsaw Town Hall was very prettily decorated with shamrocks, harps and other Irish emblems, for the entertainment given by the Ladies' Guild of St Mark's Church. A little Irish comedy "Thirty Minutes For Refreshments" was the first number on the program, which continued with a solo by Mrs. Vivian Jackson, duets by Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Payne and Eileen and W. Myles. Irish selections by William Aiken on the violin, orchestra selection, and community singing was much enjoyed.

Dr. Munro acted as chairman in the absence of Rev. Mr. Fenton. Lunch was served at the conclusion of the program, which was followed by dancing.

No preaching service was held in the Presbyterian or Anglican Church on Sunday.

At the evening service in the United Church, Rev. H. B. Herrington, gave a history of the missionary work on Trinidad, and also a history of the Island. It is not sixty years since a Presbyterian missionary from Nova Scotia went to Trinidad.

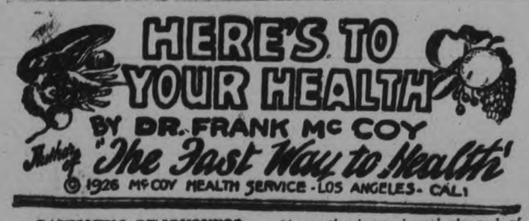
Make You Fit—Keep You Fit



BANISHING BILIOUSNESS

One who says he is "troubled with the blues, has frequent headaches, enervation, constipation, and digestive disorders" describes a general case of autointoxication, often designated as "biliousness."

Physicians are loathe to use the word "biliousness" and some medical dictionaries do not even contain a mention of it. This is because there is a growing tendency among physicians to be more specific in their diagnoses.

What the layman knows as biliousness will be found by the diagnostician to come from gallstones, catarrh of the bile duct, liver abscesses, gall bladder adhesions, cirrhosis or cancer of the liver, or simply intestinal indigestion. However, as the songster says, "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet," and the sick man is not as much concerned with names as with a cure.

It happens that most cases of "biliousness" can be cured by the removal of the fundamental causes which produce excess intestinal putrefaction and fermentation.

The bile is composed of waste tissues and toxins absorbed from the alimentary canal. When an extra large amount is made it simply shows that there has been too much tissue degeneration, or that the intestines have been overloaded with excesses of certain kinds of food or inharmonious food conglomerations.

Inflammation of the gall bladder and other liver disorders come from a like cause.

The essential thing to do is to stop creating an excess of bile. This can be done by thoroughly cleansing the intestines and keeping them clean.

A Cleansing Diet.

Bilious patients will often experience a remarkable change for the better by going on a diet of only green vegetables. This diet should exclude meat, eggs, starches and sugars. It is best to even eliminate milk at first. It is all right to use some of the acid or subacid fruits along with the non-starchy vegetable diet. Two or three meals a day ssould be used, and all vegetables are permitted except potatoes and Hubbard squash.

To get the quickest results it is best to take one or two enemas a day to keep the lower bowel cleaned of fecal matter which often contains bacteria which cause fermentation and which should be washed out as they are not needed on this non-starchy diet. It is perfectly safe to use as large an amount as desired of these vegetables. This will prevent a desire for other food for which the patient may become "lonesome" unless well filled with the greens.

If two or three weeks on this diet does not bring about a great improvement, and the elimination of most of the bilious symptoms, it may be necessary for the patient to take a fast on fruit juices for a week or two. This treatment is advisable if a diagnosis has proven the presence of gall stones, or if there is gall bladder catarrh or jaundice. During the fast, vast quantities of bile will be eliminated by the liver, and as no intestinal putrefaction is taking place, the amount the liver secretes will be gradually reduced. After a carefully planned diet is resumed, the liver will go on doing its normal work and biliousness will not again manifest its symptoms except after a series of repeated abuses, such as those which were formerly responsible for other bilious attacks.

Keep your intestines clean, and you need never fear that your liver will become sluggish or "mulish."

Questions and Answers.

Question Worried writes "I had an inward goitre about ten months ago and had two operations which were successful but left my eyes very bulgy. Will you kindly tell me if my eyes will ever become normal, or what can be done to make them as they were before?"

Answer If the operations were really successful your eyes should gradually become less bulgy. The same diet treatment which you could have taken to cure your goitre will also be partially effective now. If you did not see the articles which appeared last month on exophthalmic goitre I will be glad to send them to you.

Question M. L. writes "In your articles on food you never mention anything to drink at meals—tea, coffee or milk. Should we not use any?"

Answer The best drink with meals is water, and not too much of that.

Question Edward writes "I am taking a physical examination within six months to become an aviator. Before doing so I would like to know if there is anything possible that can be done to strengthen the powers that control one's equilibrium?"

Answer Some people are born with an ability to whirl about for minutes at a time without becoming dizzy, but the balancing fluid in the ears is proportioned differently in different individuals and there are many in perfect health who become dizzy or even seasick from any slight whirling movement. I do not know of anything that will correct this condition.

Mine Shares Strong In Heavy Trading

TORONTO, March 22. Canadian Press. — Prices were stronger on the Standard mining exchange to-day, with Pioneer, Bidgood, Malartic and McDougall in the spotlight. Pioneer climbed to 66 in heavy trading just before the noon close. Bidgood reached the dollar mark, then steadied down around 93, while Crown Reserve sold around 55. Kirkland Lake and Wright Hargreaves were firmer at 193 and 5.00. Malartic crossed 1.20 mark and McDougall sold around 62. The firmer issues also included Teck Hughes at 857 Pend Oreille at 17.20, and Noranda at 18.50. Some weak spots crept into the list, notably Sherritt at 724 and Sudbury Basin at 10.35, the latter reporting a half dollar loss.

Liverpool Decline Influences Wheat

CHICAGO March 22 (Canadian Press).—Influenced by lower quotations at Liverpool and by favorable weather for the new domestic crop, wheat values here averaged lower today in the early dealings. Liverpool advices said Argentine wheat shipments are expected to be large this week. Opening at 5-8 cent decline to 3-8 cent advance, Chicago wheat later showed losses all around. Corn, oats, and provisions were likewise easier, corn starting 1-8 to 3-4 down and afterward sagging a little more.

Opening prices were: Wheat, March 141 3-8, May 139½; corn, March 99, May 101 5-8; oats, March 57 7-8, May 57 5-8.

Toronto Prices Firm; Walkers and Nickel Lead

TORONTO, Mar. 2. — (Canadian Press.)—Stocks generally held firm on the Toronto stock exchange to-day, with Hiram Walkers and International Nickel holding the market leadership. Walkers gained another point at 64, but Nickel improved only fractionally at 96¼. The firmer issues included British American Oil at 37¾, Great West Saddlery at 26, McColl at 35½, and Canadan Malting at 36½ in the unlisted section. MacKay common in the regular list reacted three points at 122. Western Canada Flour at 41 and Winnipeg Electric at 126 were both a point better.

Violent Downward Move Begins In Wall Street

NEW YORK March 22. Canadian Press.—The violent upward movement of stock prices which has been under way almost uninterruptedly for two weeks came to a sudden halt in the middle of to-day's stock market when a general selling movement swept through the list. Early gains of $1 to $10 a share were substantially reduced or wiped out and in many instances converted into losses several of which ranged from 5 to 12 points. The reaction was not associated with anything in the day's news.

Trading was conducted at a furious pace with every indication that the day's sales would cross the 4,000,000 mark for the first time in the history of the exchange.

Radio plunged from 158¼ to 146. General Motors fell from 181¾ to 177 1-8, General Electric from 148 to 145; United States Steel common from 152 to 149¼; Dupont from 872 to 866; Collins and Aikman from 106 to 97. International match preferred from 116½ to 112¾, and Greene Can anea Copper from 128⅝ to 122¼.

TECO SPRING STYLE SHOW

"Never wear anything with a slouch. Hold your head high, smile, and you will get anything you want," said Madame Hale Miller, of Toronto, Style Exponent whose brilliant description of the season's modes held her audiences through the Spring Pageant of Fashions offered at the Teco Store at two and four o'clock yesterday afternoon, at half past ten o'clock and at half past two o'clock to-day.

A breezy, bright personality, a humorous, friendly manner of addressing her hearers, accompanied by a splendid display of lovely gowns, coats, hats and jewelry on professional mannequins from Toronto, made Madame Miller's talk intensely interesting. The showing included models at conservative prices, the frocks ticketed from $15 to $75, the hats from $5 to $20, and the dress coats from $29.50 to $175.00.

The discourse scintillated with sparkling bits of dressology. "If you don't look well in a pullover sweater, don't attempt to wear it simply because it happens to be in style. I can't wear a full skirt nor can I wear a pullover. But I can wear a cardigan. Don't buy it because it's in syle, but because it is becoming to you."

Ensemble costumes were much in evidence. "She bought the coat first and then got the frock to match," was the explanation for one harmonising outfit in soft marron glace brown.

"The feminine touch is the thing this year. These little hats that are pulled down and worn with one of the fascinating and alluring little nose nells, and jabots that appear everywhere, on blouse and on skirts. See the line at the back of this hat, with the brim going right around and hiding that ugly neck line.

"Coats with scarfs and little tucks on the sleeves, and little bows. Every girl has more than one bow this spring. She wears a tiny bow on her shoulder or at her waist line or on her blouse. And belts are a password. You find them everywhere—on sports and evening gowns."

"Capes are very fashionable," pointing out the interest in a cape coat of black kasha with a printed silk lining that matched exactly the frock worn inside.

"I like the way she wears her fur. Always wear a fur with an air. Don't wear it like this" (illustrating with the bunchy neckpiece and hunched-up shoulders often seen), "Wear it tight around your neck or back off the shoulders, whichever way becomes you best."

"Each one of you has a particular charm. Do you know what it is? If you have lovely blue eyes, wear blue to emphasize them. If you have lovely teeth—smile. If your hands are beautiful, show them. We should go through life trying to be as attractive as possible."

Two types of suits were then shown—the classique with its man-tailored touch and the fantasie, a navy with grey vestee and grey lining, and a black Balibunti hat.

"We are going to wear large hats later on, in Milan and mohair, with perhaps one big flower at the side. And those little bandeaux that are placed inside the crown are coming back again, after many years. And look at these scarfs with their huge polka dots. You can wear them over the shoulders or around your waist or tied about your wrist."

With a sand cape coat whose edge was done with brown embroidery was shown a dress of light cocoa color, with a variation in the cape style shown in three cascades depending from one shoulder. "Young girls can wear the full cape," said Madame Miller," but the matron should choose the half cape, with its slenderizing lines."

An odd treatment of monkey fur trimming was illustrated in a dress coat of black embroidered in silver and Angora, the scarf collar extending to a cape effect across the back and the fur used along the outer edges of the sleeves, in fringing style.

Point d'esprit, an old-time material coming back to favor, was received with acclaim in a black taffeta with skirt made of three tiers of the fluffy lace-like stuff. It had an inner slip much shorter than the ruffles, swathed hip lines, and long sleeves and pointed yoke of point d'esprit.

A French dress of printed silk in black and white had four little georgette collars and a gown christened "Flaming Youth" was in brilliant "English Red," with a variation in Indian print to the top of the skirt and the scarf worn over one shoulder. A little hat with it was also in the brilliant red.

"Wear shoes, gloves, stockings and bag to match," said Madame Miller. "If you are large in size, wear a small print. Leave the huge designs to the thin woman."

"There are four new colors this spring: the new English red, a vivid Japanese green, a creamy eggshell tint and Parma violet."

The negligees which were illustrated on the models were lovely examples, one in rose pink brocaded satin, with ruffles and edging of dark cream lace, another in a "Pullman negligee" style showing the vogue for printed materials.

A wonderful French evening wrap in a warm shade of light brown georgette had a fox collar that rose high behind the head in Queen Mary of Scots style, with sleeves stitched flatly half way down, then billowing out in bell effect, and ending in tiny cuffs.

Another evening wrap was developed in brocaded metallic cloth.

"Taffeta is the thing for spring," said the lady. "And if you have to choose between a color and black for the one evening frock you can afford, take the latter. Your friends will not comment on it when you wear it often."

A gorgeous evening frock of Pompadour taffeta that demonstrated the longer skirt length for after-daytime wear was worn by a youthful mannequin with slender figure. It was of flowered material, with panniers that ended in a scalloped hem of pale green. The bodice was tight-fitting and the whole gown gave the effect of a flower.

A debutante dress of pale pink taffeta had one shoulder band of white roses and was worn with pink pearls that hung down the back. Another black taffeta model had the popular uneven hemline formed by the end of the sash which had a huge chou of taffeta at the waist. This "robe de style," as it was called, was short and long in the back and the upper half of the bodice was formed by a deep yoke of cream lace.

A "petal" dress of pale ping georgette had a skirt composed of countless layers of the filmy stuff in varying shades of maize and green.

"Don't wear your hair the same way three hundred and sixty-five days of the year," was Madame Miller's parting admonition. "In Paris, for evening, they are wearing more hair. Some of them adopt the braid around the head, similar to a style we had years ago, and others do it with three little curls over each ear, or with curls on the top of the head, combed out."

DRESS PHILOSOPHY

"If you can afford only one pair of shoes, buy black. You may love grey or you may love beige—don't buy them. We love lots of things that don't harmonize with the rest of our costume."

"Ladies, do you know what style is. It is simplicity, plus suitability, plus a bit of swagger."

"Grey is a pretty woman's color. If you have a sallow complexion, you can't wear it."

"When you have been down town all day, dressed in black and you come home tired out, wash your face and put on pink or blue. You can rest in either of these colors. If you want excitement, wear red. If you want love, wear yellow. If you want life and love, wear flame. You have no idea what colors can do for you."

"Don't get your clock mixed up with your clothes. When you go down town in the morning, don't wear a velvet dress, or high-heeled shoes or brilliant jewellery."

"The way you carry your umbrella tells a lot about your married life. If you carry it this way (over the crook of the arm) you are quite satisfied with him. If you carry it uncertainly, you are not quite sure. If you carry it like this (a la Mrs. Jiggs) you are the boss, and if you carry it dingling by the handle, you don't care very much.

"Young women can wear rounded lines, older women can wear up and down lines, but sophisticated people go in for slanting lines."

Sage Tea Dandy to Darken Hair

By DOROTHY LANG

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. It costs only 75 cents. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-hair, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with you dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

THE CHURCHES

GOSPEL HALL.

Last night a fine audience heard A. N. O'Brien speak on Matt. 16, "Whom do men say that I am? Peter said thou are the Christ, the Son of the Living God." Mr. O'Brien said eternal destinies hang on how this question is answered. Peter's answer was a Divine answer 'Thou are the Christ' and Jesus said "On this rock I will build my church." The church is built on Christ and none are ever lost who are built into Christ. Strange how some pervert this Scripture to mean that Peter was the rock referred to, but this was impossible. Peter was only a man and the church was never built on such a poor foundation.

The Lord also said to Peter, "I give unto you the keys of the kingdom of heaven, and he used one key on the day of Pentecost when none but Jews were saved, but later He used the other key and the Gospel was preached to the Gentiles and many entered in and were eternally saved.

Mr. O'Brien's messages and illustrations are an inspiration, and arrangements have been made whereby Mr. O'Brien will remain over Sunday.

JOLLY JINGLES By Graham Hunter

WHERE WHITE MICA IS FOUND

Occurrences in Canada of white mica or muscovite, some few times, are known from Labrador in the east to British Columbia in the west! and Arctic expeditions have brought back good samples from Far North. Perhaps the most important white mica deposits are those of the Saguenay district, on the lower St. Lawrence, in the province of Quebec. Other deposits occur north of Buckingham, Que., and at several places in Ontario and British Columbia. Deposits of lepidolite or lithia mica are also found in Quebec and Manitoba.

"Saves the Clothes and Hands"

SAYS MRS. —— WELLER ST., PETERBORO.

"I've been using Rinso for several years now, and I wouldn't think of doing my housework without a package of it on hand. Doesn't it get clothes white? And so easily! It's wonderful in our water—why just soaking the wash in the safe Rinso suds overnight gets all the dirt out. There's no real rubbing to do and, of course, that saves the clothes—and hands! With Rinso, clothes don't need to be boiled—that saves on my gas bill, too. Rinso is also just as good for cleaning woodwork, tiles, sinks, etc. It's a real worksaver."
Mrs. ——, Weller St., Peterborough.

Yes! You can get whiter clothes in less time with less work

DOESN'T that sound welcome to you women who know what hard wash day work means? And Rinso does exactly what we say. Millions of women have proved it. They're using Rinso each wash day. And they are feeling better—feeling happier. Rinso saves them hours of hard work, yet they have the whitest clothes that ever gladdened a woman's eyes.

Rinso makes such rich, soapy suds that clothes are actually soaked clean. A little rub here and there perhaps, where the things are badly soiled—but that's all. No boiling—no other bar soap, chips or powder needed. Rinso does the work alone—and does it better—in hard or soft water. White clothes kept whiter. Coloured things kept brighter. Save your strength, your time, your clothes ..... Use Rinso.

THE MACHINERY IS WRONG.

Whatever may be the ultimate result of the inquiry into the mystery of the Ottawa election ballots, enough has already been disclosed to create a new demand for the removal of the electoral machinery from the realm of party politics.

That there has not been more abuse of the present system which vests the naming of the election officials in the party that happens to be in power speaks well for the probity and honesty of the majority of Canadians.

The method is obviously wrong; at its best it represents a bit of patronage that does not even benefit those who bestow it, inasmuch as it is usually a source of friction rather than of strength to the party cause, and at its worst it is to some degree at least a menace to the public interest.

Ballot boxes should not be handed out to election officers in a place that serves as a rendezvous for party workers, nor should ballots and ballot paper, etc., be retained after the election in quarters that are used by a political club, and that such things have apparently been done is a strong indictment of the system under which our elections are conducted.

The appointment of permanent election officials would remove many of the weaknesses that under present conditions are only too apparent in the machinery that exists for carrying on elections.

THE FOREIGN LABEL.

The fascination of a foreign label seems to have an hypnotic charm over some Peterborough citizens.

To be able to say, "I got this in New York" or "I sent for this," makes certain citizens appear to have what might be termed an "out-of-town" complex.

Conversation at the luncheon at a recent gathering of men brought out the fact that one man felt quite elated over having read a book he had sent to New York for; another fellow prided himself on the well-groomed appearance afforded by his suit "purchased in a neighbouring city," and a third chap called attention to a hat his wife was wearing which carried the label of an exclusive shop in the metropolis.

This writer wanted to read that book and found he could get it right here in Peterborough for the same price. He bought it and saved himself postage in a local store. He learned that the suit his friend bought out of town could be purchased for less here.

The hat made him chuckle, for he had seen the same model attractively displayed in no less than three local millinery stores.

Now all three of these fellows are paid Peterborough money and there is every reason to believe, etc. But why say more?—Issued by the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce.

OPENING UP A NEW EMPIRE.

One of the most interesting special editions that has come to The Examiner's notice is one bearing the suggestive title, "Opening Up a New Empire," that has just been issued by The Edmonton Journal.

Its purpose is to call attention to the necessity of working out a solution of the railway and general development problems of the Peace River country, and the wealth of information it contains is evidence of the great pains taken by the staff of The Journal in making sure that this ninety-page number should be accurate, interesting and complete.

The edition gives a vast amount of data in regard to the agricultural areas, the mineral resources, the actual development to date and the railway and other problems of this great country, and of Northern Alberta in general.

In amassing such a store of information The Journal has, it is apparent, relied for material not only upon its own correspondents but also upon Boards of Trade and municipal authorities, Government experts and many residents of Northern Alberta, with the result that the details as given are authentic and reliable.

A number of this kind gives the Eastern reader a fresh appreciation of the possibilities of that great section of Canada west of the Great Lakes, and a new realization of the extent and potential wealth of this wonderful Dominion.

The management and staff of The Edmonton Daily Journal are to be congratulated upon their most impressive special number.

QUITE A DIFFERENT THING.

The accusation was made at this week's meeting of the Children's Aid Society that The Examiner had made charges against the caretaker of the Children's Shelter and against his wife.

That, of course, was an accusation based upon a misunderstanding.

The Examiner made no charge against any one; it simply reported the charges made by members of the Board of Management against these officials at a previous meeting of the Board, which is obviously another and quite a different thing.

The case illustrates a difficulty frequently encountered by newspapers, namely, the difficulty of getting some of its readers to understand the difference between something that is said by a speaker at a public or semi-public meeting and reported by a newspaper and something that is said by the paper on its own account.

What transpires at such meetings it is the mission of a newspaper to record, for the information is of value and interest to the public, but newspapers in reporting what is said by those participating in discussions are not to be held responsible for the views expressed.

The place in which a paper gives its own opinions is the editorial page, and for what The Examiner says there The Examiner is quite satisfied to accept the responsibility.

We do protest, however, at being accused of making charges against anybody when all that has actually happened is what was published in a report of such charges being made.

There were more divorces granted in Canada in 1927 than in any other year in the history of the Dominion. That is a condition out of which we cannot derive any particular satisfaction.

WOMEN AND POLITICS.

During the past week or two much has been heard about women and politics. Several million Englishwomen have been given the franchise; women have been denied the right to sit in Quebec's Legislative Assembly; our Supreme Court is deciding whether a woman is sufficiently a "person" to become a Senator; and announcement comes that a National Convention of Liberal women will meet in Ottawa in April.

• • •

These things suggest certain queries about women's part in politics. Is it true—as an exchange grandiloquently states—that today women march abreast of men in the field of political action? Did the vote vaccination given to women some years ago "take" so far as making them real politicians goes? Are they thinking and talking politics, influencing votes, developing women statesmen and orators, taking a real, interested, active, potent part in robust, practical politics?

• • •

At the risk of peril to our peace of mind, and perhaps something worse, we venture to answer in the negative. We regret to say it, but it is true that women, as politicians, have been pretty much flat failures. The proof is complete, overwhelming.

• • •

Suffrage now has been a going concern long enough to admit of certain summaries. And what are the facts? In England there are but half a dozen women in a House of 600 members. There is no woman member of the House of Lords; no woman in the Cabinet; no woman as even as Undersecretary; not a woman on the Bench. And it is worse in Canada. We have as many women voters as men voters, but we have but one female member in a House of 240. We have no women Senators; no women in the Cabinet; none on any important commission; no women Deputy Ministers; no women on the Bench. They neither help make our laws, nor help interpret them, nor help administer them.

• • •

Politics was to have been the big adventure. But possession, apparently, has been found different from courtship. It is not that what has happened has anything whatever to do with the definite advance of feminism. It can give no cheer to those survivors who still mutter sullenly that woman's place is in the home, because women are either in the home less than ever or they are there not because they must, but because they consciously prefer it. And it is so with their attitude toward politics.

• • •

When women stay out of anything now it is deliberate, and most of them are deliberately staying out of politics. That is the reality. In local matters, in county matters, in Provincial matters women are to a great extent out of the game everywhere and content to be so. And it is so in the larger fields.

• • •

Some of them, it is true, went to the recent Winnipeg Convention. But, having gone there, what happened? What happened was—as a clever woman writer, Anne Anderson Perry, has told—that they played no determining part in the work of the convention. Male hands wrote the platform; male throats spoke nearly all the speeches and cheered most loudly for the speakers; males dominated the committees; and males gave the leadership to a male. It was a good, old-fashioned, organization, he-man convention.

• • •

At the last election in Canada thousands of women were studying or teaching ,thousands and hundreds of thousands were keeping house and making homes, hundreds of thousands were working in offices and shops, thousands playing bridge or golf or tennis, and the percentage of those who cared what happened politically, or who tried to determine what should happen politically, was so small as to be appalling.

• • •

It will be said, of course, that the same thing is true of a great body of men. But we are not so sure of that. For the truth is that while there are men who are political slackers, the average man is a political animal who, at election times at all events, lives and thinks and dreams politics. He may not know much about them, he may be deplorably ignorant about them, but he is interested nevertheless.

• • •

And man's interest is more sustained. Take, as an illustration, Mr. Robb's last Budget. During the past week or so we have been in a number of gatherings where women predominated, and we never as much as heard it mentioned. It affects cottons and woollens, affects the clothing of children, is fairly vital to the home, but it might have been something that was done by somebody in Peru for all the consideration that it came in for. In gatherings of men, on the other hand, the matter came as naturally into the discussion as the weather.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The ballot puzzle gets more interesting all the time. Newspaper serials will have to look to their laurels.

Despite Monday absentees the Legislature is moving at a pace that should attract the attention of Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Minister of Highways.

Epidemics should be considerate enough to stay away from Peterborough until the Council makes up its mind what it is going to do about the health department.

Demonstrations by manufacturers' agents and a little help from the sun will eventually solve the problem of getting rid of the ruts.

Lindbergh will be losing his popularity. He took some 20 members of Congress on sight-seeing flights the other day—and brought them all back safely.

Babe Ruth having picked the New York Yanks to win the American League, it would cause no surprise if Bill O'Hara surmised that the International pennant will be won by Toronto.

Women may not have a vote in Quebec, but Premier Taschereau is likely to discover that at least one of the fair sex has a voice.

When it comes to buying machinery to eliminate the ruts from the streets the City Council seems to be in a rut itself.

In the matter of passing estimates there is nothing slow about the Legislature, which voted over $5,000,000 in an hour on Monday.

"Hail, Gentle Spring!" says The Globe, "but let the hailing come from us and not upon us."

"As you were!" is the present status of Peterborough's full-time health department campaign.

A leisurely breakfast and plenty of SEAL BRAND Coffee — that's the way to begin the day!

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., Mar. 22 (Canadian Press). — There was a fair demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for wheat here yesterday, and a moderate amount of business was done.

On account of the continued strength in the cash oat situation at Winnipeg the local market was again stronger and prices were advanced one cent per bushel. Prices for Argentine corn were also advanced two cents per bushel. Sales of car lots were made at $1.15 per bushel, ex-store.

The demand from English importers for spring wheat flour was good and a moderate trade was done for deferred shipment. The domestic market was quiet but firm. The trade in winter wheat flour continued of a limited character and prices were steady.

An active business was again done in all lines of millfeed and the undertone was firm. Prices for standard grades were firm under a fair inquiry.

Owing to the liberal supplies of eggs coming forward and the spring-like weather prevailing which generally tends to increase the production, a weaker feeling prevailed in the local market and prices were reduced one cent per bushel. The receipts were 1,342 cases.

The demand for potatoes showed no improvement and the undertone continued easy at the late decline noted.

A very firm feeling prevailed in the market for imported beans under a moderate demand. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked were made at $3.50 per bushel to arrive, and smaller quantities at $3.60 per bushel, ex-store.

Extreme dullness again marked the butter trade, but prices were well maintained. The receipts were 225 packages.

A small trade was done in cheese and values were firm. The receipts were 37 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 22 (Canadian Press). — Higher prices for wheat accompanied export buying from North America yesterday, estimated at 1,000,000 bushels notable broadening of general trade in grain was witnessed, with corn, oats, and rye all overtopping high price records for the season.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled ⅞c to ⅞c net advance, corn finished ⅝c off to ¼c up, oats unchanged to ⅝c down, and provisions varying from 5 cent decline to an equal gain.

Reports that certain successful traders in the stock market were reaching out after grain attracted considerable attention, especially as the day neared an end. The wheat market from the beginning showed a stronger undertone, and aside from continued evidence of European demand was apparently influenced by unfavorable crop reports from numerous sections of domestic winter wheat territory, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio in particular. Contributing to the upward impetus of the wheat market were advices at hand that United States flour mills in the principal centres are enjoying an unwonted flour production, North-west mills operating at 62 per cent. of capacity against 42 per cent. a year ago. It was also stated that the average rate of flour production for the entire country is well above last year, and is showing even greater increase over two years ago, with the millfeed market continuing to display unusual strength.

Prospects of corn export business lifted March delivery of corn to well above $1.00 a bushel, but big selling to realize profits brought about a reaction. Besides, no new export buying of any significant amount was confirmed. Oats averaged higher, though influenced at the last by profit, taking sales and by advices that showed progress of seeding.

Provisions were eased as a result of selling on the part of packers, as well as by lower quotations on hogs.

Demand—$4.87 5-16.

RISELEY, England, March 21 (Canadian Press). — The Prince of Wales fell to-day during the Oakley Hunt point to point races. He was not hurt. The Prince was competing in the Brigade of Guards Inter-Regimental Cup race when he fell. After jumping the seventh fence, he tried to clear the brook, but was unseated.

Voice of the People

LAKE CATCHACOMA

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—In the discussion before the Council of the Lake Catchacoma-Gooderham road, the lake is called "Lake Ketchecum." As the name on all the government plans and maps and in the registry office, on tax-papers and official papers of every kind is "Lake Catchacoma," a great deal of confusion, especially to tourists, may be save d by using the correct name "Lake Catchacoma."

GOD'S MINUTE

The Lord is the strength of my life.—Ps. 27:1.

Our Gracious Father in Heaven, we accept with thankful hearts this most wonderful privilege of entering into Thy presence through prayer. A new days stretches out before us, and we know not what shall befall us ere we come to its close. How greatly do we need a strength that is more than human. We find ourselves insufficient for the tasks of the day. Our vision is so narrow, our judgment so faulty, our wisdom so incomplete. We are becoming more and more conscious of our shortcomings and our failures, and if we recognize them, how grievous must they appear in Thy sight. Forgive us and help us, we pray. Teach us that we are most strong when in weakness we throw ourselves upon Thee. Teach us that we shall enjoy the greatest liberty when we are in most complete bondage to Thee. Teach us that to lose self is to gain power and influence. Help us today to be good witnesses for Jesus Christ. May our lives ring true. May our conduct be in strict accord with the profession we make. May it be easier for others to do right today, because we are in the world. Make us strong in the hour of temptation, and give us grace for every trying situation that may arise. This petition we humbly offer through Jesus Christ Our Lord. Amen.

Her Baby Wakes up Laughing and Cooing

"I started using Eagle Brand for my five months old baby two months ago. Now she wakes up laughing and cooing and is more than satisfied. No more getting up nights, as she gets only one bottle, going to bed, and no more till 7 a.m. She won a third prize at a recent baby show and I know Eagle Brand helped her to win. She weighed 6 lbs. at birth but is now over 13 lbs. If any mother would like me to tell her about Eagle Brand I would be pleased to do so. I only wish I had known about it sooner as it cannot be too highly recommended".

IONIC CHAPTER IS 19 YEARS OLD

Campbellford Masonic Body Celebrates Its Birthday.

PROGRAM GIVEN.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 22.—The Ionic Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, No. 168, G.R.C., celebrated its nineteenth birthday anniversary on Tuesday night. After the degree work had been put on by the county degree team, the members and visiting brethren sat down to a most enjoyable banquet, Long's catering. The visitors included members from lodges in Stirling, Belleville, Cobourg, Port Hope, and Prince Edward County. At the conclusion of the banquet, the program began with the toast to the King. Rt. Ex. Comp. E. J. Free proposed the toast to the Grand Chapter which was responded to by Re. Ex. Comp. W. F. McMahon, Grand Supt. Ontario District, No. 10, and Rt. Ex. Comp. Thomas W. Solmes, Grand Supt. Prince Edward District. Comp. McMahon also presented I.P.Z. Ex. Comp. J. D. Cumming with a token.

The presentation was followed by a quartette, Comps. W. Henson, J. M. Bygott, H. O. Richardson, and A. Hazell. The quartette also delighted the brethren with a second number. The toast to St. Patrick was proposed by Ex. Comp. O. C. Watson, and responded to by Ex. Comp. G. A. Kingston. The address by Comp. Rev. Ernest Harston was greatly appreciated. Ex. Comp. R. J. Allan proposed the toast to the guests and V. Ex. Comp. J. O. Herity, Belleville, responded. These speeches were followed by a second number by the quartette. The candidates for the degree were toasted by Ex. Comp. J. D. Cumming and Comp. E. Harston. The evening was concluded with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

I.O.D.E. CHAPTER HAS DISBANDED

Campbellford Branch Decides To Surrender Its Charter.

FORMED DURING WAR.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 22.—At a meeting held in the Carnegie library building at three-thirty yesterday afternoon, the Campbellford Chapter, I.O.D.E. rung down the final curtain on a very successful career. Organized during the war and with a record of excellent service rendered, the motion was put yesterday afternoon to return the charter to the proper authorities, for the present at least, as finished in this locality.

For several years the local chapter flourished and did much for the welfare of the men overseas. This seemed to be one of the major duties of the organization at that time. During postwar days, their presence has been manifest in various other ways. The order is responsible in a large degree for the war memorial which was erected on the west side of the river, opposite the town dock, where it can be seen to advantage from both street and river.

There were about twenty members present at the meeting yesterday afternoon. This is taken as an indication that there is not the same interest in the order as in previous years when the membership numbered almost four times that number. No reason was given as to why the members have dispersed, but it is understood that the step is only a temporary measure and that the order, or some similar organization will be brought into being shortly after midsummer.

Wood bees on Monday and Tuesday drew a large supply of wood to the Norham church and parsonage.

Their little clothes must be changed constantly

Children have such pretty clothes today . . . how do mothers do it! An active child can soil two dresses a day without half trying, and as for boys—!

But wise mothers know that Jane's dress and Johnny's rompers can make their frequent trips to the tub, UNDAMAGED—if Surprise Soap goes too.

CERTAINTY of Safety is what you want. That's why Surprise Soap is the leading laundry soap of Canada. For over forty years it has proved that it cleanses thoroughly, yet is pure, mild—and safe.

BYRD AIDES WILL TRY OUT PLANE

the Fokker wing out of the hull of the Chantier at King's Bay, Spitzbergen, and bolted on to the fuselage was a difficult task. If anything had slipped and the wing had been injured the expedition would have ended at once.

The Ford metal wing, on the other hand, is in three sections, which can be taken apart and packed away and easily put together under difficult conditions. This may be the deciding factor in using the Ford plane.

The Ford will probably be flown in a few days to the snowy wilderness north of Winnipeg in Canada. Here it can be tried out on skis with a load under conditions approximating those it will meet in the snow-covered Antarctic. It is a very large plane, with a wingspread of seventy-eight feet, several feet longer than the wing of the Byrd trans-Atlantic plane, and undoubtedly the largest plane ever flown on skis. It is built with a specially light duralumin covering on the wings and the fuselage. Several hundred pounds have been saved in this way.

Commander Byrd will take a substitute for sunlight with him to use during the long Antarctic night if he has to stay during that time on the ice cap of the Ross Sea. It is a lamp which reproduces the ultra-violet rays of natural sunshine, so that by lying under it one becomes sunburned.

It is probable that the expedition will spend one winter season in darkness on the Ross ice barrier, a period which is depressing and difficult to withstand physically as well as mentally. The ultra-violet rays are useful in fortifying the body against diet deficiencies and also as an aid in the rapid healing of wound infections and in the treatment of diseases such as rheumatism.

The lamp is a vacuum tube of pure quartz, in which mercury is turned to vapor by an electric current. It is a simple, compact type of lamp such as is used in many private homes, and will be supplied by the U.V.R. Laboratories.

No Relief From Stomach Trouble Until He Tried TANLAC

If your stomach is sick, you are sick all over. If you can't digest your food properly, you quickly lose strength, get thin and nervous, and feel just as tired in the morning as when you went to bed. For 20 years Tanlac has been restoring to permanent, buoyant health many thousands who suffered just as you do. Why shouldn't Tanlac do for you just what it did for Mr. Noah Pare, 330 Albert Street, Windsor, Ont.

He writes: "There was not a day in six years that I did not suffer with my Stomach. It was sore as a boil, and gas would clog up in my chest until I had to fight for breath. I became so nervous and worried that the strain was showing on me. I could not eat, sleep or do my work properly. I tried many treatments without any benefit whatever until I started on Tanlac—and I want to tell everyone who suffers as I did, to use Tanlac. After finishing the third bottle, I was well and I don't believe there is a man in Canada with a better stomach than mine. I eat and sleep well; never have pains or gas; never had a day's sickness since using Tanlac."

Tanlac brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food, builds up weight and strength. It contains no mineral drugs; it is made of roots, barks and herbs, Nature's own medicine for the sick. Get a bottle from your druggist today. The cost is less than 2c a dose—and your money back if it does not help you.

mediate and complete disarmament. It is precisely on the grounds of sincerity, consistency and logic that my government supports the idea of a multilateral pact renouncing war as an instrument of national policy, and at the same time finds itself unable to support the drastic proposals for immediate and complete disarmament, which we do not believe are calculated to achieve their avowed purpose."

There were nods of approval all around the committee table, except by the Germans, Russians and Turks, when Mr. Gibson went on to say: "We are engaged in this study of how to effect limitations and the reduction of armaments by agreement. We are now asked to scrap this work which is the result of several years' negotiations and accept in its place total immediate disarmament, which has frequently been considered in the past and invariably rejected as unworkable.

Several other delegates wanted to free their minds, and occupied the remainder of the day in giving their views. Among them, Baron Rolin Jacquemyne, made the greatest stir when, looking straight at M. Litvinoff, he cried:

"An olive branch is brandished over our heads in such a way as to resemble a cudgel rather than an emblem of peace. Hatred of our civilization is behind this project."

Commandant David Whitmarsh, of Cuba, reminded M. Litvinoff that modern arms, such as he wishes to suppress, were not always the favorite weapons in warfare.

"The people of Cuba," he said, "in their long struggle for independence, used a simple machete. That is what other peoples would do when determined to fight if unable to procure modern weapons."

The debate will probably end to-day after M. Litvinoff has replied to the critics of his plan.

Obituary

MRS. ROBERT McELWAIN.

OMEMEE, March 22.—On Friday, March 2, there passed away at her home another of Emily's pioneers in the person of Mrs. Robert McElwain, at the age of 73. Mrs. McElwain had been in delicate health for some time and her death was not unexpected. She was born in Drumcarrow, Ireland, where several members of her family still reside. She was married to Robert McElwain in 1872, and he predeceased her two years and ten months ago. Since that time, Mrs. McElwain has been given every care by a loving daughter, Olive, and a son, Harry, in the old home in Emily where she has resided practically all her married life.

She was a member and faithful worshipper when health permitted in the former Methodist Church and later in the United Church.

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon. Interment was made in Emily Cemetery. Rev. E. W. Rowland of Trinity United Church, conducted the service.

Many beautiful floral tributes signified the love and esteem in which the late Mrs. McElwain was held. Left to mourn the passing of a loving and devoted mother are two daughters, Mrs. Herb Jackson and Miss Olive, and two sons, Samuel and Harry, all of East Emily, also four brothers, Gordon Ruck, Omemee, and Robert, Henry and Thomas, of Drumcarrow, Ireland, and three sisters, Mrs. Johnston of Los Angeles, Cal., Mrs. Belford and Mrs. Jennings, of Fleurville, Ireland.

NEITHER ILL NOR WELL.

A Condition of Health Due To Weak, Watery Blood.

There are thousands of men and women today who are not sick enough to take to their beds, neither are they well enough to do a day's work or live a normal life. No particular organ seems to be at fault, yet the whole system lacks strength and vitality. They cannot get refreshing sleep and arise as tired as when they went to bed. They are nervous, have headaches and backaches, dizzy spells and pains that shift about. Appetite is lacking and digestion poor. Life has lost its zest.

Invariably these people are pale and the lips show white where carmine should be. This pallor betrays the cause of the condition, which is thin blood. When the blood is thin the whole system suffers.

Such people need Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to send rich, red blood through the body and bring renewed vigor to tired muscles and undernourished nerves. The beneficial influence of this remedy reaches the whole system. These pills do more than relieve symptoms, they remove the cause of the disability.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. To any reader of this paper a copy of the medical booklet, "Building Up the Blood", will be sent free on request.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE ACCORDION

"You had better hide!" said the Italian rabbit gentleman, who wore green rooster tail feathers on the side of his hat. "Here they come! Don't let them see you!"

"Who are they?" whispered Uncle Wiggily, who, with Baby Bunty and Vallie, the little rabbit children, had been traveling in Holland, but who a few moments before meeting the strange bunny had fallen into Italy. "Who is coming?"

"And what is that music?" asked Bunty, for even while the Italian rabbit was gently pushing the three travelers along to a hiding place, the air was filled with a sweet melody.

"That's an accordion," said the Italian rabbit, "and it is being played by some of the children who are coming to gather the dried macaroni. So if you don't want these children to see you it will be best for you to hide."

"They left an accordion behind," exclaimed Bunty.

"Yes, yes!" answered Uncle Wiggily quickly. "We had better hide. I love children, but I don't know how to speak Italian to them and if I wanted them not to lift me by my ears I wouldn't know how to tell them to stop. After I've been in Italy a little longer and can speak the way the Italian children talk I may not hide from them."

So the three traveling rabbits hid in among the rows of dangling strings of macaroni which was hung over line after line of little wooden fences. Safe from sight, Uncle Wiggily, Bunty and Vallie listened to the music of the accordion coming nearer and nearer, and then they heard the voices of many boys and girls.

"You will be all right here for a time," whispered the Italian rabbit. "I'll be back in a little while."

"Where are you going," asked Uncle Wiggily, as he saw his new friend about to hop away.

"I am going to look for a place where you may spend the night," was the answer. "I think there's a vacant burrow under the ground in the grape hill not far from where I live. I'll be back soon."

With that he hopped off through the rows of drying macaroni and Uncle Wiggily, Bunty and Vallie, peering out, saw several dark-skinned and brown-eyed Italian children gathering the "long, white shoe strings," as Bunty had called the macaroni.

By this time the little rabbit girls had a chance to look more closely at the macaroni, also to handle some that was not yet dry enough to be taken in out of the field. And Bunty exclaimed

"Why, it doesn't grow on these fences! It's just hung here. It doesn't grow at all—there aren't any leaves! How funny!"

"Did you think macaroni grew like apples or grapes?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Why, yes, I did," said Bunty, and Vallie said the same.

Then, while in their safe hiding place, Bunty and Vallie watched the Italian boys and girls gathering the long dried strings of macaroni, Uncle Wiggily told the children what it was.

"Macaroni," he said, "is made from flour, water, eggs and sometimes it has grated cheeses in it. The flour paste is rolled out very thin and then cut into long strings, just like shoe strings, as Bunty said. These strings are hung up over lines or porch railings or fences to dry in the sun which, in Italy, shines almost as much and as hot as in our own California. When the macaroni strips are dry they are brought in and put away in boxes. Macaroni will keep a long time. The Italians love to eat it in many ways, plain, boiled with grated Parmasan cheese on it or put into soups or other dishes."

"Is it good for rabbits?" asked Bunty.

"Not exactly," said Uncle Wiggily, "but it is good for boys and girls." The Italian boys and girls seemed very happy while taking down the dried strings of macaroni. They sang while one of them played the accordion. At last the macaroni was taken down—all except some not yet dry enough, where Uncle Wiggily and the rabbit children were hiding, and the little Italians hurried away.

"Oh, look!" suddenly exclaimed Bunty, hopping out from the hiding place. "They left the accordion behind."

"So they did!" said Mr. Longears, hopping out to pick it up.

"Can you play it?" asked Vallie, for the accordion was a small one.

"I'm afraid I can't," answered Mr. Longears.

"Well, you had better try if you know what's good for you!" suddenly growled a voice. "I want to hear some music!" And the dangling strings of half-dried macaroni began to shiver and shake. And what happened after that I shall tell you tomorrow. The story then will be about Uncle Wiggily. And I do hope the letter Q doesn't lose its tail when it chases after U to spell queer.

"You'll drink it again"

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

WHEN YOU'RE AWAY

They've written books
With less to say
Than how life looks
When you're away.
I wish my pen
Could tell you how
I need you then,
I miss you now.

No song's a song,
No flower a flow'r,
The world's all wrong
Each day, each hour.
Each day, each night,
I look about,
But nothing's right
With you left out.

So here's a blot,
A tear or two,
To tell you what
You ought to do;
The world's all gray,
The sky's all black,
When you're away—
So come right back!

Kitchner Eliminated in Allan Cup Series

REGINA WINS ONE GOAL LEAD OVER GUNNERS

Right Winger's Good Play Gives the Winners Only Advantage.

FINAL SCORE 4-3.

Eastern Champs Play Strong Game, Coming Near Tying Score.

TORONTO, March 22. — Harold March, stocky little right winger of of Regina Monarchs, led the junior champions of the West to victory over the rugged Ottawa Gunners in the first game of the Memorial Cup final series last night at the Arena Gardens. The score was 4 to 3 and the winged-footed flanker gave one of the greatest ice exhibitions that any junior has in these parts in many, many years to score all his team's goals.

Monarch's victory last night can be attributed to March and he alone, for when he was resting they were not the dangerous machine who held the study Gunners at bay and presented the Westerners with a one-goal lead on the series. In the Memorial Cup finals the winners of two out of the three games annexes the junior championship of all Canada.

More than seven thousand fans saw these Lochinvars from out of the West submerge the Gunners under an avalanche of speed in the first half of a bitterly fought battle and then saw the Ottawa pluggers come back in the last period to draw up to within one goal of a tie as the gong rang out its final message. They saw two teams who opened the play to its limit and as the veteran Kingstonian, Jim Sutherland, remarked, "played hockey all over the ice, not on half of it."

Twenty-five Penalties

Despite March's sensational play and the fact that the teams played short-handed over most of the route through penalties, it was the opinion of the fans that the game did not provide the thrilling situations that studded the Marlboro-St. Michael's title in the O.H.A. semi-finals. Twenty-five penalties were meted out by the officials, and practically every one was for a minor infraction of the rules.

There was overmuch tripping and petty slashing throughout the contest, and the only near he-man fracas occurred when Armstrong and Williamson squared off after a mixup in front of the Monarch's goal in the third period. Not a blow was struck, but the referees banished the would-be combatants to the bastile for four minutes.

Monarchs took the lead in the first period by virtue of the lone counter of the frame; each notched a marker in the middle stanza; and each crashed the other's citadel for two goals. At one stage of the final dash the Monarchs were leading by 4 to 1, and it was not until the final 25 seconds of play that the Gunners pinked the twine twice to get within striking distance.

Gunners presented a comparatively heavy, powerful machine which showed if anything an edge in favor of defensive strenth. Murphy at centre and Tabor on the right boards, are tall and rangy, though Gord. Peterkin on the right flank was lighter he matched his check, the elusive March, in size and in speed. Howe and Quinn furnished a relief division and the former was particularly effective. Their attacke bore a striking resemblance to the system employed by the Montreal Vics with puck carrier going in alone and the wings trailing him to pick up the loose pucks and rebounds.

The teams:

Regina: Goal, Langford; defence, Bergl and Achtzener; centre, Dowie; wings, March and Shaw; subs, Williamson and Farrow.

Ottawa Gunners: Goal, M. Peterkin; defence, McInenly and Armstrong; centre, Murphy; wings, G. Peterkin and Tabor; subs, Quinn and Howe.

Referees: Clair Devlin, Kingston, and Billy Kaane, Winnipeg.

Will Be Close Race In Rowing Classic

LONDON, March 22 (Canadian Press Cable).—With Oxford's crew showing improvement there is no longer much difference between the crews that will row the great Varsity boat race on March 31, it was considered by experts yesterday. There is every prospect of a close race over the four and a quarter mile course on the Thames. Under conditions sufficiently similar to warrant the comparison, Cambridge rowed from Putney Bridge to Hammersmith Bridge yesterday in 7 minutes and 31 seconds, and the intermediate point times were remarkably similar to Oxford's. Oxford rowed, from Hammersmith Bridge to Chiswick steps in 4 minutes, 10 seconds, going much steadier yesterday than in recent workouts.

MONTREAL VICS BEAT KITCHENER BADLY IN FINAL

Second Game of Series Goes To Easterners By 8-2 Score.

WIN ROUND 10-3.

Winners Too Fast For Kitchener Squad and Look Much Better.

MONTREAL, Que., March 22. — Canadian Press. — Victorias of this city won the amateur hockey championship of Eastern Canada and the right to meet University of Manitoba, western titleholders, in the finals for the Allan cup, by defeating Kitchener, Ontario champions, 8 to 2, in the second contest of the two-game semi-final series here last night. Vics won the first game, played at Toronto, Monday, by a 2 to 1 count, thus taking the round 10 to 3. Vics were far superior to the slow-skating Kitchener squad last night, the locals skating rings around the opposition at all stages. Green Shirts were bewildered by the speed thrown at them by the Quebec titleholders and could do nothing right, either on the offensive of on the defensive.

Kitchener: Goal, Berner; defence, Karges and Schneider; centre, Seagram; wings, Molson and Roth; subs, Heller and Farrell.

Vics: Goal, Cockburn; defence, Carlin and Shearer; centre, Abbott; wings, Thomson and Slater; subs., Valois and Grant.

Referee: Lou Marsh, Toronto.

CANADA WINS MAJOR HONORS

Y.M.C.A. Teams Take Two Out of Three Group Championships From U.S.

INTERNATIONAL HEVATHLON.

NEW YORK, March 22 (Canadian Press).—By taking two of the three group championships, Canadian Y.M.C.A. teams have wrested major honors from United States rivals in the international hexathlon, an all-around athletic event. This was disclosed yesterday by announcement of the results in the fourteenth annual senior championship.

The hexathlon is a six-event test comprising 60 and 160 yard potato races, running high jump, fence vault, standing broad jump, and 12-pound shot put. It was participated in this year by 5,338 men representing 54 associations in 21 states and five Canadian provinces.

The Winnipeg, Man., team won the Class "A" title, while the Halifax, N.S., group captured the class "C" championship. El Paso, Texas, won the competition in Class "B".

Individual Class "A" honors were won by Fred Kiffin, of the Bedford branch, Brooklyn, N.Y., for the fifth time and third year in a row. Kiffin scored 595 points to beat out A. Bratten, star of the Winnipeg team, who tallied 583.

The next three individual leaders and their points: Alex. Munroe, Detroit, 573; G. Smallcombe, Toronto 559; A. Scott, Toronto, 553; Herb. Schwarze, National Indoor, 16-pound shot put champion, and world's record holder, competing for the Milwaukee Association, broke the 12-pound shot put record with a toss of 55 feet. This bettered his own mark of 52 feet 6 inches, set last year.

The Class "A" leaders were:

Winnipeg, 5,528; West End Branch, Toronto, 5,251; Milwaukee, 4,981, Providence R.I., 4,920; Lincoln, Nebraska, 4,893; Central Branch, Toronto, 4,872; Central Branch, Montreal, with 4,606, with 12th.

The Class "B" leaders:

El Paso, Texas, 4,194; Brockton, Mass., 4,023; Broadview branch, Toronto, 3,823.

In this class, London, Ont., was 14th, with 3,014 points.

The Class "C" leaders:

Halifax, N.S., 2,932; Elyria, Ohio, 2,864; Sherbrooke, Que., 2,679; Quincy, Mass., 2,625; Watertown, N.Y., 2,438; Massillon, Ohio, 2,240; Calgary, Alta., 2,063.

JOHNSTON WILL MEET GENARO

World's Flyweight Champion To Meet Canadian Bantamweight Champ.

TORONTO, March 22. — Toronto's next big boxing attraction will be held in the Coliseum on Friday night, March 30th, when Frankie Genaro, the flyweight champion of the world, will box Jackie Johnston, bantam weight champion of Canada.

The match was made at 119 lbs. Genaro will build himself up to about 111 pounds so the little weight Genaro will spot Johnston will be offset by the fact that Johnston will have to come down to 119 pounds from his present weight of 124 pounds.

Johnston is apparently back in the form that made him popular here a year ago. He has been winning consistently of late in Detroit. Matchmaker Playfair Brown saw him in one of his bouts recently and lost no time in signing him up for a Toronto engagement.

"He is the most improved boxer we have," said Brown, "and if he will turn in as good a bout as he did in Detroit he will come mighty close to beating the small but mighty Genaro."

When one stops to consider that Genaro has twice defeated both Carl Tremaine and Bushy Graham as well as Charles Phil Rosenberg, who knocked the daylights out of Bobby Eber here, then one realizes just the herculean task facing Johnston.

In Joe Jacobs, manager of Delaney Joe Gilch, Jack McVey and Genaro, the little Italian has one of the shrewdest managers in the business, who plans days ahead just the plan of battle that his boys box to win from different types of opponents. Jacobs has every confidence in the ability of Genaro to as decisively whip Johnston as he did Belanger.

STARS OF REGINA MONARCHS

Here are the stars of the Regina Monarchs, champions of Western Canada, contenders with the Eastern Canada winners for the Dominion junior title. The Monarchs triumphed over everything in the west. They only lost one game meeting defeat in the last Abbott Cup battle with Kenora. ABOVE are five of their shining lights: 1, Harold Shaw, left wing; 2, Jimmy Langford, goal; 3, Len Dowie, centre; 4, Ken Williamson, relief forward; 5, Al. Holt, relief forward.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 22. — Campbellford cannot lay claim to any farm work being under way in the fields on the first day of spring, as was the case in the western provinces. But there was dust blowing on the south section of Front Street yesterday.

About thirty members of the Stirling Lodge, I.O.O.F., visited the Campbellford Lodge on Tuesday night for the purpose of exemplifying the first degree work. After the conclusion of this, there was a banquet and entertainment in the form of speeches and music tendered the visiting brethren.

Treble and Bass all There!

Fifes---clarinets and flutes,---as well as traps,---tympani---bass viols and gruff-throated tubas---all clearly heard.

Liquid trebles,—deep, low fundamentals,—these tones give Orthophonic Victrola music its beauty and color. So that today a public concert by famous artists and an Orthophonic Victrola performance by the same great artists,—are two things alike as twins,—and you need not stir from the lazy comfort of the fireside to hear the Orthophonic Victrola. It's really marvellous when you come to think of it. We moderns owe a tribute to the scientists who have contributed the rich gift of "matched impedance", or "smooth flow of sound" to the Victrola. To Victor, was extended the privilege of developing this principle for your greater enjoyment.

As a result you may have beautiful, realistic music at home, and you may have it contained in graceful cabinets wrought in fine woods. Artistically designed models,—all equipped with a device which stops each record after playing. Electrical drive, if you wish,—at slight additional cost, eliminates winding. Prices from $1400 down to as low as $115,—on convenient payments from all His Master's Voice dealers.

ARTIST TO TALK ON MODERN ART

Arthur Lismer Will Address Women's Art Association On Friday.

"The Modern Element in Canadian Art" is the title of the illustrated lecture which Arthur Lismer, Toronto artist and lecturer, and one of the vice-presidents of the Ontario College of Art, will give under the auspices of the Women's Art Association in the hall of the Conservatory of Music on Friday evening of this week. Coincident with this an exhibition of paintings is to be held in the studios of the Conservatory, largely illustrative of the art of the Group of Seven, in which coterie Lismer is an outstanding figure.

This movement toward something new in Canadian art, which has its flowering in the work of the Group of Seven, was started some years ago by a group of young commercial artists employed at Grip, Limited, Toronto, as designers and engravers, who made holiday sketching trips throughout Northern Ontario. After months of commercial work in the art department,- the stored-up creative energy poured out during the period of vacation.

Lismer, one of this group, was a Yorkshireman who had adopted Canada as his country. He went to work when he was twelve years of age and received his education at an art school. Later on, with twenty odd pounds in his pocket he went to Belgium for one year. About 1911 he came to Canada, where he gravitated to Grip Limited. His early sketching was done on trips where he sketched vigorously trying to catch on canvas the essential differences between English and Canadian landscapes. In 1915 he went to Halifax where he painted landscapes and war pictures of the hulls of camouflaged ships. Shortly after the war he returned to Toronto and became vice-principal of the Ontario College of Art and a member of the Group of Seven.

He has done a great deal of sketching in various sections of the North Country and also in Quebec, and these environments have inspired many of his pictures. The idea of the necessity of the art element Lismer would carry into every avenue of the national life. He has written articles for a business man's magazine urging Canadian manufacturers to originate new designs in textiles, pottery, furniture and other manufactured products. He wants to see the manufacturer, the salesman, the retail merchant and the advertising man get together with the artist and find where the art element in life can play a part.

When five pictures were selected from the Wembley Exhibition by the Tate Gallery Committee in 1924, to be considered for purchase, Lismer's "September Gale," inspired while on a visit to Georgian Bay, was among the number. It was later purchased by the Canadian National Gallery at Ottawa.

VISITING ARTIST.

An event anticipated with a great deal of pleasure is the annual concert of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir, which takes place this year in the Grand Opera House on Friday, March 30th. The assisting artist will be Miss Margaret Northrup, of New York, soprano singer widely heralded by the press of many American cities.

When Miss Northrup made her New York debut in 1923, the press reviews of her recital were marked by unanimous recogniton of the beautiful quality, splendid training, and ultimate promise of her voice, and all united in warm tribute to her art of interpretation, her clear diction, and her attractive stage presence.

That these first impressions have since been justified has been proved by the outstanding success which has attended Miss Northrup during the seasons which have followed.

Coenraad V. Bos, the eminent Dutch pianist and accompanist, was so impressed by her art, following her appearance in her home city, that he wrote the following unsolicited letter to the editor of the Washington (Pa.) Reporter:

"It was with the greatest pleasure that I played for Miss Northrup at her recital. Washington should certainly be proud of this charming singer. I have played for the greatest singers these many years, and I am sure that Miss Northrup soon will be known everywhere. Her career as a concert singer will be a wonderful one, and in after years, we shall probably remember with pride and pleasure her first concert in her home town as the remarkable start of many wonderful appearances."

Most important among Miss Northrup's appearances have been engagements with the Springfield Music Festival (in Carmen), Philadelphia Oratorio Society (Messiah), Toronto Oratorio Society (St. Paul), New York Philharmonic Orchestra (Israel), Montreal Choral Society (St. Matthew's Passion), Hamilton Elgar Choir (The Sun Worshippers), and Reading Choral Society (Bach, Dvorak).

FIRST AID TRAINING PROVES VALUABLE

Men Able To Help Many Others Besides Fellow Employees.

The growing recignition of the importance of first aid knowledge among industrial workers is exemplified in the annual report of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada.

Employees of the company's construction forces and other branches of the service have received a thorough training in first aid work. As a result, they have been able to render help in critical circumstances, not only to fellow employees but to other victims of accident or mischance, to the saving of both life and property. Of the company's male plant staff, numbering upwards of 4,400, over seventy-five per cent. are now qualified first aiders.

PROF. ELFORD TO SPEAK HERE

ASSOCIATION MEETS.

The Peterborough Poultry Association held its monthly meeting on Thursday evening, and a large crowd was present. The regular routine business occupied the major part of the evening after which a discussion took place regarding their plans for the coming season. The indications point to a steady increase in interest by the poultrymen of this district.

It was decided at this meeting that the association take out a membership in the Chamber of Commerce, and George Paxman, the treasurer, was appointed to represent the Poultry Association. It was also decided to hold the regular meetings of the association on the first Tuesday of every month and these meetings from now on will be held in the board room of the Chamber of Commerce.

It is expected Prof. F. C. Elford, of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, will address the meeting in April. Prof. Elford was elected last July in Ottawa as president of the World's Poultry Congress, which is being held again in London, Eng., in 1930.

Everyone interested in poultry should keep the above meeting in mind and be on hand to hear Prof. Elford, who is possibly the greatest authority on Poultry in Canada.

Frank H. Dawson, President, occupied the chair and conducted the meeting.

RIN-TIN-TIN HERE IN NEW THRILLER

"Jaws of Steel" Acclaimed as Dog-Star's Greatest

The coming of Rin-Tin-Tin to the Regent is much like the coming of the circus; neither ever loses drawing power. Every time either is heralded, one can be assured of new throbs and thrills. "Jaws of Steel" puts Rinty in just such a light. "The Night Cry," "Hills of Kentucky," "The Clash of the Wolves" and a score more, have fixed themselves indelibly on the memory of millions. Rinty has been cheered at, hurrahed for, and here he is again, more compelling than ever, in a picture which shows him at a new and exciting angle.

Jason Robards, Helen Ferguson, Baby Mary Louise Miller, and all the rest of the support are satisfactory, but it is Rinty that wows 'em. He is first seen as a pup in the rickety flivver of the young Warrens who, with their small daughter, are on their way across the desert to prospect for gold. The pup is lost overboard, so to speak, (the pup is played by Rinty's youngest, Rinty, Jr.).

Years in the wastes change the whimpering waif into a savage creature, known to herdsmen as "The Killer." As last the Warrens strike gold, and a crook tries to defraud them. Then it is that the lost dog reclaims his own folks and fights for them in a way to make the fellers shout and whistle themselves hoarse. Among the startling exploits of Rinty is the way in which he evades the sheriff who comes to explore the cabin where the old scout has been killed. It is the belief of the posse that Rinty has done the deed. As if by magic the dog escapes up the chimney. Again his cleverness eludes death at the unwilling hand of the master he is bent on saving.

Ray Enright who directed Rin-Tin-Tin in "Tracked by the Police" is responsible for "Jaws of Steel" and he acquits himself magnificently and the photography is beautifully handled. The picture is one for the whole family. If any doubters of the dog's intelligence still exist, they, of all people should see Rin-Tin-Tin in his greatest work—"Jaws of Steel."

The man outside is not so comfortable

3 out of 5 taxi cab drivers said:

"We keep off rheumatism this way"

YOU have to just sit and take it—rain, snow, biting wind—hands gripped to the wheel until your arms and shoulders are numb!

Not so good for the old driving muscles! That left arm and elbow! It catches everything! After a day in the rain or snow, it's as wet as if you'd held it under a water tap. You've got to watch yourself or the first thing you know you're laid up with an attack of rheumatism.

We went out and asked hundreds of taxi drivers—just where we happened to find them—how they avoid the effects of exposure to wet and cold.

Three out of five said they use Sloan's.

When they are damp and chilled from hours of driving in snow or rain, they apply Sloan's over their backs, arms, shoulders and legs—and they never have a bit of trouble with stiffness or pain in the muscles.

One of the taxi drivers questioned. 3 out of 5 told us that they use Sloan's to ward off the effects of exposure and strain

In every trade hard workers praise this remarkable remedy

In every trade where men and women work hard with their muscles, or where they are exposed to dampness or to extremes of heat or cold, you hear praise of Sloan's Liniment.

A brakeman on the Chicago and Northwestern tells this story of the quick relief that Sloan's gave to a sprain and a wrenched ligament:

"I fell off the top of a box car on my left arm, spraining it and tearing the ligaments loose. I suffered considerable pain for about forty-eight hours. I got a bottle of Sloan's Liniment. It relieved the pain right away. It is now fifty-three hours since I was hurt. I have no pain at all to speak of. The swelling has nearly all gone down. I think it is the best liniment I have ever used. I suggest that anybody having a sprain get a bottle and apply it according to directions, and they will never be sorry." Harry M. Hall, Belle Plaine, Iowa.

Sloan's is sure—quick

No one should ever be without Sloan's Liniment in the house. It's the best first aid in case of a sprain, a strain, a wrench or a bruise. It works by the surest, most scientific method known for relieving pain. It stirs up the circulation—sends new blood to the place where the pain is—gives you quick, positive relief. At any druggist's—and many other stores besides—you can get a bottle that will last you a long time for 35 cents. Use Sloan's Liniment for:

Rheumatism Lame Muscles
Sciatica Stiff Neck
Lumbago Colds and Neuralgia Congestions
Sprains and Bruises

Read what this doctor says of Sloan's: "People whose work exposes them to strain or to damp and cold usually suffer from a good deal of muscular soreness. We find that Sloan's gives them quick, positive relief."

ARTIST TO TALK ON MODERN ART

Arthur Lismer Will Address Women's Art Association On Friday.

"The Modern Element in Canadian Art" is the title of the illustrated lecture which Arthur Lismer, Toronto artist and lecturer, and one of the vice-presidents of the Ontario College of Art, will give under the auspices of the Women's Art Association in the hall of the Conservatory of Music on Friday evening of this week. Coincident with this an exhibition of paintings is to be held in the studios of the Conservatory, largely illustrative of the art of the Group of Seven, in which coterie Lismer is an outstanding figure.

This movement toward something new in Canadian art, which has its flowering in the work of the Group of Seven, was started some years ago by a group of young commercial artists employed at Grip, Limited, Toronto, as designers and engravers, who made holiday sketching trips throughout Northern Ontario. After months of commercial work in the art department, the stored-up creative energy poured out during the period of vacation.

Lismer, one of this group, was a Yorkshireman who had adopted Canada as his country. He went to work when he was twelve years of age and received his education at an art school. Later on, with twenty odd pounds in his pocket he went to Belgium for one year. About 1911 he came to Canada, where he gravitated to Grip Limited. His early sketching was done on trips where he sketched vigorously trying to catch on canvas the essential differences between English and Canadian landscapes. In 1915 he went to Halifax where he painted landscapes and war pictures of the hulls of camouflaged ships. Shortly after the war he returned to Toronto and became vice-principal of the Ontario College of Art and a member of the Group of Seven.

He has done a great deal of sketching in various sections of the North Country and also in Quebec, and these environments have inspired many of his pictures. The idea of the necessity of the art element Lismer would carry into every avenue of the national life. He has written articles for a business man's magazine urging Canadian manufacturers to originate new designs in textiles, pottery, furniture and other manufactured products. He wants to see the manufacturer, the salesman, the retail merchant and the advertising man get together with the artist and find where the art element in life can play a part.

When five pictures were selected from the Wembley Exhibition by the Tate Gallery Committee in 1924, to be considered for purchase, Lismer's "September Gale," inspired while on a visit to Georgian Bay, was among the number. It was later purchased by the Canadian National Gallery at Ottawa.

Medical Writer Tells How To Keep Young Unto Ripe Old Age

Says Ambition, Vigor and Energy Ability and Healthy Vitality Should Not Be Confined to Youth

Just because you are past middle life, or due to Ill Health are an unhappy victim of chronic weakness, despondency, inertia and inability, don't give up hope and think you have to stay this way—and don't don't make the mistake of thinking your condition the natural consequence of age.

Many folks in their early thirties seem old and "worn out"—while others, well past sixty, appear to be in the prime of life. Youthfulness is not taken away by the passing of a certain number of years—but through carelessness or misunderstanding, it is often lost or almost killed.

No matter what you age may be, if you have not lost the desire to be at your best—you can surely be helped—and here's a simple test to quickly prove it. Go now to Bond's or your druggist and get a box of Double Strength Erbac and take it regularly according to directions for the full 20 days—then test your condition, your energy, strength and endurance. The value of the treatment can easily be proven by results!

Double Strength Erbac, a special private formular, is supplied in plain sealed packages only—and sold on a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. Try it today.

VISITING ARTIST.

An event anticipated with a great deal of pleasure is the annual concert of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir, which takes place this year in the Grand Opera House on Friday, March 30th. The assisting artist will be Miss Margaret Northrup, of New York, soprano singer widely heralded by the press of many American cities.

When Miss Northrup made her New York debut in 1923, the press reviews of her recital were marked by unanimous recogniton of the beautiful quality, splendid training, and ultimate promise of her voice, and all united in warm tribute to her art of interpretation, her clear diction, and her attractive stage presence.

That these first impressions have since been justified has been proved by the outstanding success which has attended Miss Northrup during the seasons which have followed.

Coenraad V. Bos, the eminent Dutch pianist and accompanist, was so impressed by her art, following her appearance in her home city, that he wrote the following unsolicited letter to the editor of the Washington (Pa.) Reporter:

"It was with the greatest pleasure that I played for Miss Northrup at her recital. Washington should certainly be proud of this charming singer. I have played for the greatest singers these many years, and I am sure that Miss Northrup soon will be known everywhere. Her career as a concert singer will be a wonderful one, and in after years, we shall probably remember with pride and pleasure her first concert in her home town as the remarkable start of many wonderful appearances."

Most important among Miss Northrup's appearances have been engagements with the Springfield Music Festival (in Carmen), Philadelphia Oratorio Society (Messiah), Toronto Oratorio Society (St. Paul), New York Philharmonic Orchestra (Israel), Montreal Choral Society (St. Matthew's Passion), Hamilton Elgar Choir (The Sun Worshippers), and Reading Choral Society (Bach, Dvorak).

FIRST AID TRAINING PROVES VALUABLE

Men Able To Help Many Others Besides Fellow Employees.

The growing recignition of the importance of first aid knowledge among industrial workers is exemplified in the annual report of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada.

Employees of the company's construction forces and other branches of the service have received a thorough training in first aid work. As a result, they have been able to render help in critical circumstances, not only to fellow employees but to other victims of accident or mischance, to the saving of both life and property. Of the company's male plant staff, numbering upwards of 4,400, over seventy-five per cent. are now qualified first aiders.

PROF. ELFORD TO SPEAK HERE

ASSOCIATION MEETS.

The Peterborough Poultry Association held its monthly meeting on Thursday evening, and a large crowd was present. The regular routine business occupied the major part of the evening after which a discussion took place regarding their plans for the coming season. The indications point to a steady increase in interest by the poultrymen of this district.

It was decided at this meeting that the association take out a membership in the Chamber of Commerce, and George Paxman, the treasurer, was appointed to represent the Poultry Association. It was also decided to hold the regular meetings of the association on the first Tuesday of every month and these meetings from now on will be held in the board room of the Chamber of Commerce.

It is expected Prof. F. C. Elford, of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, will address the meeting in April. Prof. Elford was elected last July in Ottawa as president of the World's Poultry Congress, which is being held again in London, Eng., in 1930.

Everyone interested in poultry should keep the above meeting in mind and be on hand to hear Prof. Elford, who is possibly the greatest authority on Poultry in Canada.

Frank H. Dawson, President, occupied the chair and conducted the meeting.

RIN-TIN-TIN HERE IN NEW THRILLER

The coming of Rin-Tin-Tin to the Regent is much like the coming of the circus; neither ever loses drawing power. Every time either is heralded, one can be assured of new throbs and thrills. "Jaws of Steel" puts Rinty in just such a light. "The Night Cry," "Hills of Kentucky," "The Clash of the Wolves" and a score more, have fixed themselves indelibly on the memory of millions. Rinty has been cheered at, hurrahed for, and here he is again, more compelling than ever, in a picture which shows him at a new and exciting angle.

Jason Robards, Helen Ferguson, Baby Mary Louise Miller, and all the rest of the support are satisfactory, but it is Rinty that wows 'em. He is first seen as a pup in the rickety flivver of the young Warrens who, with their small daughter, are on their way across the desert to prospect for gold. The pup is lost overboard, so to speak, (the pup is played by Rinty's youngest, Rinty, Jr.).

Years in the wastes change the whimpering waif into a savage creature, known to herdsmen as "The Killer." As last the Warrens strike gold, and a crook tries to defraud them. Then it is that the lost dog reclaims his own folks and fights for them in a way to make the fellers shout and whistle themselves hoarse. Among the startling exploits of Rinty is the way in which he evades the sheriff who comes to explore the cabin where the old scout has been killed. It is the belief of the posse that Rinty has done the deed. As if by magic the dog escapes up the chimney. Again his cleverness eludes death at the unwilling hand of the master he is bent on saving.

Ray Enright who directed Rin-Tin-Tin in "Tracked by the Police" is responsible for "Jaws of Steel" and he acquits himself magnificently and the photography is beautifully handled. The picture is one for the whole family. If any doubters of the dog's intelligence still exist, they, of all people should see Rin--Tin-Tin in his greatest work—"Jaws of Steel."

The man outside is not so comfortable

3 out of 5 taxi cab drivers said:

"We keep off rheumatism this way"

YOU have to just sit and take it—rain, snow, biting wind—hands gripped to the wheel until your arms and shoulders are numb!

Not so good for the old driving muscles! That left arm and elbow! It catches everything! After a day in the rain or snow, it's as wet as if you'd held it under a water tap. You've got to watch yourself or the first thing you know you're laid up with an attack of rheumatism.

We went out and asked hundreds of taxi drivers—just where we happened to find them—how they avoid the effects of exposure to wet and cold.

Three out of five said they use Sloan's.

When they are damp and chilled from hours of driving in snow or rain, they apply Sloan's over their backs, arms, shoulders and legs—and they never have a bit of trouble with stiffness or pain in the muscles.

In every trade hard workers praise this remarkable remedy

In every trade where men and women work hard with their muscles, or where they are exposed to dampness or to extremes of heat or cold, you hear praise of Sloan's Liniment.

A brakeman on the Chicago and Northwestern tells this story of the quick relief that Sloan's gave to a sprain and a wrenched ligament:

"I fell off the top of a box car on my left arm, spraining it and tearing the ligaments loose. I suffered considerable pain for about forty-eight hours. I got a bottle of Sloan's Liniment. It relieved the pain right away. It is now fifty-three hours since I was hurt. I have no pain at all to speak of. The swelling has nearly all gone down. I think it is the best liniment I have ever used. I suggest that anybody having a sprain get a bottle and apply it according to directions, and they will never be sorry." Harry M. Hall, Belle Plaine, Iowa.

One of the taxi drivers questioned. 3 out of 5 told us that they use Sloan's to ward off the effects of exposure and strain

Sloan's is sure—quick

No one should ever be without Sloan's Liniment in the house. It's the best first aid in case of a sprain, a strain, a wrench or a bruise. It works by the surest, most scientific method known for relieving pain. It stirs up the circulation—sends new blood to the place where the pain is—gives you quick, positive relief. At any druggist's—and many other stores besides—you can get a bottle that will last you a long time for 35 cents. Use Sloan's Liniment for:

Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Neuralgia, Lame Muscles, Stiff Neck, Colds and Congestions, Sprains and Bruises

Read what this doctor says of Sloan's: "People whose work exposes them to strain or to damp and cold usually suffer from a good deal of muscular soreness. We find that Sloan's gives them quick, positive relief."

What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

IV—Blood Sacrifice

PRIMITIVE man made another discovery: he found out that he could do things without being where the things he did were done. That is, he could throw a stone and knock over a rabbit twenty yards away. He could shoot an arrow and kill a deer. Presumably his gods also could hurl stones or thunder-bolts and shoot arrows and accomplish results at a distance. His gods were never very far away; the heavens in those days were not high, but he was conscious of them, and the crude beginning of gratitude were born in him when the gods seemed to be on his side.

Coming through the long desert and finding suddenly a cool spring, he thanked his gods for the refreshment; feeling the cold raw blasts give way before the conquering power of the sun, he humbled himself and prayed. He began to have some better qualities, that primitive beast-like man.

But he had his terrible side as well. He butchered his enemy without mercy and drank the blood. He lived long before Harvey's discovery of the circulation, but when he slit a throat the blood spurted, and to him that spurting was a manifestation of life in the blood. He came to believe that blood was precious, sacred.

Divides With Gods

It was his habit to divide with his gods whatever good things he gained; he thought the gods liked the flavor and smoke of cooking meat and that above all they liked blood. So bloody sacrifice entered into religions.

Thus we have our imaginary picture of primitive man in his two aspects: the beginnings in him of gratitude and affection, and the equally strong beginnings of cruelty, of superstition born of fear.

But somehow in the process of his development a strange thing occurred. There entered into that rude heart from somewhere a consciousness of what we call sin. He had committed some evil act and got away with it unrebuked—some particularly atrocious murder, some more than usually violent rape, some triumph within him of brute passion where his feeble reason taught him better—and this act left him not happy but depressed. This was an extraordinary experience, for not in all the history of the brute creation had it occurred before.

Adam and Eve

The Book of Genesis records it allegorically with the story of Adam and Eve and the forbidden fruit. What the real experience was, or whether there was any one experience or only a slow accretion of many, we may leave to the philosophers and theologians to inquire. But the fact is unmistakable.

In some great hour for the human race, primitive man felt struggling through his hatred and his lust a faint protest from a dawning conscience; he was ashamed, and trembled and hid himself from the gods. That experience in the old theology has been labeled the "fall of man," but if it was a fall it was a fall forward. The man had become like God, knowing good and evil. It was the first great upward step.

The first blood sacrifices, as we have conjectured, may have been a generous desire to share with the gods. Men liked meat, and the gods were nourished by the fragrant odor of it and the gratitude of the worshiper. But with the dawning of the sense of sin sacrifice took on a different aspect. Sacrifice was for sin and a means of forgiveness.

Sin Cost Life

It took a good while to work out the theory concretely, but little by little the generosity of the free-will offering became merged in the semi-penal form of sin-offering. And there was more and more occasion for blood, which had, let us admit, a certain harsh educational value. Men learned, however cruelly, that sin was expensive and destructive: it cost life.

Obviously, however, this system of sacrifices for sin had one sad result. It became a means of placating or bribing the gods. Sin was not always a breach of the moral law; it was anything which people imagined that the gods did not like, and the gods were by no means always moral, nor were the deeds at which they took offense invariably those that made men undesirable neighbors.

Precious Sacrifices

Whatever displeased the gods, whether grave or trivial, must be paid for in blood, and if not the blood of the man who had sinned then the blood of someone else. The blood of an enemy would sometimes answer the requirement, but for the most costly offense it must be the blood of a friend. The more precious the person the more the gods rejoiced in the blood. Thus many ancient peoples, including even some of those who are told about in the Bible, sacrificed their own children.

It is a tenacious thing, this idea of bloody sacrifice; it still hangs on. Religion to many people is even now something that hurts, and God is an unhappy being who will not be appeased or bribed to good conduct except through self-abasement and pain.

So much for conjecture.

LIBERAL LADIES MEET IN APRIL

Will Hold Dominion-wide Convention in Ottawa Next Month.

MUCH ON PROGRAM.

(Contributed.)

Coming from all over Canada, Liberal Women at their great National Gathering in Ottawa on April 17 and 18, will discuss mainly problems of interest to women in each of the provinces, and Liberal organization within the provinces. Prominent women speakers from each province will voice the needs and views of Liberal Women from their localities.

Among the important subjects for addresses and discussion will be legislation for women and children, old-age pensions, citizenship, organization, women's part in election campaigns, and the organization of Liberal Women, the subjects being dealt with as they apply to each province.

Of nation-wide interest to both women and men will be the discussion of women's use of the franchise, a subject which has been attracting a certain amount of attention recently. Mrs. Annie C. Hall of Brampton, President of the Ontario Women's Liberal Association, will speak on organization in Ontario, and Miss A. M. Hatfield, President of the Nova Scotia Women's Liberal Association, will cover the subject for her province. Other provinces will have similar representation on the programme.

The Provisional Committee of the National Federation of Women's Liberal Clubs, with headquarters at Ottawa, reports a heavy list of acceptances in response to the Convention call. A particularly large number of Quebec women have signified their intention of attending. Fairly adequate representation is assured to women in Liberal Ridings by the presence in Ottawa of the wives of Liberal Members of Parliament.

The April Meetings are unique in the political history of women in Canada. So far the National Political Organization of women has not progressed to any great extent, and this move on the part of Liberal women will undoubtedly give an impetus to the study of women's place in the country's political life.

This National Convention of Liberal Women from all parts of Canada is purely a movement by and for Liberal women. The National Provisional Committee at Ottawa, aided by the wives of the Cabinet Ministers and of Liberal Senators, as well as Liberal Members of Parliament, has made all arrangements for the meetings. The National meeting will be financed entirely by women—a point stressed because of periodic suspicion that such political movements for women are financed by men of the party for purely party purposes.

While Liberal Women are thus completely in charge of their own organization, however, they in no sense desire to form a women's party. Rather they want to assure the adequate organization of Liberal Women, and to further the cause of Liberalism among women.

Joint chairmen of the National Meeting will be Mrs. P. F. Casgrain of Montreal, wife of the Chief Liberal Whip; Mrs. C. H. Thorburn, of Ottawa, and Mrs. W. R. Motherwell, wife of the Minister of Agriculture. Numerous Committees are meeting daily at Ottawa to assure the entertainment and comfort of Convention visitors as well as to complete all the plans for the two days' Meeting.

What the Canadians Were Doing.

The greatest projector-gas bombardment in the course of the war was carried out by the Canadians on the night of March 22nd, against enemy positions between Lens and Hill 70. Sharply at eleven o'clock, a signal rocket gave notice of the zero hour. A moment later more than five thousand drums of lethal gas were released from trench-mortar-line projectors into the German positions from the outskirts of Lens north to Cite St. Auguste and the Bois de Dix Huit. From the opposing front lines, favouring winds carried the poisonous clouds back upon the enemy's dug-outs, and reserves. The whole front was lit up with enemy flares, dimly seen through a heavy mist, and our men in the line could hear the enemy's gas alarms and cries of distress. Nine minutes later, our field artillerly, supported by our heavy guns and heavy trench mortars, opened a slow bombardment, increasing in intensity until forty minutes later enemy positions were swept with a short, intensive, creeping barrage which raked his forward and rear areas with high explosives. Caught by our gas without a moment's warning, caught again as he was emerging from his dug-outs by our artillery fire, the enemy casualties must have been very heavy. The effectiveness of our previous gas operations had been proved emphatically by the evidence of prisoners, and this one was three times greater than anything of its kind ever attempted by the Canadians.

The German reply to our attack came some five hours later, when they launched a raid in strength against our lines in the Hill 70 sector. Advancing under the protection of a heavy trench-mortar barrage, mixed with high-explosive and gas shells, the enemy attacked along the whole of an Eastern battalion front. Beaten off from one company sector, he succeeded in gaining a footing on another company front. He did not hold his advantage for long. Attacking the Germans with bombs, bayonets, and revolvers, our men drove them in disorder from the trench. They left sixteen dead behind them and in their flight across No Man's Land they were caught in an artillery barrage which caused them further appreciable losses.

This offensive attack had the effect of frightening the Germans into anticipating an attack in force by the Canadians. This was a serious menace as the corps had the name of being the spear-head of British offensive attacks. It was therefore necessary to withdraw reserve divisions from the point of attack further south and move them up to combat the anticipated Canadian attack. This had the effect of materially relieving the situation on the Somme front.

During this same night and morning the first Canadian Motor Machine-Gun Brigade under orders from British G.H.Q. was withdrawn from the corps area and ordered south to the Fifth Army area, where the debacle was in progress. They left at 5.30 a.m. on the 23rd and their stirring adventures will be told tomorrow.

IN PRAISE OF MOTHER

A play which was both effective and instructive was given recently in St. George's church basement by scholars of the Sunday school. It was entitled "In Praise of Mother," the object being to point out the real significance of "Mothering Sunday," the old church name for Refreshment Sunday or the fourth Sunday in Lent.

In the first act, a family of children are greatly disappointed because their mother has been called away when they were looking forward to her reading for them. Acting on the suggestion of the eldest daughter, Alice, they have a "meeting" instead, about Mothering Sunday. Alice explains very fully the meaning of the day, and the children are full of enthusiasm over the thoughts of the presents they will get for mother, the violets they will gather and the simnel cake they will make. Absent members of the family are to be written to, especially "Jack," who has not written home for so long, and about whom mother is secretly fretting.

The second act shows Jack in camp reading the letter he has just received from his sister Ethel, urging him to join in the family spirit for Mothering Sunday and write a letter to mother. He determines to write at once, and sarts a letter, but becomes so tired that he lies down to take a sleep and dreams of home. Members of the family appear to him in his dreams, and the songs "Old Folks at Home," and "I Want to See the Dear Old Home Again" are heard in the distance. Perhaps the most impressive scene was where father, mother and family appear in the home enjoying the quiet recreation of home life, Alice singing sweetly "Love's Old Sweet Song." The church bells ring and the family answer the call of Mother church by retiring and softly singing "We Love the Place O God."

Jack awakes much impressed by his realistic dreams and hastens to finish and mail his letter to reach home for "Mothering Sunday."

The closing act depicts the morning of Mothering Sunday and mother at the breakfast table, wondering why the children are so late. Soon a scamper of feet is heard and the children come in, in procession, each with a present, the youngest girl leading the way carrying the simnel cake. Remembrances from the absent ones, and especially a letter from Jack, fill to overflowing the mother's cup of joy, and she is compared to the mother in the Bible whose "children rise up and call her blesed, her husband also and he praiseth her."

The children sing the song "Mothering," after which the ringing of the church bells remind them that Mother Church is calling and they respond to the call.

Those taking part in the play were as follows: Mother, Marjorie Sims; Father, Ernest Gibson; Alice, Beatrice Curtis; Nora, Frances Simmons; Ethel, Ruth Farr; Lucy, Evelyn King; Mary, Ruth McBride; Margaret, Ivey White; Jack, Kenneth Gibson; Olive (niece) Hilda Honughton.

Rev. J. L. and Mrs. Hughes were responsible for the training of the scholars, Mrs. Hughes also acting as accompanist. Mr. Tucker gave valuable help during the evening, especially in the way he manipulated the lantern in the second act ,producing the correct lighting effect while the rest of the room was in darkness.

The theme of "Mothering Sunday" was carried out in the church services on Sunday, when a special "Mothering Sunday" hymn was sung both morning and evening.

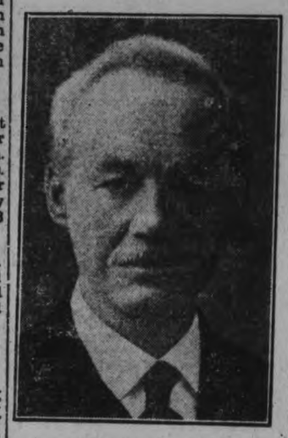
LABRADOR FOLK STURDY WORKERS

Add To World's Wealth of Fur and Fish—Helped By Grenfell.

For thirty-five years Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell (Oxen.) F.R.C.S., (now Sir Wilfred,) has braved the rigors of the Labrador climate, giving unselfishly to humanitarian work among the fisherfolk and trappers. The bleak and barren coast of Labrador has made life unbelievably hard for its inhabitants. The sturdy descendants of Devon and Dorset the Jersey Isles and Scotch and Irish fishermen, who came over during the last three centuries, have been practically cut off from contact with the outside world. The small resident population is augmented each summer by some twenty thousand deep sea fishers, coming from Southern Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and the Maine and Massachusetts coast. The interdenominational, nonsectarion and international character of the work is self-evident.

On this coast Sir Wilfred found an honest, simple people, totally lacking medical or surgical care uneducated and without schools, earning by diligence a precarious living through fishing, furring and sealing, and carrying on their trade largely through a system of barter.



Sir Wilfred Grenfell

The question is often asked whether. this population—resident and transient—is worthy of the effort and money expended on it; it is a question finding its answer in the fact that here live a sturdy, self-reliant people, who are fishermen and trappers by nature, who are unhappy when taken away from the coast, and who contribute, far out of proportion to their number, to the wealth of the world in fish and fur.

To-day, when the trend is toward centralization in cities, it would seem that any enterprise which tends to keep people in a country where their sturdy qualities and personal resourcefulness are developed, is worthy of consideration and support. Producing their share of the world's wealth, these courageous workers suffered untold hardships in bleak northlands and waters during the long years when even the rudimentary accepted perquisites for body and mind were lacking, but in these later years a new page has been written in the history of the inhabitans of Labrador, due to the undaunted determination of Sir Wilfred Grenfell and his associates reinforced by public benefactions, to provide for that outlying part of the British Empire the safeguards and advantages we so much enjoy and to allow these vigorous British people to work out their own destiny and to win public recognition in the land they love and in which they prefer to live.

TRINITY W.M.S.

Police Matron Amy Wood Gives Address On Her Work.

Trinity Women's Missionary Society met in regular session on Tuesday afternoon in Reid Street Hall, with a good attendance of the members. The president, Mrs. A. F. Bookhout, was in the chair. Later, when the meeting was handed over to Mrs. A. Switzer's group, the chair was taken by Mrs. J. Lillico.

The programme consisted of an interesting talk on her work given by Police Matron Amy Wood, and vocal solos by Mrs. W. H. Hohner and Mrs. W. J. Byers, with accompaniments played by Mrs. S. Richardson, Mrs. A. Fife, and Miss M. Clarry.

INTERESTING TALK GIVEN W.M.S. LADIES

Mrs. R. Harstone Speaks On "New Frontiers of Missions" at St. Andrew's.

An interesting address on "New Frontiers of Missions," was given by Mrs. R. Harstone, at the regular meting of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's church, held on Tuesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. J. W. Gordon, in the chair. There was a good attendance of the members.

Devotional exercises were followed by the reading of reports by the secretary, Mrs. B. Barns, and the treasurer, Mrs. W. Zeihr. Mrs. F. Dixon reported on the allocation for the year.

A Thankoffering will be held in April.

The meeting was featured by the presentation to Mrs. George Munro of a life membership. This was made by Miss Elizabeth Ferguson, and was suitably acknowledged.

A very much appreciated vocal solo was given by Mrs. G. H. Spicer.

Voice of the People

ABOUT THE SHELTER

Dear Sir: I would like space in The Examiner to deny some of the statements made at the C.A.S. meeting on Tuesday, 20th. In the first place, my contract calls for cleanliness both for the Shelter and the children. The children are bathed every week and some of them, the smaller ones, several times a week, which has been necessary to keep them passably sweet and clean. Their clothes were not always changed as the ladies suggested, as there was not always a supply of clothes available. As for nine safety pins; where could they have been? His clothing must have been all pinned together, which does not reflect credit on the board.

Secondly, my contract calls for enforced discipline, which I can prove has been done in much milder form than was the case before we came. How can a child be taught to obey if it has to be coaxed with two or three candies, as Mrs. Welsh suggests or did on one occasion? The child under discussion is three years old and was fighting his older brother, who was trying to unfasten his clothes in the toilet, as he does on many occasions, and Mr. Brooks and Miss Munroe will both verify this statement; that the boy had fought and cried for five minutes before Mr. Brooks went down to the room. Mr. Brooks was still white and trembling when I came home half an hour later, not with anger at the child, but at the ladies for interfering.

Another case mentioned at the meeting was a boy brought here by Mr. Edgar, who said if the boy gave trouble to take him across a chair and spank him until he could not sit down comfortably, which Mr. Brooks did; and I spoke to Mr. Edgar about it. I said I could manage the boy myself, which I have done since,—even though I am too old for the job.

In the case mentioned by Mrs. Darcey, the boy had played outside until he was cold and couldn't wait to go to the bath room. He came to the play room to take off his coat and mitts, shutting the door behind him and in his hurry and with his hands cold he could not open the door. The child is not afraid of being spanked and has no need to be. The playroom door has never been locked excepting one day; and that time Mrs. Fanning told me the door must never be locked, and it never has been since.

It is false that the children are kept shut in a room and the ladies never see them. I have sent the children back to the play room on sewing days, so as not to bother the ladies—not knowing they were so fond of them.

As for children being dirty on inspection day. There must have been a number of polite lies told on that occasion, as we were complimented by a number of people who visited the place, and through The Examiner afterward, and the ladies themselves appeared to be well satisfied. We have had the County Council, the Grand Jury, and also Government Inspectors visit the place and they all saw the children and gave good reports. We must have gotten very old and very dirty in the last six weeks.

Mrs. J. M. BROOKS,
Matron of Children's Shelter.

POSTPONE ACTION.

Committee Will Decide To-day Whether Strike Be Called For Monday.

LONDON, Ont., March 23 (Canadian Press). — The local Board of Education yesterday afternoon received the students' petition, demanding reinstatement of two Collegiate Institute teachers, or "sufficient" reasons for their dismissal, and postponed action on the petition until a further meeting which will be held in camera.

The Board dealt likewise with letters from the Trades and Labor Council of London, the London and Provincial Federation of Teachers, all of which protested the manner in which the dismissals of C. Y. Bluett and E. C. Lichner from the Central Collegiate staff, had been handled by the Board.

Last night officials of the students' committee which threatened a strike to-day unless satisfactory action was taken by the Board yesterday, stated that there will be strike until Monday at all events. A meeting of the students' committee has been called for to-day to decide whether or not a strike will be called for Monday.

Favor Waiting.

The present feeling among the student leaders seems to favor waiting until the Board has dealt with the various requests on behalf of the teachers, and has stated ots decision.

In their petition, the students admitted that Mr. Bluett was "no fashion plate," this reference to the fact that carelessness of dress is one of the reasons given for his dismissal. The students, however, deny the "unsanitary habits" attributed to Mr. Bluett ,and also went on record as disagreeing with the charge that he is too strict a disciplinarian.

In a three-page letter, the local Teachers' Federation said the Board should give reasons for their action, and deplored the publicity which had resulted from the situation, saying that it would make it more difficult for London to secure the better type of teacher.

Chairman Dr. Bowman told the students that they regarded the petition as a demonstration of loyaley to the teachers, and reminded them that the Board was elected to administer the schools, and must take responsibility for so doing. Dr. Bowman told the Canadian Press that the trustees would meet early next week, probably on Monday, to deal with the matter.

Demand Decision.

LONDON, Ont., Mar. 23.—(Canadian Press.)—Failure of the Board of Education to deal definitely with the appeals for the reinstatement of C. Bluett and E. Liebner as requested yesterday by students, teachers and private citizens, has not decreased the prospect of a student walkout at Central Collegiate. An early appeal was made to-day to the students by Bluett and Liebner not to strike at least until such time as the Board had given its answer. Believing that the Board only postponed action with the express purpose of upsetting hitherto arranged plans for a strike on Monday, the students are standing firm by their latest statement that unless the Board replies by Saturday night they will walk out on Monday in any case. A strike seems inevitable as the hours pass.

TOPIC OF INTEREST FOR SUNDAY SERMON

Rev. William Allan Will Give Address On Impatience of a Parson.

"The Impatience of a Parson," will be the unusual subject of the Rev. William Allan at the evening service in St. Paul's Presbyterian church this coming Sunday evening, and since it is based on several thoughts found in the widely favored book of the same name, and is built up to hold a local interest, it promises to be one of the finest sermons delivered in St. Paul's for some time.

The music at this Sunday's services will be of a special nature, the feature soloist being Ronald Fortune, tenor soloist of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's, of Montreal. Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., organist will also be heard in a brief recital which begins at 6.45 p.m., compositions by Bach and Dr. Pearce to be rendered.

Sinclair Not Barred From New York Tracks

NEW YORK, Mar. 23.— (Associated Press.)—The colors of Harry F. Sinclair and his Rancocas Stable, although barred in Maryland, will be carried this year on New York tracks.

After considering the action of the Maryland Racing authorities, the stewards of the jockey club, controlling turf body in New York, adopted a resolution yesterday stating that it "in no way affected the entries of the Rancocas Stable on race courses under the jurisdiction of the Jockey Club."

No explanation of their decision was issued, but it is understood that stewards based their ruling on the ground that Sinclair's activities on the turf are not affected by any developments outside that sphere. The Maryland Commission barred the oil operator as a result of his connection with the Teapot Dome scandal and its resultant political ramifications.

McDONALD PAYS DEATH PENALTY

Dies This Morning For Murder of Adelard Bouchard Near Valleyfield.

MEETS END BRAVELY.

VALLEYFIELD, Que., March 23 (Canadian Press). — George McDonald, convicted murderer of Adelard Bouchard, went to his death bravely here to-day, mounting the gallows steps with firm gait and head erect. The execution took place at 5.37 a.m., and twelve minutes later the body was cut down by Hangman Ellis.

Sheriff Crepin led the way up to the platform, with McDonald right at his heels ,accompanied by Rev. Father Verschelden, chaplain of the Bordeaux Jail, Montreal, and the assistant hangman.

No newspapermen were admitted to the scene, but a statement was made later by the prison officials. The inquest was held at eight a.m., the jury returning a verdict of death by hanging.

A telegram was received at the jail during the night for George from his wife, Doris. It read: "To-morrow mass and communion will be offered, and I will never cease to pray for you. May the Blessed Lady receive you at the gate of heaven."

On reading the message, George murmured, "God bless her soul."

It was the first communication between husband and wife since Wednesday when the Governor-in-Council commuted the woman's sentence to life imprisonment.

The actual preparations for the hanging began at four o'clock when McDonald was awakened. He had slept well during the night. Mass was celebrated by the priest, during which the doomed man received holy communion. At the conclusion of the ceremony McDonald knelt by the side of his spiritual adviser in prayer, 75 men, prisoners, officials, and detectives ,attending the service. There was a delay of half an hour as Hangman Ellis insisted on waiting until daylight.

Sheriff Crepin commented later on McDonald's bravery. "Yesterday he said to me, 'You wait and see if I don't mount the gallows with firm step and head erect,' and he certainly did," the sheriff said.

On the scaffold Father Verschelden said: "Jesus, Redeemer, have mercy on my soul." McDonald repeated it over and over after the priest, and while he was still doing so the trap was sprung.

No newspapermen were admitted to the scene of the hanging.

FESTIVE MEETING PLANNED BY CLUB

Automobile Association's Annual Banquet To Be Happy Affair.

That there will be plenty of "zip" to the annual general meeting of the Peterborough Automobile Club, to be held in the Empress Hotel on Tuesday, April 3, at 6.30 p.m., is evidenced by records of a meeting of the committee in charge of entertainment, comprising the vice-president, Thomas M. Dutton, J. L. Gillespie, and the secretary, F. G. Stinson, is arranging for an orchestra, song leader ,and soloists to be in attendance, and for some "stunts," while paper favors, balloons, etc., will give a festive appearance. The club is most anxious that there be a large attendance of lady motorists.

Richard A. Stappells, manufacturer, of Toronto, who is the president of the Ontario Motor League, with which the Peterborough club is affiliated, will be the chief speaker of the evening, and it is also hoped to have one or two Peterborough men speak on subjects of local interest. The customary annual reports will be presented to the meeting in condensed form.

INSPECTOR REPORTS.

Returning Officer Admits He Might Not Have Packed Unused Ballots.

TORONTO, March 23 (Canadian Press). — Examination of the boxes returned from Ottawa North did not throw any light on the missing unused ballot paper that should have been returned from the last Ottawa South provincial election, Horace Wallace, King's printer, told Commissioners Magee and Hodgins at today's session of the ballot inquiry.

Inspector Stringer of the Provincial Police, who made investigations in Ottawa this week, produced sixty-three ballots given him by C. Dore, Ottawa, who said his daughter had picked up ballots on Aylmer Avenue. He said the locks on the doors in the building where the returning officer had his office were mostly broken.

The feature of the session, however, was the admittance by F. Scott, returning officer, that he might not have packed up the unused ballot paper and undistributed ballots for shipment back to Toronto. In the light of evidence that had been given, he said, he must have neglected to put the ballots in the box. He was in a "peculiar frame of mind" when he had made the statements that jealousy might have prompted someone to open the boxes, he said.

I.O.D.E. PLANS NEW MEMORIAL

To Be Erected in Little Lake Cemetery, Replacing Present One.

57TH REGIMENT CHAPTER.

The efforts of the 57th Regimental Chapter I.O.D.E. will be directed particularly during the coming year toward a project to replace by something more substantial a small wooden memorial now erected in Little Lake Cemetery to the memory of fallen soldiers of Canada who are not interred in the local burying-ground. This was decided at the regular meeting of the Chapter, held yesterday in the Armories with the regent, Mrs. R. Cottrell, presiding. The exact nature which this will take has not yet been decided, but the ladies were of the opinion that a more worthy memorial might well be erected.

The sum of $10 was donated to Colonel W. G. Hall for use of the Peterborough Rangers, in purchasing prizes for the shooting contest.

A local family who has been receiving assistance from the Chapter during the father's absence in Christie Street Hospital was also voted $10.

A new member, Miss Ida Wesley was welcomed, and representatives to the Local Council of Women were appointed, in the regent, Mrs. R. Cottrell; Mrs. R. E. Clark, Mrs. E. B. Clegg, and Mrs. F. S. Schneider.

League Committee Finds It Impossible To Carry Out at Present.

GENEVA, March 23 (Canadian Press).—The Soviet project for complete disarmament was given its death blow by the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations to-day. Notice of the project's demise was postponed, however, until it was found whether the committee's own draft on disarmament would go to second reading this session. The resolution closing the debate on disarmament noted that practically all the members find the Soviet text, while in harmony with the ideals of mankind, is under existing world conditions incapable of being carried out.

Captain Tells Court Had Not Been Paid In Full For Two Smuggling Voyages

PHILADELPHIA, March 23 (Canadian Press).—Leslie Tibbo of Halifax, captain of the seized British rum running steamship Bulko, the government's chief witness against the two alleged "master minds" on trial for the third time, yesterday testified that he had made two liquor smuggling voyages without collecting all of his pay.

This is the third time in two months the defendants John McCambridge, owner of a fleet of tug boats in New York, and Jack Murphy, Halifax, NS., alleged supercargo of the alleged rum syndicate, have faced smuggling and conspiracy charges in the Federal courts here in connection with the Bulko, seized last September with a liquor cargo valued at $500,000.

The trial is before Judge William H. Kirkpatrick and a jury of ten men and two women. In the first two trials, the juries disagreed and the court directed the acquittal of Samuel Bernstein, New York, and Morris Rotman, Providence, R.I., described as the "money men" of the alleged plot, for lack of evidence.

Tibbo's testimony was directed chiefly against Murphy, who, he said, had "hired" him to ship on the rum runners, Tilly, Newton Bay and the Bulko. He said that Murphy was aboard the Bulko, formerly known as the Lairg, when the vessel landed a big cargo of liquor at Oyster Bay, in July, 1926.

KENWORTHY DEMANDS FULL ENQUIRY INTO NAVY INCIDENT

Refers To Possibility That Full Facts May Never Be Known.

ONE PRINCIPLE INVOLVED.

Had Already Heard Dozen Different Versions of What Had Happened.

LONDON, March 23 (Canadian Press Cable).—In the debate on the navy estimates in the House of Commons yesterday, Lt.-Commander J. M. Kenworthy, Labor member for Central Hull, pressed for the widest possible inquiry into the trouble on board H.M.S. Royal Oaks at Malta, which resulted in the suspension of three senior naval officers.

He referred to the possibility that the terms of the reference of the court martial might be so narrowly drawn that the full facts would never be elicited and stated he already had heard a dozen different versions of what had happened. The principle of highest importance involved was whether the naval personnel—perhaps an officer to-day but a seaman, stoker, or marine to-morrow—who preferred a complaint affecting naval discipline, should have the whole circumstance examined or only the mere act of laying the complaint.

Commander C. Bellaire, Conservative, Maidstone, supporting Lt.-Commander Kenworthy, said that the form of the letter sent in by Captain Kenneth C. B. Dewar and Commanded H. M. Daniels, the officers to be courtmartialed, was not important compared with the truth of the charges made, and declared that "if the captain of a battleship costing six million pounds is unable to get his case stated justly, what chance has a poor man on the lower deck?"

Cheered Officers

Rear Admiral T. P. H. Beamish, Conservative, Lewes, hotly contested Commander Bellair's action in mentioning that the crew of the Royal Oaks had cheered the captain and commander as they left the ship to return to England. Any popular officer, he said, got something in the nature of a cheer when he left the ship.

Lt.-Col. C. M. Headlam, undersecretary of state for the admiralty, emphasized the admiralfy's determination that the court martial should be carried out in the spirit of the navy. The officers, he said, would be given full justice. Commander Bellairs expressed satisfaction at the statement.

THE WEATHER

The temperature went down to 18 degrees last night, making solid for a short time at least the deep slush that disgraces so many of our sidewalks. Highest yesterday 44 degrees. As the sleighing is now about at its end, I have tabulated the good days of sleighing this winter, as well as those that might be considered poor. I have found that the days of sleighing this winter are almost one-third less than usual. There were 50 days on which sleighing might be classed as good, and nineteen or twenty when it could be considered only poor. In Peterborough the number of days sleighing generally totals from ninety to one hundred.—W. P.

Hanging Announced An Hour Too Soon

VALLEYFIELD, March 23 (Canadian Press).—The body of newspapermen waiting outside the walls of the jail here to-day for news of the hanging of George McDonald sent out slightly premature announcements of the execution when, shortly before five a.m., an official of the Provincial Police came out and told them the execution had taken place. This was denied a few minutes later by another police official, and newspapermen resumed their wait until six a.m., when the black flag was hoisted to the jail flagstaff.

Gold Export Drains New York Reserve

NEW YORK, Mar. 23.—(Canadian Press.) — The United States' huge gold reserve was depleted $4,000,000 more yesterday when the French American Banking Corporation shipped that amount of the metal to Buenos Aires. This increased the total shipments to South America in the last week to $8,200,000.

Of this amount, $1,370,000 was consigned to Brazil, and prior to yesterday's shipment, the Federal Reserve Bank reported exports aggregating $4,200,000 to the Argentine.

A further movement of the gold held earmarked here for the Bank of France, was also reported by the Federal Reserve Bank. The amount of the shipment was $11,925,000 raising the total amount of French earmarked gold withdrawn from this market to about $25,000,000, all of which went from New York in the past two weeks.

Aggregate exports of gold in the week ended March 21 were $17,840,000, against imports of only $259,000. Wednesday's consignments of $1,000,000 to London and $2,000,000 to Hamburg were not reported to the Federal Reserve Bank in time for inclusion in the report.

PROGRESS MADE ON BIG BRIDGE

Engineer Explains Work Done Since He Spoke Here Last.

OVER MONTREAL HARBOR.

Almost two years ago P. L. Pratley, M.E.I.C., of the firm of Monsarret & Pratley, consulting engineers, Montreal, spoke before the Peterborough branch, Engineering Institute of Canada. At that time he outlined the work of building the famous Montreal Harbor Bridge, construction of which was just nicely under way.

Last night in the Chamber of Commerce Council Room, Mr. Pratley again addressed the Peterborough branch, this time with a splendid report of progress made on the new bridge, for in so doing, he delivered an address quite on a level with other highly informative addresses delivered before the local branch, by other speakers.

The meeting, which was called to order at 8.15 by A. E. Caddy, M.E.I.C., chairman, who briefly re-introduced Mr. Pratley. For over an hour thereafter the attention of all was held by the splendid collection of slides thrown on the screen and explained by the speaker.

"Progress on the Montreal Harbor Bridge" was the title given Mr. Pratley's address. The slides played a large part, but in his delivery of detail, the speaker showed himself possessed of a remarkable memory and understanding of his subject. The major portion of the story of progress was devoted to an outline of the pier construction, showing the various stages of the work, the sinking of the huge steel caissons, work with the compressed air apparatus, and cementing therein.

This part finished, the engineers were shown the laying of all steel work from pier to pier, and economic and other charts.

At the close of his address, Mr. Pratley was tendered a hearty vote of appreciation.

STUDENTS VOTE TO END STRIKE AT UNIVERSITY

Return To Their Classes This Afternoon—Suspended Men Back On Monday.

WILL SEEK CREDITS.

President of Alumni Association To Act As Mediator, Asking For Committee.

KINGSTON, Ont., March 23 (Canadian Press).—The Queen's University students' strike, which went into effect yesterday, came to an end today, when at a big mass meeting in Grant all they decided to return to their classes this afternoon. In the meantime, the three suspended students over whom the strike resulted, will be reinstated on Monday, this being the date set by the Senate.

The strike came to an end after R. Sweezy, Montreal, president of the alumni association, addressed the students and appealed to them to consider the position of the minority of students who have missed all the classes they can, and who would probably lose their year if the strike continued. He gave them the assurance that he would do all he could to try and have the striking students given credit for attendance during the time they have been on strike if they would return to classes and also said that he would see the Senate regarding the appointment of a joint committee of students and the Senate to handle such cases in future.

Last night students were roaming the streets, and the only topic of conversation about the campus and the streets is the strike, the most drastic action that has ever been taken by students at the university. The proposed parade has been abandoned and there was no indication that there would be any untoward action. About the college yesterday morning appeared several signs, which however soon disappeared. One was a bill of rights, calling for the resignation of the principal, the registrar and Prof. R. O. Jolliffe; another bore the words "Justice or Jolliffe," while another had "How many Taylors does it take to make a Man."

SAFETY WORK HAS RESULTS

Field Officer Points To Decrease in Number of Children Killed.

ADDRESSES PUPILS.

P. B. La Trope, field secretary of the Ontario Safety League, addressed the pupils of four of Peterborough's schools yesterday on safety principles and how to prevent accidents. This year a bigger campaign than ever is being conducted by the Ontario Safety League and part of this program is to educate the school children so that they might practise safety principles

"In 1927 there were 1,548 fatal accidents in Ontario, an increase of 97 over the previous year. Thirteen fewer school children were killed during the year, which goes to show that results are being obtained by these campaigns among the school children. Of the 41 different hazards in which these 1,549 people met their deaths the automobile ranks first with a total of 422 people losing their lives, an increase of 124 over 1926. Drownings took a toll of 318 lives during the year," said Mr. La Trope.

During the morning, Mr. La Trope was accompanied by Chief Constable S. Newhall, and in the afternoon by Inspector J. Reid.

Mr. La Trope illustrated his address with lantern slides and moving pictures and had community singing, which was greatly enjoyed by the children. In his address, Mr. La Trope spoke of the dangers in the home from fire, poison, and matches. While on the street the child was cautioned about stealing rides on sleighs, motors and carts, the danger of riding with two on a bicycle. The proper way to cross streets was shown the boys and girls, and they were warned against jay walking or cutting across intersections.

Inspector Reid told the children that when he came to Peterborough 16 years ago there was only one automobile, and that was owned by Dr. Carmichael. Now there are 4,700 licenses issued annually." He warned the children about rushing across the streets without first stopping and looking.

"In the summer this city has a great tourist trade and everyone must realize that the more accidents we have the more safety prevention work must be done to protect the lives of the boys and girls in this city," said Inspector Reid.

There were 1,050 boys and girls who heard the lectures. The schools visited were Central, Prince of Wales, Lake Street, and St. Mary's.

18 SUITE APARTMENT HOUSE PLANNED FOR PETERBOROUGH AS LINK IN CHAIN OF CITIES

$20 A ROOM RENT.

Site Not Definitely Chosen, President States—Two Under Consideration.

TORONTO, Ont., March 23. — (Special.)—Construction in Peterborough of a four-storey building of up-to-date apartment dwellings, a link in a chain of such enterprises located in a number of the leading cities in the province, has been decided upon by York Apartments, Limited, Toronto, said Kenneth McLeod, president of the company this morning. Two sites in Peterborough are now being considered, said Mr. McLeod, but no definite decision has been arrived at. He refused to divulge the location of either.

"It would be inadvisable to say anything just now as to the district we are considering," he said; "but we expect to have a final decision as to the site and the type of building made before May 1."

The rent situation in Peterborough would influence the type of house to be erected intimated Mr. McLeod. The apartments will be ultra-modern in every detail, in that they will contain electric refrigerators, ranges and fire places.

"If the real estate men of the city can assure us of $20 per month per room the apartments will be all of fireproof construction. Twenty dollars per month is the minimum we can accept for these dwellings, so that if the real estate dealers think this rent cannot be obtained, we will have to put up a building other than of fireproof construction, and costing less to erect. The building will be known as the Peterborough-York Apartments."

Mr. McLeod expressed the opinion it would contain eighteen suites. Mr. McLeod, who stated that he had never before been in Peterborough, intends to visit the city within the next two weeks to supplement present information by personal observation.

York Apartments will own and operate the dwellings, the Atlas Tenance and Development Company, 1129 Bay street, Toronto, assuming responsibility for financing and construction.

Plans and specifications have been completed for the erection of similar houses in Brantford, Kitchener and Stratford, and the directors intend to branch out into other cities of corresponding size and population.

The York Apartments, said Mr. McLeod, are being erected only in cities where the demand for modern accommodation is most insistent. Fire insurance for the full insurable value of all buildings and equipment will be carried, and in no case will it be for less than the total amount of first motgage bonds outstanding at any time.

Object To Re-marriage Of Divorced Persons

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., March 23 (Canadian Press). — At its next meeting ,the Manitoba Conference of the United Church of Canada will be asked by the Superior Presbytery to pass legislation forbidding its ministers to re-marry a divorcee, male or female.

A resolution favoring this action was passed by the local ministers of the United Church here, following one of the hottest debates in the annals of the local organization.

The resolution, a lengthy document, urges in part:

"That the church make it clear that the marriage vow is essentially a matter of inward agreement and intention, and not a matter of convention or ceremony however expedient, and that neither the church nor the state can make a marriage union. They can only endorse it."

WALTER FISHER IS RE-APPOINTED

Will Pay $800 For Market Tolls For 1928—Two Tenders Received.

$5.00 DIFFERENCE.

W. Fisher was re-appointed market clerk at the Property Committee meeting of the City Council last night. Only two tenders were submitted, W. Fisher's for $800 and Nat Carew's for $805. Although Mr. Carew's was the highest tender it was the opinion of the majority of the committee that Mr. Fisher, with his experience and the service he has rendered, was entitled to the appointment as the difference in the tenders was almost negligible.

Aldermen Phelan and McIntyre moved that Mr. Carew be given the appointment and Mayor Denne and Alderman Huffman moved an amendment in favor of Mr. Fisher. Alderman Phelan maintained that when tenders were advertised that it was the duty of the committee to allow it to the man who would pay the most for the privilege.

Alderman Stocker, chairman of the Board of Works, was asked to find other accommodation for the street commissioner's car as the city garage needed the room for the police cars.

The members of the committee will make an effort to come to an agreement with the City Trust so that the East City Hall might be utilized for concerts. The members felt that the citizens across the river were entitled to have it opened up and they believed that if arrangements could be made with some responsible person to look after the hall the City Trust would agree to the repairing.

Those present were Alderman Ackerman (chairman), Mayor Denne, Alderman Phelan, Stocker, Huffman and McIntyre.

TORONTO BOYS ARE REMANDED

Five Young Lads, Four of Them Probationers, Held For Week.

CONVICTED IN TORONTO.

Five Toronto youths, four of them with previous convictions and at present out on probation, appeared in Police Court this morning charged with vagrancy, and were remanded for a week, as Judge Mott of Toronto is considering sentencing the boys on their previous convictions.

Some time on Wednesday afternoon the boys drifted into this city, having stolen a ride on the train. One boy had an aunt here, and there they went to have their supper. Later on in the evening, while they were wandering around, they were arrested by Constable Wheeler and Sergeant Deannard. The parents of the boys were communicated with in Toronto, but they refused to have anything to do with the cases.

Joseph Farmer, 16, William Brioux, 17, and J. Bevridge, 16, pleaded guilty to the charge of vagrancy, and were remanded for one week. Two others, 14 and 15, were tried in the Juvenile Court ,but did not plead, and were remanded to jail for a week when John Edgar, agent for the Children's Aid Society, would not assume the responsibility of producing the boys when they would be called upon to stand trial.

Farmer, Brioux, Hobson and Conley were all convicted about four weeks ago in the Toronto Court of breaking into a store at the corner of Queen and Wright Streets and stealing a quantity of tobacco and cigarettes.

REV. WILLIAM ALLAN PREACHES AT PERTH

New Church Not Large Enough To Accommodate Lecture Audience.

The opening and dedication of the new St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Perth, on the fifth anniversary of the destruction by fire of the former beautiful edifice, is a Phoenix-like event. Last Sunday and Monday, Rev. William Allan, minister of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, was the preacher in connection with the opening of this new building. The Perth Courier writes as follows:

"A congregation that completely overcrowded into the gallery of new St. Andrew's Church on Monday evening heard with delight and appreciation the lecture, 'The Scotsman At Home and Abroad,' by Rev William Allan, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough, who preached at both services on Sunday. The large congregation present on Monday was not a surprise, for Rev. Mr. Allan's reputation as a lecturer and preacher had preceded him to Perth, and his two able discourses on Sunday sufficiently advertised the distinguished visiting divine to guarantee a large congregation on Monday. For two hours Rev. Mr. Allan took his hearers on an imaginary trip through Scotland, north to south, east to west, touching and describing Glasgow, Edinburgh, Inverness, Perth and other prominent centres, then to Australia, and finally to the United States and Canada. His lecture was replete with enough wholesomely humorous stories to fill a good-sized book, keeping the congregation in continual convulsions of laughter, and will be long remembered by those who availed themselves of the privilege of enjoying a treat all too seldom heard in Perth."

The minister of St. Andrew's Church is the Rev. Bunyan McLeod, D.D., and the new building is a splendid tribute to his executive ability.

UNITED STATES NOT FAVORABLE TO PROPOSAL

Would Not Remove Dockage and Inspection Charges on Export Grain.

ALONG ATLANTIC SEABOARD

Effort To Place Ports On Equality With Canadian Shipping Points.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 23.—(Canadian Press.)—The United States' department of agriculture is not favorable to the proposal to remove dockage and inspection charges on export grain.

The proposal was made here at a meeting Monday night by Senators from Maine, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia with representatives of business men from Atlantic City ports in these states.

It was decided that Secretary of Agriculture Jardine would be informed upon his return to the capital Monday that the temper of the meeting was that inspection and dockage charges at United States' ports should be removed to place those ports on an equality with Canadian ports, where dockage is not charged.

The secretary has not signified his attitude, but officials of his department express the opinion that removal of the dockage charge of two per cent. on the current price of export grain would not prevent grain being shipped through Canadian ports. The disparity in freight rates on grain from the western states to the head of the Great Lakes is the real handicap on United States' grain for export officials think in some cases rates on United States' grain eastbound is eleven cents a bushel higher than on Canadian grain from the same zones to Fort William. There is every indication, however, that senators from the Atlantic seaboard states will vigorously support the attitude of business men from the ports of their states and urge removal of the dockage charges. The argument to be used is that if the United States can export grain at all in the teeth of the higher freight rates, that grain should go via United States ports and would go through United States' ports if the average of three cents a bushel dockage wasremoved. It will be suggested that the fact that Canadian grain is exempt from these charges is the reason why Buffalo gets handling of so much Canadian export wheat..

Ensured Proper Cleaning.

The department of agriculture takes the stand that the dockage charge was put in to ensure the proper cleaning of export wheat at the seaboard and to maintain the quality and standard of United States' wheat in the markets of the world. Decrease of vigilance at the ports might mean that the standard would be allowed to diminish, it is suggested. A stiff fight over the proposal is in prospect.

MARMORA, March 23.—The excellencies and weaknesses of the sexes came to the front on Wednesday evening, at the meeting of the Marmora Literary and Social Society. A mirth provoking Cambridge debate was conducted. It was resolved that in every respect woman is equal to man. Miss Reta Kenney led on the affirmative side, her opponent being A. R. Millar. All members present were allowed the privilege of taking part in the discussion. Needless to relate, the count of the subsequent vote was not declared.

FATHERS AND SONS HOLD BIG BANQUET

Lakefield Tuxis Square Holds Successful Get-together Event.

LAKEFIELD, March 23.—The Katchewanooka Tuxis Square, of which A. B. Burrows is Mentor, held a well attended and highly successful Father and Son banquet on Tuesday evening, in the basement of the Regent Street Church. There were between fifty and sixty present, and about 7.30 all were seated at the attractively decorated tables which were arranged in rectangular form. Following the supper, which was enlivened by hearty chorus singing, a brief toast list was run off with A. B. Burrows acting as toastmaster. Kenneth Kemp proposed the toast to the fathers, and said: "This banquet was prepared to honor the fathers who have endured much and made many sacrifices to give their sons a good start in life. We hope that one of the results of this will be even better co-operation between fathers and sons." C. S. Tanner replied to this, expressing appreciation of the honor given them.

Harry Sherin replied on behalf of the boys and he asked, "What is it that every father desires for his son —a place in the world and success in that place. I will challenge anyone to give a better definition of success than the following: 'It isn't the cut of the clothes that you wear, Nor the stuff of which they are made, although chosen with taste and care; and it isn't the price that you paid. It isn't the size of your pile in the bank, nor the number of acres you own. It isn't a question of prestige or rank, nor sinew or muscle or bone. It isn't the servant that comes at your call, it isn't the things you possess, whether many or little or nothing at all. It is the service which measures success.'"

Mr. Burrows proposed the toast to the ladies, and the reply was given briefly by the only lady privileged to be present. Following this, Messrs. Burrows, H. Wannamaker and Kenneth Kemp sang a trio entitled "Tommy the Cat", and "The Campbells are Coming," all attired in kilts, sporrans represented by white wash brushes, and tams. Mr. Burrows was soloist while Messrs. Kemp and Wannamaker played the bagpipes which, like the sporrans, were home made of straight material which included hockey sticks.

Rev. David Wren of Trinity Church, Peterborough, principal speaker of the evening, was then called. Mr. Wren expressed pleasure at being present on such an occasion. There are three questions the speaker three questions the speaker often asks when addressing service clubs and gatherings boys: Where do you live, what do you do, what do you see? "It is a sad thing when a boy is afraid to tell his father where he has been. Youth today faces temptation which did not belong to our age, life is a complex and one is not sure that the time has come when we can prohibit what was forbidden in our day. Every age has had a task and every age has made a special contribution which is only suitable to that age. Our only way to know the world that youth is living in, is by a spirit of comradeship and being our boy's chums.

"Passing over the second question: 'What do you do'; we take the third 'What do you see?' It liwl be a great thing when fathers and sons fail to see the ignoble and learn to see the best for them. Never was a time when so many men and women, boys and girls wanted the best as at present. It is a great task and a tremendous responsibility for those who see only the best. It is a good thing to dream. The men who came together and brought about the confederation of provinces which to-day is our beloved Canada, had a vision. The greatest dreamers of the world had visions which must come true when the swords will turn into ploughshares, when men of all creeds will come together in the brotherhood of Love. Let us do our part to bring to fulfillment, the dream of Jesus, making a friend of Him who is ever the friend of youth."

Messrs. Lemay and Kemp moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Wren. Rev. J. V. McNeeley, pastor of Bridgenorth and Selwyn United Churches, was the next speaker. "In our lives we make acquaintances and friends, we use the former and enjoy the latter. Is the relation between father and son that of friend or acquaintance? It is for the father to make the first step. What a delightful thing it is when father and son are friends, sharing their work and play." Mr. McNeeley has been the leader of the boys at the Bay of Quinte summer school for some years, two years in Bobcaygeon and last year at Oak Lake, Stirling; and extended a cordial invitation to the boys, whether Tuxis Boys or Trail Rangers, to come to the camp in the summer.

Rev. T. M. Wesley, of Knox United Church said it was the first banquet of the kind he had ever attended. "The business of a father and son was the oldest in the world, and the most respectable", he declared. The speaker felt as did Mr. Wren, that the heart of the youth is all right and "though we read and hear a great deal of the revolt of youth and the jazz and hip pocket type of young person, we must remember that one of that type creates more notice than ninety-nine young people who are earnestly and sincerely trying to solve life's problem."

Rev. S. A. Kemp, of the Regent Street United Church, was the last speaker and he referred to the remarks of the previous speaker regarding the value of fathers and sons being chums, especially during the childhood of the boy. Mr. Kemp paid a glowing tribute to the work of Mr. Burrows, the leader of the boys, who had arranged the banquet and done so much for the boys 'work in the so much for the boys' work in the the splendid turnout of fathers and sons on Sunday night which did so much to put across the splendid service.

Mr. Burrows spoke a word for the boys, drawing the attention of the fathers to the splendid type of boys they had, and the work of the boys should be remembered for they worked well and faithfully.

Messrs. H. Wannamaker and Jack Nicholls acted as accompanists for the musical numbers.

The Canadian National Railways have much pleasure in announcing that the Kerr-Bryson Tours have now completed arrangements for their 1928 summer tours across Canada.

This year's plans provide for a delightful trip from Toronto to the Pacific Coast and return, with stopovers at the cities of Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle; two or three days in each of those famous tourist resorts of the Canadian Rockies, Jasper National Park, Banff and Lake Louise; the famous scenic triangle tour trip of the Canadian National Railways, by rail from Jasper to Vancouver, steamer through the 550 miles of sheltered waters of the Inside Passage of the North Pacific Coast and rail through the wonderful valleys of the Skeena and Bulkley Rivers back to Jasper; and finally a visit to Minaki Lodge, a magnificent summer resort, a short distance east of Winnipeg in the beautiful Lake of the Woods district.

ST. LAWRENCE PLAN UPHELD

Prof. Goforth Answers Objections To Proposed Developments.

COMPLETION INEVITABLE.

TORONTO, March 22 (Canadian Press).—Objections to the development of the St. Lawrence were answered and assurance was given that Montreal men support the project in the address to the Empire Club today of Prof. W. W. Goforth, M.A., specialist in economics at McGill University, Montreal. "There are scores of Montreal engineers, lawyers, business men, and even academic souls like myself who have come to the conclusion that this great scheme of improved communication and electrical development must inevitably be proceeded with," he said.

Answering the objections, Prof. Goforth denied that the estimate of $650,000,000 would be exceeded. Montreal's status as an ocean port would not be affected. On the contrary, its importance would be enhanced and prospects of using the power which could be developed were "very bright indeed."

Boys and Girls! Can You Draw!

These pictures are by: (1) Evelyn Hamilton, (2) Marion Scott, (3) F. Moffatt, (4) Alex. Heron, (5) Hilda Carnie, (6) Ruth Smith, (7) Anna Forest. Do you boys and girls up to twelve years of age think you can draw as well as these?

We receive lots of drawings from little friends of The Examiner, but because we have no machinery for making the drawings into "cuts" for printing, we have not been able to reproduce them in the paper.

Now, however, we have found a way that will print SIMPLE drawings such as these, and we wish our young readers to send in more.

Just to make this interesting, we will give a weekly prize—and allow our young artists to choose the winner! Sounds like fun, doesn't it?

And it will be—just try. You will have your drawing printed in the paper, you will have the fun of choosing the winner every week, and you may yourself win a prize.

Here are the simple rules:

1. Age limit, 12 years.

3. Drawings may be in ink or pencil, but they must be clear and SIMPLE. This process will not print drawings with a great deal of detail.

3. A voting coupon will be printed on Saturday, which you will fill in, saying whose drawing you think was best during the week.

4. Only those who send in drawings may vote.

5. Coupons must be sent to The Examiner office not later than Tuesday night.

6. Any boy or girl in Peterborough or district may enter, and there is no fee of any kind. Just send in your drawing. Don't forget to put on it your name, age, and address.

Clip out the drawings as they appear, and on Saturday, March 31, tell us your favorite.

WAKE UP WITH COLD GONE, SAY DOCTORS

Advise Hospital Tested Method That Brings Relief Overnight Is Ideal for Home Use!

Head colds, coughs and chest colds may now be ended almost overnight by an economical home method approved by doctors at the hospital. And druggists say that hundreds of Peterborough people, like Mrs. Arthur Price, have been surprised to find how quickly it brings results, even in severe cases where all other remedies used had failed.

Fearing pneumonia as her cold got worse, Mrs. Price called the doctor for advice. Her head and chest were congested; she felt "feverish" and the inflammation was spreading down into her bronchial tubes. The doctors then recommended Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a concentrated mixture of ingredients, which hospitals have found to be the quickest, safest, and surest to end colds.

With the first pleasant spoonful she felt the comforting, healing warmth—from her nose passages deep down into her chest. It eased her cough almost instantly. In a few hours her feverish "grippy" feeling began to disappear. By morning her head had cleared up, and in a day or so all traces of the cold were gone.

Note: Other cases reported daily —all certified by the physicians who treated each case.

Doctors find that this hospital medicine does far more than stop coughing instantly. It is absorbed by the whole system. This quickly checks phlegm, heals irritation and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Cherry Pectoral now and you'll feel like a different person tomorrow. Hospital directions with each bottle

What the Canadians Were Doing

Those who think that the Canadians had no part in meeting the great German offensive of March, 1918 have overlooked one of the most stirring passages of the Great War history—the story of Canada's Motor Machine-Gun Corps. Like Topsy, the Motor Machine-Gun Corps just "growed". Fortunately when the crisis came and the unit could be used to advantage, it was at full strength, and won the highest praise for its most effective work from the commanders of the French, Imperial and Canadian corps with which it co-operated.

It was this unit that originated the harrassing indirect bullet fire, something that had never been conceived by Imperial or German experts. It also conceived the brilliant idea of the Machine Gun barrage which proved even more deadly than that of the shells. At Courcelette and the famous Sugar Refinery; at Zollern Redoubt and Regina Trench the assaulting Germans faded away before Machine Gun barrages, created by weapons that it was impossible to locate.

In March, 1918, the Corps was completely re-organized, being allowed an almost unlimited supply of Vickers Guns and greatly increased transport. In addition to its eight armoured cars, it had several batteries which could work with fast trucks and could be dismounted and used in open warfare.

The story of the Motor Machine-Gun Corps' part in breaking the German offensive is told in "Canada in the Great World War" as follows:

"The training and organization were just completed, Colonel W. K. Walker, D.S.O., from the Cavalry Brigade Machine Gun Squadron, taking command, when urgent calls for it were made by the Fifth Army on March 22nd, the front at St. Quentin, just taken over from the French, having been broken. It was at this time that the real usefulness of the mobile Canadian Motor Machine-Gun Corps was proved. Lieut.-General Currie himself supervised the sudden mobilization of the unit; the batteries were hurried back from the front line, and that afternoon, with hundreds of thousands of rounds of ammunition, fully equippped and with rations for several days, the long convoy started for Amiens to assist the hard-pressed Fifth Army. General Gough met them on the main road at Villiers-Bretonneux and to the officers stated that they were his last available reinforcements and that the situation was extremely serious. He explained that it was a battle for time, as the French were rushing in troops to assist him, but that machine guns were needed to fill the many gaps that had been made in the British line.

The long line of armoured cars and armed motors, their gun crews fresh and cheering, were given right of way by the tired, broken Imperial infantry, which had fought stubbornly for two days. It was hardly dusk before they were in the front line and fighting. The armoured cars started forays down the well-made roads, cutting up German units who were attempting to consolidate. At the cross-roads at Villiers-Carbonell they fought a pitched battle with a whole German regiment, spraying it with bullets until it finally broke and ran. Some batteries made their way up the main Roye road, dispersing garrisons from the armed trucks in the little villages. These garrisons held on desperately, fighting against time, until finally their own cars rescued them and they fell back on the next vantage point. The quickly shifting machine guns baffled the enemy, who thought the British strength in front was much greater than it was, and more time was gained.

Bethonvillers, Roye, Bouchoir and Le Quesnel were held for hours after the Imperial infantry had retired, and then orders came for the Canadians to fall back and hold the valley of the Somme until the Imperials could reorganize and make a final attempt to save Amiens.

THEY SHALL NOT PASS!

On March 23, two days after the launching of the great German offensive, this editorial was published:

Have Confidence.

Our people should not be disheartened at the news from the western front, bad as the meagre official reports make it appear. Germany is staking everything on this last supreme effort. She has thrown her every resource into the struggle and must win complete success or make peace. At a terrible cost her massed legions have broken through the British line south of St. Quentin, but Field Marshal Haig announces that our force, who were defending the line at that point are retiring in good order to previously prepared positions. Heavy masses of British reserves will undoubtedly be rushed to St. Quentin sector and counter attacks that may make it possible to restore the line, may now be in progress.

The same spirit that blocked the Germans at the Marne, that time after time stopped the rush toward Calais, that made the slogan, "They shall not pass" a terrible reality for the enemy at Verdun, still animates the fighting forces of the Allies on the western front.

SPAIN WILL ENTER LEAGUE

Rivera Sends Reply Accepting Invitation To Re-enter Geneva Assembly.

HELP IN WORK.

MADRID, March 23 (Canadian Press).—Spain has agreed to remain within the League of Nations. The Spanish Government made public last evening its reply to Francisco Jose Urrutia, a prominent League counsel, accepting the invitation to re-enter the League. The reply, which is signed by Premier Primo de Rivera, says:

"Mr. President: I have the honor to inform you that I have received your kind letter of March 9, which contains in the name of the council of the League of Nations and in agreement with the desires expressed by all its members, a resolution adopted by that body in session that day for consideration of the government of His Majesty.

"The affectionate terms in which the letter is written, eliminating all references which might give any indication concerning our national aspirations and aspiring only to the aim of not desiring to see Spain separated from the League of Nations, in order that she may continue to collaborate in the great disinterested work, could not fail to make an impression on the government over which I preside and which met in special session for the purpose of studying such an important document.

Not Failed to Co-operate.

"Spain, which has not failed to co-operate during these years in the noble and inspiring aims of the League of Nations, proposing and negotiating with various countries, treaties of conciliation and arbitration, is very sensible to the invitation which Your Excellency has transmitted to His Majesty's Government, and is of the belief that there is not and could not be any other reply than to accept gratefully, without conditions or reservations, the honorable invitation. The government trusts that the Assembly will determine the form and position to which Spain is entitled in order that her participation may be efficacious and useful and in conformity with her special situation as a great neutral power during the late war and her ancient position of creator of civilized nations.

"This is all can say, expressing to you the most sincere gratitude for all those representatives of the nations who have voiced respect and love for the old and glorious Spanish nation.

"With my high and special consideration for Your Excellency."

SCHOOL WANTS FIRE PROTECTION

Will Not Rebuild in Port Hope Unless Assured of This.

PORT HOPE, March 23.—Before Trinity College School is rebuilt, the Board of Governors seeks assurance that the town will provide more adequate fire protection. The governing body of the college met with the Town Council, the Board of Trade, and members of the Water Commission yesterday and presented a list of changes that are wanted.

Losses due to the recent disastrous fire were greatly increased by the lack of water pressure, the college officials contended. "The Board of Governors would hesitate to recommend the large expenditure required for the reconstruction of the school, unless they can be assured that efficient water supply in case of fire can be guaranteed, more particularly as this is the second time the school has been destroyed by fire," a statement presented to the council read.

In order to allow elasticity in the design of the proposed new buildings, diversion of the road running to the south of the school was requested. Connection of all drains at the college to the town drainage system was also asked.

The Town Engineer was instructed to make a survey of conditions at the college site and report back to council.

KIWANIANS' SONS WILL BE GUESTS

Joseph McCulley Will Give Address at To-morrow's Meeting.

The Kiwanis luncheon of this week is going to be featured with a father and son banquet. A special speaker, Joseph McCulley, of Pickering Boys' College, Newmarket, will be here. Mr. McCulley is recognized as being one of the pioneers in boy work in the province of Ontario. Many of the leading boy workers in the province today are products of his teaching.

Instead of the noon-day luncheon the same will be held in the evening at 6.15, in order that the Kiwanians will be able to bring their sons. The attendance committee has reported that they expect an attendance of over a hundred on this occasion. The musical program will be put on by Kiwanians' sons.

CANADA'S NEW STATION.

Ottawa advices say that strong objections are being made by prohibitionists to the granting of a license to Canada's most powerful broadcasting station on the ground that it is operated in the interests of a firm of distillers.

The cause of temperance needs often to be saved from its friends.

Those who are responsible for this protest are taking a course that cannot help but injure the movement they support.

The station objected to has not been used in a manner to give logical cause for complaint on the part of the most conscientious prohibitionist, inasmuch as there has been no advertising of liquor.

On behalf of the new broadcasting unit, it can be said that it gives Canada something that was very badly needed, a station with sufficient power to reach all parts of the Dominion and penetrate into sections that have been "dead" so far as radio communication with Toronto was concerned.

Peterborough's experience with C.K.G.W. has been that at last, no matter how bad the reception conditions, local listeners-in are assured of being able to tune in one station anyway—something that was not possible before the advent of this super-Canadian station.

Local radio enthusiasts who believe that the "Cheerio" station should be kept on the air should write the Department of Marine and Fisheries at Ottawa.

RECORD PROFITS.

The nature of the reports presented at the annual meeting of the Canadian General Electric Company showing record profits in 1927 for this great company should afford much satisfaction in Peterborough whose fortunes are so closely associated with those of the C. G. E.

How closely is to be judged from the fact that the company distributed $1,900,000 in wages here last year, while in addition to this very material contribution to the city's capital Peterborough received as a result of the company's activities valuable publicity, not only throughout Canada, but over the globe generally.

It is gratifying, therefore, to learn that last year the gross profits increased by 55 per cent. to $2,903,053, or $1,032,435 more than was earned the previous year.

The Canadian General Electric Company's success means much to Peterborough, and much to the whole country.

This city's wage bill has already been mentioned, and it is worthy of note that the total payment of wages and salaries amounted to more than $5,500,000 last year—more than one-third of this in Peterborough—while the company expended over $11,000,000 in the purchase of materials, supplies and equipment, all these purchases being made in Canada, in conformity with the company's practice, whenever possible.

The very strong position in which the company now finds itself, with working capital of $9,409,505, justifies looking forward to this year's operations with a good deal of confidence.

A TRAVELLER'S COMPLAINT.

A Montreal commercial traveller, writing to The Examiner, says:

"They don't stop at 'stop signs' in Peterborough. I was nearly run down three times in three days."

This visitor seems to have been singularly unfortunate, for observation seems to warrant the belief that the signs are being well obeyed, and that the "through street" plan has been as successful as it was prophesied it would be in reducing traffic accidents at street intersections.

However, the experience of The Examiner's correspondent suggests that there still exist motorists who refuse to be governed by the by-law, and who ignore the "stop" signs whenever they think that they can do so safely.

There can be no defence in such cases based on ignorance of the law, for the system has been in force long enough to give every driver a chance to know what is expected of him.

It remains, therefore, for the police to drive home the lesson by calling upon offenders to discuss their conduct in the Police Court.

And at the same time the department would do well, before the traffic increases to summer proportions, to demonstrate to drivers who need the warning that speeding over intersections is also an infraction of the traffic laws and must be stopped.

The "through street" plan will come close to complete success when all drivers entering through streets stop as required, and all motorists on through streets respect the speed limit at intersections.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS.

"It is not the city people against the country people or the anglers versus the guides and the resort owner. It is all of us against the destruction of game fish and for the re-stocking of depleted lakes and streams."

These words, taken from the speech of G. A. Warburton, of Toronto, at the Sportsmen's Convention yesterday, cover the situation in Ontario as thoroughly as could be done in a full-page article.

This business of conserving Ontario's resources of fish is everybody's business—or should be—and the organization formed yesterday, a federation of the anglers of the Province, should have the support of the people generally.

There is need for such a federation.

The decrease of game fish in the waters of the Province alone justifies the organization.

There is need to face the situation broadly rather than to quarrel over details, need for united action, need of educating the people with respect to good sportsmanship, and need for an aroused public sentiment as to the value of game fish to the Province.

And, incidentally, there is need for the commission asked for by the anglers to investigate the whole situation.

It would fill in many of the gaps that have existed in our conservation methods, and undoubtedly lead to a more scientific and businesslike policy than is possible under the present system, which finds the Minister and Deputy-Minister too occupied with the many duties with which they are charged to have time for a thorough investigation into the conditions.

The whole campaign should be enthusiastically backed—if we place any value upon our resources of fish and game.

ART, ATHLETICS AND JAIL.

Another pleasant uplift plan in the United States seems to have flattened out. Someone had the cheerful idea of elevating the morals of prisoners by subjecting them to the aesthetic influence of great works of art. Accordingly, an exhibition of paintings of high artistic quality was arranged for an American penitentiary. The show was thrown open in the afternoon, so that the benign effect of seeing beautiful things might get in its stimulating, potent and subtle effect on the inmates.

Unfortunately, an athletic event for the prisoners was scheduled for that same afternoon, and art was the loser. Fifty saw the pictures and 1,600 saw the game.

The conclusion to be drawn from this experiment is that the athletic event was better managed than the art exhibit. The exhibit had no chance against the game out in the prison yard. Unless the publicity man for the show could have thought up a stunt more potent and subtle than the call of sport, his experiment was doomed from the moment its date clashed with that of the game.

Another conclusion that should not be drawn, but will be drawn by those long on art and short on sport, is that the reason the 1,600 were in the penitentiary was because they preferred sport to art. Such a deduction would be decidedly unfair to those hosts of baseball fans, football enthusiasts and business men not too tired to play golf.

The probability is many of both prison groups would not be in prison had they had more art and athletics before they entered upon careers of crime. The fifty were doubtlessly as starved for art as the 1,600 for sport. —Kingston Whig-Standard.

SUNDAY VISITING.

Are people, and especially housewives, entitled to a more quiet Sunday than they customarily spend during that period of the year when the state of the highways invites motoring and visiting? And is this incessant breaking-in upon the Sabbath rest by visitors who generally arrive unexpectedly and who nearly always require entertainment and refreshment responsible in many cases for permanent loss of health and premature death?

The questions are raised by The New Outlook, as the result of statements made to it by a reader who is of the opinion that one of the reasons for the high death-rate amongst Canadian mothers which has been causing alarm is the non-receipt of that rest which they require, particularly when they are in a delicate state of health, and which in numerous cases they are able to obtain only upon Sunday. This correspondent, obviously of rural residence, relates instances from his own experience in support of his contention. "In my own home community," he says, "we had service every two weeks, and from four to seventeen rigs, buggies and democrats would arrive at our home on the farm for Sunday dinner, after the custom of the time. I have seen my mother, when she went into the pantry to replenish some dish (for I often followed her into the pantry) burst into tears, then, trembling, dry her eyes and again appear before guests smiling. Sometimes there were upwards of twenty guests and a second table had to be served. The result of these strenuous Sundays after a hard week's work was a breakdown, the permanent loss of health and premature death, with a little family left motherless."

When this man himself was married, he reached a determination that things should be different in his own household. He and his wife agreed that they would devote their Sundays to rest, worship and the training of their family. And for some time they were able to carry out their purpose. But with the advent of the motor car, letters began to arrive from friends in the city or in other parts of the country, stating that friends would visit them upon Sunday, until finally in one year, by actual count, no fewer than 1,641 meals were served to Sunday visitors. The same results followed—breakdown of health, enforced rest, the services of specialists, care in a hospital and, ultimately, death at a premature age.

The same story, we feel, might be repeated by many other families throughout the country. How often does it happen, especially upon Sundays, when there is greater leisure for motoring, that visitors arrive unannounced and that the housewife, who has been fully occupied with her normal duties during the week, is required to forego the rest to which she is entitled in order to furnish them with food and to arrange their entertainment. Is it any wonder that women who never experience any relief from such demands very often lose their health and fill premature graves? The Sunday visitor, not always so welcome as he imagines himself to be, is often unwittingly contributing to the decline of a wife and mother, and the least to be expected of him is to indicate his intention of paying a visit in sufficient time for the making of adequate preparations without breaking-in upon the calm of the Sabbath. But how many who take to the highway on Sunday with such an objective ever think of observing this rule?—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Neither of the Toronto evening papers has yet announced that D. B. Hanna, Mr. Ferguson's "strong man," is to be the Queen City's new Chief of Police.

A further chance of helping the Humane Society will be offered on Sunday night when another concert is to be held. The cause well deserves assistance.

Spring poets are telegraphing their verse these days. But so far let us be thankful they have not begun to use the radio.

Hon. W. H. Price should be at the head of the Fisheries Department in view of what he is seeking to do in the way of protection for Ontario's crop of suckers.

The fair sex is out of luck. Women have been denied a vote in Quebec, and now the authorities refuse to allow Lady Bailey to fly over Sudanese territory.

President Coolidge once more declares that he is not a candidate. He has to say so about as often as Mr. Hanna has to deny that he is resigning from the Liquor Control Board.

There were no fresh calves in and no sheep and lambs.

Hogs, only 129 fresh on the market, were apparently holding steady to strong at Wednesday's price of $9.00 f.o.b. selects.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, March 23 (Canadian Press). — With the exception of sales of a few loads of Canadian Western to the United Kingdom for April and May shipment, the export trade in grain here yesterday was quiet.

A moderate amount of business was done in oats in the local market for all-rail shipment from Fort William. There was also a steady demand from country buyers for spot supplies and prices were firm.

A feature of the flour trade was the improved demand from foreign buyers for spring wheat grades for shipment in all positions and some fair-sized sales were made. The domestic trade was quiet, but the tone of the market was firm. The market for winter wheat flour was without any new feature to note, prices being maintained with a small trade passing.

Owing to the steady increasing demand for millfeed and shortage of supplies, a very strong feeling prevailed in the market, but prices showed no further change. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet but firm.

An active business was transacted in fresh eggs in a jobbing way and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 2,955 cases.

A stronger tone developed in the potato market and prices recovered five cents per bag. This was attributed to the decreased receipts and the better demand.

The demand for imported beans continued steady and values were firm. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked to arrive were made at $3.50 per bushel, ex-track, and broken lots at $3.60 per bushel, ex-store.

Owing to the increased offerings and the absence of buyers a weaker feeling developed in the butter trade and prices scored a decline of ½c per pound. The receipts were 97 packages.

The cheese trade was fairly active and firm. The receipts were 55 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 23 (Canadian Press). — Buying of wheat against selling of corn did much to send the wheat market up at the last yesterday and to pull corn values down. Reports of need of rain in Nebraska were construed as somewhat bullish regarding wheat.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ⅛c to ⅞c net higher, corn ⅝c to ¾c down, oats at ⅝c decline to ¼c advance and provisions 5c to 10 to 12 cents off.

In connection with late advices telling of extremely dry weather in parts of Nebraska, talk was current that high winds before rain will bring about serious crop deteriorations. Under such circumstances, increased speculative buying which started after midday disclosed a lack of offerings and brought about a sharp rally from an early decline. Earlier, the market here had apparently been influenced a good deal by lower quotations at Liverpool and by advices which were taken to indicate generally auspicious weather for the domestic winter crop.

Figures given circulation by Chicago trade authorities yesterday show that the world's available supply of wheat decreased 19,568,000 bushels during February, compared with an increase of 23,375,000 bushels the month previous and with a dercease of 7,647,000 bushels in February last year. On the other hand, wheat shipments from Argentina this week are estimated at 6,615,000 bushels, an amount somewhat exceeding the total for the week before, and greatly above the corresponding aggregate a year back.

Corn prices acted heavy throughout the day. Favorable weather for field work tended apparently to restrict selling from rural sources, but re-sellers of corn in Europe were reported to be offering corn cheaper than the offerings from the United States. Enlarged pressure from the new Argentine crop was also a subject of attention. Oats were governed mainly by the action of corn.

Despite some upturn in hog values, the provision market was responsive to feed grain declines.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, March 23 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as:

Demand—$4.87¼.
Cables—$4.87¾.

Last year America sent nearly six times as many automobiles, trucks and busses to Europe as it did in 1919.

GOD'S MINUTE

They shall prosper that love Thee. —Ps. 122:6.

Our Heavenly Father, we would humbly bow before Thee and in acknowledgment of Thy goodness would confess Thee to be our God. We thank Thee for Thy manifold mercies and continued love and care to us, so unworthy of any of Thy blessings.

We confess our sins, and pray that for the sake of Christ Thou wouldst forgive us and help us to so live that everywhere we may carry the Spirit and the life of the Master with us. Grant that we may have that purity of heart by which we may be always able to see Thee.

May we see our opportunities every day, and help us to use them that we may best minister to our fellow men, and bring glory to Thy great and Holy Name. Lead us day by day. May we obediently follow Thee, lovingly doing Thy will, and seek so to express the love of Christ that others will be led to accept Jesus as Saviour and Lord, while Thy believing followers may the better be established in the faith. Be gracious to all in sadness and difficulty. Help them to full trust in Thee, and realize ever Thy presence with them.

We ask this all in the name of Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Saviour. Amen.

Voice of the People

THE HON. R. B. BENNETT

Editor, Peterborough Examiner,

Dear Sir: I noticed in your editorial in yesterday's issue that following the somewhat commendatory article written by Hon. G. N. Gordon with respect to Hon. Arthur Meighen, it was considered quite possible that I might be led in the general amenities of the occasion to say something complimentary with regard to Hon. R. B. Bennett.

It so happens that my reading of Hansard has brought the conviction to my mind that Mr. Bennett is the perfect example of what a Leader of the Opposition ought to be. It goes without saying, of course, that he is fully conversant with the general business of the Dominion from a public standpoint and has a most thorough knowledge of the rules of Parliament. It can be taken for granted also that with the acute mind that he possesses nothing will pass without criticism wherever the occasion demands it. In one particular Mr. Bennett is so different from his distinguished predecessor that the whole atmosphere of the House of Commons has apparently been changed as a result. This is because of Mr. Bennett's studied politeness on all occasions and because even in the heat of debate he exhibits a certain gracefulness of temper that is in direct contrast to the sour expressions which often fell from the lips of Mr. Meighen. In my opinion Mr. Bennett has raised the general tone of debate in the House of Commons to a higher level than it has been for a long time. This is the mark of a big man of high ideals and of a generous nature.

As statesmen go, Mr. Bennett is still comparatively young and should have many years of useful public service ahead of him. I fervently hope that he may live to a ripe old age and that he continues in his present honorable position until the day he dies.

Yours truly,
JOSEPH WEARING.

TRIBUTE TO SECRETARY

Dear Mr. Editor:

I regret to read in your valuable paper the resignation of Mr. B. Whatley as secretary, etc. of the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Legion. It was with pleasure I also noted the eulogy of his past services by the executive, and the commendation of the president; and in reference to his work regarding pensions, the practical knowlege of Mr. Whatley, and Mr. J. A CORRECT SHOE

There is no such thing as a "corrective" shoe. Many monstrosities are placed on the market under this misnomer, with no intelligent work behind them whatever.

Any shoe that is supposed to correct something, will usually cause some unnatural pull on the foot, and insidiously produce FOOT TROUBLE.

Have your feet attended by a foot specialist, and your shoe dealer will have little trouble in fitting you to a shoe that will be CORRECT.

FARMERS PROTEST CHANGE IN WEEDS

Think Bladder Campion Should Remain in Primary Noxious Class.

NORWOOD, Mar. 23.—On Wednesday afternoon there was a well-attended meeting of the farmers of this district, held under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture. J. B. Nelson, the district representative, acted as chairman. He spoke on the Seeds Act and in connection with this the meeting passed the following resolution:

Moved by G. A. Brethen, seconded by H. A. Thistlewaite: "Whereas this meeting understands that bladder campion has been, as far as the Seeds Act is concerned, transferred from the list of primary to secondary noxious weeds and, whereas we consider this one of the worst weeds in Ontario, therefore be it resolved that the proper authorities be petitioned to consider the replacement of bladder campion in the list of primary noxious weeds."

The speaker for the afternoon was C. A. Galbraith of Hornby, an expert on seeds. He emphasized the necessity of sowing good seed for bigger profits and also the proper kind of seed to sow.

TORONTO Ont., March 23. Canadian Press).—Discussing the work of the Women's Allowance Board, Russel Nesbitt, Bracondale, in the Provincial Legislature referred to certain social welfare organizations in this city:

"There has been some criticism in the Opposition press that we did not place upon that board some social service reformer," Mr. Nesbitt said. "If there is one thing that has cursed Toronto organizations it is these social service spendthrift workers, of the kind who sit at a desk with a telephone and send those who apply for relief to the house of Refuge.

"In the four years the board, under Rev. Peter Bryce, declared 56 Toronto mothers unfit to receive mothers' allowance. Talk about autocracy; I don't know where they got their power to do it. There were 150 children debarred from receiving the allowance. Under the regime of Dr. Jamieson there has not been one mother declared unfit, or a child debarred from receiving the allowance, since he became chairman; under supervision of the Toronto Mothers' Allowance Board, and the Toronto board placed in the position of responsibility of looking after that family.."

BELIEVED LOST SOMEWHERE IN ATLANTIC

MEMORIAL DEADLOCK LIFTED

The deadlock in Germany as to where the "Ehrenmal" or Monument of Honor for the fallen German soldiers in the World War, shall be placed has been tentatively settled by a compromise. Three projects held the field, and none would give in. One was to build the monument near Berka, another, on the Rhine near Ehrenbreitstein, and a third favored Berlin. The Reichs Cabinet was unable to decide, and while postponing the Rhine project until there shall be no troops of occupation there, decided to build the Ehrenmal at Berka and to convert Schinkel Watch chamber in Berlin into a Hall of Honor. Leaders of the various political parties are to be consulted before the final decision.

FASTING AIDS EYESIGHT

That by fasting he was able to improve his eyesight to such an extent that two years ago he threw away the spectacles he wore for 14 years and has never resumed their use, is the claim of Trelawney Irving, a well known London man. Other prominent people of England have taken up the idea with reported success. In his treatment Irving at first abstained entirely from food, then took orange juice in water, and lemon juice. Then, he says, he was given "an infusion of spinach and lettuce," and later apple-water. Altogether his fast lasted 50 days. Irving was able on the forty-seventh day to go to London from the country sanatorium where he was being treated, and transact a great amount of business with ease.

MASEFIELD'S WORKS PRAISED BY PASTOR

Rev. W. Harold Young Says They Show Genius Overcomes Obstacles.

A splendid address on the life and work of John Masefield, English man of letters, was delivered on Wednesday at the Women's Art Association of Toronto by the Rev. W. Harold Young of St. Paul's United Church, Toronto, former minister of George Street United Church in this city. Genius overrides the handicaps of environment and circumstance, maintained Mr. Young, and the life of Masefield, he thought amply proved the assertion.

Masefield, said Mr. Young, received only a common school education which came to an end when he was 14 years of age. For several years later, his school was in the British mercantile marine, in which, to use his own words, "he joined the dance round the curve of the world." Later he was bar-room boy in a cheap New York hotel, and in 1896, while employed as a carpet maker in a factory in New York, he began to read the works of the fourteenth century poet, Chaucer, which kindled within him the desire to express his thoughts and longings in verse. A year later, following extensive reading of Shelley, Keats and Shakespeare, he began in London the first of his "Salt Water Ballads," the fruits of his experience at sea. His narrative poems, "The Widow of Bye Street" and "The Everlasting Mercy," Mr. Young classed as the greatest of Masefield's achievements.

Masefield, continued Mr. Young, had also invaded with considerable success the realm of drama. He appealed to those of his hearers who had witnessed the version of Masefield's play Good Friday, given at Hart House Theatre last year to bear out his assertion that Masefield had justified his entrance into the dramatic field. "What of Masefield's future?" asked Mr. Young, and suggested that perhaps the poet was still waiting for the vital thing which must come before a great book or great poem could be written, "the inspiration of a great theme."

$4,000,000 OFFER MADE FOR C.D.S.L.

Creditors Will Probably Get 40 Cents on the Dollar.

TORONTO, Mar. 23.—A feature of the meeting of creditors of the Canadian Department Stores Limited held in the Prince George hotel yesterday, was the acceptance by the creditors of an offer of $4,000,000 for the real estate, chattels and merchandise of the company. The name of the purchaser was not divulged but before the trustees will be in a position to finally accept the offer, it will be necessary to get the approval of the income bond holders. Pending this, the trustees were authorized to carry on the business.

When the affairs of the company are finally wound up and the division of assets made, creditors will probably receive between 38 and 40 cents on the dollar, it was stated by A. S. Crighton of the Canadian Credit Men's Association, one of the two trustees appointed by the meeting. The other trustee appointed was G. T. Clarkson, of R. C. Clarkson and Sons, Toronto.

A resolution was passed, authorizing the examination, if advisable, of officers of the company. The question of legal fees and other technical matters took up considerable time.

Unless unexpected developments take place, there will be no further public meetings of creditors, it was stated. The income bond holders will meet on April 14. Mr. Clarkson, chairman of the meeting, would make no further statement as to correctness of a report that a large Toronto department store would take over the defunct company. "We can make no public statements as to the probable buyer or the amount offered," Mr. Clarkson declared.

There were between 400 and 500 creditors present at the meeting. The expectation of receiving approximately 40 cents on the dollar appeared to be satisfactory to the creditors.

Inspectors appointed were L. Phillips of Montreal, Charles Austin of Chatham, C. M. Reid of Belleville, Norman Zyffer of Mercury Mills Limited and C. Graham Brown of National Surety Company, Toronto.

The usual motion in bankruptcy cases, that of authorizing the discharge of the trustees on completion of the wind-up, was passed.

YOUR PET PERFUME

What an achievement to capture and bottle the soul of a flower—its fragrance!

Yet how many of us ever stop to wonder whence came that delicately scented drop, that expensive and highly desired last touch which we put to our persons before going out to dinner or tea?

The story of perfume is a real romance dating back to before the time of Cleopatra and the ancient Greeks. These peoples of centuries ago had few materials and no technical knowledge such as we possess to-day, yet they were able to make perfume of delicate and lasting fragrance. This was proven conclusively when the tomb of King Tutankhamen was opened. It seems hard to believe that an odor would persist throughout all those centuries but fragments of scent still lingered in the ancient mummy cloths.

The great hub of the perfume industry to-day is at Grasse, France. Here and at Cannes, Nice, and Monaco, places whose very names suggest the greatest elegance in dress and fashion, millions of pounds of blossoms are produced annually. Here the vast gardens of the perfumer yield fortunes in orange blossoms, roses, jasmin, violets, cassia, and tuberoses. The elusive fragrance of these blossoms is distilled and extracted that hundreds of millions of people may satisfy an aesthetic craving for beauty of scent.

Thousands of peasants toil daily that the blooms may reach the zenith of perfection. The cultivation affects the odor which will eventually be given out by the extracted oil, so every precaution is taken to understand the peculiar needs of the various species. Nothing short of the best is acceptable. Then, when the blossoms in their prime are gathered, great boilers swallow them up. To some, water is added, and they are boiled, the fragrance issuing forth being carefully distilled. Others have their essential oils extracted by a steam process. Still others have various solvents added to them that thus the precious oils may be separated.

While the petals of flowers are the largest and most important source of our vegetable perfumes certain leaves, bark, wood, seeds, roots, fruit rind, and resinous gums are also used.

There are raw materials other than trese, however, without which the perfumer would be totally unable to concoct his precious liquids. These are the secretions of the glands of certain animals. The four kinds of animal perfumes are musk, civet, castor and ambergris. The last three are produced by such animals as the musk deer, muskrat, musk ox, Florida alligator, civet, and beaver.

The source of ambergris, perhaps the most important was for many years a mystery. Large masses or sheets of a waxy substance were found floating in tropical seas. It was determined, after much experimentation, that by adding a few drams of this substance to perfumes under the proper conditions, a lasting quality was given to the scent. So an effort was made to discover the source of ambergris. It was finally found to be a secretion from the whale.

These four animal perfumes are known as "fixatives" because they cause the odor imparted by the vegetable essences to last. They make the finished product tenacious. Since the public now demands that all perfumes cling, it would be worse

The trade of the perfumer is an art as well as a science. From the same recipe the true artist and the layman would produce a very different article. It takes an innate knowledge of scent perfection as well as technical knowledge of method and material to achieve a product which will be perfect enough to bring six or eight dollars an ounce.

S. S. CLASS GIVES PICTURE TO FRIEND

Inez White Leaving Shortly With Family To Live in England.

A pleasing little incident took place at St. George's Sunday school on Sunday morning last. At the close of the school session the presentation of a framed picture was made to Inez White a scholar of the Sunday school, who leaves here in a few days with her family to reside in England.

The picture was the gift of the teacher, Miss M. Huxley and her class, as a small remembrance to their little friend, who was very popular among them.

Rev. J. L. Hughes made the presentation. He expressed regret at losing Inez and her brother and sister, Douglas and Doreen and extended good wishes on behalf of himself, the teachers and scholars. A silver Sunday school badge pin was also handed to each of the three departing scholars.

A further note of regret at the departure of Inez from their midst was expressed on Wednesday evening at the meeting of the Junior Auxiliary of which Inez was a member. A leather bound birthday book was presented to her by Beatrice Curtis and a nicely worded address was read by Chrissie Milby. Mrs. Hughes (superintendent) extended good wishes and success to their departing friend, after which the members all signed their names in the book.

SEWING WORK ON EXHIBITION

High School Pupils' Work To Be Shown in Hall Store Window.

PRIZES AWARDED.

To-morrow, in the windows of the Richard Hall store, an exhibit of some of the work done by the sewing classes at the Technical Vocational Night Soohols, will be on view. These exhibits, made annually at the conclusion of the term, are very interesting, illustrating the advances made by the students in these classes, which are conducted on several nights weekly during the season at the Central and South Central schools, under the supervision of A. F. Hagerman of the teaching staff of the Collegiate Institute. The teacher of the Central school this winter was Mrs. J. Kennett, with three weekly classes in charge, while Mrs. H. Lucas was instructress of three classes at the South Central and one at the Central. Enrolment at the two schools totals over one hundred and forty pupils.

On Wednesday evening, judging of the work was done by the two teachers, each judging the other's work. At the Central school, the first prize was won by Mrs. J. Bradbury, and the second prize by Mrs. Rowe, while similar prizes at the South Central school were won by Mrs. J. Rigden (first) and Mrs. H. Lupton (second). These prizes were all donated by the Richard Hall Store and consisted of ten dollars' worth of goods for the first award and five dollars' worth of goods for the second. Special prizes of a $2.50 dress length of Fuji silk were given by Mrs. Kennett and Mrs. Lucas, these being won at the Central by Mrs. Selkirk and at the South Central by Miss Demetra Doukas. A similar special prize given by Mr. Hagerman at the South Central school went to Miss Sheila McKeown.

For three months before Christmas and three months after, the students take a lesson once a week, being enrolled in classes held on different nights.

The range of work done has a wide scope, including nearly everything in the way of adult and junior feminine apparel, from aprons and lingerie to dress and fur-trimmed coats. The exhibit at the two schools was extremely interesting. Handiwork of the most intricate type was exhibited on these garments and an inspection of the linings and inner sections showed the amount of energy expended in fine stitching. On the coats, such items as buttonholes and button fastenings, linings of sleeves and placing of trimming, was done with tailor-like efficiency, one cream flannel summer coat in particular showing a very workman-like finish.

The dresses were examples of light and heavy wear, in satins and tricotines and cottons, and were trimmed and sewed in dainty fashion. On the lingerie, fine embroideries, shirring, smocking and hem-stitching were much in evidence. One beautiful set of white longcloth trimmed with "spoke" hemstitching and finished with picot braid won the second prize at the South Central school. A negligee of pale rose baronet satin had dainty cream lace edging. The dresses and coats for juniors were also splendid examples of careful, earnest work and demonstrated the attention given by teachers and students alike to the intricacies of fine and plain sewing.

A SELFISH MAN.

There is a selfish man in Peterborough.

He has a car.

He has cleared away the snow and slush all winter from a straight path from his door to his car.

The remainder of his sidewalk has never been cleared, except inasfar as the snowplow scraped the surface.

He is the only man on his side of the street who has not thought of others—but he has a clear walk from his house to his car.

MINES

F. G. Oke and Company wire as follows:

Toronto, March 23.—This morning's mining market can be regarded as patchy or possibly a specialty market with such stocks as Malartic, Pioneer and Vipond in prominence. On reports of a discovery of major importance on the 500-foot level on Vipond, shares in this company have enjoyed an appreciable advance during the past two or three days. Also, the prices of a few weeks ago for Vipond appeared quite out of line with other Ontario gold producers or properties nearing the production stage.

Pioneer, one of the Huronian Gold group, seemed to move in sympathy with Vipond as no official reports could be obtained as to the reason for Pioneer's appreciable advance. However, shaft sinking on the Jubilee vein on Pioneer's property in the Michipicoten area is expected to reach the 500-foot objective shortly when lateral work on this horizon is fully expected to disclose commercial ore widths and values and as a result, further advances in Pioneer would not be surprising in the comparatively near future.

Malartic has been receiving considerable attention of late and we are reliably informed that this company has all the ear-marks of developing into an important gold producer. Work on the 130-foot level has been eminently satisfactory with $6 to $60 disclosed across commercial widths. When it is considered that very few of our producing mines had any better showings at a depth of 130 feet than that of Malartic the outlook appears exceptionally bright.

The market generally appears in sound condition for an upward movement and it does not look as though the slight re-actions of the past few days will be carried much further. such a volume of buying that prices have moved up fairly sharply. It is not believed that a hectic market, such as marked the close of the past year will develop. The banks continue to sit tight. They are afraid of the New York situation and for that reason are taking on no new commitments, especially with mining stocks as the sole collateral. The banks were a big factor in the break in the market and will do their best to hold down speculation until the situation clarifies.

Meanwhile developments of a spectacular nature continue all across the Dominion. British Columbia is having a strong market and the outlook is that it will continue for some time. It is a public market. Outside buying started the movement, a considerable amount of new funds having been attracted from California and Eastern Canada. The people of Vancouver were drawn in and they have continued to buy steadily. There was a danger that as soon as the Vancouver people had bought all they could that a slump

Toronto Trend Uncertain Though Leaders Are Firm

TORONTO, Mar. 23.— (Canadian Press.)— Some uncertainty crept into the active list on the Toronto stock exchange this morning, though the active leaders, Nickel and Walkers, were firm. Both gained a full point, Nickel at 95 and Walkers at 64. McKinnon Voting Trust stock moved sharply up to 41 and Canadian Industrial Alcohol and Brazilian also appreciated in the regular list. In the unlisted section British American Oil eased down to 37 with McColl losing a fraction at 35.

Bad Weather Reports Send Wheat Prices Up

CHICAGO, March 23 (Canadian Press).—Dry weather reports, especially west, and predictions of heavy acreage abandonment east, lifted wheat to-day to the highest prices yet touched by the July delivery. Meanwhile, corn selling, although of only the scattered sort, proved sufficient to send the corn market downward. Starting unchanged to ¾ cent higher, wheat later showed advances all around. Corn opened unchanged to 3-8 cent decline, and subsequently underwent a general sag. Oats were easier.

Opening prices were: Wheat, March 142¼, May 140½; corn, March 99, May 101¼; oats, March 58½, May 57¾.

Low Priced Mines Stronger This Morning

TORONTO, March 23. — Prices were irregular on the Standard mining exchange to-day, with the high priced stocks for the most part weak and the cheaper issues occasionally showing strength. Sudbury Basin weakened again below 10.00 and Kirkland Lake gold and Bidgood were steady at 194 and 97. Crown Reserve at 57½ and Pioneer at 65, were also firmer, while Malartic was about 8 higher at 128 and Towagmac 5 firmer around 330. The weaker spots included Barry Hollinger at RETIRES AFTER 40 YEARS.

After forty years in the Ontario government service at Osgoode Hall, George Smith, whose photograph appears ABOVE, has just retired. Born in Canterbury, Eng., 61 years ago, Mr. Smith came to Canada in 1885. For a while he farmed in Quebec. Then he moved to Ontario and worked with a survey party in northern Ontario before joining the government service.

114, Nipissing at 475, Teck Hughes at 860, Wright Hargreaves at 5.00, Pend Oreille at 17.35 and Vipond at 80.

Upward Movement Resumed In New York

NEW YORK, Mar. 23.—(Canadian Press.)—Disregarding profit taking in several of the recent leaders, the stock market swung upward in impressive fashion again to-day. Trading showed a marked broadening in demand, with gains of two to five points in the seasoned dividend paying Industrials and Rails, supplemented by an advance of six to sixteen points in several of the pool specialties. Trading did not keep pace with yesterday's record breaking session in the first three hours, but large blocks of stocks again made their appearance at frequent intervals.

Price movements bore little relation to the day's news, although an unexpectedly small increase in brokers' loans undoubtedly fired the speculative imagination and gave the "bull" market a new lease of life.

Several 1927 earnings reports made their appearance during the day and they showed mixed results. Packard earned $3.37 a share on common in the six months ended February 29, against $1.96 in the corresponding period a year ago. Southern Railway earned $14.40 a share for the full year of 1927 as against $15.87 the year before. The Ajax Rubber Company reported a deficit of nearly $2,000,000 last year as contrasted with a deficit of less than $300,000 in 1926.

Interest In Mines Resumed And Market Much Busier

TORONTO.—Substantial buying of mining stock by the public has resulted in the Canadian mining shares market taking another upward turn. For some considerable time the mine issues have held a rather horizontal position but the flood of good news that has been coming out brought on would come, as was the case in Calgary Oil Stocks, but this danger seems to have been averted by the pouring in of funds from the western states, particularly from the cities of Seattle and Spokane. There is not a great deal of wild-catting going on, but there is a danger from the flood of new companies that are rushing on the market, hoping to get development funds cheaply while the public is in the mood, to grab anything that has a semblance of a chance. Consolidated Smelters' subsidiary operations are very much in the limelight and are providing the market leadership. The Provincial Secretary of British Columbia has aided in holding wild-catting to a minimum by refusing to grant names to new concerns that would capitalize the "Smelter" situation.

In Alberta the oil situation has taken a decidely important turn. Three substantial producers have been brought in during the past couple of weeks. McLeod No. 1 which has been giving a small quantity of oil on the pump, has come in strong and is now reported to be showing about 170 barrels daily. Spooner No. 1 which showed a small flow from the limestone was deepened and blew in as a tremendous wet gasser much the same as the famous Royalties four. Unfortunately before its possibilities could be gauged it froze up. The same is true of the new Dalhousie well, an Imperial Oil Subsidiary. It also blew in and froze up quickly. It will take some time to thaw these wells out and until then, it will be impossible to tell just what the addition to the Alberta Naptha production these two wells will make.

The soundest of financial men declare that it will be impossible to hold the Manitoba mining situation in check this year. They say that a tremendous boom is pending. The Flin Flon—Sherritt—Gordon section and the area North of these is going to be overrun by prospectors, many of whom have already gathered at the Pas. The geology of the area is said to be so favorable that new discoveries of importance are bound to be forthcoming. Besides base metals, there is also promise of silver and gold discoveries. Also there is known to be a great area of norite rocks similar to those in the section in which the nickel-copper deposits of Sudbury are found and this is believed to hold much promise.

Sudbury promises to vie with Manitoba as there is a great rush of new operators into this section. Recent discoveries in diamond drilling on Sudbury Basin Mines have proven the extension of the lead-zinc bodies of Yukon Treadwell and materially extended the possibilities of the camp. It is said the values secured under Vermillion Lake are fabulous.

Gold operations in Northern Ont. have come into the limelight again because of the excellent developments on the 400-ft. level of Bidgood and the cutting of high grade ore by Moffat Hall which adjoins.

Quebec issues continue off color. This is attributed to the delay in publishing the statement on Amulet ore reserves which has been promised for some time.

GROUP OF SEVEN EXHIBIT

(By Jeanette.)

A certain reviewer of books was once given a volume to peruse. He did so, and commenced his criticism thus: "If you are the sort of person who likes this type of book, you will enjoy this volume very much."

Something very similar might be said of art of the Group of Seven, a septette of Canadian artists who have made a name for themselves of late years, and have accomplished somewhat of a revolution in art by the methods employed by them. They are not futuristic exactly, neither are they impressionistic. They are modernists and they aim to present landscape, especially Canadian landscape, as it appears to them. The results are quite startling at times. An exhibit of their work, or a portion of it, the showing comprising twenty-small and larger-sized pictures, is being made at the studio of the Conservatory of Music during to-day and to-morrow, under the auspices of the Women's Art Association.

Hector Charlesworth says the art of the Group of Seven is "flub dub," and steadfastly maintains his dislike of its manifestations. He says in the "Saturday Night" that a picture ought to be more than a shout, and should be something with which a man might comfortably live. "'Oscar Wilde has stated," says Mr. Charlesworth, "that Nature constantly imitates art. If this be true and Canadian Nature essays to imitate some of the landscapes to be seen at the exhibition of the Ontario Society of Art, then we shall all have to wear smoked glasses."

On the other hand, Augustu Bridle spoke of the new form of art as imbued "with an exhiliration almost an abandon, that convinces any average beholder of the vitality of Canadian art which a few years ago showed signs of senility." He cries: "Let us hope for more of the same. This is modern and a note of great joy!"

Owen Staples said in an address delivered this winter to the members of the Women's Art Association: "These strong lines, unrelieved by atmosphere are very noticeable in the work of the Group of Seven. I wonder if it is really a true exposition of our land that goes forth in these delineations of barren rocks, mining country charred stumps, and burnt-over areas."

People either love or hate these pictures. When Leon Bakst, the Russian sculptor, saw "Above Lake Superior," one of Lawren Harris's conceptions, he said: "It is not painting, it is sculpture." An Oxford Pd.D. described it is "a horror"; a little Irish woman spoke of it as "The Place Where the Gods Live," and one man said that Harris should have been locked up for painting it.

The pictures at the Conservatory are interesting, if somewhat puzzling at moments. They are decorative perhaps, rather than natural, and there is no sentiment in their strong and virile delineations. A very lovely use of color is noted in some of the pictures, as "Poplar and Sumach" by Casson, with its palette knife splashes of yellow and red, or in the wonderful ultramarine glow of the water in two examples of Varley's work in a sextette of unnamed pieces. This same painter uses the dull burnt umber that seems popular with these artists, in another of this group, and he has an indescribably ugly thing that looks like a dead whale, cut up in pieces, but is probably a bit of the beauty of the Canadian Northland, if one knew its title.

The Kleig lights of the moving picture studios must have been turned on a few of these landscapes to bring out the extraordinary colors that dominate them. "Never on land or sea" can the ordinary mortal of ordinary mental calibre expect to see scenes like some of these. From the lonely planet of Mars, lit only by pallid moonbeams, must have drifted the picture called "Northland Lake" by McDonald.

In contrast to the tortured trees and bitter, hungry rocks of several of these scenes that seem to have been developed in a macabre mood, is the peaceful beauty of a picture called "Ossa Bay," with a hint of old-time flatter treatment of paint in its surface.

Some of the pictures are oddly titled. In "Birches," the emphasis is not on the trees, but on the snow-covered hillside that supports their attenuated trunks, and "Early Spring" looks exactly like a scene taken of a village after a landslide had struck it and knocked it askew.

There is some lovely use of soft green and blue, cool and calm, in a "Mountain Sketch" by L. Harris, and a good deal of sympathetic atmospheric interest in the "Street in Murray Bay" by A. Y. Jackson.

Again the confusing note is manifested in Lismer's "Lake," with tortured white clouds over calm and moveless water. Lismer's "Fishing Boats" is beautiful in its chiaroscuro effect, but would the house lie canted on an uneven keen as is so natural with the boats in the foreground?

WOULD GIVE PRIZES TO WOLF TRAPPERS

TORONTO, March 23 (Canadian Press). — The Fish and Game Committee of the Ontario Legislature to-day passed on to the Department of Game and Fisheries, with a recommendation for favorable consideration, the scheme advanced by Theodore Legault, Liberal, Sturgeon Falls, for the extermination of wolves in the province, under which, it is expected, ten thousand wolves would be killed next year. Under Mr. Legault's proposition an association would be formed by certain persons interested, and fifteen thousand dollars in prizes would be given to those getting the greatest number of pelts. To finance the association the Government would pay five dollars for each wolf killed in addition to fifteen dollars now paid to the trapper. As evidence of its good faith, no money would be paid to the association until ten thousand wolves had been killed.

JURORS DISCUSS SCOPE OF VERDICT

TIMMINS, Ont., March 23 (Canadian Press).—Proceedings at the resumed sitting of the inquest into the deaths of three of the thirty-nine victime of the Hollinger disaster were held up for some time to-day while the members of the jury retired to consider the attitude they were going to adopt regarding the scope of the present inquiry. Their action arose out of a question put by one of their number who wanted to know whether they were to deal with responsibility for the tragedy and who had been told by Peter White, K.C., assisting Crown Attorney, that the hearing was for the purpose of threshing out the whole matter. The jury's intentions were not expressed when they returned to court.

CAMBRIDGE CREW ROWS TRIAL COURSE

LONDON, March 23 (Canadian Press Cable). — Cambridge's crew, training for the annual university boat race with Oxford on the Thames on March 31, had an excellent full course trial today from Putney to Mortlake. The trial was on a strong Springtime tide. Cambridge finished in 19 minutes and 31 seconds, compared with the full course record of 18.21 made by Oxford in 1908. Cambridge beat the mile record to-day by 12 seconds, and the record to Hammersmith Bridge by 19 seconds diers' problems which they have studied so well, I doubt whether this combination could be beaten in the Province of Ontario. The proof of this is recorded in the fine work that has been accomplished in this direction. In some instances there have been very difficult cases to handle. Also his duties in connection with the care and maintenance of the hall have been carried out very efficiently, all members must admit; and I regret to say, our loss must be someone's gain, and we are bound to give honor where honor is due.

OAT QUALITIES DIFFER

O. A. College, Guelph,
March 20th, 1928

The Editor,
Peterborough Examiner.

Dear Sir: Mr. W. H. Merrill, in his letter which appeared in The Examiner of March 16th, states that he had sent the results of the special prize for best decorated sheaf of oats at the Peterborough Exhibition to the O.A.C., so that Prof. Squirrel might see the necessity of getting behind the best results for the farmers regardless of the O.A.C. By best results, I suppose Mr. Merrill means such varieties of oats as Victory and Empire, which won over O.A.C. 144 oats at Peterborough Exhibition.

I would like first to remand Mr. Merrill and readers of this letter that the ability to win at seed shows is far from the most important factor when a farmer is considering which variety to grow on his farm. I am willing to admit that Victory is rather a good show oat, but how about its yield of grain and straw, its hull percentage, or its resistance to lodging, when compared to other varieties?

Prof. Squirrel is certainly getting behind the best results for the farmers. To prove this I might tell you that Victory oats were imported from Sweden in 1911 by the O.A.C.. Since that time they have been tested with some 300 or more varieties of oats, all of which have been tested for at least five years at the College.

Readers and perhaps Mr. Merrill might be interested in a few of the results obtained from trials of 27 varieties under uniform conditions for the five years, 1923-27. In yield of grain O.A.C. 144 stood at the top with 97.78 bushel per acre. Victory stood eighth with 84.70 bushels, a difference of 14 bushels per acre In yield of straw O.A.C. 144 gave 2.58 and Victory 1.98 tons per acre. The hull percentage of Victory was 30.3 and of O.A.C. 144, 29.7. O.A.C. was outstanding over all varieties in stiffness of straw.

In the standing field crop competitions of Ontario for an eight year period, 1918-1925, of the 1,108 first prizes which were awarded by 161 selected men of experience, but one first prize was awarded to the Victory variety.

Surely this is conclusive proof that the O.A.C. are standing behind the best varieties of grain for the farmer to grow.

Yours very truly,
FRANK DENCH, O.A.C. '29

Obituary

MRS. DUNCAN CAMPBELL.

NORWOOD, Mar. 23.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Duncan Campbell, whose death occurred in Regina, Sask., last Thursday, was held in the Presbyterian church on Tuesday afternoon. The service was conducted by the Rev. D. G. Thomson, of Hastings, assisted by the Rev. R. F. Stillman, of Norwood.

The late Mrs. Campbell is survived by three daughters, Mrs. (Dr.) C. H. Dixon of Regina, with whom she resided, Mrs. R. W. Johnston, of Drinkwater, Sask., and Mrs. Wm. Atkinson, of Campbellford.

Many floral tributes were laid upon the casket, bearing testimony of the esteem in which the deceased was held.

The bearers were Messrs. I. N. Ackerman, J. W. Rork, J. E. Roxburgh, E. P. Cuff, J. A. Finlay and Alex. Kempt.

J. SIPES.

FRASERVILLE, March 23.—The funeral of J. Sipes was held on Wednesday afternoon from the home of Charles Lawrence. Interment took place in Fraserville Cemetery.

MRS. JOHN G. CAREY.

HASTINGS, Mar. 23.— The death occurred in Toronto on Tuesday, March 20th, of a former well known resident of Hastings in the person of Mrs. Catherine Carey, beloved wife of the late John G. Carey. Deceased moved to Toronto some twelve years ago. The funeral was held on Thursday at 9 o'clock, at the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, where Requiem High Mass was sung. Interment took place in the Hastings Roman Catholic cemetery.

MRS. WILLIAM REGAN.

MARMORA, March 23—The funeral of Mrs. William Regan was held on Wednesday afternoon in St. Paul's Church. The sacred edifice failed to accommodate all of the many sympathising citizens who turned out to pay their last respects to one so highly esteemed.

The service itself was most impressive. Two hymns were sung, that had been selected by the deceased, "Come Ye Disconsolate, and Abide With Me." Rev. A. B. Caldwell took for his text, "What is your life?"

Comrades of the Marmora and Deloro Great War Veterans Association officiated as bearers. They were: H. Nayler, W. Kerr, F. Leal, W. J. Cottrell, A. Moon and L. Rundle.

MRS. ISAAC LARMER.

MILLBROOK, March 23.—The death of Mrs. Isaac Larmer, in her eighty-eighth year, which occurred on Tuesday, March 20, after an extended illness, removes one of the oldest residents of Cavan Township.

Deceased, whose maiden name was Martha Gibson, was born on the First Concession of Hope Township, and after her marriage to the late Mr. Larmer, about sixty-five years ago, came as a bride to the family homestead east of the village, where they continued to reside until after the marriage of their youngest son, Ormond, who had taken over the home farm. Mr. and Mrs. Larmer spent their remaining years in the cosy home which the former had built on the Fourth Line, Cavan. Four years ago last August, Mr. Larmer's death took place; had he lived a few months longer they would have celebrated the diamond anniversary of their wedding day.

Life-long members of the Presbyterian Church, both Mr. and Mrs. Larmer were active in its interests so long as health permitted; they were among the most widely-known and highly-respected residents of this section of the countryside.

Four sons and four daughters made up the family of the deceased, and of these seven children survive: Mrs. A. J. Fallis, of Fallis Line; Mrs. H. Seton, Millbrook; Mrs. H. A. Earle, Cavan; Messrs. Loftus, Wilber and Ormond, of Cavan, and Charles, of Oshawa; one daughter, Mrs. Scott (Effie), of Winnipeg, predeceased her parents by fourteen years. There are twenty-two grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The funeral, which was largely attended, took place from her late residence on Thursday at 2.30 p.m., Rev. John Riddle having charge of the services.

The pall-bearers were six grandsons: Dr. Lawrence Fallis (Detroit), R. J. Fallis, James, Robert, Keith and Harry Larmer. Four of the younger grandsons carried the floral tributes, among which was a wreath from Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge No. 176. Interment was in the Presbyterian Cemetery at Centreville.

GEORGE RUNBELOW.

An old and much respected resident of the town of Cobourg passed away at his late residence on Stuart street on Saturday, in the person of Gorge Rumbelow, aged 74 years. Last Thanksgiving he was taken ill and gradually grew weaker until death claimed him. Deceased was a native of Wicken, Cambridgeshire, England, where he was born in January, 1854. In August, 1874, he was married to Miss Emily Peachey and they came out to Canada on their honeymoon and settled in Cobourg. From his arrival here until the Cobourg Woollen Mills closed, Mr. Rumbelow was a faithful and valued employee of the company. He was afterwards employed with the Cobourg Felt Company, retiring about four years ago.

In religion he was a member of the United Church, and previous to church union, he was a member of the Presbyterian church. In 1924 he and Mrs. Rumbelow celebrated their golden wedding. In addition to his widow he is survived by seven daughters, Mrs. Hartley Simpson of Clinton, Mich., Mrs. John Walker of Cobourg, Mrs. James Anderson of Peterborough, Mrs. Dan Hare, Moose Jaw, Sask., Mrs. William Anderson of Toronto, Mrs. Best Feir of Winnipeg, Mrs. Robert Boyd of Clinton, Mich., and three sons, George of Stafford Springs, Conn., Harry of Moose Jaw, Sask., and Albert of Cobourg. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon to Cobourg Union cemetery, the services being conducted by Rev. W. R. Tanton, pastor of Trinity United church. The pallbearers were two sons, George and Albert, and four sons-in-law, H. Simpson, James and William Anderson and Robert Boyd. Mr. Rumbelow was a most affable and kindly dispositioned man and in his passing the family will have the sincere sympathy of their many friends.—The Cobourg Sentine-Star.

PIONEER DIES AT BONARLAW

Mrs. Catherine M. Brown Was One of Early Settlers There.

WAS 89 YEARS OLD.

(Contributed.)

On Monday morning, March 12th, inst., there passed away at her home at Bonarlaw, Ontario, Mrs. Catherine Mary Brown, widow of the late Henry Brown of that place. The deceased had been a resident of the district the greater part of her life. Although at the time of her death in her eighty-ninth year, she had been well and active until a fortnight before.

She was born in the village of Chippenham, in Wiltshire, England. The quiet little village with its many-arched old bridge, where her family had lived for many generations, was ever fondly recalled. She was but four years of age when she came out to Canada with her parents, who bought a farm near London, Ontario. But conditions in the new country apparently did not appear promising, for they returned shortly to England again for a while. Migrating a second time to Canada a few years later, they settled in Hastings county, near Harold. After her marriage, Mrs. Brown and her husband took up their abode at Big Springs, now Bonarlaw, where they resided till their deaths.

Her earliest recollections of Canada were of the days of the old spinning wheel, when the dinner horn called the men in their red flannel shirts from the fields, and oxen were used on the land. Their times of jollification were the corn-huskings and barn-raisings, or when the women of the neighborhood gathered about the quilting frames to sew and gossip. Rather amusing were some of the reminiscences of those days. She recalled how one of her neighbors, a good-hearted German woman, who had not acquired the fullest mastery of the English language, and confused her prepositions in conversation, was in the habit of welcoming her callers on chilly days with the hospitable request to "come in and sit on the stove." Remote and old-fashioned those times appear to us to-day.

Mrs. Brown had been a member of St. Mark's Church, Rawdon, from its earliest days, and thither was her body conveyed on its way to the cemetery. A large number of friends and relatives attended the funeral. The service was conducted by the Rev. M. J. C. Levason of the parish and Rev. A. B. Caldwell of Marmora. And so tempus fugit. What was life without its memories?

GROWTH TOLD BY C. G. E. CO.

Annual Report Shows Great Improvement in Position.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

TORONTO, March 21.—The annual report of the Canadian General Electric Company, Limited, for the year ending December 31, 1927, submitted to the shareholders at the annual general meeting on Tuesday, shows considerable improvement in the operating results and liquid position.

Profits Increased.

The gross profits after reserves and taxes, but before providing for depreciation, amount to $2,903,053, an increase of $1,032,435, or 55 per cent. over the profits for the previous year. Eight hundred thousand dollars was written off for depreciation as compared with $700,000 in 1926, leaving net profits of $2,103,053, an increase of $932,435. The sum of $599,042 was distributed in dividends during the year on the preference stock, leaving a surplus of $1,504,011 after preference dividends.

Cash and Dominion Government Bonds total $3,145,486, as compared with $1,437,245 at December 31, 1926, an increase of $1,708,241. Total current assets amount to $11,072,174, an increase of $1,786,302, while current liabilities total -1,662,669, a decrease of $5,511. The excess of current assets over current liabilities or the working capital is $9,409,505, an increase of $1,791,844 over the working capital at December 31, 1926. The ratio of current assets to current liabilities has increased from 5.6-1 to 8.6-16

Facilities Improved.

The improvement in the company's earnings has result from a larger volume of sales, operating economies and in a considerable measure from improvements in designs and the installation of additional modern machinery. Pursuant to the policy of providing adequate and efficient manufacturing facilities the company expended in 1927 the amount of $819,324 for additional machinery and equipment, and during the past four years the amount expended for such purposes has been $2,469,000.

The Company has no funded debt, notes payable or other interest bearing obligations outstanding.

A decrease in capital assets is shown in the balance sheet due to applying $2,000,000 formerly carried as general reserve and a further sum of $1,352,888 appropriated from 1927 operating profits against the book values of the plants. The electrical manufacturing industry being highly technical and rapidly developing requires much special machinery and equipment, as well as appropriate building facilities, which cannot be suitably used for other purposes. The Company considers it wise, in view of the circumstances, to carry the plants at conservative valuations.

Wages and Materials.

During 1927 the company distributed in salaries and wages over $5,500,000. Purchases of materials, supplies and equipment called for the expenditure of over $11,000,000, and in conformity with the company's policy these purchases were made in Canada wherever possible.

As a result of an employees' savings and investment plan introduced in 1927, the employees of the company purchased upon favorable terms, over 8,700 shares of the preference stock, having a par value of $435,000. The plan was so favorably received that a second similar offering for 1928 has recently been presented to the employes. The directors believe the measures of this kind are of material benefit to the employees and improve relations existing between employees and the company.

The retiring directors and officers were re-elected.

HE ISN'T CONSTIPATED ANY MORE

Thanks to Kellogg's wonderful ALL-BRAN

Mr. Grinslade wrote, of his own accord, to tell us how much he valued ALL-BRAN in relieving constipation. June 1, 1927

"Just a few words to let the company know what Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has done for me. I was constipated for several years until I went to eating your PEP and ALL-BRAN. I am now rid of constipation and it is all due to the use of your products, and I will recommend it to anyone that is bothered with constipation."

Yours truly,

BUS SERVICES ARE IMPROVED

Campbellford To Have Connections With Brighton, Belleville and Peterborough.

TOWN MORE ACCESSIBLE.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 23.—With the opening of the roads in a few days, it is expected that the bus services between Belleville and Peterborough, via Campbellford, will be resumed. This was a popular service last season and afforded a convenient means of transportation at hours when there were no train connections.

This year there will also be a bus service from Campbellford to Brighton where connections are to be made with the west bound bus for Toronto. While this service is not entirely new, the seven passenger sedan is a new addition and will afford a much more comfotrable service than the former speed-wagon which was more designed for freight than for passenger service.

With the new paved streets which are to materialize this year, Campbellford is showing signs of prosperity and indications are for a prosperous season. The town will be accessible by rail, road and water. Some of the business men have expressed a hope that there will be an improved train service in the near future. This, they claim, would be a great advantage to the municipality.

STORM SEWER CLEARED OUT

Spectators Get Soaked When Workmen Lose Control of Hose.

MANY WATCH WORK.

Campbellford, March 23. — The road and bridge gang was busy yesterday forcing an opening through the storm sewer which crosses the intersection of Bridge and Front streets here. The work was carried out under the supervision of the town foreman and several of the councillors who appeared on the scene from time to time. The warm weather has turned much of the snow into water and the sewer system has been called upon to carry off large quantities of water during the last few days. Yesterday it was discovered that a short section was frozen at the intersection of the main streets and the town gang set to work to correct matters. There was an ever changing crowd of spectators during the process and a fire hose was employed to force water through the passage.

Toward the middle of the afternoon the water pressure proved too much for the men who were holding the nozzle and they were powerless to keep the stream under control. They lost their grip and the hose fell to the ground and began to writhe like a great angry serpent. The result was a shower of water diluted with mud from the road and small gravel stones. Eventually the hose was got under control again, but not before spectators at a safe distance had been afforded considerable amusement at the expense of those who were caught closer to the scene of the accident.

CITIZENS HONOR STIRLING TEAM

Banquet Held and Presentations Made To League Champions.

HIGH TRIBUTE PAID.

STIRLING, March 23.—The citizens of Stirling and vicinity did honor to their hockey team on Thursday night when a banquet was held in the Town Hall at which 150 guests were present. The assembly was catered to by the ladies of the Women's Institute, and the fine meal was heartily enjoyed by everyone. Community singing opened the next part of the program, and Reeve Thomas Montgomery, acting as toast master, called for the following toasts: "The King," "Our Hockey Team" was proposed by Dr. C. F. Walt, acting for L. Meiklejohn, who was on account of illness unable to be present. Dr. Walt spoke of the progress of hockey in Stirling during the past 25 years; first as played on the ice on the pond; then in an enclosed lot across the pond, and now in the covered rink. Some of the players of the earlier days, viz., V. Whitty, E. Gould, Roy Bissonnette, and Roy Bean, played their last game of life when they made the supreme sacrifice on the battlefields of France.

Hugh Morton and Jack Ackers replied. Following this each member of the team was presented with a silver cup, suitably engraved, and W. Whitty, the manager of the team, was given a gold watch by the members of the team. Mr. Montgomery presented individual cups and Jack Ackers, one of the team, gave the watch to their manager.

In replying, Mr. Whitty spoke of the good fellowship and most gentlemanly team he had ever managed; Mr. Whitty thought the country people, the ladies, and all who had given encouragement in any way towards helping to win the championship, and he thought if the team remained as now constituted, they needn't take a back seat to the Intermediate hockey teams.

Clinton McGee Jr. rendered a solo in a pelasing manner. Mr. Whitty spoke of the free service rendered the team by the doctors who were called to attend to the numerous accidents which befell members of the team during the season, and publicly thanked them. The manager in his remarks also praised Jack Ackers for his services and said he would compare with any hockey player.

Roswell Coulter sang a solo.

The decoration committee composed of J. G. Butler, R. Coulter, and A. E. Dobbie, spoke briefly. The latter upheld anything he had published about the Stirling team. Ed. Pyear, who the chairman said had attended two more games than had been played, spoke briefly.

Father Corrigan spoke words of praise and voiced the sentiment of those present that the citizens should stand by the team with all possible encouragement and keep the trophy permanently in Stirling by winning it the next two years.

The league trophy was then presented to Mr. Whitty, manager of the team by Mr. Montgomery. In accepting it Mr. Whitty hoped they would be successful in winning the cup the next two seasons and so become the permanent owners.

J. S. Morton and D. M. Halpenny spoke on behalf of the ladies, praising their service in rendering community aid where needed. Mr. Halpenny in his remarks said he thought more encouragement should be accorded the junior team, as it was from them the seniors came.

Mr. Montgomery interspersed the different numbers of the program with numerous witty remarks.

Robert Patterson led the community singing with Gerald Clute at the piano.

The hall was appropriately decorated with red and white bunting, and the tables with red candles, these being the colors of the team.

Each member of the team is to be presented with a sweater. These are now in process of manufacture and in a few weeks will be ready.

RIGID VEGETATION MADE WIFE UNHAPPY

LONDON, England, March 23. — (Canadian Press).—The suggestion that a husband's liking for vegetarianism led his wife to try to take her own life and that of her infant son was made at the Old Bailey. Mrs. Ruth Jones, 24, of Finsbury Park, appeared before the Lord Chief Justice, to answer charges of attempted murder and attempted suicide. She pleaded guilty.

Gerald Dodson said the married life of Mr. and Mrs. Jones had not been happy owing to the husband's ideas on food. "He seems to have been a rigid vegetarian, and to have insisted upon a diet of herbs not only for himself but also for his wife and baby," he added.

The Lord Chief Justice: "Is that a ground for divorce?"

Mr. Dodson: "I have not considered that; my lord. It may become a ground in a few years' time."

Tindal Atkinson, on behalf of Mrs. Jones, said her husband had drawn up a very rigid dietary for himself and his family, and a doctor whom she consulted had assured Mrs. Jones that if this was persisted in the baby would not live.

The woman's husband, Herbert Jones, a compositor, stated that he was willing to take his wife back.

The Lord Chief Justice: Will you promise not to insist on this vegetarian diet for the child or for her?

Jones: "Yes, on my honor."

The Lord Chief Justice bound Mr. Jones over to come up for judgment if called upon.

FASHIONS FOR EASTER

There is a new silkiness to the light weight wools and a heavier finish to the silks. Georgettes have developed a material called wool georgette and there is something akin to it in the spiderweb fabric. All sorts of lovely stripings and designs are manifested in the silk jerseys for sports suits, and there is a luxurious material called peau de peche, with a heavy satiny surface, that also makes up beautifully for sports wear. Silks are printed in a tweed design, tweeds have a velvet-like finish in some instances and there are dozens of variations to the satin crepes.

Spring boutonnieres are made of crystal in some cases and crystal jewelry also is very good. Necklaces, earrings and bracelets of this cut crystal are extremely effective, also necklaces of ornate design in antique finish, with large flat pendants.

For wear with the suit there are vestee and cuff sets of washable flat crepe, or the new collarless surplice vestee of double georgette with cuffs to match, sometimes finished plainly and sometimes with the gorgeous Vandyke cuffs that come in cream lace and make such a wonderful finish to a plain frock.

Scarfs appear in oblong, triangular and square styles and cover themselves with futuristic and cubist designs in stencilled outlines or with large painted flowers. A scarf and hat to match is the latest idea for sports wear.

Everything is matching this year. Although the identical shade may not be carried out, one should have a harmonizing or matching coat for one's frock and a hat that carries out the same color scheme. Hosiery and footwear is also supposed to carry out this harmonizing idea. Bags are of pouch shape in soft leathers.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE GRAPES

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Uncle Wiggily had picked up the accordion which one of the little Italian boys had dropped in the field where the strings of macaroni were drying. The accordion gave a faint musical squeak as the rabbit gentleman lifted it from the ground.

"Oh, you can play!" exclaimed Baby Bunty.

"How lovely!" murmured Vallie. The little Valentine rabbit child, with Bunty and Uncle Wiggily had dropped down into an Italian field where macaroni was drying, as I told you in the story last night. Uncle Wiggily, Vallie and Bunty were on their way home from a visit to Holland, where they had been blown on a runaway kite.

"Now listen!" growled the Wolf.

"He's got to play more than that if he doesn't want me to nibble his ears," growled the voice that had so startled the three rabbits a little while before.

"Who are you?" boldly asked Uncle Wiggily for, as yet, they had not seen the owner of the growling voice.

"I'm an Italian Wolf!" was the answer and from behind a screen of drying strings of macaroni stepped a big, hungry Wolf.

"Oh!" exclaimed Bunty and Vallie, but they did not run away and leave Uncle Wiggily to face the Wolf alone. The two brave little bunny girls hopped closer to Mr. and Mrs. Longears, who still held the accordion. It was stretching itself out like a lazy cat, the bellows opening farther and farther and a few faint squeaks coming from it.

"Go on!" ordered the Italian Wolf, who seemed just as impolite as the Woozie Wolf that lived near the hollow stump bungalow. "Play me some music!"

"I—I'm afraid I can't," answered Uncle Wiggily, gently twinkling his pink nose. "I never learned to play the accordion."

"I don't care whether you ever took any lessons or not!" snarled the Wolf. "I want you to play me some music! Quick now, before I nibble your ears," and the Wolf not only looked hungrily at Uncle Wiggily's ears, but also at those of Vallie and Bunty.

The rabbit gentleman and the little bunny girls were wishing the brave Italian rabbit, who looked like a policeman from Naples, with green rooster feathers in his hat, would come back. Perhaps he could save them from the Wolf. But the Italian rabbit was away looking for a place where Uncle Wiggily might sleep that night, so there was no one to stop the Wolf from nibbling ears unless Uncle Wiggily played music.

"Go on!" growled the Bad Chap. "Make me some music!"

"Oh, dear!" sighed Mr. Longears. "I never played in my life anything more than a cornstalk fiddle. But of course I should at least try to work this accordion." He looked at it and saw that at each end there was a leather strap, or loop. Uncle Wiggily had seen the Italian boy put his hands under these leather loops to pull the accordion bellows out, once he had pushed it in to make certain notes. "Ah," thought the rabbit gentleman to himself, "maybe if I can't play the accordion I can play a trick on this Wolf." So he said to the Bad Chap:

"Perhaps you play a little, Mr. Wolf? I'm sure you can, so if you will first give me a lesson on the accordion I will play for you."

"All right!" growled the Wolf. "Give it here. I can play, but I'm lazy and I want you to do it for me. But I'll give you one lesson."

So the Bad Chap took the accordion from Uncle Wiggily. The Wolf slipped his paws under the two leather straps and it was a tight fit for his paws were large and the straps were smal.l

"Now listen!" growled the Wolf. He pulled the accordion out. Some music came from it, but Uncle Wiggily did not stop to listen. Instead the rabbit gentleman shouted:

"Come on, girls! The Wolf's paws are held fast now in the accordion straps and he can't catch us! Run! Hop! Get away!" And through the rows of macaroni ran the three bunnies.

"Ha! if Uncle Wiggily can't play the accordion he can play a trick on me!" growled the Wolf as he twisted and squirmed to get his paws loose from the straps so he could run. But his paws were tightly held fast so Uncle Wiggily got away. He and the little bunny girls were now running through a field on the side of a hill when, all at once Vallie cried:

"Oh, somebody is throwing stones at us."

"No," said Mr. Longears, "we are now in a field of grapes and it is grapes dropping off the vines that you think are stones hitting you. See what a lot of grapes are here!" It was true. There were thousands of grape vines on the hill. The three rabbits hid among the green leaves listening to see if the Wolf would chase after them.

And if the snow man doesn't come in the house to warm his nose and melt into a puddle of water, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the white bears.

For afternoon the coat is worn with a brown chiffon frock which is worn over a flesh-colored slip and for evening the same slip is worn beneath a pink lace evening gown. The hat chosen was of beige felt, and there were thin brown stockings and brown shoes. The bronze slippers may be worn with bronze stockings for afternoon and with flesh-colored stockings for evening.

We live in an age of sets and ensembles. Sets of books that make it possible to get all the worth-while literature of the past without bothering to select it for ourselves. Book clubs that provide us with just those of the new books that experts decide we ought to read. Sets of furniture, cereal sets, fitted toilet cases. Even for the new baby it is possible to go to the store and buy baby outfit No. 1, No. 2, No. 3—according to what we can afford to pay—with the assurance that even the necessary number of safety pins will be included.

The ensemble carries out the same idea in the realm of clothes. Instead of selecting a frock and then a wrap and a hat and a scarf and jewelry and stockings and shoes and gloves—we go to the dressmaker and have the whole matter settled for us.

There is a wrap and a scarf to go with the frock. The dressmaker knows just the sort of hat that would complete the costume to perfection—she will send for one of the milliners to come and talk to us about it. And there are necklaces and bracelets, chosen especially for this type of costume, and of course the shoulder ornament and probably the perfume as well. The dressmaker knows just what sort of shoes would go well with the costume—she knows a shoe dealer who has been especially successful in supplying her customers with shoes that harmonize with her creations.

Some of the French dressmakers who have a trick of beginning with a frock and ending with an entire ensemble do so as much to protect their reputations as obviously to increase their profits. Even the most charming frock may be ruined by a discordant hat or a badly selected bit of jewelry.

IF BACK HURTS FLUSH KIDNEYS

Drink Plenty Water and Take Glass of Salts Before Breakfast Occasionally.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

GRENFELL WORKERS TRAVEL ALL WINTER

Engage in Arduous Labors Started Years Ago By Sir Wilfrid.

At the time Sir Wilfred Grenfell volunteered to undertake his arduous work in northern latitudes he was serving on the hospital ships of the Royal National Mission in the North Sea, and at the suggestion of Lord Southborough first visited Labrador and Newfoundland to see if medical and surgical service could be established there. From this simple beginning has grown one of the most attractive, appealing and alluring missionary adventures known today.

When winter ice cuts off communication with the outside world, the floating population has departed, boats been beached, and the summer Grenfell stations closed, dog teams are used and long patrols by doctors and nurses established.

Swathed in "dickies," which are both wind and water proof, Grenfell Association workers travel over hundreds of miles of wind-swept and icy barrens, or the frozen bays of the Atlantic, in humanitarian service.

The press of the English-speaking world for years has eagerly published accounts of Sir Wilfred's romantic story. Unsought honors have been bestowed upon him in this country and in Europe. At the opening of the new St. Anthony hospital last July—the crowning achievement of his busy life—King George of England, conferred on him the knighthood of the order of St. Michael and St. George. Oxford conferred an ex-honorary degree; he was made a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and Harvard has given him its honorary M.A.

Sir Wilfred has been called the best-loved missionary in the world. His success is due in large part to his exceptional personal charm. According to one anecdote from the legend which has grown up around him he was once crossing the Atlantic on his tiny hospital ship, the gift of an empire builder; when playing ball with a friend the ball went overboard in mid-ocean. After it went Sir Wilfred. A lifeboat picked him up a half hour later, still clinging to the ball.

For this quality of great physical audacity Labrador has furnished a perfect background with its stormy winds, dense fog polar current and ice-bergs. Its gloomy cliffs rise sheer from the sea hundreds of feet and it has tales to tell of incredible suffering and heroism, in many of which Sir Wilfred has played the part of doctor, benefactor and friend, and played it modestly and well.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

FRIDAY, MARCH 23, 1928

This is read as an unimportant day in planetary direction, but astrologers announce that benefic aspects dominate.

It is a day when it is lucky to deal in lands or to buy farms. There will be a new anxiety to possess at least a little area of the Earth's surface, the seers prophesy.

Home-owning and gardening are two desires stimulated by this planetary government.

Writers need not be dismayed if they find imagination torpid under this rule which is most inimical to creative thought.

Financial affairs, even when good, may appear most discouraging while this configuration prevails.

This is not a lucky day for courtship or marriage. Many misunderstandings may arise from vows taken under this sway.

Theatres again come under an unfortunate rule which presages many disappointments to producers.

Motion pictures also are subject to adverse direction of theatres making for many readjustments in business as well as artistic matters.

Some sort of a novel project will engage the ambitions and interest of the younger generation, it is foretold.

Progress in schools and colleges this year should be great, for a few tremendous intellects are said by occultists to be developing for future achievements.

The southern forces in China are to overthrow the northern according to a reading of the stars.

Persons whose birthdate it is may suffer annoyances from many sources in the coming year, but they may succeed if they keep their own counsel.

Children born on this day will be cheerful and happy and will find success in life.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

PLEASE TELL MY WIFE

I wish that you would see my wife
And tell her that I love her,
A thing, these later years of life,
I hoped that she'd discover.
'Twas quite an easy thing to say;
The way that youth would view it,
But, now we both are getting gray,
I just can't seem to do it.

I wish that you would write a line;
Would send my wife a letter,
And kindly tell this wife of mine
I really love her better
Than in the days of twenty-one;
And thought of course, she knew it,
I think it really should be done—
I wish that you would do it.

I wish you'd do that much for me;
It's really very easy;
Just write a line, or come to see,
Adopt a manner breezy;
Just say, "He loves you," just like that;
There's really nothing to it;
There's nothing to be frightened at—
But I can't seem to do it.

INDIGENT RATE TO BE INCREASED

Provincial Secretary Brings in Bill Raising Cost To Municipalities.

TORONTO, March 23.—The Ontario Government's warning of last fall that municipalities, sooner or later, would have to shoulder a greater share of financial responsibility for the keep of indigent patients in hospitals and charitable institutions has taken concrete form. Under terms of legislation which Hon. Lincoln Goldie, Provincial Secretary, brought down to the House last night the municipalities' rate of payment will, after April 1, be increased from $1.50 to $1.75 per day.

Extra Cost.

The Government, however, is also saddling itself with extra cost. Its present per diem grant of 50 cents will be increased to 60 cents, on the understanding, in not only the case of the public hospital, but homes for incurables as well, that "the total amount of such grant is to be based upon the number of days' actual treatment and stay of each patient admitted to or being within such hospital during the fiscal year next preceding the year for which such aid is given."

No New Bill Yet.

Mr. Goldie's legislation is in the form of an amendment to the present act administering public hospital and charitable institutions. Following its introduction last night, Premier Ferguson told the House that it had been the Ministry's intention to bring down an entirely new "hospitals" bill, but certain contentious clauses had held up its completion, and rather than delay the sitting of the House it had been decided to amend the present act instead.

The ten-cent increase in its per diem rate will mean to the Government, it is learned, an increased expenditure annually of between $90,000 and $100,000.

OTTAWA AND PITTSBURGH WIN N.H.L. FIXTURES

PIRATES HOLD THIRD PLACE

Pittsburgh Defeats Montreal Maroons, Two Points Ahead of Detroit.

SCORE 2 TO 1.

MONTREAL, Que., March 23 (Canadian Press). — Pittsburg Pirates last night scored a 2 to 1 victory over the Montreal Maroons, and thus jumped into undisputed possession of third place in the standing of the United States section of the National Hockey League. The Corsairs are now two full points ahead of the Detroit Cougars, and are heavy favorites to cop the one remaining play-off berth in the league.

The Montreal team provided good opposition for the Pirates last night, but the locals did not over-exert themselves, as the result of the game meant nothing to them. The Maroons, however, went in flashes, and only good work by Worters, Pirate goalie, kept the locals from entering the summary more than once.

The locals took a one-goal lead in the first period when Oatman slipped one past Worters. The Pirates, however, tied it up before the second period was one minute old, when Darragh beat Benedict. The winning counter was scored forty seconds after the start of the final frame when Milks flipped a shot past Benedict from outside the defence.

OTTAWA WINS.

OTTAWA, March 23. — Ottawas wound up their quota of home games in the National Hockey League by swamping the New York Americans under a 5-0 count in a game that developed into a rough-and-tumble exhibition in the closing minutes.

The world's champions displayed a superior brand of hockey to notch two counters in the initial period and add three more in the final stanza. Kilrea and Finnigan bagged a pair of tallies each, while Alex. Smith secured the other.

In the last half of the third period the Americans roughened play, and three of them tripped to the pen in rapid order, leaving only three of their men remaining on the ice. Three separate fist fights were nipped in the bud. Bowcher drew a major penalty for cutting Kilrea in the face with his stick.

ORIOLES HAVE GREAT TEAM

Dunn Believes Baltimore Certain To Rank Among Leading Contending Clubs.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE.

AUBURNDALE, Fla., March 23. — (Canadian Press).—Jack Dunn believes his Baltimore Orioles are certain to rank among the contending clubs in the International League this season.

Before leaving for Baltimore to get business matters straightened out before the first games of the year, Dunn said he believed he had all his playing problems solved.

That indicates that the Baltimore pilot has been promised three ball players. He is badly in need of one good outfielder and two good infielders to fill holes in the line-up which are all too apparent at present.

Dunn is pleased with his pitching and catching staff. He says he has the best pitcher in minor league baseball in George Earnshaw and the best catcher in Leo Dixon, recently secured from the St. Louis Browns in the trade that sent Jack Ogden to faster company. The Baltimore pilot has another good catcher in Otto Freitag. A veteran of several seasons, Earnshaw is the ace of the hurling staff, which includes Bill Henderson and Guy Cantrell, both of whom look for a good season.

Then there are Fred Vincent and Andy Chambers, who have yet to sign their contracts. Neither has reached camp. Dunn also is counting on Howard Gates and Clarence Allen, two youngsters, and a flock of raw recruits. Among the southpaws are Stewart Bolen, who came from the Browns in the Ogden deal, and Fritz Coumbe and Jack Slaphy.

However, the Orioles need a second baseman, a first sacker and one outfielder. Dunn evidently has them, for he has ceased looking into foreign pastures for aid.

Sande Reinstated By Maryland Board After Four Months' Suspension Period

BALTIMORE, Md., March 23 (Canadian Press).—After a four months' suspension from Maryland tracks for fouling another rider's mount in the Pimlico Futurity, Earle Sande, noted American jockey, was reinstated by the Maryland Racing Commission yesterday, and under the decision will be permitted to participate immediately in turf classics. The racing commission's ban on Sande was lifted at a special meeting when that body met to consider the application the jockey had submitted, asking that his license be renewed.

Sande's suspension last November followed charges made by a track steward who accused him of deliberately fouling Reigh Count, the favorite, when the noted jockey was riding Bateau in the Pimlico Futurity. Sande was found guilty of pulling his mount across the path of the other entry.

All other tracks in the United States and Canada, which recognized the Maryland Commission's ruling in banning Sande, are now expected to permit him to ride.

AMATEUR HOCKEY MAGNATES TO ASSEMBLE AT CAPITAL CITY

DISCUSS PLAYING RULES.

Manitoba University and Montreal Victorias Play For Dominion Championship.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 23.—(Canadian Press.)—King Amateur Hockey will ascend to the throne of public interest for Canada's sports-loving public this week end as the cream of the Dominion's "simon pure" puck chasers, and the rulers of their governing association, assemble in the capital.

For the players the immediate business at hand will be the final series—staged this year with Manitoba University pitted against the Montreal Victorias—for possession of the Allan Cup and the title of Canadian amateur hockey champions which goes with the historic silverware.

The rulers of the sport will gather for the yearly "clean-up" meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. Delegates representative of every province of the Dominion will be on hand to review the business of the Association, finances, and for a general scrutiny of the organization's work during the past season. Plans for the conduct and by-laws of the governing body for next season and other years to come will be passed upon, and officers for the ensuing year elected.

One of the leading topics of discussion at the meeting, which is to open on Saturday morning and continue on Monday, will be that of playing rules. At present there are a number of differences in the rules of amateur play and those in vogue in the professional and semi-pro leagues. A committee of the National Hockey League which has been considering the rules governing play by the professional club members of that circuit, will meet a committee of the C.A.H.A. Saturday in an effort to iron out differences with a view to adoption by both organizations of uniform rules.

Arrive in Morning.

The Manitoba University team and their Eastern Canada rivals are scheduled to arrive Saturday morning and will likely proceed immediately to the auditorium for a short workout to shake train weariness from their limbs. The first battle of the all-important series is to be played Saturday night with the second game on Monday evening. Possession of the trophy and Dominion title is decided by a two-out-of-three game series, and if a third game is necessary it will be staged on Wednesday.

Around club rooms and other gathering places of Ottawa sport followers, those who are willing to back up their opinion with money, had, in the early wagering, made the Varsity sextette favorites to outscore the Easterners. However, the valiant Bushing and all around hockey skill which the Victorias displayed on Wednesday evening in vanquishing the Kitchener holders of the Ontario title, by the lop-sided score of 8 to 2, has changed the complexion of the situation. To-day any betting that was reported was on an even money basis or with the western representatives on the slightly longer end of 5 to 4 odds.

It is recalled that if the Montreal aggregation is successful in scuttling the university hockey ship, it will mark the return to their ancient club of a trophy that slipped from its grasp in 1908 and since has never returned. In 1907 when the Victorias were champions of the Eastern Canadian League, the now much sought after Allan cup was introduced for competition. Interest in the amateur game was on the wane at that time due to the fast growing popularity of professional hockey, and many of the best of the "simon pure" ice stars were being bought over into the moneyed ranks. Sir Montagu Allan, an ardent follower of the game presented the cup for amateur competition to help revive the sport, and the extent to which the desire of the titled fan has been fulfilled can be easily judged by the importance and large following which the amateur sport enjoys at the present day. Since Victorias were champions of the east, Sir Montagu Allan presented his trophy to them in the initial year of its existence. In 1908 Ottawa lifted the cup from the Montrealers and although on a few occasions since the Victorias have been within striking distance of re-possessing the trophy they have never as yet succeeded in their quest.

Arrangements for the holding of the C.A.H.A. general meeting have been in the hands of Silver Quilty, past president of the body. The vanguard of the delegates will arrive in the capital to-day to assist in the preliminary plans for the meeting.

Among those who are to attend are British Columbia, A. R. Dingman, Vancouver; Alberta, A. B. King, Okotokss, and C. A. Lynch, Calgary; Saskatchewan, J. Hamilton, Regina, H. A. Ebbels, Saskatoon, and W. Van Valkemurg, Saskatoon; Manitoba, E. A. Gilroy, Portage la Prairie; F. H. Harples, Winnipeg, C. G. Robinson, Winnipeg, and Roy Taylor, Winnipeg; Thunder Bay District, Dr. Gillie, and M. Cochran, Fort William; Maritimes, J. Logan Burnhill, and Frank Wilson, Truro, N.S.; Quebec, Frank Morrissey, and F. Greenlead, Montreal; Ontario, J. McKay, Toronto, Sheriff Paxton, Whitby, W. A. Hewitt, vice-president Toronto.

The general sessions will be presided over by Dr. F. Sandercock, Calgary, the association president. A feature of the meeting is that it will be the first time delegates from the Maritime provinces have sat in at the discussions. The Maritime district gave up its independent status to come under the wing of the C.A.M.A. only last year.

Orbindes Favorite Lincolnshire Race

LONDON, March 23. (Canadian Press). — Orbindos, veteran handicap horse, is favorite for the Lincolnshire Handicap, the first great race of the 1928 season, which is to be run on March 28. The betting yesterday revealed the odds on Orbindos six to one against; on the Mohawk eight to one; Philammon and Priory Park 100 to eight; Rob, 100 to six; and Gifted, 20 to one.

Trump Card has jumped into prior consideration for the Grand National, but he is a very lukewarm favorite with three or four other leapers liable to supplant him in public favor before the famous steeplechase is run on March 30. The odds on Trump Card yesterday were 10 to one; on Master Billie and Easter Hero 100 to nine; on Bovril Third 100 to eight; on Maguelonne 100 to seven; on Koko and Carfax 100 to six; and on Billy Barton, American hope, 20 to one.

BARNARD GIVES LIST OF RULES TO SPEED PLAY

American League Umpires Will Make War on Slow Ball Games.

CHANGE UNIFORMS

Stalling on Mound and in Batter's Box to be Stopped.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 23. — American league ball games must be speeded up or somebody will pay for making them slow.

Such is the edict that has gone out from the office of the league's new executive, Ernest S. Barnard, and the umpires have been instructed to wage a vigorous campaign against the slow and drawn out contest.

When President Barnard called his umpires together at Chicago recently he outlined to them a number of suggestions which call for drastic changes in the habits of the players.

No official announcement of the plan has been made but it has recently become known. President Barnard is working on the theory that the average ball game, not prolonged by any too vigorous hitting and the frequent changing of pitchers, should not consume more than one hour and forty five minutes. He pointed out that the games had been running, in numerous instances, considerably beyond the two hour mark. Hence the new rules.

Four Main Rules.

Among the numero ; regulations decided upon to hurry the games along are the following:

1: Pitchers shall not stall on the mound for its effect on batsman. A ball shall be called for a delay lasting more than 20 seconds.

2: Batsman shall not leave the batter's box as a protest against the pitcher. He must remain in the box unless there is some good reason for stepping out.

3: Infielders are not to throw the ball around after a batsman reaches the plate.

. Pitchers will not be allowed to waste time in roughing the ball before delivering it to batsman.

In addition to thes: specific rules for the purpose of speeding up the game, President Barnard has ordered his umpires to enforce two other rules which are apart from this campaign. A box is to be chalked between the bench and the plate and the batsman next in line must take his place in this space while awaiting his turn at the plate. No other batsman many leave the bench except the one who is due next at the plate.

Loafing Halted.

No longer will it be possible for a batsman after going out at first base to take a place along the right field wall and rest until his team takes the field.

That has been a common practice at all parks, but in future the retired batsman must return to his dugout. There will be no loafing in front of the stand by any player whose team is at bat.

Still another ruling which has been made by the new president of the league is that the olive drab uniform of the umpires will go, and only the blue uniform will be worn in the American league. This seems like a step backward as the olive drab uniform, introduced by President Ban Johnson few years ago was generally regarded as an improvement over the more sombre blue.

There is some speculation on the amount of trouble which the umpires will have when they start out to make pitchers hurry in their work and to keep batsmen from stepping from the box. The players have become adepts in these stalling tactics and not until a few fines or suspensions are handed out is it likely that the desired results will be attained. Some pitchers are notoriously slow and others stall for the purpose of making the batter tighten up and thus lose something of his effectiveness.

It has been customary for pitchers to roughen the ball as the gloss on it when it comes from the factory makes the sphere more difficult to control. By passing it around the infield occasionally it was roughened some more, and occasionally darkened. Umpires have been accustomed to take two or three dozen baseballs before a game and roughen them into play, but even this did not satisfy the pitchers.

This year the baseballs will undergo a special roughening treatment in the factory before being sent out.

The rule against having two or three batsmen out on the grass while waiting for a turn at the plate is due to the feeling that it is entirely unnecessary.

As far as is known there has been no agreement between the two major leagues about putting these regulations into effect.

GOLF PLAY TO BE HELD AT MONTREAL

Motion Adopted at Meeting of Royal Canadian Golf Association.

MONTREAL, Que., March 23.—(By Canadian Press).—The Canadian Amateur Golf Championship will be held at the Summerlea Golf Club, Montreal, this year, by recommendation of the executive committee of the Royal Canadian Golf Association adopted at the annual meeting here. Rosedale Golf Club, Toronto, will be the scene of the open championships, and the Royal Montreal Golf Club the interprovincial championship. The dates of the various tournaments are left to the incoming executive committee.

For the first time since 1914 the annual meeting of the organization is being held in the province of Quebec, and members gathered here to review achievements of 1927 and to make plans for the coming season.

Major W. D. Wilson, of Hamilton, Ont., has been nominated by the executive committee as president of the organization for 1928. The nomination blank states, however, that the president is to be elected by all member clubs, and committee men are to be nominated and elected by each province. Other nominations for president can and may be made at the meeting, according to the commitee.

The address of W. W. Walker, of Toronto, contained announcements of importance, particularly with reference to interprovincial golf tournaments. There is also a ruling that expenses of interprovincial teams of four players could be paid by the respective associations. It was understood, however, that the associations must purchase the tickets, including railway fares and berths, and hand them to individual members of the teams. This action, it was felt, would enable the R.C.G.A., to adhere to the principle embodied in the address of C. A. Bogert, retiring president, last year in which it was stated: "It is my earnest hope and recommendation that in dealing with proposed changes in the constitution no step will be taken to in any way imperil amateur golf in this country."

The association had made rapid strides in the past year, Mr. Walker said. The total membership was 157 clubs, of which 31 were associated 125 allied, and one affiliated. Three clubs, at Bancroft, Goderich and Stratford, Ont., had been dropped from membership, while four had been elected to membership, these being Hampstead and Timberdale at Montreal, Que., Marine Drive at Vancouver, B.C., and Regina, G.C., at Regina, Sask.

Three new members, R. C. H. Cassels, .C., Toronto, Ont., James Buchanan, Montreal, Que., and O. P. Wilson, Winnipeg, Man., have been appointed to the golf committee, with Mr. Cassels acting as chairman. The functions of the committee are to interpret the rules, but any changes are, of course, to be approved of by the executive committee.

Experimental work by the departments of agriculture of the provinces and Dominion had done much to improve the greens throughout the country, particularly in regard to the improvement of old grasses, testing new selections, work with fertilizers and various other phases in connection with turf improvement, and further work of importance is expected during the present year.

One of the outstanding features of the year was the interprovincial match which took place on July 2 at Hamilton, Ont. The match was won by the province of Quebec, with the following players and scores: N. M. Scott, 151; J. B. Mickles, 159; W. M. Hodgson, 145; Watson Yuile, 163, or a total of 618. Manitoba came second, with 629, and Ontario third with 639.

The report observes that this match provided an opportunity for members from various provinces to discuss matters of general interest, and the result of these discussions was the unanimous approval of holding a championship in the west about once in every five years, and also the continuing of the interprovincial matches as one of the national competitions. It is therefore expected, the report continues, that the interprovincial match will be developed this year to a standard which will attract great interest, and will provide opoprtunity for closer co-operation between national and provincial associations, developing a more national interest in amateur championships.

The report of the 1927 ladies' championship was as follows: "The Ladies' Open Championship was held at the Lambton Golf and Country Club, Toronto, commencing on October 3, 1927, the winner being Miss Helen Payson, of Portland, Me., who defeated Miss Fritzi Stifel, of Wheeling, West Va., by 3 and 2 in the 36 holes finals. The two semi-finalists were Mrs. J. L. Anderson, Cherry Valley, L.I., who was defeated by Miss Payson 5 and 4, and Mrs. W. G. Fraser, Royal Ottawa, who was defeated by Miss Stifel 2 and 1. The best score in the qualifying round was 77, made by Miss Glenna Collett, Providence, R.I." The ladies' championship had been successfully conducted since 1924 by the Committee of the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union, the report adds.

TECO STORE

CLOTHES HAVE TAKEN ON NEW GOOD LOOKS!

IT'S SPRING! And coatings and suitings advance by strides toward a newer splendor of color and pattern. The man who's up-to-date chooses a hat with a narrower brim and more of a roll. You wear more often than before a collar-attached shirt; perhaps it's colored, and then you wear a tie of a darker shade of the same hue.

It's Spring—and you'll want new clothes! Get wise to the new styles, consider your own tastes, and then come to the Teco Store. We'll look after both!

HATS

THE HATS have welted or silk-bound brims and are in medium grey or brown. Or if you prefer the light shades, fawn and light grey.

SHIRTS

THE SHIRTS are collar-attached ones in white, or—if you're daring—green. Also neat pin stripes for those who favor patterns. The fabrics are fine cotton broadcloth or Irish poplin.

TIES

THE TIES are chiefly stripes—and what stripes! Gay Roman colorings in generous display, making the Tie a most predominating part of your outfit.

English Worsteds, Scotch Tweeds, Irish Twists

Sounds worth while? Wait till you see them!—overplaids, checks, Glen Urquhart plaids, herringbones, and all kinds of stripe patterns. Every type of design treated in a way that makes them essentially new style. Most styles single-breasted this Spring—for both young men and their elders.

Bold-Patterned Top Coats Aren't Afraid of Spring!

Black and whites, fawns, browns and greys in definite and positive; that's what you want for Spring! Or if you prefer, there are also neat conservative patterns. All of them are single-breasted and roomy slip-ons, chiefly with set-in sleeves.

The range of Spring Men's Wear is very complete just now, and if you come in Saturday you will be choosing from the best selection of the season.

RICHARD DIX IN "SHANGHAI BOUND."

The Oriental background that is invariably interesting forms the setting for this picture in which the popular Richard Dix stars as Jim Bucklin captain of the Hoi Ping, bound for Shanghai from the coaling station of Chow-Luen, on the Yangtze River. An uprising of Chinese river pirates occurs at the same time, and Bucklin has a great deal of difficulty in getting free of the town and aboard his vessel. He takes with him a quartette of wealthy Americans, who arrived unexpectedly and who arouse the anger of the natives by killing one of their lead.

Aboard the freighter, lacking native assistance, the guests, one of whom turns out to be the proprietor of the line, have to turn in and help in the engine room and at the furnaces, and the spoiled daughter, Mary Loudon, is compelled to cook, very much against her will. Bucklin finally conquers, however, and the picture has its romantic episodes in the love scenes between him and the subjugated Mary. A true story book ending is registered. The audience might have liked Bucklin to fal l in love with the more amiable Rose Deven, his assistant, but he prefers the spoiled Marv, a part very well enacted by Mary Brian.

The plotting and outlining of the story are effective and the characterizations are good But Richard Dix has started to pose too much. Much of his time in this production is spent in ruminating with stern brows and a far-away look.

A Jimmy Adams' comedy is entitled: "Here comes Precious," a farcical affair that rouses a good deal of laughter. The humorous touches in the feature picture were apparently much enjoyed also by the audence last night.

AT THE REGENT.

"JAWS OF STEEL."

At the Regent Theatre, a Warner Bros.' production starring Rin-Tin-Tin, supported by Jason Robarts, Helen Ferguson, Baby Mary Louise Miller, Jack Curtis, Robert Perry and George Conners. Directed by Ray Enright.

Rin-Tin-Tin, most popular dog in the world, is now packing the Regent with enthusaistic audiences —cheering, whistling, hand-clapping, stamping, uproarious audiences. Many a human star would give half of his salary to create the ecstasy in grown-ups, that Rinty does in the breasts of Young America, and not all of Young America is without gray hairs and furtive bald spots. What has age to do, when Rin-Tin-Tin hurtles through space, swims roaring rivers or rescues his friends from the menace of the bad men.

"In "Jaws of Steel" Rinty is shown first as the puppy pet of a little girl, going with her parents, by flivver, across the desert to prospect for gold. Rinty's son plays this part, and topples over into the sand, as the flivver joggles on. It is undeniably Rinty himself, who grown fierce and fanged, befriends the family later, and saves them from evil. Rinty is glorious as the hero of this exciting tale. He seems to know without being told, to sense situations, to really feel the part he plays. Be there with all the gang! Rinty will be at the Regent only one more day! Don't wait!

What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

V—Conscience In Men

IN some such fashion as we have described scientists imagine that faith had its birth in the human heart. Man, who fought the earth and its beasts for a living, who shook with terror in the storm, and died from exposure or the blows of his fellows, had the effrontery to conceive that his life was important in the eyes of Beings beyond the stars, that whether he did his best or not was a matter of some consequence in this world and, perhaps, even in a world to come.

Very much later, many thousand years later, when the race began to make written records, a more dramatic history of the beginnings of religion was evolved, such a story as we have in the opening books of the Old Testament. Moses believed that the Ten Commandments which he brought down from the mountain for the children of Israel were handed to him direct from God. We know that he had learned most of them as a lad in Egypt, where the number of the commandments was not ten but forty-two; each with a special god to look after it.

Before Moses

The Code of Hammurabi, seven or eight hundred years before Moses, has the same injunctions against living, theft and murder, and the stone tablet on which the two hundred and eighty-two laws of Hammurabi are inscribed bears a picture of the great law-giver receiving them from his god.

Did Hammurabi lie? Did Moses lie? Not a bit. Both believed, as had every prophet, that the message he uttered was no mere invention of his own. And they were right. Whatever share each one had in the wording and recording of the law and its arrangement and application, no one of these men made it up.

These great underlying truths are older than any of the men whose names have attached to them; they are the cumulative conscience of the race, and had their beginnings on the day when the first man sinned and trembled, and did not know why.

Conscience and God

"Just a minute," somebody exclaims. "Let us get you straight on this. Do you believe that God created conscience in men and has slowly but steadily, through the ages, enlightened it? Or do you believe that men's conscience created the idea of God and has slowly, through the ages, recreated Him in more worthy image, as conscience has developed and knowledge grown?"

If the gentleman who raises this question will continue with us through from day to day, he will discover later an attempt at an answer. Meanwhile, let us assume for the purposes of this chapter that it makes no difference.

If you believe that there is a God who created men and women, starting them off as naked, clawless and hornless beings, compelled to fight for existence against the lion, the bear and the rattlesnake, then the God of such beings had to be content with very meager beginnings in the matter of religion.

And it was no more debasing to His nature to be worshiped by crude and even cruel rites than it is debasing to Him to put a drop of His being into the bulb sunk into the slime that is later to blossom as a water-lily. He was working with very rough material in those first days, working on a long-time program which could not go too fast.

If, on the other hand, you believe that men fashioned gods in their own image and, as their minds and hearts improved, have made their gods constantly better, you are also welcome, in this chapter, to hold to that view.

"Voice of God"

Historically, the result is the same. Religion has moved forward from lower to higher planes. The prophets of each succeeding epoch have uttered the moral requirements in nobler language, proclaiming always that what they uttered was the voice of God.

The Jehovah of Joshua who commanded the Israelites to slay their enemies, sparing none, not even the women and children, was in moral grandeur far below the level of the Jehovah of Jonah who refused to destroy the city of Nineveh "wherein are more than sixscore thousand persons that cannot discern between their right hand and their left hand; and also much cattle."

And Jonah's God, in turn, rises to no such height as the Father of Jesus who could "so love the world that He gave His only begotten Son."

Let Us Face Facts

Step by step through the ages religion has grown finer in its conception of God and its statement of the moral law. Even the most critical of skeptics will hardly deny that, with all its wickedness and cruelties, it has been a lifting force, a ladder for the upward climb. But the toughest part of the climb is over. We have achieved civilization, and it looks reasonably secure. We are full-grown men at last and need no myths; let us face the facts.

*CREAM CHEESE DRESSING

Mash with a fork the desired quantity of cream cheese, adding as much thick cream as necessary to form the consistency of a salad dressing. Mix in enough cooked spinach, which has been chopped and drained, to give a good green color. A little chopped cucumber may also be added. Add a little more cream if the mixture is too heavy. This dressing is especially good over a salad of water cress and lettuce, the piquancy of the watercress seeming to blend well with the cheese flavor.

Questions and Answers.

Question G. W. writes "My doctor tells me I have catarrh of the bladder after examining my urine. I have been suffering with a bad back for about three months. The medicine he prescribed gives me relief while I am taking it but when I leave off the pain comes back. Is daily grief for my departed injurious to my general health?"

Answer Although medicine may relieve you for a time, you must find out the causes which are producing the constant bladder irritation. From my experience I find that these causes are mostly from committing dietetic errors. Yes, it is true that daily grief over loved ones who have passed on may cause a great deal of trouble in the body, and I am sure that actual disease frequently develops because of this. You must learn to substitute some other interest for the former interest you had in the departed one.

Question S. B. A. asks "Will you let me know through the Question and Answer column if very young, mall potatoes are a non-starchy vegetable, and also if you allow wholewheat bread with one kind of protein if one's digestive organs are strong?"

Answer Young potatoes are just as starchy as the old ones. Real wholewheat bread may be eaten in limited quantities with a protein meal by those who have good digestive power. There is something about the digestion of real wholewheat which makes its use with meats less injurious than when white flour products are used.

Question M. F. L. writes "I read your articles regularly, and would like to ask about nose bleeds. What causes them?"

Answer Nose bleed may be caused by the weakness of the nose membrane due to catarrh, or it may be because of an unbalanced state of the blood which comes from an insufficiency of the normal organic blood minerals. Eat more vegetables and less starches and proteins. This will build up your alkaline blood reserve.

In torrid Egypt nearly $450,000 worth of felt hats and only $140,000 worth of straws were imported last year.

THREE-QUARTERS.

Both the tunic and the cape of a Lucerne (a new violet-blue) tweed ensemble feature the three-quarters length. This promises great vogue.

MANY BEIGES.

Beige is taking on airs, with its popularity. There are now white jade, natural, honey, daff, rose, shadow, violet, and grege beiges.

LEAGUE OF MERCY DOES GOOD WORK

Members Visit Hospitals and Other Institutions Regularly.

One of the activities of the Salvation Army in the city of which little is heard is the League of Mercy, a body of faithful women who regularly visit the hospitals, Protestant Home and House of Refuge. The report just issued gives some interesting details:

Visits to hospitals, 47; patients visited, 1,688; prayed with, 660; War Crys distributed free, 1,276; Young Soldiers, distributed free, 109.

Meetings held at Protestant Home, 41; total attendance, 460; War Crys distributed free, 544; private visits (inmates unable to get to meetings), 304.

County House of Refuge.—Meetings held, 2; attendance, 45; War Crys distributed free, 40.

War Crys to jail, 233.

The financial difficulty entailed in giving of War Crys has for a long time been a problem, but Commandant Ham, late of the city, together with Mrs. T. Lang who is sergeant-major of the league, and her co-workers inaugurated a scheme to overcome this. Small collecting boxes have been distributed among the friends of the League and the "odd cents" that are regularly collected now considerably aid the League in its work.

The ladies comprising the league are Mrs. T. Lang, sergeant-major; Mrs. W. Naish, assistant sergeant-major; Mesdames J. Smith, J. French, E. Sutherland, G. Thomas, E. Hedge, C. Breadman, J. Cuningham, G. Robinson, J. Halcrow, J. Bennett, Pammett, Hayward, Rose, Moore, Withers, and Rushworth.

LACE'S IMPORTANCE.

From lingerie to hats lace is chic this spring. The wood brown lace dinner gown is this season's smart innovation. One has a tiered skirt

WEDDING BELLS

CAREY—McBRIDE.

A pretty wedding was quietly solemnized at the parsonage of St. James' United Church yesterday, when Helen E. McBride, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. McBride, became the bride of John Henry ("Harry") Carey, son of Mrs. Mary Carey and the late George Carey, both of this city. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Dudgeon.

The bride was charmingly attired in sand georgette, trimmed with gold lace, with hat, shoes and hose to match.

Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. William J. Carey, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

After the ceremony, a wedding luncheon was served to the immediate relatives and friends of the bridal party.

Mr. and Mrs. Carey will reside at 281 Prince Street.

Mrs. Ross Williamson will sing at the Sacred Concert in the Regent Theatre Sunday evening at 8.30 under the auspices of the Peterborough Humane Society.

Around the City

The car owned by Aldermen J. Hamilton backed down Sheridan street, across Hunter and smashed into the railing on the approach to the bridge at noon to-day. Alderman Hamilton had gone into his home for lunch and he left his car standing in front. In some unexplained way the car started to move backwards and as it went down the hill it gathered momentum, crashing through the railing and going over the embankment.

QUEBEC WOMEN AND THE SUFFRAGE

MONTREAL, Que., March 23. Canadian Press).—The Gazette has an editorial on "Quebec Women and the Suffrage". It notes that a woman voted in Three Rivers in 1820. In 1828 a defeated candidate entered a protest, that "the votes of women, married, unmarried and in a state of widowhood," were illegally received.

What is needed if the cause is to succeed is organization and leadership so that a wider sentiment in favor of the vote may be created amongst men. Faint heart ne'er won fair lady, and it never will win for her the provincial vote. It took a world war to win it for her at federal elections.

This year the banner of the cause was carried into the Legislature by William Tremblay, representative for Maisonneuve, who fought a losing battle courageously and gallantly, though his tact was not as good as his intentions when he suggested that it might be better for men to stay at home with their wives and discuss political matters instead of drinking about town. Men about town are not necessarily drinking men. Apparently numbers of women still believe that it is impossible for a woman to engage in politics and at the same time exercise the influence that is hers naturally and by right at home. There are men in the Legislature and elsewhere who are prepared to aid their cause, men who are convinced that the cause deserves something better than the small vote it has just obtained in the Legislative Assembly; and when the women can show greater unison in their own ranks in their insistence that the Federal Government's recognition of franchise equality with men shall imply identity of treatment at the hands of the provincial authorities in Quebec, it may not be long ere their cause will succeed in the Legislature.

SOVIET RUSSIA HAS NEW PLAN FOR COMPLETE DISARMAMENT

Original Scheme Rejected By Preparatory Committee For Disarmament Conference.

PROPOSALS MODIFIED.

U.S. Oppose Immediate Second Reading of Russian Draft

GENEVA March. 24. — Russia has a new plan for the disarmament of the nations of the world.

The original Russian proposals for total immediate disarmament having been rejected by the preparatory committee for a disarmament conference, Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet vice-commissar for foreign affairs announced at the session of the committee yesterday afternoon that he would lay new proposals before the delegates.

There was an overwhelming majority against the disarmament proposals as first enunciated by M. Litvinoff, and it was supposed that would end the Soviet for the present, but after a long discussion by the delegates, in which they wandered far afield, the head of the Russian delegation sprung his new proposals, considerably modified.

Hugh S. Gibson,. United States' ambassador to Belgium, began yesterday's proceedings with the suggestion that the second reading of the Russian committee's draft convention be put over to a date to be fixed by the president, taking into account the progress of the negotiations between the powers whose views are divergent.

Oppose Suggestion.

Everybody agreed to this except the Germans and the Russians.

Count von Bernstorff, heading the German delegation, insisted on an immediate second reading of that convention, despite the fact that the governments are not in accord. The Turks, who were inclined to line-up with the Germans and the Russians on their arrival here, drifted away from them and took sides with the Conservatives, who hold that nothing useful can be done until the governments are in agreement because no one believed that governments can be obliged to disarm in spite of themselves.

Count von Bernstorff persisted and at the afternoon session introduced resolution calling on the council of the league to summon a general disarmament conference at a convenient date after the next assembly.

M. Litvinoff rallied to Count von Bernstorff and von Bernstorff rallied to Litvinoff, the German delegate expressing the opinion that the new Russian project ought to be examined. The debate developed sharp passages between von Bernstorff on one side and Lord Cushendun, Great Britain, and Count Claudel, France, on the other.

Von Bernstorff, in a resolution, proposed that "a first step" be taken toward disarmament. The British and French resented this insinuation that nothing had been done thus far and reminded the German that a few things had already been accomplished.

Von Bernstorff declared that Germany by accrediting forced disarmament through the treaty of Versailles, had a claim on the other powers, which was still unsatisfied. The time had come when they must acquit Germany by beginning to disarm themselves.

It was understood when the committee adjourned that the new Russian proposal will be distributed this morning, but will not be considered at this meeting. The text will probably be forwarded to the various governments for their information. But the first Russian project for total disarmament remains on the calendar. The plan was rejected by almost unanimous consent, but the resolution actually disposing of it failed of action in the confusion of the afternoon.

KITCHENER MEN COME IN PLANE

Fred Gillis and Harold Smith Fly To City To Visit Friends.

MAKE TRIP IN 1½ HOURS.

A real flying visit was paid to this city yesterday when Fred Gillis, a nephew of George Paxman, and Harold Smith, a nephew of Mrs. Foote, arrived here from Kitchener via airplane. The trip was made from Kitchener in one hour and a half, and a landing was made down at the Canadian Air Services flying field. The two young aviators left on their return trip to Kitchener this morning.

At a recent church wedding in London the bride was attended by her pet Pekingese dog, wearing a large white satin bow.

Italy Celebrates Fascism Anniversary

ROME, March 24 (A.P.).—The ninth anniversary of Fascism yesterday was not only emphasized by Premier Mussolini's message to the "Black Shirts," but by a celebration in the Chamber of Deputies, at which Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Fascist party, delivered a stirring speech describing the struggle and moaning of the Fascist revolution.

Mussolini's message had particular reference to what are known as the Avanguardisti, the youths who to-day moved out of their own organization into the party proper. He called upon all the Black Shirts to be "on guard." He said:

"To-day occurs the ninth anniversary of the creation of Italian Fascism of combat. You will celebrate it with recollection and with action. Eight thousand sons of Italian people enter the potent, political and military formations of the regime.

"Avenguardisti (youths who have just graduated from their own organization into the party proper), the veterans of Fascism await you with whole-hearted fratenity and happy pride. Be proud in receiving the party's emblem and the musket of the militia.

MORE TOURISTS AND FACTORIES NEEDED IN CITY

Chamber of Commerce Members Suggest These to Help City.

MANY OTHER PROPOSALS

Good Response Made to Request for Answers to Two Questions.

On reviewing the suggestions received from the membership, as a result of the Chamber of Commerce questionnaire, President G. A. Gillespie felt they would be of sufficient interest to warrant publication. Consequently, Secretary Stinson, having prepared a list of the more outstanding suggestions received, in handing it in to The Examiner to-day, remarked that, "provided the individuals making the suggestions could be induced to work on committees appointed to carry out suggestions adopted by the executive, there would be a more general interest in the work of the chamber and doubtless great progress would be made."

Mr. Stinson called attention to the two outstanding requirements of the moment as expressed by the members of the Chamber of Commerce. According to the list, Peterborough is to aim at the securing of more industries and the increasing of the tourist business. "The Chamber of Commerce may be said to have been moderately successful along industrial and tourist lines, and with the co-operation of a larger and more representative membership and various civic bodies, much greater progress can be looked for in the future," he said.

1. What do you expect the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce to do for the promotion of your own line of business activity?

See if anything can be done to improve our streets. Meantime, let the people out.

Provide us with statistics, imports, exports, and consumption growth of Canadian wool.

By an organized effort, attract more industries here and increase the population.

Increase tourist business.

Get busy—take advantage of every opportunity. Success is spelled by two words—industry and economy.

Get passed a law to improve sanitary conditions in barber shops.

Get more industries.

The securing of more tourists would increase the demand for more summer homes.

Secure new industries for the city.

The foregoing is a personal question and I answer accordingly: You would best promote my "business activity" by every member of the chamber coming to me and taking out a substantial life insurance policy. You would thus benefit both yourself and the community.

Work to increase the population.

Petition council to eliminate pedlars in city and hucksters on market. By-law reads for farmers only.

Make it possible for men to find employment in city.

Bring in more industries.

Boost "Made in Peterborough goods."

Assist in bringing in new industries.

Attract tourists.

Promote and encourage the greatest consumption ever of milk, butter, cheese, to keep up good prices.

Try to bring new industries to city.

Work for larger and better Peterborough.

More industries, more work, more people to feed.

Work for more industries.

Make Peterborough a greater centre of activity to the surrounding country.

Work to increase the population by making Peterborough attractive to new firms.

Develop this district's natural resources in agriculture and stock; as a tourist resort, as a shopping centre and as an ideal industrial location.

Whatever helps the general welfare of the city will help each line of legitimate business.

Work to promote tourist traffic.

Bring new industries to the city and thereby get more citizens.

Increase population to 50,000 so we can sell more groceries.

Use its influence with the present government to prevent any reduction on yarns and woollen and worsted clothes.

To urge upon the city council the need of supporting the library to the fullest extent possible—our library board is doing a great work in providing splendid reference books for the library and our young people are showing their appreciation by very greatly increased attendance—as a first-class auxiliary to the schools, it is invaluable.

Give us information as to any new industry coming to this city.

THE WEATHER

Temperature this morning at six o'clock, 35 degrees; lowest last night 28 degrees; highest point yesterday, 43 degrees. About four o'clock this morning we had our first thunderstorm. There were some vivid flashes of lightning and the subsequent crashes of thunder. The rain was heavy for a few minutes, but the total was not great. A thunderstorm at this season is usually followed by the break-up of the winter season, and the ushering in of gentle spring. May it be so on this occasion.—W.P.

BOYS GUESTS OF KIWANIANS

Inspiring Addresses Given at Club's Father and Son Meeting.

BOYS GIVE PROGRAM.

A Father and Son luncheon is not a new thing to any Peterborough Kiwanian, yet there remains about such an event some novelty or attraction which makes each successive one held by the local club happier and more successful than its predecessor. This was evidenced last evening when at 6.30 a large representation of club members, each accompanied by his own son or some other man's son, filed into the large front dining-room of the Empress Hotel and for a couple of hours thereafter enjoyed a program of musical numbers, stunts, and a splendid address by Principal Joseph McCully, of the new Pickering Boys' College at Newmarket.

The Guests.

The guests were: Bob Huffman, Donald Tully, Lloyd Parnall, Claire Sullivan, Carl Liddle, Ted Borbridge, J. R. D. Marshall, Morris Wearing, James Bryce Lillico, Barclay McKone, Jack L. Craig, Harold B. Wiman, Ken. McCannan, Gordon Cuthbertson, Kenneth Weldon, Charles Clarke, Carl Wood, Donald Richardson, A. G. Reynolds, Arthur Woodcock, Fred L. Roy, Jas. W. Gimblett, Neill M. Gemmell, Jack McKone, Melville Hunter, George Hunter, Jack Telford, John M. Thompson, Bill Todd, G. W. Carlisle, and Alex., Grant Breckenridge, Harold Chadwick, Warren N. Turner, Paul Picard, Jack Comstock, Jack Mark, Lyle Taylor.

They were all boys last night from Joe Wearing and Art Reynolds in their official capacities as disturbers of the peace, to little six-year-old Alex. Carlisle, who stood up bravely on a chair and from his lofty position astonished his audience by his skill with violin and bow. The little lad "went over big," and responded to continued applause with a couple of encore numbers that only served more effectually to impress his hearers.

Called upon to "show Dad up," Master Carl Liddle was heard in splendid voice, his choice being "The Kinky Kids' Parade," which was equally well received as an encore. Carl has been an entertainer at Kiwanis before, but on each successive visit has shown improvement. Both youngsters were accompanied on the piano by G. F. Liddle.

"Canada and the Great War" is a story of valiant deeds and heroic sacrifice, and when young Lloyd Parnall stood before last night's gathering and reviewed the Dominion's achievements overseas, he did it in masterly fashion. His resume was well organized and admirably delivered, covering every battle, the victories won and defeats sustained, as well as the part played by those who stayed at home. Lloyd was the winner of the oratorical contests held at Queen Alexandra School recently.

Carl Brown, boosting the Canadian boy, provided three prizes which were won by visiting lads, namely, Harold Dawson, Jack Clayton, and Jack Mark. Art. Moffat announced the bowling contest which is to start sharp at 7.30 on Monday night in the Duffus bowling alley.

As mentioned above, the main speaker of the luncheon was Joe McCully, young principal of the Pickering Boys' College. His message was

Japan Boycotted By the Chinese

AMOY, China, March 24. — An anti-foreign commercial boycott against all nationalities but especially against the Japanese, has been launched here by the Chinese labor unions. The action was taken in protest against the Japanese consular police, who on March 2, arrested four alleged Korean communists for plotting against the Japanese authority in Korea.

MISSING GIRL BEING SOUGHT IN WIDE AREA

Circulars Sent All Over Ontario and Radio Call Sent Out.

FOUL PLAY RUMORED.

Disappearance Follows Stories of Stranger Attacking Girls On City Streets.

Helen Martin, 17-year-old girl who disappeared from this city early Sunday evening, has not been located by the police although she has been advertised all over Ontario as missing. Chief Newhall has had circulars printed with the description of the girl and her picture on them and these have been sent to the police departments throughout the province. Last night CKGW, the new Canadian radio station, called upon all its listeners-in to assist in finding the girl. Police officers have investigated every clue and still they have not the slighest idea of what has happened to the girl.

The girl was a Barnado Home girl and came to this city early in the year from Millbrook, where she had previously made her home. She was engaged as a domestic servant by Dr. McPherson and he speaks very highly of the way she carried out her duties. While in the city she attended St. Andrew's United church and Sunday school.

In all parts of the city to-day grave fears were expressed to The Examiner that the girl has met foul play and that she has been kidnapped or murdered by some mysterious person.

For several weeks all parts of the city have been visited by a strange person whom the police have not been able to locate. One night he was found to be operating in East City, where he tried to lure a little girl down to the river. Another night he was down on Crescent street where he brutally attacked a young lady. A third night he was reported in the west end. Then he returned again to the south end and about one week before the Martin girl disappeared he tried to kidnap a little girl up at the corner of McDonnel and Park streets. In every case this stranger, who was reported to the police as being between five feet nine and six feet tall, well dressed and of clean features, would make the attack in a distant part of the city, and then disappear before a policeman could be sent to the district. His operating in various districts has made it impossible to police all the city with the insufficient force. Since Sunday night he has not been reported anywhere in the city.

The disappearance of Helen Martin recalls to the citizens of this city the murder in Toronto early in the winter of Florence Costello, who after being brutally attacked was murdered and thrown in a ravine.

Chief Constable Newhall, when interviewed by The Examiner, said he had hearl of the rumor that the girl might have been murdered and though no trace has been found of her it could easily be possible. Chief Newhall refused to divulge any more details.

The girl is described as being 5 feet 4 or 5 inches, medium build, dark bobbed hair, dark coat, small black hat, light colored stockings, brown Oxford shoes, fawn corduroy dress with pink collar and cuffs and short sleeves.

Europeans Will Walk Into Fiery Furnace

JOHANNESBURG, March 24 (United Press).—Two Europeans have accepted a challenge to undergo Hindu fire-walking ceremonies at Maritzburg during Easter week. The ceremony consists of walking in a pit of red-hot coals from which fanatics assert they emerge unhurt. The Europeans are undergoing the usual Hindu preparation, foregoing fish, meat, eggs, alcohol and tobacco and eating only one meal a day. They bathe at sunrise and sunset every day and pray for ten minutes after each bath. Before the ceremony, they will wear yellow robes with sacred knots at the wrists, bathe in the river, walk around the local temple of fire, then go into the glowing furnace.

HOLLINGER VICTIMS DIED OF CARBON MONOXIDE POISONING

Jury Returns Verdict Following Inquest Into Mine Disaster.

WANT MORE INSPECTORS.

TIMMINS, Ont., March 24 (Canadian Press). — Attributing responsibility of the dumping of debris from the powder thaw house into stopes to the Hollinger management and the operating executives, the jury in the inquest into the deaths of the men killed in the mine disaster of February 10th late yesterday afternoon returned the following verdict:

"We, the jury assembled, find that Lindsay, Kampula, Garden (over whose bodies the inquest was held) and others came to their deaths between the morning of Friday, February 10, 1928, and Monday, February 13, 1928, at the Hollinger Mine from carbon-monoxide poisoning due to the fire in stope 55A.

"That fire was due to gross negligence on the part of the Hollinger management and the operating executives in allowing condition to exist whereby their subordinates dumped large quantities of inflammable material in old stopes.

"We recommend that the old stopes where the rubbish has been dumped be cleaned out or made safe under the supervision of the Government inspectors be appointed."

Two Adjournments.

The jury was out an hour and a half, but prior to retiring to consider its verdict had taken two adjournments to consider what the attitude of its members was with regard to the hearing of evidence and the scope of the inquiry. Before the luncheon interval H. McQuarrie, one of the jurors, had inquired if he and his colleagues were to decide on responsibility, and he intimated then that evidence thus far produced had not touched on this point. Peter White, the purpose of threshing out the whole Caldbick, said the inquest was for matter, even if it were not altogether within the province of the jury.

After the second adjournment, Mr. White told Coroner H. E. Montgomery the jurors were ready to consider their verdict, and when A. G. Slaght, K.C., for the Hollinger, commented on the fact that the mining inspectors had not testified, Mr. White said the jury had informed him they did not require evidence on that point, Mr. Slaght declared that, at the suggestion of V. E. Emery, mine superintendent, conditions underground had been investigated with the co-operation and to the satisfaction of the inspectors, this having been done since the jury had been below surface some weeks ago.

Nine Witnesses Heard.

Nine witnesses were heard during the two sittings, and much of the evidence was similar to the testimony given before the Royal Commission, but yesterday in shortened form. A. F. Brigham, general manager, John Knox, his assistant, and C. C. Williams, general superintendent, all were asked by Mr. McQuarrie if they accepted responsibility "with the rest of the organization," and the two last-named agreed with Mr. Brigham's answer that "that is what I'm doing, and I'm not trying to sidetrack it." Mr. McQuarrie explained that he did not for a second thing the general manager knew the rubbish was in the stopes. His were the only questions asked by the jury yesterday.

Mr. White made several references during the sessions to rumors that have been in circulation about town, and he invited the jury to ask for a subpoena for any person they might think could throw any additional light on the disaster. He said the Royal Commission had gone into the subject with great thoroughness. One of the reports referred to concerned an alleged subsidence in another stope since the fire, and Mr. White said an unnamed man had wanted to see him in the matter, but had not shown up. A. Y. Young, assistant mine superintendent, declared there had been no such subsidence so far as he was aware, but that there had been a drop of about 20 feet in one stope a year ago. The stopes were now reasonably safe, witness was satisfied, so far as powder thaw debris was concerned.

Mr. Brigham was not prepared to admit the system of transmitting orders was faulty before the disaster and he believed there had been some sort of a check. When Mr. White wanted to know if, in the event of a question being raised about number of cars, or of production slipping or of unionism in the mine, the management would not be aware of it very promptly and suggested the same should have applied to the dumping of debris, Mr. Brigham replied that such matters as were brought to his attention were dealt with, and he could not account for this phase not being brought forward. He thought anybody from the mine superintendent down to the shift bosses would be responsible and

Fruit To Be Marked On British Market

OTTAWA, Ont., March 24 (Canadian Press).—A Canadian apple on the British market will soon be known and designated as such according to a report just received by cable from J. Forsyth Smith, Canadian fruit trade commissioner to Great Britain.

In the past Canadian, Australian, and other apples imported into Great Britain have simply been sold as apples. According to the new recommendation by the standing committee for agriculture and horticulture produce, both retail marking and container marking on imported fruit will become la under the British Merchandise Marks Act. This change is promised as a result of representations made at the request of Canadian exporters of fruit.

At the British Empire Exhibition in 1924, Canadian apples of the previous season's crop had to meet in competition the new crop from Australia and other countries, but this was no handicap. Latest cable advices from Great Britain point to higher prices for barrelled apples, and slightly lower prices for boxed stock.

PRODUCE SELLS QUICKLY TO-DAY

Plenty of Buyers Visit Market But the Vendors Are Few.

CHICKENS SCARCE.

Produce was sold out at an early hour this morning. The bright weather brought out plenty of buyers, but the bad roads kept some of the vendors at home.

Eggs sold from 36 to 38 cents a dozen, and butter from 40 to 43 cents a pound. Chickens, which were very scarce, were 35 cents a pound.

On the open section, amber honey was selling at 10 cents a pound in five-pound pails. Potatoes were $1.75 a bag, russet apples 40 cents a peck, and ordinary root vegetables at usual prices. Pork was 14 and 16 and 15 and 17 cents a pound. A ten-month-old collie pup was quoted at $5, and a mischievous-eyed three months' puppy at $1.50. A White Wyandotte rooster fought so hard with his more peacefully-inclined Barred Rock companions that he had to be tied up tightly, and disposed beneath the seat of the owner's car.

The fish buyers had plenty of choice this morning, with two vendors offering their wares. Fresh Lake Ontario whitefish were 30 cents a pound and frozen specimens were 18 cents. Pickerel and plaice both sold at 15 cents a pound, and fresh herrings at three pounds for a quarter. Two bits would buy a large quantity of fresh mudcat, skinned for the pan.

WAR MEMORIAL PICTURES SHOWN

Rev. J. D. Paterson Gives Address On Scottish Monument.

Official views of the Scottish National War Memorial at Edinburgh, and the dedicatory ceremony, recently purchased from the British Government by the Rev. J. D. Paterson of All Saints' Church, were shown last night in All Saints' Parish Hall. Mr. Paterson, who was present at the ceremony, has lectured on the memorial several times, but with the newly-arrived pictures he was able to make his address much more interesting. The pictures were good and the explanation given was most instructive. In keeping with the subject, the program consisted of Scotch songs by local Scots; Miss Jessie Pattison and John Anderson singing "The Crookit Bawbee"; Robert Hendry singing "Jessie McGraw" and giving as a reading, with piano accompaniment, "One of the Boys Who Went"; Mr. Anderson singing "The Cameron Man," and Jack Smith "The Trumpeter." Mrs. W. A. Logan acted as accompanist.

The attendance was good, the hall being quite well filled. The address will be repeated shortly. It was given under the auspices of the Women's Guild.

LAKEFIELD TEACHER RESIGNS AFTER SERVICE OF 51 YEARS

Miss Duff Has Taught Entrance Class Nearly Twenty Years.

WON HONORS.

Accident Forces Resignation of Valued Member of Public School Staff.

LAKEFIELD, March 24.—The resignation of Miss Duff from the staff of the Public School came as a shock to the village, and the fact that Miss Duff is obliged to resign as the result of injuries received in an accident, causes deep regret.

Miss Duff has a record unique in Ontario of having taught almost fifty-one years in the village school, and has had exceptional success as a teacher. For nearly twenty years she has taught the entrance class with great success, the county prize, a coveted trophy, coming to one of her pupils on many occasions. Miss Duff's pupils, if gathered together, would represent a considerable army and her influence has been widespread, and every year old pupils call on her and talk over old times, many times attributing their success in life to her excellent grounding in the essentials. Miss Duff's pupils were individuals to her, and never merely a class, and many a boy or girl benefitted by her special instruction in some subject that was difficult to master.

For the past five years she has been the principal of Public School, a position which she held with dignity and grace to herself and her profession and to the utmost satisfaction of her pupils and the citizens of the town. Selfless to her devotion to duty, faithful and efficient, Miss Duff is the ideal teacher, and her passing from the active life of the Lakefield Public School is noted with deepest regret.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE IS WELL ATTENDED

Miss S. S. Spence Arranges Affair For Miss Florence Little.

LAKEFIELD, March 24. — Nearly sixty ladies gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Payne on Monday evening to honor Miss Florence Little, whose marriage to Mr. William Steinkrauss took place this week.

When the company had all gathered, Mrs. S. S. Spence introduced the principal item of the evening's program in a short address, expressing the good wishes of the entire company and also of a number who could not be present, but who sent remembrances, gifts which will serve to remind the bride of many Lakefield friends.

Mrs. Spence has been the prime mover in many showers during the years she has been in Lakefield, and it was only fitting that she should have a special part in this one which took place on her birthday, March 19. Misses Marion Payne and Margaret Richardson carried in a large basket decorated in pale pink and white and filled with gifts which were varied in character and style but all useful or ornamental, and suitable for living room, dining room, boudoir or kitchen, and representing an expression of affectionate regard for a popular young lady.

Miss Little gracefully thanked her friends and assured them of her appreciation of their thoughtfulness of her on this occasion, the greatest in the life of a young girl.

Miss Margaret Richardson sang a solo and Mrs. H. E. Moore played a pianoforte solo. The remainder of the evening was spent in social intercourse accompanied by refreshments. Miss Little left on Tuesday for Toronto, where the marriage took place quietly.

89-Year-Old Trapper Anxious To Get Busy

CAMPBELLFORD, March 24.—To date there have been forty trappers' licenses issued in Campbellford. The thirty-ninth license to be issued was sold to William Potts, a farmer in Seymour Township in the region of Bradley Bay. Mr. Potts is a man eighty-nine years of age and had trapped every season since he was in his teens. This year finds Mr. Potts hale and hearty and as active as ever. He is anxious to get on the trapping grounds and have his trapline set out so as to be in as soon as the ice in the marshes loosens up enough for the rats to start moving.

WORK STARTS SOON ON WAR MEMORIAL

Marmora Expects Big Building Activity During This Summer.

MARMORA, March 24. — Now that the Memorial bylaw has been passed by a substantial majority, work of Marmora's memorial building will shortly be undertaken, and indications are that the citizens of the village will show their support in a very practical manner. It is understood that the women of the village propose to raise funds to purchase a clock to be placed in front of the building, and other steps will doubtless be taken to add to the appearance and value of the building as the work proceeds. The placing of the memorial tablets on each side of the entrance is a matter which will receive the consideration of the village and township councils. With the extension of the Royal Hotel occurring at the same time and the erection of a few more residences, prospects are for a prosperous summer and added attractions to the village.

YOUNG PEOPLE ENJOY DRIVE

MILLBROOK, Mar. 24. — A jolly sleighing party, with the members of the Tuxis Square and the Senior Trail Rangers as hosts, took place on Wednesday evening, when twenty or more of the young people enjoyed an outing, the route of the drive being to Cavanville and return.

Reg Willis and Arnold Fallis provided the sleighs and teams, and included among the girls whom the boys had invited as their guests for the evening were several members of the Wide-Awakes' C.G.I.T. group.

A happy social gathering in the basement of the United church featured the return from the drive, supper being prepared by Mrs. G. W. Sayles, Mrs. F. P. Stinson and Mrs. G. Freelove. The tables were very attractive with shamrocks and other decorations in keeping with Saint Patrick's Day.

Community singing enlivened the proceedings as the meal proceeded, and at its conclusion brief addresses were made by the leaders of the C.G.I.T. groups, Messrs. F. P. Stinson, H. J. Anderson and C. C. Garside, and also by the pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard. The boys' work has recently been reorganized under Councillor Stinson's supervision, and with the associate leaders' assistance much is being accomplished in carrying out the general features of the official program along C.S.E.T. lines.

Faden. A solo by the teacher, Mrs. Eakins, was also much enjoyed.

A number of contests helped to pass the time happily, the winners being Audrey Larmer, Albert Doak, and Gordon Armstrong.

The decorations, both of the large room and of the long tables, were of shamrocks, green fluted runners, ferns, green candles in brass holders, and other emblems in keeping with the day associated with the patron saint of Ireland.

NEW POWER LINE WORK STARTS SOON

Contractor Has Poles Ready To Place—Second Line Suggested.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 24.—Construction of the rural power line to serve the farmers along the Stirling road has not yet been actually begun. The six hundred poles which will be used have been cut and piled at various places along the line. The contractor intends to start the digging as soon as the frost is out of the ground and will probably let the contract for the post holes to some local bidder. As well as serving several farmers along the Stirling road as far as Masson's corners, there will also be a service run south from the English Line corner, about three miles south of town, to Robert Lee's farm near Bradley Bay. Several of the houses and farm buildings have already been wired for the new service and it will only be necessary to make the connection with the line as soon as the current is turned on.

There is considerable talk of a second line of about six miles in length being run down the sixth concession of Seymour as far as Menie and Burnbrae. As far as can be learned, there has been no definite action taken to date. But several business men have expressed an opinion that the line will be constructed in the near future.

HOW TO CLASSIFY CANADIAN TIMBERS

Canada's timbers of commerce are divided into two classes: softwoods and hardwoods. This division may be occasionally misleading if it conveys the idea that every softwood is softer than any hardwood; but the distinction although adopted by the timber trade generally, is in reality a botanical one. Softwoods are the woods obtained from trees which have naked seeds usually borne on cones, and needlelike leaves. Hardwoods are the woods obtained from trees which have fruit-enclosed seeds and flat leaves. The two kinds of trees are referred to as conifers and broad-leaved trees, respectively.

WANAMAKER HELD MUCH INSURANCE

Famous Merchant's Life Insured for More Than Six Millions.

In the recent death of Rodman Wanamaker, famous owner of the Wanamaker stores of New York and Philadelphia, life insurance lost its greatest living practical exponent, Mr. Wanamaker, following closely in his father's footsteps, held more life insurance than any other man in the world. He is known to have left an open door with his brokers to secure all the life insurance possible on his life. He long since exhausted the American market and is believed to have had considerable covereage in Canada and England. The total has been given as high as seven million, but on account of the many changes in his life insurance estate, this figure cannot be positively verified. It is believed, however, that he carried well over six millions, but just how much more cannot be stated exactly. His view was that life insurance is just as valuable in preserving the family fortunes of the rich is in preserving the widows of the poor.

His father, John Wanamaker, founder of the Wanamaker stores, was one of the earliest business men to recognize the importance of life insurance as a buttress to big business and he, on his part, was for many years the most heavily insured man in the world.

BONAR LAW, March 24. — The home of Mrs. George Burkitt, was the scene of a very attractive birthday party on Wednesday. CHARM OF CANADIAN ROCKIES.

One of the chief charms of the Canadian Rockies is that their territory is and will be for many years to come still a virgin land. One may travel through the heart of it in luxurious Pullmans or by motor car and find accommodation comparable with the best on the continent, yet half an hour's walk from the railway or the highway Nature is still as wild and solitary and beautiful as she was before the white man came.

ONTARIO'S LEAD PRODUCTION.

All the lead produced in Ontario, some 3,700 tons or about 2½ per cent. of the Canadian production in 1926, is obtained from the mine at Galetta near Arnprior on the Ottawa river.

MAPLE AN IMPORTANT HARDWOOD

The maple, whose leaf is the national emblem of Canada, is our second most important hardwood, and is represented in Canada by nine or more species scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The sugar maple, or hard maple (Acer saccharum) produces the most valuable lumber, which is used for furniture, vehicle stock, and interior house finishing. The sap of this tree is the source of maple syrup and sugar.

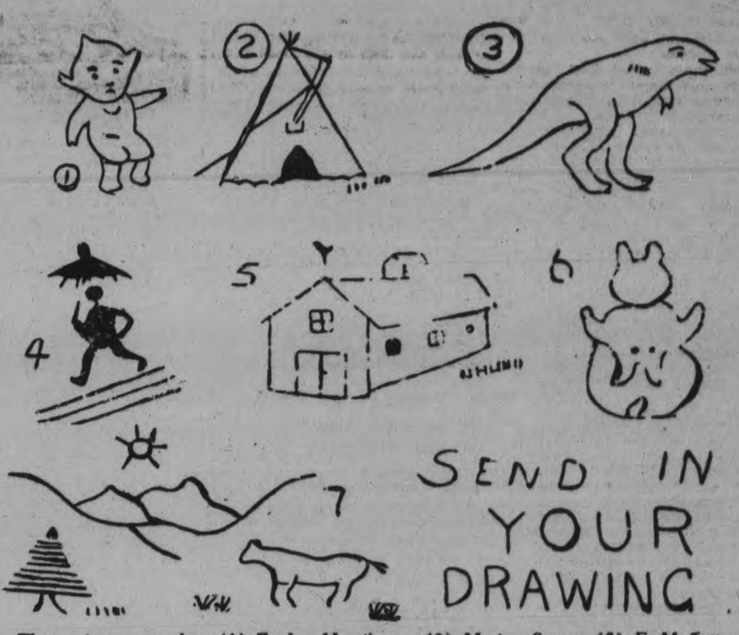
Boys and Girls! Can You Draw!



These pictures are by: (1) Evelyn Hamilton, (2) Marion Scott, (3) F. Moffatt, (4) Alex. Heron, (5) Hilda Carnie, (6) Ruth Smith, (7) Anna Forest. Do you boys and girls up to twelve years of age think you can draw as well as these?

We receive lots of drawings from little friends of The Examiner, but because we have no machinery for making the drawings into "cuts" for printing, we have not been able to reproduce them in the paper.

Now, however, we have found a way that will print SIMPLE drawings such as these, and we wish our young readers to send in more.

Just to make this interesting, we will give a weekly prize—and allow our young artists to choose the winner! Sounds like fun, doesn't it?

And it will be—just try. You will have your drawing printed in the paper, you will have the fun of choosing the winner every week, and you may yourself win a prize.

Here are the simple rules:

1. Age limit, 12 years.

DAMAGED BY GREAT FLOOD

More than 300 lives were lost when 13 billion gallons of water came rushing through the Santa Clara Valley shortly after midnight, when the St Francis dam at Newhall, 45 miles from Los Angeles, collapsed after a cloudburst. Most of the victims were trapped in their homes while they slept. This was the greatest catastrope in the history of the Golden State since the San Francisco earthquake. The dam had been completed about a year and was part of the Los Angeles water and power system an object of a long hard fight between the city and cattlemen in the San Fernando valley through which courses the Santa Clara river. The photographs were sent by telephoto from Los Angeles and show the remains of the dam and part of the devastated area.

THE SAYING IS CREDITED to Abraham Lincoln that God must love the common people seeing He has made so many of them. If that be so, then He must love John Plane. All who know John, love him. By his cradle he was placed among the common people, but by his character he takes his place among the aristocracy. There is a warmth to his nature and a winsomeness to his disposition that makes you think of spring. Even when he differs with a person it makes no difference to his disposition. He remains as kindly as if the two of them were in perfect harmony on all questions; he is the gentleman in spite of all things. What he holds with his mind is held with the grip of a giant. Yet his attitude toward those who cannot see eye to eye with him makes you think of the Man of Nazareth.

Mrs. Eddy and the Dead.

One does not require to be long in the company of John Plane to discover that he has an alert mind and keeps himself in touch with the various trends of thought today. He is a man that reads much, and he reflects as he reads, which is more than can be said for many readers. There is nothing he seems to enjoy more between odd jobs than "a guid crack." I often think his middle name might have been "Quiz," for, to use a Scottish word he is always "speirin'" about something or other. Like the farmer's hen he is always picking up!

While in his shop last Monday he said to me, "What do you know about Christian Science—and what do you think of it anyway?"

In reply to his question I told him that I had read about all that was written on the subject, including Mrs. Eddy's key and interpretation of the Scriptures.

"Then," said he, "you ought to know something about it, and I should like to get your opinion on Memoirs of Mary Baker Eddy if, by any chance, you have read it. In it the claim is made that Mrs. Eddy raised the dead."

Mrs. Eddy and Mr. Dickey.

On informing my carpenter friend that I had not yet read the book, "Memoirs of Mary Baker Eddy," he said, "Well, I wish you would read it and let me know how it impresses you. Meanwhile let me give you an inkling as to the nature of the book.

"It was written by Adams H. Dickey, private secretary to Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy. In it he claims that he saw Mrs. Eddy raise a man from the dead. The man was Calvin A. Frye, a member of the Eddy household. Mr. Dickey says he had heard of others who had been raised from the dead by Mrs. Eddy, but of this one incident he claims to have been an eye witness.

"Now, the writer of these memoirs may be quite sincere in setting forth these statements, but it does seem a bit strange to me that he should have waited sixteen years to tell his story. Mr. Frye had not been pronounced dead by any medical man, but he had been found 'unconscious, speechless, eyes closed, apparently breathless, with no pulse and indication of life.' If Mr. Frye were breathless, of course, it would be impossible for Mr. Dickey to smell his breath.

"Perhaps Mr. Frye was dead, but the proof submitted is far from being convincing. And, of course, he would have to be dead before even Mrs. Eddy could raise him from the dead."

Mrs. Eddy and Nature.

"In another part we are told by Mr. Dickey that snow was looked upon by Mrs. Eddy as a 'manifestation of error.' I might be inclined to agree with her so far as Canada is concerned if it came to us some year in July or August. But I like the snow, and welcome it during these winter months despite Mrs. Eddy's elucidating pronouncement.

"And she did not like severe electrical storms, considering them also, I suppose, manifestations of error. I know some folks who repudiate what they call 'the meaningless mumblings' of Christian Science who might be inclined to agree with Mrs. Eddy on the matter of electrical storms. Some, I know, if not in mortal error, are at least in mortal terror when the thunders roll and the lightnings flash."

Mrs. Eddy and Her Household.

Pausing for a moment to put some chips and shavings on the workshop fire, John Plane said, "But that is not all the amusingly interesting stuff Mr. Dickey treats us to in his book on Mrs. Eddy. He says that Mrs. Laura Sargent, another member of the Eddy household, 'was specifically charged with watching the weather and bringing it into accord with normal conditions.' However, Mrs. Eddy told her household that God, instead of Christian Scientists, really controlled the weather."

Looking at me with a twinkle in his eye, John said, "Don't you think that is a remarkable and striking admission? It is something for which we ought to be deeply grateful to Mrs. Eddy. That she ever gave God credit for anything without claiming the lion's share for herself is something to marvel at.

Mrs. Eddy Goes to the Dogs.

"Mr. Dickey said that when Mary Baker Eddy was a child the family had a dog named Ben that was often told to lie down under a table and would generally disregard the injunction.

"Mrs. Eddy found out that by mentally addressing the dog she would be heard without speaking a word aloud. When she saw that Ben was in trouble because of his presence in the room she would mentally say, 'Ben, get under the table and lie down,' and Ben would do so."

"Do you know, Mr. Preacher," said honest John, "I am inclined to believe that if Mrs. Eddy had not conceived the idea of training Christian Science Practitioners she might have made a success of training dogs. Only, between ourselves, I don't think she would have made as much money with the dogs as she made with her disciples. Some dogs are not so easily fooled as some folks are. The birth rate has not decreased any since Barnum said that there was a fool born every minute!"

Mrs. Eddy and the Pigs.

"She told me that one one winter's night," wrote Mr. Dickey, "when little pigs in the sty outside were squealing she asked her mother's consent to go out and sing them to sleep."

"Now, Allan Fairbairn, what do you think of that? Don't you think there's the touch of genius there? Wasn't there something happened one day with Christ and the pigs? Why should Christian Science not go one better and have its founder deal with the pigs by night. And how much better it was to sing them to sleep instead of causing them to rush headlong into the sea!

"Happy, O thrice happy, little pigs! What were their squeals and even their comical little tails but 'errors of mortal mind?' The squeals were hushed: their little tails were made quiet and there remained not a wrinkle on the placid brow of night."

As I took my departure I said to John Plane, "Here is a prayer once uttered by Professor Blackie which I will leave with you.

"From the three infallibles, the Roman Pope, the editor of a party newspaper, and a woman when she is wrong—Good Lord, deliver me.

"From prejudice that blinds the truth, from sophistry that juggles with truth, and from faction that poisons truth—Good Lord, deliver me.

—Allan Fairbairn.

The Minister Remarks--

—Some people get up early because they really like it, while others have to get to work on time.

—We fear that heaven is going to be a mighty unsatisfactory place to those who are annoyed by children.

—A scientist says that four hours in hot water is restful to the nerves—yet some people seem to be all the time in hot water without being rested a little bit.

The World's Best

THE greatest monuments of art shelter His sacred images; the most magnificent ceremonies assemble the people under the influence of His name; poetry, music, painting, sculpture, exhaust their resources to proclaim His glory, and to offer Him incense worthy of the adoration which ages have consecrated to Him. And yet upon what throne do they adore Him? Upon a cross!

—Pere Lacordaire.

Determining Destiny

DIRECTION determines destiny. To give life the upward incline is the chief business of Christianity. The fact of the Incarnation finds its chief significance in its purpose and power to face the world Godward. The slightest upward trend away from truth means the dismal swamp of doubt and then—the pit.—"Jesus Christ at the Crossroads."

MID-WEEK SERVICE WEDNESDAY AT 8 P.M. Subject: "ARE OUR DEAD UNCONSCIOUS?" (Illustrated by Blackboard)

SUNDAY SCHOOL AT 3 P.M.

EVENING SUBJECT

"THE IMPATIENCE OF A PARSON"

ARE YOU LOSING FAITH?

ONE day, some men, standing in the presence of a celebrated Teacher who had come from God, said, "Help our unbelief." And in that cry for assistance they made confession of a need of which all of us are often conscious.

Disappointment comes to us as we fail to accomplish what we had set our hearts on doing. We lose faith in those we had trusted most, and we are downcast, ready to give up. It is at such times that we need to enter into fellowship with the men who first uttered that cry for help with eyes that looked longingly toward the Son of God. It is vain to look elsewhere for help; but no one ever looked to Him in vain.

After all, there is but one question which is really vital to most of us—do we believe in ourselves? It may be wrong to believe in ourselves for certain things, but it is just as wrong not to believe in ourselves for certain other things.

What if we are now in hard luck? Poverty is really more prolific than prosperity. Great ideas and great achievements, like the photo negative, must have time in the dark room to develop. Many a great achievement has been left undone because a man was too rich to keep at it. Don't begrudge your years of poverty and struggle; they are the richest of your life. They are the years in which you give no energy and thought to making a show; and in which the best there is in you is growing stronger than the obstacles in your path, stronger than the limitations that shut you in.

How does faith come? On the best authority we learn that faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God. When that word grips the inner life, it awakens desires, influences the will, corrects the conscience, purifies the affections, transforms the character, directs the steps, and enables us to bring the seemingly impossible to pass. Put it to the test and you will triumph in every time of testing.

Children's Corner — TELL US A STORY

DURING certain excavations conducted at the buried city of Pompeii, many interesting discoveries were made, but none which told a tale so thrilling in its sublime nobleness as that of the remains of the soldier found at one of the gates. Imbedded in the once molten lava which swept down upon the doomed city, was found the skeleton of a Roman soldier—whose post of duty was at the gate—still grasping a sword in its bony fingers. When the panic came upon the city, and those who could make good their escape, he had remained faithful to his sense of duty, and with resolute courage faced a fearful death.

The Church's Attitude To Another War

A Representative of the Reformed Church Speaks Out.

THE chatter of so-called military experts about preventing war by piling up armaments and teaching whole nations to think in terms of gases and gunpowder is the most colossal piece of nonsense that has ever been foisted on a thinking people. Thus spake Rev. Harold W. Schenck in one of the leading Collegiate Reformed Churches in New York. He believes that Americans are beginning to wake up. The "big navy" Congressman heard from home. The billion dollar naval program went on the rocks of puulic disapproval, and this preacher believes that the time has come when Christian citizens, interested in building a new world, should say, "Enough! We're done with this sort of foolishness. We now intend to place our reliance on the building of 'walls' of good-will, fair-play and international justice. We will require our Governments to submit their disputes to international tribunals of justice."

A Pen Picture

IT is the season of early spring, the flowers are beginning to appear, the fig trees are covered with early fruit, and the time of the singing of birds is come, but, though everything around is sweet and beautiful so far as Nature is concerned, man, the great marplot, brings sorrow. What is the good of the bounties of Nature when the invader is abroad? What advantage is there in ploughing and sowing if robbers swoop down and carry off the fruits of the earth on which toil and love have been spent?

These thoughts come into my mind, because from the lofty position in which I stand I see two bodies of men, although they are not as yet aware of each other's proximity.

Those nearer me are few in number; they are walking slowly and apparently sadly. The others, far away, are hurrying along like wolves seeking their prey—they glance this way and that, their keen eyes looking hungrily around. Now the little company have seen them, and they seem struck with terror. They consult together quickly, and hastily alter their purpose, adopting as a temporary makeshift an opportunity that fortunately presents itself, when—O, wonder of wonders—what is this? What new and amazing sight do I behold? The men hasten to a place of safety, and as I count them to make sure that I was not deceived, I see indeed that another is hurrying along the road together with those who slowly and sadly had traversed that way before.

The key to the previous Pen Picture of Bible History is to be found in 1 Chron. 12:8-15.

House of Commons Fixing Easter Date

A Bill Has Passed Its Second Reading in the British Parliament.

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

PROGRESS is being made with the movement for fixing the date of Easter. At present Easter may fall on any one of thirty-five days in the year and is dependent on the date of the full moon. It has varied from March 22nd to April 25th. The system which made it a movable feast was initiated at the Nicaean Council in 325 A.D., and dates for it have been fixed in the Book of Common Prayer until 2199 A.D.

A bill for the stabilization of Easter has passed its second reading in the British House of Commons. It fixes the festival on the first Sunday after the second Saturday in April, and provides that the date on which the measure is to come into operation shall be fixed by order-in-Council.

For—Germany, the London County Council, and the Home Secretary.

Against—The Pope, the Clerk of the Weather, and Lord Hugh Cecil.

Neutral—The Archbishop of Canterbury.

The Home Secretary has announced that the Government regarded the vote of the House of Commons as an intimation of their wish for the Government to proceed with the various inquiries. Fortified with the view of the House, the Government can go definitely to the other countries of Europe and the other ecclesiastical authorities and say the House of Commons has adopted it. He will then ask the Foreign Secretary, in conjunction with the League of Nations, to summon a conference of the nations interested. The change will not be made, we are told, without the concurrence of the churches, which it is expected will be accorded. Convocation has already expressed approval.

After Thirty Years In a City Pulpit

Despite Many Outward Changes He Finds Essentials of Life the Same.

BURIED among tall buildings on every side of it, there is a beautiful church edifice on Broadway, New York, the beauty of which you cannot see until you stand back on the other side of the street. It is known as Broadway Tabernacle. Its minister's name is the Rev. Charles E. Jefferson, D.D. He has just celebrated his thirtieth anniversary, at which time he said some things which are true of church life in more places than New York.

Speaking of all the scientific and inventive progress of the last thirty years he added that hardly anything of importance has changed in that time. The Bible, the old hymns, the great anthems, the Lord's Prayer are just the same. Life has not changed—weddings, funerals, births, joy and sorrow, tears and laughter, old age and youth—all are just the same.

In New York a pastor's success is measured by the size of his congregation, and the amount of money he raises. This is a cold, hard fact; and it is unfair.

THE STRIKE AT QUEEN'S.

The students at Queen's University who went out on strike to protest against the action of the senate of the university in punishing three members of the student body have been well advised in returning to their classroom.

In declaring a strike the students made a mistake. Mob action of this nature was the wrong method to secure redress for grievances, and by adopting it the strikers were injuring the good name of their university, hurting the cause for which they were battling and putting themselves in bad odor with intelligent public opinion, which refused to believe that there was not a more sensible manner of settling a controversy than through a demonstration of force.

The Senate of Queen's is to be commended for refusing to be intimidated; its firmness and a wiser second though on the part of the students have averted a nasty situation.

Now that better counsel has prevailed the governing body should, as The Globe suggests, overlook the display of militancy on the part of students and seek to work out an understanding based on an intelligent respect for each other's position and responsibilities.

A GOOD START

Having succeeded in persuading Sir Joseph Flavelle to accept the position of Chairman, Premier Ferguson has launched his Industrial Research Council under most encouraging auspices.

Sir Joseph's extensive experience in industry, finance and education will undoubtly prove of the greatest value in organizing the effort which is counted upon to do much to add to Ontario's wealth.

This native son of Peterborough has had many triumphs in his distinguished career, and there is every reason to expect that under his guidance the Industrial Research Council will be organized on sound lines and will be successful in the objects for which it is being established.

The scheme is to be financed in part by the Ontario Government and by voluntary subscriptions, and it is possible that a measure of Federal assistance will also be forthcoming.

It is felt that enough attention has not been paid to research work in Ontario, and that through the Research Council it will be possible to solve many problems and thus materially benefit the various industries, including agriculture, in the Province.

The Council starts well with a Chairman of outstanding ability, and the appointment will stimulate public confidence in the undertaking.

THE IMPORTANT THINGS

It is not surprising to find that the answers made by members at the Chamber of Commerce to the questionaire sent them recently show a general belief that the things of chief importance to be done for the good of the community are the securing of more industries and the development of a larger tourist business.

Of these the former is of much greater moment.

The tourist traffic means the influx of much ready money and a great stimulus to business generally, but it must be remembered that this condition prevails for only a portion of the year—three months at the most.

It is decidedly well worth going after that business, but must give first place in importance to the securing of industries, the effect and benefit of which are felt every day in the year and are distributed generally throughout the community.

If material progress, business prosperity and physical growth are the ideals to be cherished, the way lies in the direction of attracting new industrial concerns, entailing more workers, more money to be spent, more housing accommodation, more business for our merchants.

You only need to look a few miles across country to Oshawa to see how industrial expansion can change almost overnight a slow-moving town into a thriving city.

The development of one industry has been responsible for that transformation, and the same growth invariably accompanies the arrival in any community of flourishing factories.

There are some people, of course, who may feel that size and bustle are not of overwhelming importance; that something finer and moral vital should be the aim of such organizations as the Chamber of Commerce; that the development of a neighborly and friendly spirit in our people, the cultivating of an atmosphere of tolerance and fair-play and culture, the striving for a cleaner, healthier and more beautiful city, the providing of more adequate facilities for healthful recreation for old and young—in short, the building up of a community life that would be of such a nature as to make us all feel that we are living in a city wonderful—might better engage our attention.

In this materialistic age, however, such thoughts have few champions.

AN UNAPPRECIATED SERVICE

This has been the season of the former street car employees' revenge, and if March goes out like a lion they would like to grab him by the tail and keep him rampaging around until April is well spent. Their revenge is being visited upon the automobile drivers in their struggle with the jagged and frozen ruts.

Motorists in the old days used to pick up at every corner pedestrains who would have been passengers, and thereby deprive the street car system of money that would ordinarily have been found in the fare boxes at the end of the day. The lifeblood of the street cars was gradually sapped, and constant transfusions by the Hydro-Electric Commission evoked protests that simply could not be longer ignored.

When the street cars were finally scrapped, the snow plow went with them. The tail went with the hide, and since the plow was withdrawn from use deep, frozen ruts have flourished like weeds in a neglected field. Automobile traffic used to be attracted to the plowed streets. Now it spreads out all over, and every street is yet or has been until the last few days a glorified gridiron that delights the old street car crews as they watch some of the drivers' struggles.

The City Council has found itself with an unexpected problem on its hands, now and forever, at least as long as snow falls and melts and freezes.

Discarding the old street car system was as easy a gesture as washing one's hands. Doubtless it was a necessary one, or the Council would not have made it. At any rate it exposed and emphasized a gratuitous service which the street cars had been rendering to the comfort and advantage of automobile drivers, but which they in turn certainly did not appreciate. They didn't even perceive it.

Somebody used to pay for the work the snow plows did. Now the City Council must provide the money for it. They continue to ignore it for another winter, but eventually they must face it. Recently they were looking over a mammoth scraper that apparently cost a few pennies to manufacture.

Street Commissioner Evans holds the opinion that the solution of the rutted street problem is by prevention. Remove the snow as it falls, so that it will not become deep enough to form ruts. Some way must be determined to overcome conditions such as those which have harassed automobile drivers most of the winter. Today their use is general, and there is no evading their demands. The new system of transportation has become firmly established, and adequate accommodation for it is no longer optional with municipal authorities.

THE BIG FRESH WATER GAME FISH.

The conserving of the game fish of the Province is beginning to receive much attention, and in this connection complaints are still heard from the Kawartha Lakes region to the effect that there is a good deal of 'lunge spearing in the spring. This is a hard thing to believe.

It is hard to believe that a summer resort region, enjoying a large and hoping for an enormous tourist traffic, largely based on the desire to fish for 'lunge, would tolerate the lawless destruction of the very source of its summer prosperity.

It would be supposed that even the most lawless persons would know on which side their bread is buttered. But if such persons do not know it the Boards of Trade, the organized merchants, the owners of holiday resorts should know it. It is hard to estimate the value of a 'lunge to the Kawarthas or any other district to which tourists come in search of it. Some say it is worth $50—but it is worth nothing on the end of a poacher's spear. The 'lunge is the big game fish of fresh water.

Last spring the Ontario Government had special watchers employed to patrol the spawning regions of the 'lunge, but this, the Peterborough and Lindsay people say, was not sufficient. But why leave it all to the Government? The local game protection and anglers' associations might very well do some volunteer work, for they better than any outside agency can create a local public opinion that will defend the 'lunge and recognize its high local value. They say people down there do not want to antagonize the poachers or they might get their barns burned. But the summer tourist trade is worth annually to the Kawartha Lakes region a good many barns.

In a case of this kind education and persuasion can accomplish a great deal, and where it fails the law can be invoked. Parties of volunteer protectors of the 'lunge could do a great deal during the spawning season to aid the watchers placed on the job by the Government. Hired men can't get the best results unless a robust public opinion backs them up.—Toronto Star.

PUNISH CARELESS DRIVER.

Judge Coatsworth, of Toronto, set a good example to other dispensers of justice when he sentenced two drivers of motor vehicles to serve sixty days each in the jail farm for criminal negligence. One of these was driving a truck which struck and fatally injured a little girl, while the other was in charge of a motor car which ran into five school teachers after they had alighted from a street car. This was the first time that either had been arraigned on a criminal charge, although one of them was 58 years of age. In each case employers gave character evidence in their favor.

The trouble is that the majority of those who offend at the motor wheel are not criminals. They are honest, reputable citizens, law-abiding in everything with the exception, possibly, of motor traffic regulations. Careful while on foot, they seem to be infected with the germ of carelessness as soon as they are handling the steering wheel of a car, and carelessness is not far removed from criminal negligence. They have no intention of disregarding the rights of others, but the speed demon gets possession of them, and the first thing they know they figure in an accident, perhaps a fatal one, for which they will have to suffer the consequences.

Counsel for the driver whose truck killed a child, in urging clemency, said that the only criminal act, apparently, was that the speed rate had been exceeded. But, surely, that's a serious matter, especially in a city, and more especially when a little child is riding on the back of a wagon, as was the fact in this accident.

In disposing of this case, Judge Coatsworth said the time had come when offenses of this kind must be dealt with in a serious manner. We believe the judge is absolutely right. There will always be careless, reckless drivers, but there will not be so many of them if their offences are treated seriously and are adequately punished. Punishment seems a hardship in some cases, but the only way to curb carelessness and recklessness by drivers is to inflict it impartially. All drivers must be given to understand that they will be punished if they do not show proper concern for the safety of others.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The strike of Queen's students was not a good advertisement for our system of education.

The newsboys who scattered election ballots on Ottawa streets have let the Province in for an inquiry that is going to prove expensive and perhaps fruitless as well.

The Ontario Government will spend $5,000 investigating the conservation of our game fish. That sum, according to one statistician, represents the cost to American tourists of about sixty black bass.

The members of the Quebec Legislature have voted themselves greater remuneration, only seven opposing the measure. A referendum of the electors might not show so much enthusiasm for the proposal.

It is well that Canadian newspapers are pointing out that the petitions for mercy sent by American citizens had nothing to do with the commutation of the sentence upon Mrs. Doris MacDonald. Justice in this country is administered without consideration of representations inspired by misplaced sympathy.

If a fine soldier and a strict but fair disciplinarian can make a good chief constable, Toronto has evidently the right man in Brigadier-General Draper whose war record should inspire confidence.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., March 24 (Canadian Press).—Owing to the lull in the demand from foreign buyers for grain the export trade here yesterday was extremely dull. Trading in cash grain in the local market was also slow, but the undertone was steady.

Prices for all grades of Spring and Winter wheat flour were firmly maintained under a small demand.

The demand for all lines of millfeed continued good and all offerings met with a ready sale. Prices were unchanged. A fair trade was done in standard grades of rolled oats and values were firm.

The feature of the local egg trade was the weaker feeling that developd and jobbing prices were reduced one to two cents per dozen. This was attributed to the large supplies coming forward. The receipts were 1,240 cases.

The undertone to the potato market continued firm owing to the smaller receipts and the improved demand.

A moderate trade was done in imported beans and values were steady.

The trade in butter was dull and the undertone to the market continued weak. The receipts were 182 packages.

A very firm feeling prevailed in the cheese market with a moderate amount of business passing in small lots for domestic consumption The receipts were 227 boxes.

GOD'S MINUTE

I will give thanks unto Thee forever.—Ps. 30, 12.

Eternal Father, help us to think wise thoughts, to speak kind words, and to do good deeds through all the hours of this new day of our lives. Help us to see things as they are, and also as they ought to be. We would have a hand in making the world a better place in which to live, and, as the nearer duties are the most pressing, we would begin at home. To the beloved beings in this household, therefore, we will consecrate our ability to be cheerful and helpful. Enable us to lift the burdens of the weary, and to bring happiness to the sorrowful about our own fireside, and then as our strength and wisdom are increased, to impart them to others, near and far. How full of the possibilities of usefulness is a single day! How sweet to think that in a single moment of a single hour of this one, we may render some service that will increase the sum of human virtue and happiness. Help us, O Lord, to do it!

Give us a new assurance of Thy love, and a new sense of the dignity and value of life. We pray Thee that we may be able to say, when our call comes, "Glad did I live and glad do I die, and I lay me down with a will." Amen.

Protect the Highways
During Early Spring

Warning to Truck Drivers and Owners against excessive Weights and Speeds

During early Spring, The Ontario Highway Traffic Act provides special protection for roads, both paved and unpaved. At this time water lurks in the foundations of all roads, and great damage is done by excessive weights and speeds.

The law distinctly states that during March and April, on roads outside cities and towns:

Solid tired trucks and trailers shall not carry more than half a load;
Pneumatic tired trucks and trailers, with a carrying capacity exceeding three tons, shall be limited to half a load;
Horse drawn vehicles, with a carrying capacity exceeding one ton, shall be limited to half a load.

The speed limit for trucks is the same all the year round—15 miles an hour for solid tired vehicles, and 20 miles an hour for pneumatic tired vehicles of more than six tons gross.

The penalty for overloading at this season is a fine, imprisonment, or both. Licenses may be suspended also. Highway traffic officers have been directed to be especially vigilant in apprehending all who disobey.

The Department of Highways desires to impress upon truck and team owners and drivers the provisions of the law and the penalties provided. It seeks their co-operation in a decent observation of provisions so greatly in the public interest. Ontario has an investment of over $170,000,000 in roads and an annual maintenance bill of $4,000,000. This investment must be protected.

MISSING FLIER AND FAMILY

Lady Inchcape, mother of Hon. Elsie Mackay, who with Captain Hinchliffe, has been missing since they started on their trans-Atlantic flight in the airplane Endeavor, was not told of her daughter's fate because of her indifferent health. Lord Inchcape, when he learned of his daughter's plans, telegraphed to her an appeal that she abandon the perilous undertaking. Lord and Lady Inchcape are numbers one and two in the above illustration, while number three is the missing aviatrix, who will be remembered as Poppy Wyndham of the English stage and screen. Dennys Wyndham, former husband of Hon. Elsie Mackay, is number four. The marriage was annulled some time ago.

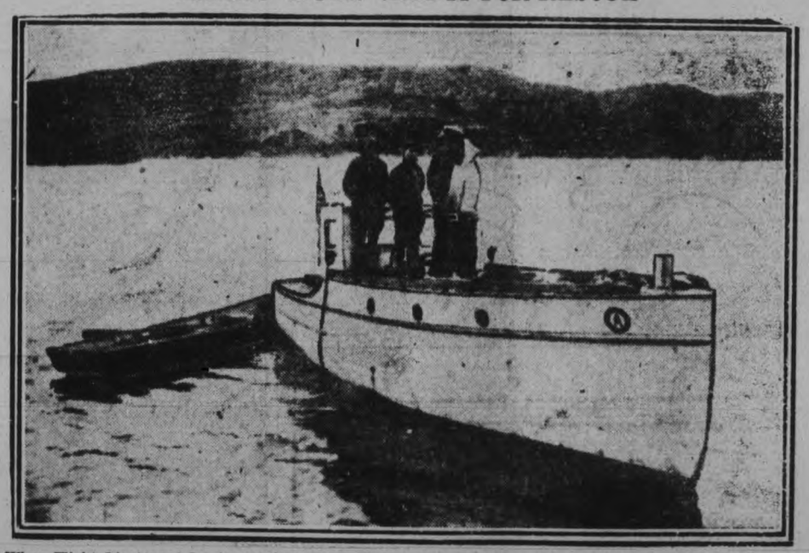
ESKIMO GIVEN CREDIT FOR RESCUE



When Flight Lieutenant Lewis and Flight Sergent Terry, members of the Hudson straits expedition, came to grief on the ice floes off the Labrador coast and were missing 17 days, it was the Eskimo "Bobby" who accompanied them, who saved them from death. Bobby showed Lewis and Terry how to travel over the rafted ice of the Artic drift, and cross the wet open ice to the mainland. It was his skill that provided them with food and shelter. The central figure is Sergent Terry, who accompanied Flying Officer Lewis on his aerial reconnaissances, while the figure in the white parka is Bobbie the Eskimo. Bobbie is about 40 years old, married to an Eskimo lady with one eye. Bobbie was "mentioned in despatches" for his work in the desperate emergency after the plane came down on the ice field.

FINDS RUINS OF OLD CITY

Robert J. Casey, who recently discovered a long-forgotten city in the Cambodian jungles, is seen in the illustration above. In describing his adventures in the district shown on the map, he says: "Proh Khan is at the junction of two dry washes which in the wet season are rivers. I went up one alone because the native guides were afraid of tigers and elephants. I had to fight my way afoot through twenty-six miles of bamboo tangle, snake grass and swamp. I had to choose between my camera (plus 500 feet of film) and a supply of water, and I took a chance on the camera. Well, I got there. I saw the ruins still covered with trees and vines and tangle. Nobody knows what is in there. The temple treasures may still be in the passages, and the legendary emerald Buddha which you hear about all over the east may have been taken there. To my notion the greatest story of the century lies there in those galleries now barred by the jungle.

"I collapsed three times trying to find my way out of the place, and once was revived by a bunch of jungle dwellers who wore no clothes and acted as if they had never seen a white man before. My throat was swollen so that I could not eat for three days, my shoulders were black and blue from the weight of the camera, and my legs were skinned to the knees."

Stone in the land of the Khmers had to be hauled overland a distance of at least nine miles. Some of it came from a hill forty or fifty miles to the north, carried in slings suspended from poles on the shoulders of slaves. No mortar was used in the building of these great citadels and temples.

Lady Rodney stressed the fact that if young Englishwomen hoped to get along in Canada they must be economical, capable and resourceful. The illustration shows (1) Hon. Geo. CHILD STAR'S MOTHER SUED FOR DAMAGES

A $750,000 alienation suit has been brought against Mrs. Lillian Coogan, mother of Jackie Coogan, juvenile movie star. The suit was started by Mrs. Corabel Bernstein, who charged that the affection of her husband, Arthur Bernstein, business manager of the Jackie Coogan Picture Corporation, was stolen by Mrs. Coogan. The last-named denies the charge. Mrs. Bernstein has been allowed temporary alimony of $300 a month. She asked for $1000 a month, listing $150 a month for food, $100 for toilet articles, $500 for rent, and other sums to cover the price of a new car and wages for her chauffeur. Mrs. Bernstein is also seeking a divorce, naming Mrs. Coogan as co-respondent. The illustration shows :Jackie Coogan, Sen.; (2) Mrs. Lillian Coogan; (3) Mrs. Corabel Bernstein, and (4) Arthur Bernstein.

NEW HOSPITAL TO HELP GREATLY

St. Anthony Hospital in Labrador Fills Long Felt Want.

It was a great and memorable occasion in Grenfell annals, that day, last July, when the new St. Anthony hospital was formally opened and dedicated—the culmination of many hopes and fears, plans and preparations—but at last all was in readiness. Their Excellencies, Sir William and Lady Allardyce were there, and hosts of other distinguished visitors, guests and friends. Every flag-pole in the harbour hoisted the British ensign, while over the Grenfell home, the hospital and down at the wharf the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes flew side by side.

Dr. Charles Curtis, Medical Officer in charge at St Anthony, presided and first introduced Rural Dean Richards, of Northern Newfoundland, a long standing friend and great admirer of Dr. Grenfell's, who conducted the dedicatory service and prayers, closing with the hospital hymn:

Spirit of Truth, we call on Thee this house to bless,
Give wisdom, grace and strength to all who here Thy Name confess,
Spirit of Mercy bring Thy balm the sick to heal,
And make the weary ones to sing, who shall Thy presence feel.
Spirit of Peace, descend, Thyself the heavenly Dove,
Let care for souls and bodies blend in ministries of love.

Dr. Grenfell welcomed Their Excellencies, and all the distinguished guests. He expressed his great gratitude to His Excellency, the Governor of Newfoundland, to Lady Allardyce, to His Honor Judge Morris, representing the Government, to Sir James Startin, representing the Royal National Mission, and to the many friends of the International Grenfell Association from Newfoundland, Canada, England and the United States, who through gifts—monetary, personal and sacrificial—helped to make possible the erection of this new St. Anthony Hospital "To the Glory of God and the relief of suffering humanity." He also took occasion to pay special tribute to the two native Labradormen, Edgar McNeill, construction foreman, and Wilfred Mosher, superintendent of electrical and plumbing equipment, through whose untiring efforts the difficult work of building and completing the structure was accomplished.

Thirty-five years ago two occurrences took place in Newfoundland that have had a marked influence on her subsequent history, what was known as the "Great Fire" when the City of Saint John's was destroyed; and the arrival of Dr. Wilfred E. Grenfell from England. Despite suffering and loss a great interest was taken in Grenfell's proposed medical work among the fishermen of Northern Newfoundland and Labrador. During three and a half decades the doctor has given unstintedly of his best to the sick and needy on this coast. He has established a standard of service which is not only the admiration of the Anglo-Saxon world but has inspired hundreds to give not only monetary support but devoted and self-sacrificing service to the cause he has so much at heart.

It is hot surprising then, that Dr. Grenfell's great work should have received the recognition from one, whose knowledge of every part of his Empire is well known, His Majesty, the King, whose personal message I now bring to you. The following letter was then read:

Sixteen years ago, on the occasion of the laying of the corner stone of the Seaman's Institute which bears my name, I expressed my high appreciation of the work that Dr. Grenfell, and those associated with him were doing for sailors and fishermen of Newfoundland. Since then I have watched with interest the progress of that work, and it is with great pleasure that I have learned that it is now to be extended by provision of a new hospital at St. Anthony. I trust that hospital will prove of greatest benefit to the people of Newfoundland. George Rex Imperattor.

When the applause had died away, His Excellency declared the hospital to be formally opened, and then added:

I have an announcement to make that will, I am sure, give the greatest satisfaction. His Majesty, the King, has been graciously pleased to confer the honor of Knight Commander of St. Michael and St. George on Doctor Grenfell.

Congratulations followed to Sir Wilfred and Lady Grenfell.

St. Anthony is headquarters for the Grenfell Hospital Mission on the Coast. It is the largest, most modern and best equipped of any, in fact, acts as a clearing-house for the smaller Grenfell hospitals. The entire staff is splendid, at any time, but during the summer there assembles here noted specialists who give of their knowledge and skill in the conquering of disease.

The "Jean Dalzell" Ward is named for a Canadian nurse, a volunteer, who gave her life in ministry at this Post. The children's ward also is of especial interest to Canadians because Miss Helen Fotheringham, of Toronto, personally solicited over $1,000, for the furnishings, and supervised the buying and shipment of these supplies. All the cots in the children's ward have flower plates, which interest the little patients greatly.

And now this hospital is busy serving the purpose for which it was erected, equipped and staffed, and bringing health and good cheer to all who come for consultation or for treatment. It also provides a wider field of usefulness for the skilled service of Dr. Curtis and his entire staff.

Wilkins recently completed the 500-mile flight into Point Barrow from Fairbank.

Woman's Wisdom

Stuart Brown

Kingston, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is such a great help to nature in motherhood, I marvel that every prospective mother does not take it. I had two children before I knew that there was such a tonic. My former experiences caused me dread. By chance I read that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription quieted the nerves and strengthened the body of the expectant mother and I proved that statement to be true, also I had comparatively no suffering and did not lose any of my strength or vitality. OVER 17 MILLION JARS USED YEARLY

TO IDENTIFY LIQUOR BUYER

When a cargo of liquor is ordered the skipper of the vessel wants proof of identity from the consignees before delivery. A simple system is used by the rum-runners. The order is written on one half of a dollar bill which is then cut or torn in two. One half is given to the man who orders and pays for the liquor, the vendor retaining the other half. When the liquor is shipped from St. Pierre Miquelon or other sources of supply the captain of the vessel is given the seller's half of the bill. Before the liquor is landed the recipient must produce the other half of the bill. Both halves of the bill having a treasury number the identification is simple and the system proof against forged orders. This bill was seized by officers of the department of national revenue.

GUIDES' MOTHERS BANQUET GUESTS

Campbellford Girls Hold Mother and Daughter Banquet.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 24. — More than two hundred Girl Guides and their mothers attended the mother and daughter banquet held in the Sunday School Rooms of St. Andrew's Church last night at six-thirty. This is the second annual affair of this kind, and is proving a popular form of get-together for those who are fortunate enough to be able to attend. The affair is held under the auspices of all the Campbellford Guides. Last year the dinner was served in the Sunday School Rooms of St. John's United Church. While the banquet is primarily a ladies' affair, there were several men present by special invitation. Among these were Warden Davidson, Magistrate Payne, Rev. James Grier, Rev. N. Clarke Wallace, Rev. E. Harston, Dr. H. O. Richardson, William Ashton, Walter Henson, Charles Stephens, J. D. MacEachern, Charles Palliser, A. C. Connor, J. H. Bell, R. J. Allan, G. A. Kingston, and Harry Townsend. Rev. L. M. Smith was unable to be present and telephoned his regrets.

Following the dinner, toasts were in order. Mrs. J. H. Bell, leader of the Campbellford troop, proposed the King. The second honor was given to Princess Mary, proposed by Miss Gladys Stephens. The toast to Lady Baden-Powell was proposed by Miss Reta Palliser. Miss Mary McGregor proposed the Sister Guides of the Whole World. To the toast to the Mothers, proposed by Miss Margaret Cock, Mrs. J. D. MacEachern responded. Jean McArthur proposed the Fathers, and Mayor Kingston responded. His remarks were loudly applauded for their brilliant humor and the quotation with which he concluded his response, acclaimed his prowess as an after-dinner speaker. Miss Marjorie Ackerman proposed the toast to the Guide Leaders, Miss Grace Payne responding.

Following the toasts came some of the Girl Guide songs, in which the mothers were asked to join. The Brownies, the younger members of the organization, were not to be outdone, and their singing was led by Miss Evelyn Irwin.

Mrs. J. H. Bell, guide leader, as she rose from the head table to address the assembly, admitted that she was rather timid about speaking when there were so many good orators among the guides. On behalf of the organization she extended a welcome to the guests. It was her earnest hope, she claimed, that every girl in town would become a member of the Guides in the near future. She also wished to thank the examiners who had assisted in the test for the various efficiency badges, the Session of the Presbyterian church for their generous permision to use the church for their banquet, and to the ladies of the church.

Briefly, Mrs. Bell recalled the origin of the Girl Guides under Lady Baden Powell and stated that the organization was not in any degree a military affair. It stood for peace at all times. Nor was it merely a Canadian or British movement. It was known the world over, although in the various countries it was known by as many different names. There was, she claimed, a strong similarity between the badges of the various orders. She had personally examined a collection while in England recently. The laws of the movement in the various countries were very similar. A guide, she said, was a friend to all and a sister to every other guide.

Community singing of some of the popular favorites followed the address by Mrs. Bell. Miss Irene Stephens presided at the piano. The last number on the program was a campfire scene which afforded a wonderful opportunity for many of the mothers to learn something of the guide laws. The entertainment was concluded with the singing of "Taps," which in military language is the same as the First Post, played at the end of the day in camp, usually about three-quarters of an hour before "Lights Out."

The Campbellford Girl Guides originated about ten years ago and since that time have increased in number till their roll carries more than one hundred and twenty-five names. The Brownies were organized during the year 1923.

Your New Spring Hat Is Easy to Make

THE accompanying diagram may look complicated at first. But it is really easy to follow, if you take it bit by bit. And the results are certainly worth while. You can really make a hat as pretty as the one in the sketch if you work carefully.

To begin with you will need a strip of buckram or stiff canvas six inches wide and long enough to go about the head and fasten securely. Just lap one raw edge over the other, and sew with coarse, strong stitches. Don't get this foundation of too stiff quality. It must be firm and stiff enough to hold its shape, but it should not be board-like.

This process is shown in figure 1. Now look at figure 2 and then pinch six pleats into the buckram, one back and front, and two on each side, as this figure shows, shaping the buckram to the head. By the way, it is a good plan to make the silk hat lining first, and protect the hair with this while trying on the hat. Fold down the pleated sections so that they are flat, and stitch them flat. Or else trim them off, fold back the raw edges, and fasten them down.

So much for the foundation. Remember when cutting it and fitting it that it will have a lining inside, and that a fold of the fabric of the hat will thicken the lower inside edge, also, and govern the correct size by these allowances.

Now get the material for the hat. Satin, at this time of year, is good, or some sort of silk. Cut a circle about eight inches across, and a strip about twenty-six inches long and three wide—figures 3 and 4, or A and B. B should be on the bias. Seam the ends together firmly so that the strip fits around the edge of the circle. Then baste one long edge of the strip to the outer edge of the circle, and stitch it. Press it and turn it right side out. You should now have something like figure 5.

Next, look at figure 6. Now lay your hat material over the foundation, pin it and then baste it and then sew it firmly. It should come down to within three inches of the lower edge at the back, and be fastened in a slightly upward line to the front, where it may be five inches from the lower edge. It should be gathered or pleated in at the lower edge to fit.

Next cut a piece of material like that in figure 7—C. This should be six inches wide in the middle, four at each end, and should be curved easily along the upper edge. Pin it over the buckram foundation of the hat to find out how big to make it and then seam it firmly at the back. Then turn under the upper edge and press, about a half inch. Fit the strip about the hat, holding the upper edge over the sewed-down edges of the puffed crown, and turning the lower edge under. Fasten securely with a blind stitch along the upper edge, and hem strongly on the inside of the buckram foundation underneath. This process is shown in figure 8.

Then put in the hat lining, lapping the turned-under edges of the lining over the turned-up edge of the outside of the hat.

A trimming band of ribbon can be arranged as suggested in the sketch. Or you may use a fancy pin very effectively.

VETERANS SEE COMRADE OFF

21st Battalion Men Bid Farewell To Oliver White, Leaving For England.

MEET AT STATION.

About one hundred members of the 21st Battalion Club and other friends of Oliver White assembled at the Canadian National Railway station this morning to bid him farewell as he left wtih his family for England, where he intends to reside. The veterans sang many overseas songs which had been favorites of Mr. Whites during the interval of waiting.

It is recalled that eleven years ago last Thursday Mr. White, with other men who had served overseas, organized the Peterborough Returned Soldiers' Club, which later became the local branch of the G.W.V.A. and is now Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League. Mr. White had a great deal to do with putting the organization on the sound basis which has resulted in its growth.

AVOID THE PAINS OF RHEUMATISM

This Trouble Comes Through Weak, Watery Blood.

Many people suffer rheumatic pains the blood. Rheumatism comes with the blood. Rreumatism comes with thin, watery blood, and can only be driven out of the system by enriching and purifying the blood. To make rich, red blood no medicine equals Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills actually make new blood, driving out all poisonous secretions, and creating a condition of robust health. Thousands of rheumatic sufferers can testify to the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Among them is Mr. Jos. A. Tully, Bobcaygeon, Ont., who says: "As a worker in the woods for years I was exposed to all kinds of rough, wintry weather. The result was that I was finally laid up with rheumatism. I could hardly stir and was confined to bed. Medicine seemed to have little or no effect and the best encouragement the doctor gave me was that with the coming of warm weather I would be better. But instead of getting better, I grew worse. My joints were badly swollen, and my legs so stiff they would hardly support my body. At this stage I read that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended for rheumatism, and decided to try them. The results were beyond my expectations. After a few weeks the swelling had disappeared, and the stiffness gradually wore away, and much sooner than I expected all traces of rheumatism had disappeared. The next winter when I went into the woods I took a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with me, and they kept me in the best of condition. My experience should give encouragement to other rheumatic suffereres."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

General Motors Shares Climb Over Four Points

NEW YORK, March 24 (Canadian Press).—General Motors, climbing 4 5-8 points to a new high record at 191 7-8, led another sharp upturn in prices in to-day's stock market. Heavy week-end profit-taking sales cut down some of the earlier gains which ran from one to ten points and sent a scattering of issues below yesterday's final quotations. The day sales ran over 2,000,000 shares.

The buying in General Motors undoubtedly received impetus from the prediction of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Finance Committee, that first quarter earnings would average $4 a share on the common stock and that the half-year's earnings would reach $9 a share. Except for further withdrawal of $3,000,000 in gold for export to South America, there were no financial or business developments of importance during the day.

Brazilian Issues Lead Active Toronto Market

TORONTO, Mar. 24.— (Canadian Press.) — Brazilian issues were the strong leaders in an active and firm market on the Toronto stock exchange this morning. Brazilian common advanced four at 214 and the new and rights improved fractionally. Changes elsewhere were generally small. Nickel held steady around 94, Industrial Alcohol was slightly higher at 42½, and Page Hersey appreciated a little at 92. Alberta Pacific grain sold more than a point higher to 62½. Great West Saddlery, the unlisted leader, advanced a point to 28 and British American Oil at 37¾ and International Petroleum at 38 were fractionaly better. Walkers was unchanged at 63¾. Canada Dredge was active around 37.

Prospects Of Rain Cause Drop In Wheat

CHICAGO, May 24. Canadian Press. — Owing largely to a forecast of unsettled weather southwest, indicating the likelihood of an improved moisture supply, wheat prices averaged lower early to-day. Deferred deliveries proved most responsive to the better outlook and went to a wider discount under May, opening 1-8c to 5-8c decline, wheat kept near to the initial ranges. Corn, oats and provisions were also easier, corn starting 1-8c to ½c off and subsequently undergoing e . additional sag.

The opening prices were: Wheat, March, 139½, May 139 1-8; corn, March, 96¾; May 99 1-4; oats unquoted, May 56 5-8.

S-4 TAKEN TO NAVY YARD

This illustration shows the United States submarine S-4 as it appeared at Boston navy yard, where it was towed after being raised. The flag was put at half mast in memory of the crew who perished when the ship was rammed and sunk three months ago by the destroyer Paulding. Recently for the first time the air within was sufficiently cleared to enable a naval board to make its first inspection, which revealed a graphic story of the men's fight to remain alive while rescuers above sought frantically to extend succor. In the opinion of one expert the craft would not have been rammed had it been travelling one foot lower.

ART TRAINING IS AVAILABLE

School in Montreal Charges No Fees—Graduates Allowed To Teach.

FOR QUEBEC YOUTH.

MONTREAL, March 24.—(Canadian Press)—During the present winter the pupils to complete courses at L'Ecole des Beaux Arts, the Province of Quebec's art school at Montreal, will graduate and receive diplomas of authority to teach drawing. This school, which has, since its inception four years ago, maintained close contact with L'Ecole des Beaux Arts, of Paris, charges no fees, thus making art trainig available to any person in the province over the age of 14.

Commercial and practical aspects of the decorative arts are stressed, design in woodwork and wrought iron, modelling and wall decoration receiving particular attention. A five-year course in architecture which is a special feature is reputed of the best in Canada.

Because of its youth the school has as yet no alumni, but many of its pupils have won honors in exhibitions of paintings and drawings, while others have secured important commercial assignments through the recommendation of their instructors.

A much coveted honor open to the pupils each year is le Prix d'Europe, awarded by the Quebec government. This scholarship entitles the holder to two years study in Paris.

Landscape painting receives scant attention at l'Ecole des Beaux Arts, but portrait work, still life and drawing from the antique and from life, are thoroughly taught, according to Parisian academic standards.

When, on the representation of the Hon. Athanase David, provincial secretary, the government decided to establish an art school, it turned to Paris for the men fitted to direct such an institution. Emmanuel Fougeret, a French painter of high academic distinction and a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, was brought over as director. With him was imported a staff trained in the same artistic traditions. Since then the Parisian atmosphere has prevailed, manifesting itself not only in the methods of instruction, but in the paintings and sculpture which decorate the school building, all of which are the works of French masters.

Two years ago M. Fougeret was succeeded by Charles Maillard, under whose direction the school has made rapid progress. A fact which frequently handicaps an ambitious minority of the student body, made up of foreign-born and English Canadians, is that the French language is almost entirely employed in tuition.

During its brief life l'Ecole des Beaux Arts has supplied art training to hundreds of men and women, of all ages and from all parts of the province. It is attracting an increasing number of pupils from the far distant rural districts and when its next term commences in October it is expected that its enrolment will exceed 500. A course of lectures on "The History of Art", to which the general public is invited, constitutes a prominent feature of this government experiment in the propagation of culture.

GOLD IN SAND AT BRICKYARD

Prospector Believes Ground in Part of Fort William is Rich.

FINE GOLD FOUND.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., March 23. —Additional evidence that the authenticated discovery of alluvial gold in a local brickyard may lead to something of importance, is seen in the results of the activities of a local prospector, John Lee. Last summer small nuggets of gold were found in the sand and clay of a brickyard here, following which the discovery was visited by Dr. T. L. Tanton, of the Dominion Geological Survey.

This week Lee, who is an old-time prospector, visited the excavations being made to install drainage at the new Patterson elevator and took samples from the sand which lie on top of a heavier clay bed. He panned the sand and secured a fine show of native gold in the tailings, it is declared. Lee says that a small pan of dirt produced a long tail of gold which he left in the possession of the contractor, Frank Stewardson.

The prospector also went to the Piper brickyard and picked out some of the frozen sand on a similar stratum of clay to that found at the elevator. This he panned, with results equalling the former showings. On this test the gold was found in a fine state and not in the form of small nuggets as was the case with the gold found last summer. Lee is of the opinion that the ground at the brickyard is very rich.

MUSEUM NEARS COMPLETION

With the expected early opening of the electrical section, the Deutches Museum in Munich, Germany, one of the most unique in the world, will be complete. The institution has been under improvement for years, but has never been opened in its entirety. The display of aeronautics, radio, photography, telephones and telegraph instruments has been finished, and is declared to be among the most comprehensive ever gathered. Plans for replacing the planetarium with a larger one are being considered. Among the unique displays are a "life-size" coal mine, a transportation section including the fairy carriage with the gold crown and swans in which mad King Louis of Bavaria used to take his weird moonlight gallops, and a music exhibit where organ recitals are given.

GOOD ORATORY IN WEST DURHAM

Boys and Girls Speak Well in District Contest.

A very successful Junior Public Speaking Contest was held in Orono, on Tuesday evening, March 20th, for farm boys and girls in West Durham under the auspices of the Junior Farmers and J. Y. Kellough, Agricultural Representative. Five boys and girls gave speeches which Dr. J. B. Reynolds, President of the O.A.C., declared to be the equal of any that he had heard in his twenty-five years of experience at similar contests. The judges of the contest were Dr. J. B. Reynolds, O.A.C., Guelph; Dr. T. J. Daley, Port Hope, and W. B. Reynolds, B.S.A., Port Hope.

Miss Ella Tamblyn, of Orono, won first prize in the contest for girls and also the handsome silver cup for the best speech of the evening. Her topic was "Reforestation and Value of Our Forests." Second in the girls contest went to Miss Lillian Clemence, Newcastle, on an excellent speech on "The History of Agriculture."

In the boys competition first place went to Norman Hogg when he gave a splendid address on "The Junior Farmer in Ontario." Jack Payne, of Pontypool, was second in the boys section on "Our Duty as Citizens", while Gordon Ashton, of Newcastle, was third with the topic "Beautification of Farm Homes." The judges had a very difficult time deciding the winner of the cup, as the speeches of the two girls and the winner in the boys' contest were very close. Dr. Reynolds and Dr. Daley gave some very useful pointers to the contestants.

Another interesting number on the program was the presentation to Howard Cryderman of a book won by him on an essay written on his trip to the Royal Show, Toronto, 1927, he being one of the 500 boys to win a free trip to the Royal in the Junior Farmers Judging Competition.

Agricultural Representative J. Y. Kellough, Port Hope, expressed himself as being delighted with the excellence of the contest and hopes to repeat it next year when a greater number of boys and girls will avail themselves of this opportunity to increase their knowledge and usefulness as citizens.

SEATTLE GIRL MARRIES INDIAN PRINCE

HOLLINGER VICTIMS

he considered the matter outside his province unless specifically directed to him.

John Knox thought the system had been accepted as part of the Hollinger method and its abuse apparently grew because it was nobody's business. Mr. Williams said it was like a lot of other things, in it that it started all right, went so far and then slipped. The responsibility would start with the man immediately in charge and "kicks right back to me." V. H. Emery, mine superintendent, again told how he and Mr. Williams had devised the system of diluting debris with rock waste. He, too, knew of no stope that had gone down since the fire. Mr. Brigham put debris dumping in the same category as unsafe practices such as hanging rock, which he did not consider a matter for himself to deal with.

SERMON ON ST. PATRICK.

Rev. W. J. Creighton, Lakefield, Tells of Missionary Endeavours.

LAKEFIELD, March 24—Rev. W. J. Creighton preached on St. Patrick on Sunday, who was an important figure in the establishment of Christianity in the British Isles. Born in Scotland, St. Patrick was taken prisoner when a lad by Irish pirates who carried him off to Ireland, then a pagan land. When he made his escape he went to Gaul (France) and studied in one of their famous schools, was ordained and returned to Ireland where he became a missionary and won the entire island to Christianity. One of his followers, St. Columba, went to Scotland and established a monastery on the island of Iona, from which missionaries went out to Scotland and England.

MINING CANADIAN ASBESTOS.

The productive deposits of asbestos in the Eastern Townships of Quebec are worked in open pits; and the best grades of long fibre material, known as "crude" are handcobbed to separate them from the rock: but to recover the crude short-fibre asbestos from the smaller veins the rock is crushed and the fibre separated mechanically by elaborate processes in large mills.

CANADIAN TREE SPECIES.

In Canada there are approximately 150 different species and varieties of plants reaching tree size. Only 31 of these are coniferous, but the wood of these forms 95 per cent. of our forest products, anod the trees themselves cover even a larger proportion ofour potential forest area.

First comes CHRYSLER "72"

.....all others trail

Chrysler "72" performance makes all other performance in its field seem as out-of-date as last year's license plates. All you have to do is to ride in a "72," and drive it to appreciate the difference.

Only Chrysler's great engineering staff and precision manufacturing organization could have developed 75 smooth horse power from an engine of such moderate size.

You can, at will, do 72 miles an hour and more—velvety, easy miles—due to this unique and vibrationless engine with counterweighted seven-bearing crankshaft.

It takes mountain grades at constant acceleration. In traffic, the "72" flashes to the fore with characteristic Chrysler get-away.

Go to any Chrysler salesroom and ask for a "72" demonstration. Drive the car where and as you will. Demonstration will prove to you just how much better the "72" performs.

ILLUSTRIOUS NEW CHRYSLER "72"—Two-passenger Coupe (with rumble seat), $2275; Sport Roadster (with rumble seat), $2300; Royal Sedan, $2350; Four-passenger Coupe, $2350; Town Sedan, $2550; Convertible Coupe (with rumble seat), $2575; Crown Sedan, $2650. All prices for delivery in Peterboro, and include two Bumpers, Spare Tire and Cover, and License.

New Chrysler "Red-Head" Engine—designed to take full advantage of high-compression gas, giving 12% greater torque with greater speed, power and hill-climbing ability; standard equipment on all body models of the 112 h. p. Imperial "80," also standard on the roadsters, and available at slight extra cost for other body types, of the "62" and "72."

"Eggshell"--An Enchanting New Color

Fashion has dealt bountifully in loveliness this Spring. Perhaps one of the fairest of her offerings is a new color, "Eggshell". Pale, delicate, unobtrusive, it is almost lost in the kaleidoscope of gay, bold weaves and prints. But set apart and viewed alone its subtle beauty fairly takes one's breath.

A dress of it is fittingly simple in design and fashioned of soft, sheer flat crepe. In two pieces the top has the still-favored V-neck, and a graceful scarf. Embroidery in pale gold and ivory at waist and cuff are the only decoration. The skirt is cut to fit snugly at the hip, and uses pleats in front to accentuate this effect. Size 34. Price $35.00

SPRING CLEANING

Already the housewives are planning for their spring housecleaning. No matter how careful the housekeeper is in her care of the house and its daily cleaning, it seems necessary to have a general, thorough, housecleaning every so often.

The body is sometimes referred to as the house we live in, but it is a self-adjusting household to a large extent.

The blood traveling around through the arteries, capillaries, and veins carries the nutriment to the little individual cells of the body, and also carries away the waste.

The nervous system, the muscular system, and the bony structure are like servants in the body with their own work to do, each one more or less dependent upon the other, but in health working together in harmony for the greatest good to the whole body. It should not be necessary for the body to have any definite time for housecleaning, as the functions of the body are so arranged that assimilation and elimination should be properly balanced; but, because of errors in living, unsanitary surroundings, overwork, and a multitude of other causes, the average person is found to be suffering from some one or more disorders which come because the body, for some reason, is not able to keep itself clean.

There is great hope that in the future men will live so carefully that there will be a proper balance and coordination between all of the bodily functions. Man will then live in health much longer than he does today.

But there is so much to be known, and we must admit that we know so little today about the care of the body!

As we are experimenting with our health problems, sometimes getting results and sometimes finding we are making mistakes, would it not be wise to occasionally use some simple measures which will bring about a good bodily housecleaning and so help all of the bodily forces to a new start? This may seem to the reader to be a sensible idea. But just when are you going to start following this plan?

You made good resolutions on New Year's Day. Suppose you start this very day, which is the "first day of spring" and follow a careful regime for the next few days which will give your body a chance to eliminate accumulated bodily toxins.

No, I don't mean tomorrow—or next week—but TODAY!

As the Scriptures say, "Now is the accepted time; now is the day of salvation!"

Let's all miss our next regular meal and take instead a meal of some one kind of fruit, such as oranges, apples, pineapple, or perhaps grapejuice. Then let's continue missing our regular meals for several days and just substitute fruit for each meal.

When taking this fruit diet the body has a better chance to throw out accumulated wastes while not burdened with the work of assimilating food. Four or five days of the fruit diet will bring about very remarkable changes. Even though you appear to be in good health today, you do not know how good you CAN feel after a few days of such restricted dieting. Your step will become more elastic, your mind clearer, and those who have annoying aches and pains will find these symptoms will disappear like magic.

You can take a laxative to help matters along, but I would advise you to use one or two enemas a day in place of any cathartic or laxative, as the results will be much better.

After a few days of the fruit fast, start following the menus published in this column. If you have any particular ailment which still persists, write to me and ask for a special treatise on that trouble and I will be glad to mail it to you.

Questions and Answers.

Question Mrs. S. F. asks "Should one take medicine containing strychnine if the heart is fast, painful and jumpy, or is it only for slow hearts?"

Answer Strychnine is usually given to enervated patients with slow pulses. When the heart is fast, painful and jumpy, it is usually because of overeating or gas pressure against the heart at that particular time.

Question J. K. asks "Is it true that we should not combine starches with fruit or acids? What effect does it have on the body?

Answer Starches digest with less trouble if no fruits or sugars are used at the same meal. This is a proven fact, no matter what theories are formulated to account for it. The simple reason seems to be that starches are digested in an alkaline medium, and that fruits and sugars only stimulate more of the acid digestive fluids of the stomach. This certainly cannot assist in the digesting of starches, and appears to interfere with it.

Question Anxious asks "Are ——— prescription tablets injurious? If not, would it be harmful to take four tablets per day? What is there in them to reduce one? If they are harmful, can you give a prescription not injurious to reduce one?"

Answer I do not recommend any medicinal preparations in this column, but can assure you that so far as I know there are no reducing pills which are harmless. Perhaps the least harmful ones are those which are only laxatives. The simple, safe plan is to reduce through diet and exercise.

COW ROUTS SATURDAY BUYERS

Saturday night business in Ballymarcarriett, Ireland, was nearly discontinued by the raid of a frightened cow that knocked down several people, including a policeman, and injured one woman so severely that she is in a hospital. The cow broke away from a herd which was being driven from market. Several people tried to stop her but only added to her terror. As she ran through the streets crowds fled before her. Men, women and children were knocked down by the animal, the policeman being injured when he tried to stop her flight. Several received hospital treatment, Mary Smith being detained there because of internal injuries. The exhausted bossy was captured at the outskirts of the city after it had joined another herd.

DENIES ENGAGEMENT.

Prince Eitel Friedrich, second son of former Kaiser Wilhelm, is reported to be engaged to the wealthy widow of Joseph Schwartz, famous baritone and one-time Metropolitan opera star. Her proposed marriage to Eitel would be Frau Schwartz's fourth. She is 52 years old and is one of Germany's wealthiest women. Prince Eitel is 45 years old.

PRECIOUS STONES PAVE ROAD.

What is declared to be the most costly blunder in the world has been revealed in the Russian town of Swerdlovsk. Nearly $2,500,000 worth of precious stones have been used in road making there. The lot was bought for an equivalent of $80. Huge blocks of jasper were buried in the ground, while beautiful green malachite, topaz and even jade were crushed to use in the paving. The mistake is said to be similar to that at Kimberley, South Africa, when the streets of the city were first paved. The blue clay used there contained diamonds, and when the mistake was discovered it was carefully scraped up and washed. More than $5,000,000 worth of gems, some as big as hazel nuts, were recovered. The timely discovery made this blunder less costly than that in Russia.

MOST POLITE CHILDREN FOUND

Barnack, a village of 538 people, claims that its children are the most polite in all England. The annual contest to decide who are the best mannered has just been held. It was conducted by Robert E. Clarke, son of a former village blacksmith there and who became an "old boy" of Barnack School. He presented a newly-minted sixpence to each of six girls and six boys who were selected by their schoolfellows as being worthy of the title "Nature's ladies and gentlemen." To help the children in making a wise choice the headmaster annually addresses them on the true characteristics of a lady and a gentleman. The candidates' general behavior and manners throughout the year are taken into consideration. The honor of being a successful candidate is considered as attractive as the sixpence.

One Box Relieved Terrible Backache

Dodd's Kidney Pills were Recommended by Friend

"I suffered with Rheumatism and very bad Backache when a friend advised me to take Dodd's Kidney Pills," writes Mrs. G. S. Freeze of Annidale, Queen's Co., N.B. "My Mother had used lots of them with good results, I tried them and found improvement after half a box. Before I had taken a full box I was better."

When you have Backache it is often a timely warning that the kidneys are not working as they should. Do not delay, but make and keep the body healthy by using Dodd's Kidney Pills. For over a third of a century they have been highly recommended as the best treatment for ailing Kidneys.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE WHITE BEAR

Crouching down amid the green leaves and clusters of purple grapes in the Italian vineyard, Uncle Wiggily, Baby Bunty and Vallie waited and listened to see what was going to happen next. They had run away from the Wolf, as I told you in the story before this, leaving the Bad Chap with his paws caught in the leather loops of the accordion.

"We are having lots of adventures, aren't we, Unkie Wig?" whispered Bunty to him as she nestled close beside him.

"Indeed we are," answered Mr. Longears. "We get blown to Holland on a runaway kite and after we see the windmills and Dutch cheeses the cow kindly tosses us through the air back home."

"But we aren't home yet," said Vallie, which was true enough. For the Dutch cow didn't toss the three rabbits far enough and they dropped into Italy instead of landing in Woodland, near the Orange Ice Mountains, where Uncle Wiggily had his hollow stump bungalow. Then had come the fall into the field of drying macaroni, the finding of the accordion and the arrival of the Wolf.

All of a sudden, as the bunnies hid behind the vines and when Vallie and Bunty were eating some of the sweet, purple grapes, there was a rustling of the leaves.

"Here comes the Wolf!" whispered Bunty. Uncle Wiggily was wondering what trick he could play next on the Bad Chap when a pleasant voice called

"Ah, there you are! Now come with me!"

It was the kind Italian rabbit, with the green rooster feathers in his hat. He had gone to look for a burrow for Uncle Wiggily.

"I'm so glad you aren't the Wolf!" said Mr. Longears.

"So am I," answered the Italian rabbit with a smile. "But what do you mean? Is it a crossword puzzle?"

"The Wolf was cross enough without any puzzle," said Baby Bunty.

Then they told the kind rabbit what had happened and he said it served the Wolf right to have his paws caught in the accordion straps.

"But I have found a fine burrow, near mine, where you may live while you are visiting Italy," went on the kind rabbit. "So come with me before anything more happens."

The four of them hopped through many rows of grape vines on the slope of a sunny hill. Never had Uncle Wiggily seen so much sun and so many grapes in his life. The vines grew all over the hills.

"What do the Italians do with so many grapes?" asked Mr. Longears.

"They press out the purple juice and drink it with their macaroni and cheese," answered the Italian rabbit. "And very good it seems to be for them, too. The Italians are always, it seems, singing, playing music or drinking grape juice and eating macaroni and cheese."

"I am glad they are happy," said Uncle Wiggily. "You must look around you," he said to Vallie and Bunty, "and remember as much as you can, to tell the other little bunnies, when we get back home, what you saw in Holland and Italy."

"We shall," promised Baby Bunty

"The burrow needs to be made a little larger."

and Vallie, as they hopped along eating grapes. No one seemed to mind. The men and women who owned the vines were not there. They were waiting for the sun to make the grapes riper before the picking would begin.

Following the Italian rabbit, Uncle Wiggily and the two little bunnies came to a hill, near a wood. In the hill the Italian rabbit had his home, or underground burrow, and near him was another hole in which, he said, Uncle Wiggily could stay with Vallie and Bunny.

"But the burrow needs to be made a little larger," said Uncle Wiggily as he hopped in. "I will soon dig it out," he added and he began to make the dirt fly with his paws.

But all of a sudden Bunty, who had hopped toward the back end of the burrow came rushing back crying.

"Oh, look what's in there! A big, white bear! Oh, we'd better get out of this burrow. A white bear is worse than a Wolf."

"Not if it is my friend, Mr. Whitewash, the Polar bear," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll go take a look." He hopped toward the back of the burrow and what he found I'll tell you about tomorrow night. Then, if the toasted cheese doesn't go swimming in the can of tomatoe juice I'll write for you soon a story about Uncle Wiggily and the water streets.

CHINESE FAMILIES UNITED

Two outstanding families of Chinese aristocracy were united in Ottawa, when Miss Phillis W. J. Lin, daughter of the late Lin Chang Min, former prominent statesman and soldier, was married to Shih-Cheng Liang, son of Liang Chi-Chao, noted scholar, reformer and jurist. The principals of the wedding are graduates of the University of Pennsylvania and the girl took a post-graduate course in dramatic art at Yale and the groom a post-graduate course in architecture at Harvard. After the wedding they left to continue their studies in Europe and then will return to China where the groom has a commission at the National Museum of Pekin. He is a brother of Mrs. Chow, wife of the Chinese consul general at Ottawa. The picture shows the bride and groom.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1928.

Good and evil planetary influences are active today, according to astrology, but the benefic aspects strongly dominate.

Women today are subject to a fortunate direction of the stars, making for success in public affairs as well as happiness in the domestic circle.

This should be a lucky wedding day, for the stars indicate financial progress and long life.

While bankers are supposed to be soft-hearted today, it is wise not to seek loans while this configuration prevails.

Banks are warned by the seers that they should beware of real estate investments, for there is to be trouble through lands for one big institution.

Theatres should benefit from this positing of the stars which seems to offer them big successes.

New stage stars will rise, but they will dazzle few, because they will belong to a less lofty plane than those whose names are now cherished by the whole wordl.

Chicago at this time is subject to a rule of the stars making for business development and enormous projects that will arouse world envy.

The eclipse of the Sun, May 19, is an event of interest to the astrologers of all ages and countries, for it will be of portentous power.

Epidemics may sweep certain parts of the world and sickness will be general, astrologers announce.

In Russia the Soviet is to adopt a more intensive plan of presenting propaganda, it is reported.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a fair year, but they should avoid obstinacy.

Children born on this day may be easily spoiled. Many big opportunities come to the subject of this sign.

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

SUNDAY, MARCH 25, 1928.

This is an unfortunate day in planetary direction, according to astrology. Adverse aspects rule strongly.

It is a day particularly dedicated to strife and dissensions may be most frequent.

The signs are menacing for legislatures and for Congress because bitter controversies are indicated.

Consciousness of personal ambitions is strong while this rule prevails and lawmakers may place their own purposes above the public weal, unless they are of stable principles.

Neptune is in a place making for criticism of religious tenets and unresponsiveness to sermons.

This is rather an ominous direction of the stars for lovers and they will be happier if they defer the usual Sunday visits.

This is pre-eminently a day for rest and recreation as well as churchgoing and care should be taken to dispel every critical or discontented thought.

There is a good sign for the wearing of new clothing and they who are wise will make the most of opportunities to look well.

Feminine beauty is to be even more desirable in the future than it is at present, for the younger generation is to set a new standard of perfection in this country.

If the stars are rightly read, Americans are to attain in physique a proportion and a beauty not equaled even by the Greeks.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid all important changes in the coming year.

Children born on this day may have a strong scientific trend. Many subjects of this sign make a success in research work.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

No wonder they call it the 1880 silhouette—for though it is unmistakably modern it does strongly suggest the type of costumes worn in the days of Du Maurier. The frock is of stiff black satin made with a bustle at the back that ends in two points hanging almost to the heels.

Just as we have adjusted ourselves to the flat-as-possible line at the back and have accustomed ourselves to seeing all the trimming of a skirt arranged at the front, a number of the influential French dressmakers have decided that the time is ripe for an 1880 revival. And in 1880 anything suggesting flatness at the back was considered out of the question entirely. Frocks were made with all the fullness bunched up at the back and to make sure that the bunch would be permanent bustles were worn.

No one suggests bustles at present, though some of the dressmakers may have that as a surprise to spring upon us before long, but many of the frocks displayed—and some of them have been worn with very smart effect by women of fashion—show a real bustle effect.

Premet's new silhouette while not usually showing an actual bustle effect is characterized by considerable fullness at the back with the dipping down at the front that is also reminiscent of 1880. Sometimes the back of the skirt shows a series of gathered tiers while the front of the skirt is smooth save for the curved drapery produced by the drawing up toward the back—also characteristic of 1880!

Another detail inspired by the mode of the same epoch is the use of narrow ruffles around the skirt that mount upward toward the back.

One good turn deserves another and there are other details of this period that might find favor with women who yearn for a real change in fashions. The curled bang, for instance—with the back hair drawn back and arranged in a neat, close chignon.

BRIDGE COATS.

New are the dainty bridge coats that top lace slips. A coral velvet bridge coat, of coolie coat cut, has gold thread embroidery and gold fringe.

GROSGRAIN WING.

Black smartness is achieved on a white ballibunti mushroom hat by a wing fashioned of wired grosgrain ribbon.

HALF-'N-HALF.

For novelty, a rough straw hat in natural straw has the smoothest of felt for one whole half of it, the dividing line running through the centre front and back.

FOUR-PIECE.

The four-piece ensemble is gaining in popularity. A grey tweed skirt, cardigan and top-coat has a grey and green zig-zag striped angora jumper.

JERSEY SUIT.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

WHOM HEAVEN HATH BLESSED

"Whom heaven hath so greatly blessed"—
I thought the preacher meant the rich.
I never thought about the rest,
That men who dig and women who stitch,
Who had so little, much possessed.

And then one day the Captain came,
The man who owns these metes and bounds—
Why, half this town is in his name.
I'm just the man who 'tends his grounds,
But he has millions, so they claim.

We talked (we both are getting old),
And, when you're getting old, you do.
Rags then don't mean as much to gold,
And gold don't mean as much to gold,
And so we sat and tales we told.

We talked of what? About his son,
The catcher of his college nine,
About his girl, the youngest one,
And then he asked me after mine.
I told him well they both had done.

His health was fine, he still could hike
Ten miles a day, as well as me.
Whatever subject we might strike
I soon could very plainly see
The Lord had blessed us much alike.

I found the riches he possessed
Were very much the same as mine.
And so I wondered why the rest
Should ever sit around and whine,
Whom heaven hath so greatly blessed.

TO SAVE HISTORIC BELLS

Derry Cathedral's historic bells are to be re-hung and re-cast if a plan just launched for financing their repair is successful. Those interested in restoring these, the oldest bells in Ireland, believe that the work will be completed by 1933, when the three-hundredth anniversary of the cathedral will be held. The "youngest" of the bells was given by the citizens of Derry in 1671, and the oldest was re-cast for the cathedral in 1614. Five were given by King Charles in 1638. All are out of tune, and the bell ringers continue their tasks in fear. One bell, weighing 1200 pounds, fell just before Christmas, breaking the wheels of its neighbor and itself. Another is in such condition that it requires three men to ring it; and the mountings of still others are cracked.

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction without starvation diet or burdensome exercise, often at a very rapid rate and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and in such proportion as in my opinion will produce not only a loss of weight without harm and an improvement in health, but with it an alleviation of all of the troublesome symptoms which frequently accompany and often are a direct result of overstoutness, such as shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Stout persons suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which come as a result of the loss of superfluous fat.

If you are overstout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

GUNNERS DEFEAT WESTERNERS HOLDING ONE GOAL ADVANTAGE IN SPITE OF STRONG ATTACKS

Ottawa Team Holds March, Regina Star, Spoiling Monarch's Effectiveness.

STRONG ON DEFENCE.

Railing System of Attack Used By Eastern Team Proves Its Value.

TORONTO, March 24. — Ottawa Gunners battled their way out of the shadows of the Valley of Defeat which clung so closely about them after their set back in the first game of the Memorial Cup series, and forced their way on even terms with Regina Monarchs by winning the second game last night by 2 to 1. Gunners' victory was as unexpected as it was decisive and now the teams must meet in the third game on Monday night at the Arena Gardens and it would be a hardy person who would predict that the junior championship will remain in the East or the West for the remainder of this surprising hockey year of 1928.

Few conceded Gunners the ability to force the series into three games. Even after two periods of last night's game had given them a one-goal lead and a well defined margin on the play the non-partizan students of the pastime eyed askance the readjusted odds of two to one. Before the game the wise men of wagering ways thought the Lochinvars of the western reaches powerful enough to turn the trick again, and backed their judgment to the extent of three to one. When the final bell rang, they were a sadly disillusioned lot, and they wended their way out of the Varsity Arena with much more respect for the ability of the Gallant Gunners.

Hard to Figure.

A peculiar team, these Gunners from the Capital. They cannot be said to have color nor would one attribute them at first glance with possessing more effectiveness than, let us say, Marlboros or Newmarket or St. Michael's. But they beat the Dukes, and the Dukes beat the Irish and the North York clan in turn.

What have they? Their strength lies not in their attack. Rather Gunners play a style which provides ruggedness, courage and a desperate clinging defensive system which smothers the most brilliant attacking efforts, and like their big brothers, the Ottawa Senators, takes every opportunity of the scoring "breaks."

Last night they wore down the Monarch's edge on speed and saw to it that Harold March, the West's most dangerous scoring threat, was well watched. March was the target of at least two checks, and most of the time three men, whenever he touched the puck. He was jolted, and jarred and skated out of the danger zone from the first going to the last, and with one exception the Gunners performed their "shadowing" duties mighty well. The lone lapse came in the second period when the Monarch right wing snapped the rubber from the face-off after the first Gunner goal and drilled it straight and true into the twine to equalize the score.

March Checked Closely

With March held in submission the Monarchs' offensive strength was sadly weakened and Gunners' plugging tactics turned the tide of victory eastward. The Ottawa thrusts for the most part sent the puck-carrier sifting into the Monarch defence with two men trailing on the wings alert for the lapse which was bound to come. At other times they opened a long range bombardment on the Western citadel and followed in fast to check the Regina players behind their net. Gunners' first goal came from a melee behind the goal and the second on a long shot from the blue line.

Border Cities' Skaters Prepare For Carnival

WINDSOR, Ont., March 24.—(Canadian Press).—Members of the Border Cities Skating Club have been busy of late with rehearsals and preparing costumes in preparation for the annual carnival, which is to take place in the Border Cities Arena on Saturday, March 31.

With a mirror of ice for the village green and a setting of flowers and dozens of costumed skaters for villagers, children and rats, the Club will present a skating version of the classic fable of the Pied Piper of Hamlin. With sedate dignity and measured stroke the village elders set the bounds of this fairy land commons with rows and borders of fabulous flowers. Skating rats scurry about engaged in games and races to the consternation of the elders and the delight of the spectators. Another event will be the sophisticated adventures of a young lady of fashion while out driving behind a spanking team of horses shod with steel skates.

DISTRIBUTION OF OUR WATER POWER.

The full measure of the value of water power to Canada cannot be gathered from statistics alone. Its outstanding value lies in the comparatively even distribution from coast to coast of ample power that can be economically applied to industrial and agricultural requirements, rather than in the impressive total amount of the power available in the whole Dominion.

GOOD OPTION LIST OFFERED MEMBERS

Horticultural Society Sends Out Fine List to Prespective Members.

It looks like Rose Year for the Horticultural Society. Their spring option list, just out, is decorated with a handsome red rose, and gives one the idea that the society is right up-to-date and starting the year with cheerful confidence. A closer scrutiny of the list reveals a splendid selection of flowers, bulbs, shrubs and roses, both hardy, perennials and tender annuals. So many desirable things are offered to the member who pays his dollar, that it is hard to decide on what to choose. This year we note that instead of 2 peonies, one only is offered, and the secretary explains that the peony this year is to be a choice one, valued at least as high as 75 cents, and the choice of colors left to the member, red, pink, or white. A stamped card accompanies the list, which the prospective member is asked to fill out and mail at once, in order to give the option committee an immediate idea of what will be wanted and to arrange for its purchase and prompt delivery. The delivery in fresh growing conditions is to be a feature that will be in capable hands and bring the plants, bulbs, shrubs, or whatever is selected to the member in good time for the spring planting. Prominence is also given to the junior members movement. For a fee of 10 cents each, junior receives a button, and a package of flower or vegetable seeds with additional packages at 5 cents each. There are prizes for every class of seeds given, and the youthful gardeners will have the pleasure of seeing their products in competition at the Big Fair in the fall.

The juniors are also expected to live up to the set of rules which provides for having a greater respect for private property, not walking on lawns, cutting corners across people's lawns, summer or winter and generally helping make Peterborough beautiful.

HEENEY WANTS FUGAZY TO GET HIM TITLE BOUT

Developments Along Fistic Rialto Indicate Rickard is Losing Heavyweight "Trust."

MOGULS POSTPONE ACTION.

Rickard Decided To Postpone Heavyweigeht Championship Bout Until September.

NEW YORK, March 24.—When managers and promoters fall out, the man on the street falls in. They were falling out of one alliance into another all day, and a large quantity of confidential information became public property.

Starting with the discovery that Charley Harvey, manager of Tom Heeney, has broken with Tex Rickard, one sensation followed another. In order of their importance the developments are:

Tex Rickard has decided to postpone the heavyweight championship fight until September.

Harvey, convinced that Rickard intends to ignore Heeney, has been negotiating with an English syndicate headed by Charles Cochran, and is also dickering with Humbert Fugazy.

Jim Mullen, Chicago promoter, has summoned Fugazy to Chicago on a "very, very important" mission. They may combine in an effort to lure Tunney from Rickard.

The heavyweight "trust", as Rickard's list of preferred heavyweights are called, has exploded. Jack Sharkey, Paulino Uzcudum, Knute Hansen, George Godfrey and Heeney are all flirting with Fugazy.

Rickard is so discouraged over the poor prospects that he offered to forfeit $100,000 to Tunney if the champion would release him from his contract, Harvey told Fugazy. Tunney refused.

And last, but not least, Rickard again has opened negotiations with Dempsey, as he is convinced the Man Mauler is the only contender who would make a "century" battle come true at the box office.

No Fight in July.

Rickard has not the slightest intention of staging a Tunney match in July. The writer learned this from a thoroughly reliable source recently. Rickard himself has divulged his plans to a few close associates. Even when he made the July date announcement a few days ago he had no idea of living up to it.

If he could name an opponent by the early part of July he could just as readily find one for the latter part of June. The trouble is that there are no million-dollar opponents, save only Dempsey. Rickard intended to use Sharkey, but the Boston Bust fell down miserably in the eliminations. Rickard still regards Sharkey as the best opponent, but he realizes the public has lost faith in him.

The writer's informant declared the worried promoter has resumed negotiations with Dempsey. He is by no means confident of success. If Dempsey is not sincere in his retirement announcement Tex fears the move was the forerunner of a stickup. Jack may want a bigger slice than he got last year. It will ruin Tex if Dempsey doesn't fight, and it may ruin him if he does.

The whole story leaked out when Harvey was discovered exchanging whispers in Fugazy's private office. Harvey has reached the conclusion that Rickard is bouncing him around, and Harvey is not far wrong. Rickard has no intention of using Tom Heeney. He does not think "Honest Tom" has the necessary color.

Heavyweight List Increased.

NEW YORK, March 24. Canadian Press. — While the New York State Athletic Commission yesterday delayed whatever drastic action it may have in mind on Gene Tunney's failure definitely to accept one of the challengers on the commission's list, the acorn of aspirants for a shot at the heavyweight crown grew to a sturdy oak. The list was increased from three to seven at yesterday's meeting with the prospect that additional delay in handling Tunney's case may give the rest of the heavyweight clan time to rally round.

The fistic fathers received and added to the list of challengers of George Godfrey, Paulino Uzcudun, Jack Delaney and Phil Scott, British champion. The "first division" already is composed of Jack Sharkey, Tom Heeney and Johnny Risko.

Postpone Action.

Presumably to allow more time for consideration or possible communication with Tunney, the commission tabled until next Tuesday any action on the champion's status. Tunney's ignoring a request to specify his selection of the leading three challengers, had advised the solons of his contract with Tex Rickard to fight any opponent the promoter selects. The six months' period of grace allowed a champion after defending his crown expired Thursday for Tunney.

The commission also is understood to avoid any recurrence of the tangles that resulted in shifting the first Dempsey-Tunney title bout to Philadelphia, and the second to Chicago. There has been no championship fight in New York since Dempsey knocked out Luis Firpo in 1923.

Tunney is not expected to listen to any request of the commission to be more specific about his next fight, especially as the belief is now growing that Rickard's postponement of the title fight to July is merely the forerunner of a second postponement until September, when Dempsey may be persuaded to take his third crack at the scholar of Greenwich Village.

In accepting four new contenders, the commission refused to take forfeit checks and placed their names on the list without attempt at ranking. A match between Scott and Paulino as an aid to the elimination process was suggested. Both agreed to the match during Scott's first invasion of America, but the bout fell through. Paulino since has refused to fight the Englishman.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By a Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, this ain't been the choicest O.h.a. season—not by a mile it ain't. Here is the O.h.a. teams outa the running in the Canadian championship serious, and you gotta admit it looks kinda funny to see the big organization not represented in the sr. or jr. finals, or both. Anyway, it ain't a bad thing for the game to have the honors passed around. Amateur hockey has the pros to battle with, and it's just as well to keep interest in the Simon-pures' keen by having the titles distributed round a bit. The Toronto Marlboros looked good enough to hold the jr. flag, but the young Dukes what has been suffering all season from swollen domes made the mistake of taking that Ottawa gang too cheap, and when they woke up the lights was out, and so was they. And, strange to say, most Ont. fans didn't lose no sleep over the Marlboros' crash neither.

I suppose you're getting all excited over the pro playoffs, Mac. Somebody asked me to pick a winner, but you know me, Al.; if I was to try to guess which would win in a race between Capt. Campbell and a bird driving a 1918 truck, I'd likely be wrong, so I won't jinx no team by laying it in on them to win. But if you want me to say which gang I'd like to see bring home the bacon, that's easy. The birds what deserve the big honors is none other than the Canadiens. Then guys made the slogan of the N.h.l., "The fastest sport in the world," mean something. They've give the fans a eyefull every time out, broke nearly all the gate receipt records, and it would be a tough brake now if the Flying Frenchmen, as I call them, didn't catch the judges' eyes 1st in the final dash.

Say, Mac, to change the subject, I hear there is more ball players scattered around Oshawa than they was ballots after the last Provincial elections in Ottawa. And right there I claim Hon. Dick Bennett, the Tory boss, overlooked a lotta good ammunition when he went after Mister Billy Moore, the Chairman of the Tariff Board, last week. Mister Moore, you know, was the bird what wore the Govt. colors in the Dominion election in the Oshawa riding last election, and right now it looks like the tariff on ball players has been wiped out, so far as Oshawa is concerned. The imports of U. S. ball tossers into the Motor Town has been something scandalous, and while this here col. ain't interested in tariff squabbles as a rule, it's natural to stand up and holler when the chief town in the balliewick of the Chairman of the Tariff Board gets away with murder. Mister Ed. Peck better get up in the House next week and talk protection for the Petes and the Belleville and Kingston ball teams. Right now it looks as if Oshawa had enough imported and home-ground ball players to start a league of their own, but things may appear different long about the 24th May.

Locally they ain't nothing much to talk about. The hockey, such as it was, is over, and the ball players is beginning to think about the season. And right now it might be timely to remind the Parks Committee about getting the grass cut in Riverside Park. Judging by other seasons, if somebody don't jog their memory the harvest moon next Aug. will be shining down on the usual crop of hay in the outfield. Well, they can't blame me, can they, Mac, after this hint?

Well, cheerio, old thing.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

PLAY-OFFS SLATED FOR THE GARDEN

American Division of N. H. L. Will Start on March 27.

NEW YORK, March 24 (Canadian Press).—Play-off plans for the American division of the National Hockey League, so far as they have been settled, call for most of the matches to take place at Madison Square Garden.

If Pittsburgh finishes in third place the Pirates will play all their elimination games at the garden, but Boston and Detroit, which yet have a chance to beat out Pittsburgh, will play their home games on home ice.

Under this arrangement, the group semi-final will start next Tuesday, March 27, with the New York Rangers playing either Pittsburgh here or Detroit at Detroit. The second game will be played in New York March 29.

The two-game final series will start at Boston March 31. The second game will be contested in New York April 1 unless Detroit is the contender, in which event it will be played at Detroit, probably April 2.

The Stanley Cup final, bringing together the champions of the American and Canadian groups, starts at Ottawa or Montreal April 5, depending on the outcome of the play-offs in the Canadian division.

MAROONS PLAY LEAFS TO-NIGHT

Meet Toronto Team in Final Game of N. H. L. Season.

LIVELY TILT EXPECTED.

TORONTO, March 24—The final National Hockey League contest. The last one of the season as far as the Maple Leafs are concerned, will be played at the Arena Gardens tonight. The Montreal Maroons, favored by many to take both Ottawa and Canadiens into camp in the Canadian section of the N.H.L. The rugged Maroons are hard to defeat, and they play their best hockey when they have to get in and battle.

To-night the Leafs are going to do their best to take them into camp. Conny Smyth's clan has defeated the leading teams in the American and Canadian groups. Last Saturday night in the most pelasing tilt of the year they took the flying Frenchmen into camp. On Tuesday night in a game that was featured by many presentations, Bill Carson led the club to victory over the Boston Bruins.

It is too bad that Carson was not able to return to the fray until the season had practically finished. If he had been on the line-up in the crucial fixtures during the past three weeks the wearers of the Blue and White might be still in the hunt.

The Maroons have been able to take the Maples into camp almost every time they have met. The Leafs are still striving for a victory over them, and even though the game does not matter a hoot in the standing of the league the nonesters are goingto do their level best to finish the season with a victory. A win for them and a defeat for Ottawa tonight will leave just four points difference in the standing of the third place Senators and the fourth place Leafs.

One thing that is noticeable is the fact that the Detroit Cougars and Pittsburgh Pirates, the teams that are fighting it out for the third place in the American group, have no more points than the Leafs. Pittsburg are two points ahead of the Cougars, and they have the same number of points.

ROCK COLOURING AT WATERTON LAKES

One of the main characteristics of Waterton Lakes national park in Southern Alberta is the beautiful colouring of the rocks. Bands and splashes of tawny gold, greens, wine colors darkening to purple, make some of the mountain peaks look like a futurist painting, and give to the whole region a warm and colorful appearance. In the northwestern part of the park is the curious Anderson peak, with its sharp pyramid formed of yellow shales, which at sunrise and sunset glisten like pure gold so that the mountain is facetiously known as the Millionaire's peak.

for young and old alike—it held a wealth of suggestions for Dad and son—and at its conclusion John Dewart voiced the appreciation of the club. In so doing, he expressed his belief in the worthiness of boys' work, and referred to the splendid work of Alex Carlisle, Carl Liddle, and Lloyd Parnall.

The Speaker.

Principal McCully complimented Peterborough Kiwanians on the splendid turnout at the Father and Son banquet. He said: "It is natural that fathers and sons should get together on such occasions as this; for fathers understand the problems of their boys better than anyone else. A great deal more could be done if fathers understood what it meant to the boys to have their interest and understanding. This new understanding of boy life is replacing 'interviews in the woodshed' as a means to developing the boy."

Mr. McCully referred to the speech of Lloyd Parnall, and drew attention to the mark left by the war. "That mark must be defaced by giving the boys of to-day a better training than has ever been given before," he continued. "Development of Canada depends on her ability to grow well-trained boys who can replace their older brothers killed in the war. That is Canada's fundamental need.

"We do not expect to find old heads on young shoulders, but we do expect those young shoulders to bear more responsibility than in generations gone by. In twenty-five years aviation has developed, radio has come to stay—all trifling indications of the complexity of this world, but now a difficult world for young men to step into.

"What were considered pranks of yesterday are considered misdemeanors of to-day; our boys are expected to grow up with a new respect for their environment. Man has advanced from the stage where life was mostly physical and every boy has to recapitulate in a few years, all that development. We must help the boys to do this.

"Sir Oliver Lodge and other great thinkers favor principles for the betterment of human kind, one of those principles being that fear shall be eliminated—another, self-expression for the instinct of pugnacity, but also self-expression in literature and music and arts.

"You Kiwanians are showing a realization of the necessity for an understanding between father and son. Generation after generation of pessimists has proclaimed that things are going to the dogs, but I am still optimistic for the youth of to-day."

Mr. McCully told of efforts at Pickering College to avoid the age-old antagonism between teachers and pupils by organization of the student body in conjunction with the staff. "I believe there is the making of a good man in every healthy boy," he said, "and you should be entirely frank and open with your sons—otherwise they will find you out and your value to them is gone.

"To the boys I say, 'Dad has gone through your problems and Dad is interested in you. His spirit may be as young as your's."

"We have a great task in Canada. The twentieth century is said to be Canada's, but more important than material prospects is the building up of a strong manhood.

"Some of the finer values in life have been lost in the progress of the United States," various leaders of boys' work there have said.

"To-day in Canada we have an opportunity to build into our citizenry an appreciation of the finer things.

"The boys I have in my school are idealists; so are yours and, and if you put it up to them, they will measure up! The great things in the world have been accomplished by dreamers who had the courage to stick to their dreams and so I hold out to the boys a picture of the splendid future of Canada if they are courageous in facing the work of improving their country.

"Let us accept the ideal that we have and carry it until it becomes a reality in this Canada of ours that can develop if we will do the developing."

The singing of "O, Canada" followed.

VAST INVESTMENT IN POWER INDUSTRY

The capital invested in the waterpower industry in Canada is estimated to be $9000,000,000. This is more than that of any other single manufacturing industry in the Dominion. The corresponding figure in 1910 was $121,000,000, so that the increase in seventeen years is over 600 per cent.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE BIG PARADE"

Comes to the Capitol on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, where it will be shown twice daily at 2.30 and 8 p.m., at regular Capitol Prices.

"The Big Parade," which with the exception of "Ben Hur," has rightly been called the biggest picture in screen history comes to the Capitol on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at regular prices.

Briefly the story of the Bib Parade centres in Jim Apperson, a typical, fun-loving man, and very much like every other rich man's son. Fired by a new patriotism he enlists and departs for service in France. The succeeding scenes show Jim and his two buddies; Bull, a former Bowery bartender, and Slim, an ex-riveter, and their life in the doughboys' billets in rural France. Mr. Stallings is said to have created a trio as original as Kipling's "Soldiers Three."

And then Jim meets Melisande—as played by Renee Adoree—and forgets about his American sweetheart. This little French girl in her wooden sabots and milkmaid garb is a figure of high romance. Some of the most touching scenes ever filmed are those of the love making of Jim and Melisande. Then comes the advance to the front and the lovers are separated. Vital moments of drama are shown in the advance through the forest, the attack on the French village, the trenches, shell holes, machine gun nests, the wounding of Jim, and the final fight for his two pals. Then home again and the reconstruction period when the two lovers are reunited. Realism dominates every scene. Supporting John Gilbert are such sterling players as Renee Adoree, Karl Dane, Tom O'Brien, Hobart Bosworth, Claire Adams Claire McDowell, Rosita Marstini and Robert Ober.

AT THE REGENT.

Out of the West long years ago came Lochinvar. Out of the West come a petite blonde who has strewn her path with hearts that were broken and emptied pocketbooks. A great little gal she is and her success in the gold digging business is due to the very natural fact that "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

At the Regent, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday it will be your privilege to see the inimitable Ruth Taylor do her conquering on a grand scale. This little girl gets and gets and gets. From the very first when she is but a country lass, she takes the village beaus over for a pretty smile. The farther east she goes the better her digging becames. Clear across the Atlantic from New York to Paris this most modern prospector digs...what exploits and what laughs you'll get from them. Really "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" on the screen is every bit as funny as is Anita Loos' book which enjoyed a most phenomenal sale in every book market.

What a character portrayal Ruth Taylor gives as Lorelei Lee, the girl whose knowledge of men and their preferences, is the "open sesame" to riches. How you'll gurgle, how you'll roar as the digging processes are put into effect.

"What were considered pranks of yesterday are considered misdemeanors of to-day; our boys are expected to grow up with a new respect for their environment. Man has advanced from the stage where life was mostly physical and every boy has to recapitulate in a few years, all that development. We must help the boys to do this.

"Sir Oliver Lodge and other great thinkers favor principles for the betterment of human kind, one of those principles being that fear shall be eliminated—another, self-expression for the instinct of pugnacity, but also self-expression in literature and music and arts.

"You Kiwanians are showing a realization of the necessity for an understanding between father and son. Generation after generation of pessimists has proclaimed that things are going to the dogs, but I am still optimistic for the youth of to-day."

Mr. McCully told of efforts at Pickering College to avoid the age-old antagonism between teachers and pupils by organization of the student body in conjunction with the staff. "I believe there is the making of a good man in every healthy boy," he said, "and you should be entirely frank and open with your sons—otherwise they will find you out and your value to them is gone.

"To the boys I say, 'Dad has gone through your problems and Dad is interested in you. His spirit may be as young as your's."

"We have a great task in Canada. The twentieth century is said to be Canada's, but more important than material prospects is the building up of a strong manhood.

"Some of the finer values in life have been lost in the progress of the United States," various leaders of boys' work there have said.

"To-day in Canada we have an opportunity to build into our citizenry an appreciation of the finer things.

"The boys I have in my school are idealists; so are yours and, and if you put it up to them, they will measure up! The great things in the world have been accomplished by dreamers who had the courage to stick to their dreams and so I hold out to the boys a picture of the splendid future of Canada if they are courageous in facing the work of improving their country.

"Let us accept the ideal that we have and carry it until it becomes a reality in this Canada of ours that can develop if we will do the developing."

The singing of "O, Canada" followed.

HIGH GRADE GYPSUM IN CANADA

The quality of the gypsum found in Canada, more especially the white variety found in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Ontario, is exceptionally high. It is used inmany of the fine arts and is extensively employed in the manufacture of structural materials, such as plaster of Paris, hard-wall plasters, cement, etc. It is also used in the crude state as a fertilizer.

VAST INVESTMENT IN POWER INDUSTRY

The capital invested in the water-power industry in Canada is estimated to be $9000,000,000. This is more than that of any other single manufacturing industry in the Dominion. The corresponding figure in 1910 was $121,000,000, so that the increase in seventeen years is over 600 per cent.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE BIG PARADE"

Comes to the Capitol on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, where it will be shown twice daily at 2.30 and 8 p.m., at regular Capitol Prices.

"The Big Parade," which with the exception of "Ben Hur," has rightly been called the biggest picture in screen history comes to the Capitol on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at regular prices.

Briefly the story of the Bib Parade centres in Jim Apperson, a typical, fun-loving man, and very much like every other rich man's son. Fired by a new patriotism he enlists and departs for service in France. The succeeding scenes show Jim and his two buddies; Bull, a former Bowery bartender, and Slim, an ex-riveter, and their life in the doughboys' billets in rural France. Mr. Stallings is said to have created a trio as original as Kipling's "Soldiers Three."

And then Jim meets Melisande—as played by Renee Adoree—and forgets about his American sweetheart. This little French girl in her wooden sabots and milkmaid garb is a figure of high romance. Some of the most touching scenes ever filmed are those of the love making of Jim and Melisande. Then comes the advance to the front and the lovers are separated. Vital moments of drama are shown in the advance through the forest, the attack on the French village, the trenches, shell holes, machine gun nests, the wounding of Jim, and the final fight for his two pals. Then home again and the reconstruction period when the two lovers are reunited. Realism dominates every scene. Supporting John Gilbert are such sterling players as Renee Adoree, Karl Dane, Tom O'Brien, Hobart Bosworth, Claire Adams Claire McDowell, Rosita Marstini and Robert Ober.

AT THE REGENT.

Out of the West long years ago came Lochinvar. Out of the West come a petite blonde who has strewn her path with hearts that were broken and emptied pocketbooks. A great little gal she is and her success in the gold digging business is due to the very natural fact that "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

At the Regent, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday it will be your privilege to see the inimitable Ruth Taylor do her conquering on a grand scale. This little girl gets and gets and gets. From the very first when she is but a country lass, she takes the village beaus over for a pretty smile. The farther east she goes the better her digging becames. Clear across the Atlantic from New York to Paris this most modern prospector digs...what exploits and what laughs you'll get from them. Really "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" on the screen is every bit as funny as is Anita Loos' book which enjoyed a most phenomenal sale in every book market.

What a character portrayal Ruth Taylor gives as Lorelei Lee, the girl whose knowledge of men and their preferences, is the "open sesame" to riches. How you'll gurgle, how you'll roar as the digging processes are put into effect.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 24 (Canadian Press)—Wheat values tumbled yesterday after an advance in which July delivery established a new top price record for the season. Profit-taking on the advance, together with prospects of beneficial rain last night and of wheat shipments to this city from other terminals, became much more than a counter-balance for earlier dry weather complaining and for numerous unfavorable domestic crop reports.

Wheat closed heavy, ⅝ to 1⅝ cent net lower; corn 1¼ to 1⅞ cents down; oats ⅝ cent to 1¼ cent off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 20 cents.

Downturns in the price of wheat were made despite the fact that export business yesterday in wheat from North America was estimated as totalling 10,000,000 bushels at first however, the market showed a general upward trend owing apparently to need of rain in the central section and also because of pessimistic advices about acreage abandonment due to winter killing. Special notice was taken of dispatches saying that between Indianapolis and Evansville, Indiana, practically all wheat fields are in poor condition Another despatch dated Carmi, Ills., read:

"This county will not raise enough wheat for seed and bread, no matter how favorable weather may be hereafter."

On the other hand, further purchases of wheat to come here from Missouri River markets received increasing attention toward the last. Besides, Minneapolis reported the sale of a cargo of No. 1 Northern wheat at a price equal to ⅞ cent over Chicago May, c.i.f. Buffalo, with the privilege of diverting to Chicago. There was also talk of wheat being offered to come here from Duluth on a lower basis than of late.

Corn as well as wheat developed weakness on account of selling to realize profits. At the same time there were intimations that declines in the corn market yesterday had brought about some corn export buying. A further reduction of the amount of corn on ocean passage is expected for the week. Seeding progress had a bearish effect regarding oats.

Provisions sympathized with corn weakness.

An old lady walked into the Canadian Pacific ticket office at King and Yonge Streets, Toronto, and asked about the trains and routes to New York.

"Do you wish to go by Buffalo? said the clerk.

"Oh, no," she replied, "by train."

Had she been going to Vancouver or anywhere in the West she would not have asked at all, as she would know as mostly all do, that the Canadian Pacific "Vancouver Express" which leaves Toronto Union Station at 9.00 p.m. daily is really the ideal way. This train of highest grade all-steel equipment provides the utmost in travel comfort; the excellent cuisine and the outstanding courtesy accorded all passengers have earned for it an enviable reputation.

When going to the West travel "Vancouver Express", nearest Canadian Pacific Agent will gladly arrange every detail of your trip.

What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

VI—The Facts Against Religion

THE facts in the case against religion are threefold.

In the first place, science has banished many of the mysteries that were so long inscrutable. We know that the thunder is not God's voice, nor the lightning the agency of His wrath, for Franklin captured the lightning with a string attached to a kite and bottled it, and we have learned to make it jump to light our homes at the touch of a button, or travel the tread-mill of a motor to do our family washing.

I stood one day on the top of a little adobe hut, looking down into the courtyard where the Hopi Indians were carrying on the solemn ritual of their snake dance, probably the oldest religious ceremony on this continent and one that has never yet been tainted with commercialism.

Four thousand people, Indians and whites, made up the colorful audience that had driven miles across the open desert to wait all afternoon in the hot sun. In stately rhythm the men of the Snake Tribe danced around the stone that is supposed to cover the opening to the lower regions, carrying their rattlesnakes clutched in their teeth.

And when the ceremony was finished the boys of the tribe gathered the snakes into their hands and ran swiftly to the four corners of the compass to release them in order that they might scatter across the desert and bring back the rain.

Impressed the Cynical

It was all very impressive, and even the most cynical tourist who had made the journey in his high powered car was silent and a little serious. But most impressive of all to me were not the Indian men with their venomous reptiles, but the squaws who, having seen the dance many times, did not press forward into the crowd but stood with their naked papooses on the tops of the houses farther back.

Their eyes were turned away from the ceremony, in the other direction. Silently they searched the heavens for the sign of a cloud which would promise rain. Faithfully, wordlessly, they waited, as how many millions of women have waited through the ages, to know whether their men would succeed in persuading the gods to be good.

It is said that the Hopi snake dance has never failed to bring the rains, and on the front page of the Kansas City Star I read, as the train carried me East, that there had been a deluge on the Hopi reservation on the day following the dance which I, myself, had seen.

What Science Tells Us

The report was doubtless true. If it was we know, or at least we think we know, that the dance had nothing to do with it; that "atmospheric conditions" responding to "natural laws" brought the rain in their own good time. This much our science has told us, and we look at the Hopis with a curious interest and are thankful that the rain held off until we got back to Flagstaff.

For our freedom from such "superstition" we are complacently grateful. Science furnishes no evidence that God interrupts the reign of natural laws in response to human petition.

On the contrary, there is disconcerting evidence that natural laws have neither respect for human rights nor any sense of moral values. Sir Richard Burton, who made the famous tours into Arabian lands and gave us so rich a body of Oriental literature, visited a tribe who inquired eagerly if he knew where Allah could be found.

"Why do you want to know?" he asked.

"If we could find him we would spear him on the spot," they answered. "It is he who has been burning up our pastures, and giving us no rain, and killing our cattle and our wives."

Similarly, the great thinker John Stuart Mill exclaimed: "In sober truth all the things which men are imprisoned or hanged for doing to each other are nature's every day performance."

The earthquake at Lisbon in 1755 shook the faith of even the most devout thinkers of that time. Here were thirty thousand people, crowded into their churches on All Saints' Day, making their humble supplications to a supposedly loving God, when suddenly, and without warning, the churches were hurled down upon their helpless heads, burying them in the ruins.

Voltaire's Wrath

Voltaire, learning that the French clergy were explaining the disaster as a punishment for the sins of the people of Lisbon, could not withhold his wrath and broke out with devastating lines:

"I am a puny part of the great whole.
Yes; but all animals condemned to live,
All sentient things, born by the same stern law,
Suffer like me, and like me also die.
The vulture fastens on his timid prey,
And stabs with bloody beak the quivering limbs:
All's well, it seems, for it. But in a while
An eagle tears the vulture into shreds;
The eagle is transfixed by shafts of man;
The man, prone in the dust of battlefields,
Mingling his blood with dying fellow men,
Becomes in turn the food of ravenous birds.
Thus the whole world in every member groans,
All born for torment and for mutual death.
And o'er this ghastly chaos you would say
The ills of each make up the good of all!
What blessedness! And as, with quaking voice,
Mortal and pitiful ye cry, 'All's well,'
The universe belies you, and your heart
Refutes a hundred times your mind's conceit. . . .
What is the verdict of the vastest mind?
Silence: the book of fate is closed to us.
Man is a stranger to his own research;
He knows not whence he comes, nor whither goes.
Tormented atoms in a bed of mud,
Devoured by death, a mockery of fate;
But thinking atoms, whose far-seeing eyes,
Guided by thoughts, have measured the faint stars.
Our being mingles with the infinite;
Ourselves we never see or come to know."

Ontario Farmers'

Seed Cleaning Week
March 26th to 31st 1928

To further encourage the production of better crops and in fighting the deadly weed menace, Farmers are urged to set aside the week of March 26th to 31st as Ontario Farmers' Seed Cleaning Week.

Do your part in ridding the Province of noxious weeds, which destroy Ontario's crops to the extent of millions of dollars every year. The Ontario Department of Agriculture is prepared to co-operate to the fullest extent.

Clean seed means larger dividends in dollars and cents, freedom from weeds, and a finer appearance of your crops. Use this coming week to have clean seed ready for sowing at the earliest suitable date.

Because of the crucial situation at the front, The Examiner maintained a bulletin service all day.

What the Canadians Were Doing

On March 24th the motor machine guns were ordered to Cléry with instructions to hold on at all costs. The Canadians found the Germans were strongly entrenched in the town, but, undaunted, they took up positions on the north bank of the Somme and by concentrated fire kept the Germans from crossing the river. The enemy brought up field-guns and shelled them, but the quickly moving machine gun batteries dodged the worst of the barrage and, when the Germans attacked, beat the enemy off with terrible loss. Casualties on the Canadian side had also been heavy, the gun crews suffering particularly from snipers. All through that night, with the assistance of some Imperial infantry which had been rallied, they held on to the position. In one attack the Germans got within forty yards of the Canadian position, but were beaten back. Then, there being no prospects of any reinforcements reaching them, the gallant band retired to where their armed trucks were waiting and escaped with their wounded. They had held up a fresh German brigade; but what their losses were can be gauged by the fact that out of one Borden battery of fifty, only eight were survivors.

The Motor Machine Gun Corps was then sent to Hebecourt, a little village on the Amiens-Paris road, to refit and establish headquarters. The line was being re-established, but the danger of the Germans gaining Amiens had not passed.

WEDDING BELLS

RICHARDSON-ABBOTT.

HASTINGS, March 24. — A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Abbott, Church street, when their daughter, Olive Myrtle, was united in marriage to Mr. W. H. Richardson of Asphodel. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. A. Thomson. Promptly at five o'clock the bride entered the room on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. Louis Downer, sister of the groom, and was attired in blue flat crepe trimmed with silk overlace and rhinestone. The bridesmaid was Miss Pearl Abbott sister of the bride, and was in mauve silk crepe de-chine trimmed with mauve ribbon. The groom was supported by his cousin, Mr. Arnold Wood, of Keene.

After the ceremony the guests sat down to a sumptuous repast.

The happy couple left on the evening train for points west, the bride travelling in navy blue flat crepe trimmed with figured crepe.

The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls, and to the bridesmaid a vanity set.

Obituary

MARGARET SAUNDERS.

(Contributed.)

The funeral of the late Margaret Saunders was held from the family residence, 495 Cross street, on Thursday afternoon. The Rev. R. K. Mills conducted the service. The Bearers were George Butcher, T. Curtis, T. McConnell L. Blackwell, H. Coits and T. Coits.

The many friends who gathered in the home to pay their last tribute, and the many beautiful floral tributes showed the high esteem in which she was held.

Though there had been several months of real suffering and pain, yet this was borne as only those who have the love of Christ abiding within could bear. There was never a word of complaint but rather there was continually up till the hour in which the young life passed away, that sweet smile of contentment, which will always be remembered by her many friends who had learned to love her.

Though very quiet was Margaret's disposition, no one knows the influence she had among the circle of her young friends, because of her quiet but prayerful and earnest Christian life.

While Margaret will be greatly missed by her many young friends, and while our hearts are crushed with the separation of one from our circle, yet we would not forget to mention her dear mother, of whom Margaret was always so thoughtful, we extend our deepest sympathy to her dear mother—the one to whom this separation means more than words can express. We trust that in the sad and lonely hours she may be comforted and uplifted with the sweet hope that some day she will meet dear Margaret once more, and in the meeting will also be the joy of knowing that there shall be no more parting and no more tears, for all will be peace, joy and happiness.

BUY PICTURE YOU DON'T LIKE

Arthur Lismer, Artist, Gives Advice During Talk on Modern Art.

TO ART ASSOCIATION.

"The picture you do not like is the picture you should buy. It will grow on you as you see more and more of it."

So Arthur Lismer, of Toronto, vice-president of the Ontario College of Art, and a member of the Group of Seven whose pictures have created a furore in artistic circles in recent years, assured the audience of nearly two hundred people who listened to him last night in the hall of the Conservatory of Music, where he gave a very informative lecture on "The Modern Element in Canadian Art," under the auspices of the Women's Art Association.

Some idea of the aims and objects of the Group of Seven was gleaned from the lecture, which was illustrated by a number of lantern slides depicting art as it was in the early Canadian days, as it progressed later, and as it is now, the latter aspect being delineated almost entirely by reproductions of the work of th's Group of Seven.

"Art is not like perfection or our idea of heaven, something far ahead of us. It is right here. It is the pathway and not the arrival. And we are slowly getting away from the notion that art is the imitation or likeness of nature, and imagining that we have it with us in wallpapers that insist on coming out and breakfasting with us and carpets whose huge garlands of roses have to be carefully walked around. We have arrived at the idea that art is an interpretation of life, and in interpreting it, we may take many different pathways and have many differing points of view.

"You cannot define beauty, because once you have done so, it will have ceased to be. You might as well try to define God, because the two are synonymous. It is better to have a bad opinion of art than to have no opinion at all. Art must always be approached with a reverential demeanor, just as the old cave man in the Paleolithic Age represented the animals of the chase in fear and reverence, for on them depended his existence. Just as the artists of the Middle Ages strove to reproduce figures of the Madonna and Child, because they loved them, so we strive to reproduce the various aspects of the Nature and the country we love.

"The effect of lighting in this land is different to the aspects of Nature in other and more pastoral countries. It happens differently and more significantly here. Canada should be interpreted to the world in terms of art as well as in terms of natural assets and industrial expansion. It is said that a nation is known by three things: words, deeds and art. In this Dominion, we have quick, sharp transitions of season. There are few half tones and no lingering between the oncoming of spring and autumn after the cold of winter and the heat of summer. In Paris last year, the exhibition of some of our art was likened to the work of the West Coast Indians.

"We have no hesitation in saying that Thomson of Owen Sound may be to Canadian art what Leonardo da Vinci was to the art of Italy. Actually in technique there is, of course, no comparison, but Thomson or others of these moderns may be just as important in their own time and place.

Possessive Art.

"In art there is the creative and the possesive idea. The former says we cannot understand the past until we understand the present, while the possessive idea lays stress on the opinion that we must understand the past before we can fathom the present. In the possessive mood, we are unwilling to change even a small spot of color on a picture because it is our own work, although it may disrupt the entire design to leave it alone. This possessive idea has been drilled into us in school, when we were given ability rather than vision. The possessive point of view is illustrated by the saying of certain people who invite you to come and see what a wonderful sunset they have in front of their houses, or how 'superb the view is from their verandah The artist might sometimes be pardoned for saying: "But my dear sir, don't you know that some sunsets are rather foolish?" And he knows that often the view from the back porch might be just as interesting to him. For there is no such thing as ugliness in nature. The artist's idea of selection is not in having a lot of things to choose from, but in choosing his own subjects. The artist is nature's slave and master: her slave because he loves her, her master because he makes her obey.

"The picture you don't like is the picture you should buy. It will surrender itself to you slowly, as pictures do to those who love them. It is the artist's intention that matters, not the intention of the onlooker. Schopenhauer says a picture should be approached as a queen is approached, with hat in hand, and we should await an invitation to speak, otherwise we hear nothing but the sound of our own voices.

"A business man once said to me that he likes a picture that soothed him, something in the way of a pretty landscape or a rose covered cottage, or sheep going down a lane, or mist over a mountain top. Fancy pushing a business man into his own dining room to be soothed by his own picture! Don't we want art that is a stimulus instead—like a cold douche not something that will do tricks like a pet dog and give us doses of a soothing syrup. A great picture is a clarion call. The artist tears aside the veil of nature and gives us in it something of the ineffable yearning and soul expression that we get a glimpse of in music by Brahms or Beethoven."

Mr. Lismer folowed his introductory discourse by a showing of pictures illustrative of Canadian art from the tiem of Creighhoff and his contemporaries, to the present day. These were very interesting, depicting Daniel Fowler, Martin, George Read, Jacobi, Horatio Walker and Wyley Grier, of whom Mr. Lismer remarked that he could paint a good portrait when he was not too much constrained by the opinion of the sitter himself, "or worse still, the sitter's wife." Suzor Cote, in his typically Canadian subject, "The Blessing of the Maple Bush," Challoner, . W. Beatty, Homer Watson, Cullen, Gagnon, Jeffries the latter a designer of murals with historical aspects, and Herbert Palmer, formed the introduction to the showing of several of the more notable pictures of the Group of Seven, emphasizing especially the paintings of Tom Thomson and A. Y. Jackson, two of the foremost exponents of this type of art. Two of the former's paintings weer the well known "Jack Pine" and "The West Wind." J. H. Macdonald, Edwin Holgate and Lawren Harris also had a place, with Carmichael, Roberts and Casson.

The president, Mrs. W. Blackwell, extended thanks to all who had assisted in any way with the progam, especially to H. H. Graham, and V. R. Henry, assistants with the lantern, and to M. H. Park, who sang in splendid voice two numbers "Sunrise and You," and "Imp of Dreams," with accompaniments played by Miss Gwen Donley.

Missing Domestic is Brought Back to City

PETERBOROUGH CREEKS ACT UP; DYNAMITE IS USED ON ICE JAMS BLOCKING DOWNIE STREET BROOK

Jackson Park Creek overflows Bridges Once or Twice During Week End.

ICE FLOES CAUSE TROUBLE.

Larger Stream Sweeps Barriers Away Before City's Men Can Use Explosives.

The Downie Street creek, always a trouble-maker in springtime required more than its share of attention from the City Engineer's department during the week-end, and on no less than two occasions, dynamite was resorted to as a means of clearing serious blockages of ice which formed. The larger Jackson Park creek gave comparatively little trouble, though it threatened on several occasions.

On Saturday at about 2.30 p.m. the Downie Street creek piled up ice just where it crosses the C.N.R. right-of-way immediately south of McDonnel Street, but a single stick of dynamite took the body out of the ice pack and there was clear sailing until about 5.30, when the process had to be repeated, this time due to a jam beneath some sheds north of McDonnel Street.

Citizens who have lived in this city for many years recall that trouble from the Downie Street creek is not a new source of worry. They recall that in 1918, for instance, the flood water, dammed by snow on the property north of McDonnel Street, forced a big opening in the natural barrier of snow, causing quite a flood, while cellars throughout the city were flooded owing to the spring break-up.

The Jackson Park creek gave little trouble, though it ran high at some points. On several occasions, a large floe of ice, coming from outside the city, swept down with the current and on reaching any of several bridges, hesitated long enough to make the water flow over, as was the case at McDonnel, Stewart and Murray Streets, but before the city's men took any action, the ice had moved on.

On one occasion, at about 5.30 p.m. on Sunday, preparations were made to blast the jam at George Street, but the field of ice at the outlet in Little Lake moved of its own accord, letting the ice at George Street clear away. To-day, all the creeks in the district are running high, while a veritable lake threatens to cover the C.N.R. tracks a few miles out on the road to Lindsay.

KITCHENER, Ont., Mar. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—All danger of any further flooding at Bridgeport appeared to be past to-day as the Grand River has dropped to a point only six feet above normal. Commencing on Saturday night, the river started rising and early yesterday was eighteen feet above normal, flooding the flats and entering the lower floors of the homes. The river is practically clear of ice now and unless there is another heavy rainfall there should be no further difficulty.

Reached Record Height.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Mar. 26.—(Canadian Press.) — The record height of the water of Grand River over a period of fifteen years was recorded here last night ,when the height was eight feet nine inches over the dam. The dykes held firm and no damage was reported.

Speed River On Rampage.

GUELPH, Mar. 26. — (Canadian Press.)— Flood conditions prevailed here yesterday. The Speed river was higher than for many years, but breaking up of the ice prevented any serious trouble other than the flooding of cellars in homes and factories adjoining the river.

Rains Help Farmers.

ST. CATHARINES, Mar. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—Saturday's warm rains, which caused floods in some sections, had a very beneficial result in the Niagara district by helping to bring the frost out of the ground in shaded sections and assisting the farmers in the early preparation of the land.

Much Damage at Galt.

GALT, Ont., Mar. 26.—(Canadian Press.)— The Grand river at this point to-day ,after yesterday's rampage, was returning to normal with a drop of six feet overnight. Hundreds of employees, mostly girls, of plants along the low east bank of the river, are out of work, while men are engaged in cleaning out the badly disarranged cellars. While no accurate estimate of the flood damage has so far been made, it is believed that it will exceed ten thousand dollars.

Will Attempt To Set New Air Records

LONDON, March 26 (Associated Press). — Official British attempts will be made this year on the four principal world air records, speed, height, duration, and long distance non-stop.

The attempt on the speed record, now held by Italy, will be made at Calshot, within two months.

For the height record, also held by Italy at 38,600 feet, a super-Bristol Bulldog plane is undergoing tests. For the other attempts, special machines are being built near London, which are to be driven by powerful Napier engines, and which it is expected will be able to remain in the air more than sixty hours and fly 5,000 miles. These expectations compare with the present record of 52 hours and the chamberlin-Levine record of 3,905 miles.

LIQUOR MAKES YOUNG MAN ILL

Havelock Resident Pleads Guilty of Selling Intoxicating Beverage.

ANOTHER MAN DRUNK.

One boy in bed under a doctor's care and a second in a very intoxicated condition were found by Provincial Officer J. Stewart and Provincial Constable N. F. Maker when they visited Havelock on Saturday.

Alfred Stevenson, aged 17, showed the effects of having drunk a quantity of poor liquor, and when the officers arrived his condition was considered very serious. Harold Spinks, who was intoxicated, told the officers that he had not drank as much liquor as Stevenson.

After investigation by the officers, Stephen Emery was taken into custody, and when arraigned this morning before Magistrate O. A. Langley on a charge of selling liquor, acknowledged his guilt of selling one bottle of liquor on Saturday. Provincial Officer J. Stewart exhibited another bottle which was partly filled with liquor, and which appeared not to be of vendors' quality.

W. F. Huycke, in the absence of Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., acted for the Crown and asked for a week's remand in order to see if Stevenson rallies from the effects of the liquor.

THE WEATHER

Milder weather combined with rain has had the effect of removing much of the snow over the week-end. Some of the spring birds are arriving and the robins are becoming more plentiful. Robin is the original "Cheerio" broadcaster in Canada and the most beloved of all our feathered visitors. Even the boy with the murderous catapult will hesitate before trying his aim on robin, and few indeed are so heartless as to take delight in killing our little friend. Temperature this morning 36 degrees; highest yesterday 57 degrees; highest on Saturday 59 degrees.Rainfall Sunday .40 of an inch.—W. P.

Jury Fails To Reach An Agreement In Rum-Running Conspiracy Case

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 26 (Canadian Press).—Standing 11 to 1 for conviction, the jury which tried John McCambridge, New York tugboat owner, and Jack Murphy, supercargo, for conspiracy in rum running operations with the British steamer Bulke, was discharged Saturday night. The deadlock lasted almost 30 hours.

McCambridge and Murphy, alleged higher-ups, had been tried twice before on the same charge, but in each instance the jury failed to agree on a verdict. The Bulko was seized here the night of September 10,, together with a cargo of liquor valued at $500,000.

Customs agents who figured in the seizure of the ship and arrested 16 members of her crew, said it was one of the biggest since the advent of prohibition. The liquor was destroyed in a huge bonfire and the Bulko sold for $24,000, the money going to the United States Treasury. The crew jumped bail, but two of them, together with McCambridge and Murphy, were later arrested.

Assistant United States District Attorney Henry Friendman, who prosecuted the case, served formal notice that the case would be tried a fourth time. McCambridge was released in $5,000 bail and Murphy was taken to jail in default of $20,000 bail.

BRITAIN MAKES NEW PROPOSALS TOWARDS FURTHER LIMITATION OF TONNAGE OF CAPITAL SHIPS

Cushendun Addresses Note To United States, French and Japanese Delegates.

INVOLVE GREAT ECONOMY.

Reduce Any Battleships Built in Future From 35,000 To 30,000 Tons.

GENEVA, March 26 (A.P.). — A new British effort toward the further limitation of the tonnage of capital ships and their armament marked the closing hours of the preparatory disarmament committee Saturday.

Lord Cushendun announced that a note had been addressed to the United States, French and Japanese delegations at the conference explaining concrete British proposals which Great Britain would like to see in effect before the beginning of the capital ship replacement program, provided for by the Washington convention. The British proposals, which are the same with regard to capital ships as were presented by Great Britain at the tri-partite naval conference last year, were as follows:

1—Reduce in size any battleships to be built in the future from 35,000 tons to something under 30,000 tons.

2—Reduce in size the guns of battleships from the present limit of 16 inches to 13.5 inches.

3—Extend the accepted life of existing capital ships from 20 to 26 years.

The note in which the British proposals were announced said that they would mark a great step toward disarmament and would involve great economy.

Resisting a final combined effort of the Russian and German delegates to keep the committee in session throughout next week, the delegates on the preparatory committee voted to adjourn Saturday subject to the call of the chairman, Jonkheer Loudon, of Holland.

Adopt Report

The net result of the ten days' work was adoption of the security committee's report with its draft pact of non-aggression and mutual assistance which the committee referred to the governments.

The committee also referred to the governments, without consideration in committee, the two Russian disarmament propects and German proposal for full publication of the entire list of armaments in the League annual each year as well as a German proposal that the council be asked to fix an early date for a disarmament conference.

The first of the Russian proposals was the "total disarmament" project first suggested by Russia several months ago, and a new partial disarmament scheme which was offered Friday when the earlier proposal had met with severe criticism from a majority of the delegates.

Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian delegate, fought to the last for the Soviet project and when he failed in having the plan considered by the committee, declared that that body was closing its sessions without filling the missions confided to it.

Count von Bernstorff, the German delegate, also failed in his demand that the disarmament conference be called at an early date. He reviewed efforts to get a start toward disarmament and said that every time it came to definite action, the work was postponed. The German government, he declared, insists that disarmament be no longer deferred systematically.

Jorge Valdez Mandeville of Chile asserted that the committee could not make any suggestions to the League council concerning a disarmament conference until its preparatory work was finished.

Postpone Further Work

A resolution then was introduced and finally adopted outlining the committee's attitude on the German and Soviet projects. This resolution in effect referred the Soviet proposals to the governments and postponed further work by the preparatory committee until the chairman finds that the government have settled their differences on the question of naval disarmament.

Most of the committeemen were frank to say that the yield of the committee's meeting was meagre, although they felt that they have accomplished all that as possible. Several said that the session had been useful in that the sharp prodding received from the Russians and Germans was bound to spread the conviction that the disarmament question cannot be allowed to slumber longer.

Echoes of this impression have been circulated through the halls of League headquarters for the last two sessions in the form of vague talk of exchanges of views between various governments that are likely to hasten a compromise on the differences over naval disarmament which have been holding up the committee's draft convention.

Grain Rate Hearing Closed On Saturday

CHICAGO, March 26 (Canadian Press). — The Chicago session of the Interstate Commerce Commissions hearing on freight rates applicable to export grain closed on Saturday.

The commission will resume its investigation of grain transportation costs at Seattle on May 22. Subsequent sessions will be held at Portland and Los Angeles.

The grain rate investigation was authorized under the Hoch-Smith Congression resolution which ordered the commission to determine if agricultural relief could be obtained by a readjustment in freight rates on products of the farm.

That in a very short time telephone subscribers in Peterborough would be able to take down the receivers of their telephones and talk to friends in the Old Country was the interesting announcement made by W. C. Beamer, local manager of the Bell Telephone Company, in an address to the local Rotary Club on the subject of the Atlantic telephone service. Mr. Beamer, who was introduced by Rotarian G. A. Gillespie, explained that a number of the larger cities in Eastern Canada already have this service, and that it will be extended to other centres in the near future.

Wireless telephony, the speaker said, was the latest and most interesting practical development in the field of telephone service. He explained the progress of this means of

Pessimism Felt Among Delegates Over Disarmament Discussions

GENEVA, March 26 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—The discussions of the preparatory disarmament commission which closed Saturday caused a certain amount of pessimism, many of the delegates feeling that the impression has been created that the League of Nations has received a setback and that the relations of the great powers have not been improved. This is attributed largely to the tone introduced into the discussions by the Soviet delegation, especially the spirit of overbidding and agitation.

Some of the delegates are of the opinion that the commission will not sit again but this is regarded as too pessimistic a view. At any rate, the committee on arbitration will hold its third session in June, when it will be seen whether any progress toward disarmament has been made.

Admiral Hilary Jones, of the American delegation, whose departure from the United States was delayed by illness, arrived in Geneva after the close of Saturday's session. It is learned that, contrary to current reports, his arrival is not connected with the supposed conversations between British, United States and Japanese experts with a view to reaching a basis of understanding in regard to naval disarmament. American circles here declare nothing will be done in this connection until revision of the Washington convention is discussed in 1931.

CO-OPERATION GIVEN CREDIT FOR PROGRESS

Examiner Staff Holds Annual Banquet at Paragon Hall.

DOING GOOD WORK.

Publication of Whole Truth For People To Form Own Opinions First Duty of Paper.

"I would rather be known as a publisher having the best editorial and mechanical staff, getting out the best newspaper in its class in the province, than as a publisher taking out of his newspaper all the money he could take."

—R. M. Glover.

"We have everything everyone else has, and more."

—H. E. Mounstephen.

"If a newspaper to-day tells the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, I believe it is giving the people better service than the newspaper of yesterday which purported to think for the people."

—R. R. Hall, K.C.

Inspiration was the thread which ran throughout the annual banquet of The Examiner staff on Saturday, reflected in these excerpts from the toasts and speeches. There was jollity and a splendid program, but the entire affair was replete with the spirit of mutual help and co-operation that has, of late years, marked The Examiner newspaper and job printing business.

Nearly eighty men, representative of every department, sat down at the banquet, served in the Paragon, and very department was represented in the program. F. D. Craig, editor, presided.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation to N. Killenbeck, of the bindery department; John H. McCauley, of the composing room, and John R. Heron, of cheques in recognition of suggestions which resulted in the bettering of their departments. This followed the institution of the "suggestion box" idea a year ago.

In the course of the evening the following program was given: Solo, E. Humpage; cartooning specialty, H. H. Lush; solo, John Anderson; saxophone solo, P. Mowry; solo, M. Dunkley; violin solo, W. J. Ellis; solo, James Browne; and comic song, W. Roberts. The accompaniments were played by T. H. Theobald, and John Anderson acted as community song leader. The committee arranginging the banquet was composed of: John R. Heron, chairman; F. C. Scates, secretary; A. O. Phillips, treasurer; J. H. McCauley, H. Lacheur, and R. M. Glover. Music was supplied during the course of the banquet by Ferdie Mowry and his Collegians.

Toasting "The Examiner."

In proposing the toast to The Examiner, H. E. Mounstephen commented upon the splendid spirit of co-operation that marks all departments. "I never saw a more enthusiastic bunch of men, women, and girls than we have in The Examiner," he said. "And when you add to that the most complete printing plant between Toronto and Montreal, we have everything that anyone else has, and more."

Mr. Glover, in responding, recalled that the date of the banquet coincided with the thirty-fifth anniversary of his starting work with The Examiner, and remarked that the $136 a week wage cheque at that date has now grown to nearly $2,500 a week. The Examiner has endeavored to treat its staff well, he said, taking pride in the recent amicable settlement of wage scales. "I would rather be known as a publisher having the best editorial and mechanical staff, getting out the best newspaper in its class in the province, than as a publisher taking out of his newspaper all the money he could take."

The toast to "The Craft" was proposed by R. D. Taylor, and respond-

Helen Martin Found in Smith Late Saturday

Girl Missing Since Sunday, March 18, Brought To City From Home of Henry Doleman This Morning — Came There Seeking Lodging On Saturday Night.

SAYS SHE NEVER LEFT CITY DURING WEEK SLEEPING IN SHEDS AND GOING WITHOUT FOOD

Rumors Current in City Over Week End of Her Arrest In Toronto—Whereabouts During Past Week Still Mystery—Inquiry Into Wanderings Being Made.

Helen Martin, who disappeared while on her way to church a week ago last night, was brought into custody to-day at noon by Sergeant Wigg. Late Saturday night the girl appeared at the home of Henry Doleman, on the Second Concession of Smith, and asked for a night's lodging. Mr. Doleman took her in and gave her food and lodging, and yesterday notified Chief Constable S. Newhall, who sent Sergeant Wigg out to get her this morning.

Where she spent the week is not known, but from her own story she never left the city but kept in hiding during the day and slept out in sheds and other buildings, having nothing to eat from Sunday night until last Saturday night, when she reached the Doleman home. Investigation is proceeding.

A thorough search had been conducted for the girl from the time she was announced as missing. Police departments throughout the province received circulars and postcards and in Toronto a detective was assigned to special duty of keeping a lookout for the missing girl.

On Saturday night it was rumored throughout the city that the missing girl had appeared in the Toronto police court last week, but on investigation by a representative of The Examiner, the detective department of the Toronto police force said "None of the girls who have appeared before the Toronto magistrate during the past week even remotely resemble the girl as described in the notices"

How she reached the Doleman home is not known. It is thought that she followed the railroad track as far as the concession in Smith and saw a light in Mr. Doleman's house. Being tired and hungry she went there.

TORONTO, March 26 (Special to The Examiner)—The records of the morality department show the name of a girl named "Ellen Martin," as involved in a case two years ago, but officials of the department express the opinion that the person concerned was not the young Peterborough domestic.

UNUSED BALLOT PAPER BURNED SAYS EMPLOYEE OF PRINTERS CLEARING UP OTTAWA MYSTERY

Was Not Sent Back To Returning Officer—All Ballots Accounted For.

INQUIRY NEARLY OVER.

Argument of Counsel Likely To Hinge On Strengthening Election Act.

TORONTO, March 26. — Canadian Press. — There is no longer any "ballot mystery." All "missing" undistributed ballots of the Ottawa South Provincial riding have been accounted for in evidence now before the Royal Commission investigating the finding of the ballots on Ottawa streets. And to-day "missing" ballot paper sheets supplied by the king's printer but not printed into ballot form is also accounted for.

Over the week end, J. Starr, K.C., counsel for the commission, succeeded in locating an employee of the Modern Press, Ottawa, the printers who made the Ottawa South ballots, who recalls having burnt the unprinted paper.

Witnesses from this firm who told of having sent this unused paper back to Returning Officer Francis Scott, are therefore shown to have been mistaken. Mr. Scott himself was not absolutely clear in his memory as to whether he had or had not received the material from the printer.

With these phases of the allegations of irregularity in the Ottawa South election of December 1, 1926, cleared up, argument to be presented to the commission by counsel will concentrate chiefly upon strengthening the Ontario Elections Act.

MURDERS WIFE; HANGS HIMSELF

Commits Crimes After Estrangement. Polish Resident of Port Arthur

USED AXE ON WOMAN.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., March 26 (Canadian Press)—Vera Giel, Polish, was murdered last night by Senen Giel, her husband, who afterwards hanged himself from a tree in a swamp near where he killed his wife. Domestic estrangement is believed to have been the motive of the husband. He apparently crept up behind his wife and struck her down with an axe. He then ran through the swamp and underbrush with police close on his heels. He eluded them long enough to get to his home, change his clothes, and then disappeared in the swamp again. His body was cut down from the tree by the police about midnight.

POINCARE GIVES FULL ACCOUNT OF STEWARDSHIP

Stresses Absolute Necessity of Concord in Republic in Luncheon Address.

AVOID SQUABBLES.

With Balanced Budget Assured Now Possible To Readjust Taxes.

BORDEAUX, France, March 26.—(Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's).—Addressing a Chamber of Commerce luncheon here Saturday, Premier Raymond Poincare did not refer to the Geneva disarmament conversations, but confined himself to giving an account of his stewardship of the French Government in view of the forthcoming elections. He dwelt on his efforts to bring about France's financial rehabilitation and stressed the absolute necessity of concord in the Republic and the avoidance of political squabbles until the country no longer was in danger.

The Premier said now that a balanced budget was assured, it would be possible to readjust taxes, lighten the burden of the workers and press forward the economic recovery of the country. The Premier disclaimed any "indiscreet intention" of interfering with local contests on the eve of the general elections, but held it his duty to review his stewardship. He dwelt on the 'tragic circumstances' in which the pound sterling and the dollar were rising to dizzy heights, threatening France with disaster. He hoped the next Chamber of Deputies would assure a happy conclusion to the period of convalescenee through which France was passing.

Needed Assiduous Nursing.

France, he said, was weak, feverish and anaemic, and needed assiduous nursing. He regretted the Socialists' refusal to collaborate with the ministry and warmly praised his colleagues who all had firmly resolved to remain united. With "justifiable pride," he recalled his efforts to effect France's financial rehabilitation and said that occupation of the Ruhr was very fruitful. General Dawes several times had declared that the Dawes scheme would be barren if the Ruhr was not occupied, he said. He did not wish to make recriminations against any preceding Cabinets, but the "obsession of a capital levy," he declared, was the primary cause of the financial crisis.

"Let bygones be bygones, however," he went on. "Let us proudly contemplate the country's comeback." If there had to be political squabbles they at least should be foresworn until the country no longer was endangered.

He had had to have recourse to over-taxation but he pleaded that he had had no choice in the matter. But now that a balanced budget was assured it would be possible to readjust taxes, lighten the burden on the workers and press forward the economic recovery of the country.

Premier Poincare then enumerated reforms accomplished by his administration in economic, social and agricultural spheres. He recalled the new military service laws and the number of public works started. The Premier severely castigated Communist propaganda although he thought its dangers should not be exaggerated for Sovietism never again would secure a hold on the French people who knew how to treat Communist Utopias as they deserved.

CAMPBELLFORD POWER IS CHEAP SAYS ENGINEER

Rate To Be Charged For Lights On Streets Very Low, He Adds.

AUTHORIZED LAST YEAR.

By-law Not Put Into Force Till Present, However—Discount Increased.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 26.—The signs and lights which have heretofore been used for the double purpose of advertisement and secondary lighting, and have been supplied with current free of charge, are about to be placed on the meter system. This has caused considerable objections to be raised by some of the business men, and in a few cases, the lights have been disconnected rather than have the meters connected.

In an interview with Mr. Scott, town engineer, The Examiner learned that the bylaw regarding these lights had been passed in June, 1927, but there had been no steps taken to actually inforce it till the present time. Mr. Scott expressed the opinion that Campbellford power was exceptionally cheap and thought that many of the ratepayers did not actually realize just how cheap it really was. Compared with the rates of other towns, the difference was surprising.

Regarding the matter of electric stoves for the houses, Mr. Scott pointed out that there was no service charge as was the case for lights. Once the stove was installed there was no charge except for the electricity actually consumed. Thus, if the stove were not used at all, there would be no expense whatever.

Where the lights are concerned, there is always the "floor space" to be paid for whether or not the lights have been used. Even in this detail there is a substantial reduction made if the light account is paid within a set time after date, usually about ten days. The reduction is twenty per cent, but until fairly recently was only ten per cent.

The charge to be levied against the lights used as signs and outside lights in general, is set at one quarter of the connected load. Thus in place of paying the usual four cents per killowat hour with the usual reductions as the amount of electricity consumed increases, the charge will start at the rate of one cent per kilowatt hour and the same reductions will be taken into account. This is even lower than the domestic rate which is two cents per kilowatt hour with reductions according to amount of consumption.

DECREASE SHOWN IN C.P.R. EARNINGS

Due To Heavy Increase in Working Expenses, States Report.

MONTREAL, Quebec March 26.—Canadian Press.—"The results of the year's operations can scarcely be considered satisfactory due to the heavy increase in working expenses, and would have been substantially better had it not been for the decreases in rates in grain made effective during the summer and increased wages granted to all classes of employees during the year," states the 47th annual report of the Canadian Pacific Railway made public here yesterday. The report covers operations for the year ending Dec. 31, 1927.

The report shows gross earnings amounting to $201,134,751.85, and working expenses (including taxes) of $161,630,180.45, leaving net earning of $39,515,571.40. After addition of $11,876,559.73 from special income and reduction of various charges including dividends, the net surplus for the year was shown as $5,427,320.22.

The statement shows that working expenses for the year amounted to 80.36 per cent. of the gross earnings and the net earnings to 19.64 per cent. as compared with 77.30 per cent. and 22.70 per cent. respectively in 1926. The gross earnings increased $3,120,160 over those of the previous year, and working expenses $8,549,716. The net earnings, before deducting fixed charges, exclusive of special income, were $39,515,571, or a decrease under the previous year of $5,429,555.

"The results for the year give further evidence of the need for increases in transportation revenues if cross earnings are to keep pace with operating costs," the statement sets forth.

WASHINGTON SILENT ON NEW PROPOSALS

Official Comment Withheld Pending Receipt of Despatches From Gibson.

WASHINGTON, March 26 (Associated Press).—The British Government's proposal for the reduction in size of battleships and their guns and extension of the life of such vessels without official comment here yesterday pending the receipt of official despatches from Minister Hugh Gibson.

The proposal is not a new one, it was said, however, as it had been made at the Geneva Naval Conference last June.

At the first plenary session of that conference, the British delegation proposed exactly that it is recommending. At that time the American delegation felt that the reduction in the size of capital ships would weaken the strategic value of the American fleet, already handicapped by the absence of naval bases, in a manner not felt by the British fleet.

The recently completed modern British battleships Nelson and Rodney, of 35,000 tons each, will not be replaced under the Washington treaty until 1940, it is pointed out, in comparison with ordinary vessels, the replacement of which may commence in 1931. Any proposal to reduce capital ship tonnage to something under 30,000 tons upon replacement, it was said again yesterday, would still further increase the superiority of the British vessels.

At Geneva last summer, the American delegates further pointed out that extension of the life of capital ships also would work to the advantage of the British Navy. Ship for ship, officials said, the British capital ships are of a newer type than the American vessels, and if the date of replacement should be lengthened, the British would enjoy an increasing advantage because of the obsolescence of American battleships.

The Washington naval treaty provides that the United States shall arrange for another naval conference in 1931.

VALUABLE HORSE IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Snowplow Demolished by Train on Crossing Outside Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, March 24.—An accident occurred west of the village on Thursday afternoon by which Martin Brock lost a valuable horse. He and David Patton were clearing the Zion line of snow, using a snowplow and two teams of horses, and had reached the C.N.R. crossing just as the train due here at 4.40 was coming in; the plow, it is believed, stuck on the track, and while Mr. Patton had his team safely across and on the roadway, the train struck the plow and Mr. Brock's team piling them up indiscriminately against a fence some little distance away, one of the horses having its leg broken. The snow-plow was completely demolished. The horse had to be shot the next day, J. L. Byam purchasing the carcass for fox-meat at the "Midnight" ranch.

80 YEARS OLD; WALKS TO TOWN

MacIntosh Stephens, of Seymour East Thinks Little of Two Mile Jaunt.

FOUGHT FENIANS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 26.—MacIntosh Stephens, Seymour East, celebrated his eightieth birthday today. Outside of a small family gathering the event will pass quietly. To his many friends, Mr. Stephens is generally known as Tosh, and anyone inquiring for him by any other name would probably fail to get much information, the reason being that everyone refers to him as Tosh Stephens rather than by his full Christian name.

Mr. Stephens has passed through many interesting experiences during his career. He was a member of one of the regiments which participated in the quelling of the Fenians. To the best of his knowledge, Mr. Stephens is now the only survivor of his regiment. For about two years, he was a sailor on the Great Lakes and later followed the railroad for twenty years. He was, for many years, a passenger conductor running east out of Toronto. In municipal affairs he has been deputy-reeve of Seymour and as such, a member of the counties council. He was also township treasurer for a number of years. Lately, Mr. Stephens has not taken any active part in business or political affairs, but lived in retirement at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Little, Seymour East, Mrs. Little being a daughter.

Still hale and hearty, Mr. Stephens takes an active interest in the affairs of the farm and about the house. Only a few days ago, he walked to town, two miles. Nor is this an uncommon practice with him. When his family enters the slightest protest against such a long walk for a man of his years, he retaliates by reminding them of how people used to walk great distances and think little or nothing of it. While now, it is almost impossible to get most people to go more than a block or two without an automobile.

Almost unknown outside the country where her work has lain, there is in Japan an Englishwoman, Miss Riddell who has spent nearly the whole of her life among the lepers. She found the first hospital for the treatment of lepers in Japan, and conducts it on self-governing Christian lines. She herself designed the church, which is connected with the Holy Catholic Church of Japan.

OMEMEE, March 26.—"Resolved that missionary work can best be carried on by native workers", was the subject of the debate at the A.Y.P.A. when N. Burgomaster and H. Their side of the argument was also well developed, with the result that the decision was given in their favor. SIGNS OF SPRING.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 26.—Saturday was the first day of real spring weather which Campbellford has enjoyed so far this year. The merchants report exceptionally good business, and all day the streets were crowded with people. Many cars which had been laid up for the winter made their first appearance for the season, splashing along the watery streets. Members of the younger generation are well into the marble season, which is generally considered a sure and certain sign of spring.

Nor is this particular form of spring fever confined to the youngsters. At the Canadian National station a large crowd of passengers waiting the arrival of the 1.30 train, displayed a keen interest in a penny pitching contest between about a dozen men, including railway men, taxi drivers, travellers, and the local bandmaster. Although the bandmaster took no active part in the game he supplied several pennies for finances. A local press man, overly zealous, backed a little too close to a slow-moving freight train and was pushed off balance to the extent of losing eight cents.

While the game was in progress, three long freight trains, filled the passing tracks to overflowing and the east-bound passenger had to pull up west of the station and allow the freights to pull out around it.

BORROWS HORSE TO TAKE DRIVE

Campbellford Man Causes Considerable Worry To Owner of Animal.

NO ACTION EXPECTED.

Campbellford, March 26. — When Charles Longmuir stabled his horse in the United church shed about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon he expected to find it there when he was finished with his business in town, and ready to return home. But he was surprised to find that his horse and buggy had vanished. After making inquiries and search of the likely places about town, the matter was reported to the police, and Chief Light instituted a search. He found that the horse had been seen leaving town about four-fifteen, apparently via the Hastings Road. But a trip of several miles along the road failed to reveal the lost equipment, and the chief returned to town. A telephone message informed him that there was a horse tied to a fence about three miles south of the town on the Brighton Road. It was found that Hunter Rowe of Campbellford, had taken the horse and gone for a little pleasure tour. No damage was done to either horse or vehicle, Chief Light reported. He does not expect that any action will be taken in the matter.

Natural Loveliness

Is ever the reward of sensible skin care—to safeguard your children's complexion and your own, just follow this simple daily rule

NATURAL beauty, simple and alluring, is the beauty standard of today.

The modern mother starts early with protective skin care for her children . . . and preserves her own youthful freshness in precisely the same way. That is, by the exclusion of artificial methods, often so hazardous to the skin.

Skin beauty starts with skin cleanliness; pores kept healthfully clean with the softening lather of olive and palm oils as blended in Palmolive. World's leading specialists on skin care agree to this.

Nature's simple rule to keep that schoolgirl complexion

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive. Then massage it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly. Then repeat both washing and rinsing. Let the final rinsing be with cold water. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream — that is all. Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening.

Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Avoid this mistake

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or one represented as of olive and palm oils, is the same as Palmolive.

And it costs but 10c the cake! So little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain a cake—then note the difference one week makes.

W.M.S. MEETING AT SPRINGVILLE

Mrs. W. Whitfield Reads Interesting Paper—Others Add To Program.

SPRINGVILLE, March 26.—Mrs. William Whitfield read an interesting article entitled "There are two kinds of seas", at the regular meeting of the W.M.S. "There are two kinds of people in the world that are likened unto the Sea of Galilee which gives and takes in equal measure, and the Dead Sea that hordes its income jealously, keeping every drop of water it gets", she pointed out.

The president, Mrs. M. Johnston, gave a brief biography of St. Paul as a guide for any one trying to live the Christian life. Emphasis was placed on the necessity for prayer—the greatest talent people can have.

Mrs. A. Hunter told of Trindad's place on the mission field, and gave a beautiful description of outstanding geographical features of these Islands. She told of the courageous work of the missionary, John Morton and his wife and daughter, also Kenneth Grant and family.

Miss A. Brown and Mrs. M. Johnston, delegates to the annual conference meetings which were held in Peterborough, gave reports of the program.

A Ladies' Aid meeting was held at which the decorating of the interior of the church was discussed.

WILL INVESTIGATE PETROLEUM WAR

Government Would Protect Indian Petroleum Against Result of Price War.

DELHI, India, March 26 (Associated Press). — When the Standard Oil Company of New York recently purchased Soviet oil which the Dutch producers' group claimed rightfully belonged to them, it started an oil war in India which now has reached the Government Tariff Board. It was announced yesterday that an immediate inquiry will be made by the board with a view to protecting Indian petroleum against the results of the price war between the American and Dutch interests.

Imported petroleum has been dumped into India at prices below world parity. The official announcement says that decision to make the inquiry was based on representations from a number of other companies, affected by the tactics of the big producers.

The Government does not desire by its protection policy to lay a heavy burden on the consumer and thus needlessly increase the profits of the principal producers. But it believes that measures can be devised whereby substantial relief can be given the lesser concerns while at the same time a disproportionate share of the higher price charged to consumers will be prevented from falling into the hands of the stronger outfits.

The Tariff Board will first determine what price for kerosene should be taken as the equivalent of world parity at Indian ports.

It will also report whether protection against dumping is in the national interest, and if so, what form that protection should take. A further inquiry by the Board will seek to determine whether it is likely that the present price war will extend to gasoline, and if so what measures should be taken to stop that development.

"THE BEST WAY TO CLEAN WHITE OR COLORED WOODWORK"

By HILDA DORAN ROSS
Home Economics Counselor

"STICKY little hands leave lots of finger-marks on white woodwork. But you never mind cleaning after them, do you? Because white enamel checks and peels, often turns yellow after being cleaned, many housewives have come to me with this difficulty. Tests proved that all woodwork finishes require a good neutral soap for cleansing.

"The best thing I could find for cleaning white and colored enamel is Princess Soap Flakes. They make soft, gentle suds which dissolve dirt and grease, but cannot harm woodwork, because they contain no harsh chemical filler or harmful free caustic. Use Princess Soap Flakes for every washing task—woodwork, floors, dishes, windows. They are the very best for the family wash, and won't hurt your finest, filmiest garments. Princess Soap Flakes are economical, too, a little goes a long way."

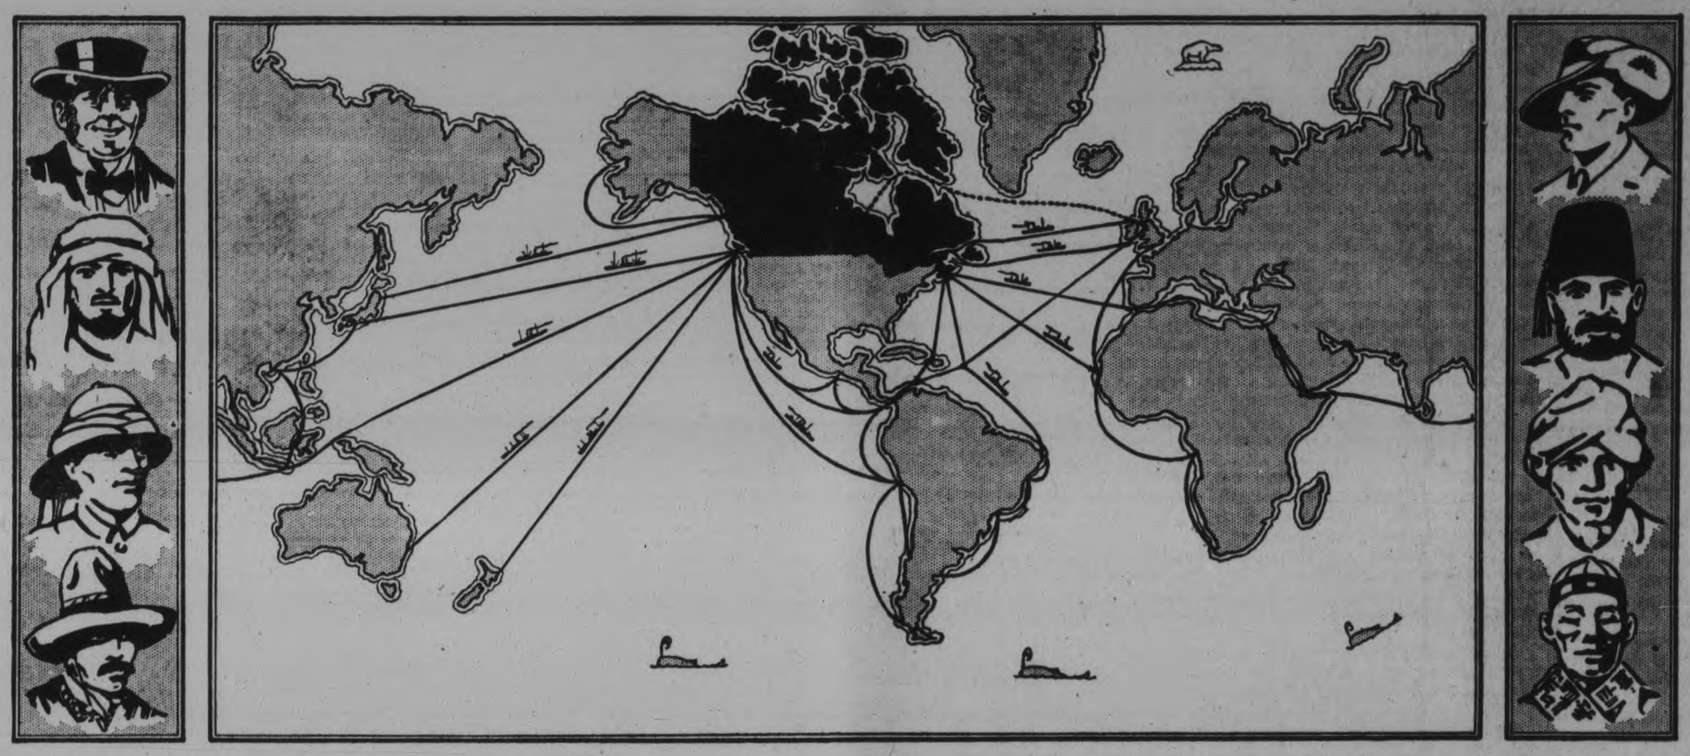
Across the Seven Seas



ALONG the trade routes over the Seven Seas, leading to more than 100 different countries, go Canadian products. Other peoples—often peoples of strange languages and different customs—have shown their preference for Canadian commodities. This to the extent of a billion and a quarter dollars a year. They buy from us on the basis of right quality and right price. But greater export trade opportunities await Canada from across the Seven Seas.

Year by year Canada is exporting more manufactured goods. In a quarter of a century our export of manufactured goods has increased seven fold. That part of our export trade now amounts to $700,000,000 annually, or about a quarter of our total factory output.

While Canadian manufactured goods have gained a foothold in some of the world's greatest markets, still the volume we export is small when compared with what these same markets import.

Let us take a number of Canadian manufactured commodities, sold mostly in 23 countries, eight of which are in the Empire. Let us place the Canadian exports of these countries against the imports of these countries, and demonstrate the field for greater Canadian business:

The possibilities for greater Canadian exports

Manufactured Commodity	What 23 countries import	Amount Canada exports to these 23 countries
Rolling Mill Products	$378,436,000	$2,143,621
Tubes and Pipe (Iron)	75,606,000	1,919,014
Machinery (not agricultural)	435,605,000	4,298,667
Farm Machinery	72,314,000	15,430,149
Automobiles	259,118,000	26,379,152
Rubber Boots and Shoes	9,918,000	5,568,261
Rubber Tires	97,900,000	15,291,224
Musical Instruments	64,955,000	1,286,000
Printing Paper	215,977,000	116,920,699
Lumber and Timber	626,375,000	62,065,596
Sugar, Refined	167,254,000	11,175,806
Meats, prepared, preserved or canned	337,469,000	22,052,290
Milk, Condensed	52,968,000	4,286,244
Butter	333,304,000	3,083,801
Cheese	131,334,000	24,853,503
Fish, dried, smoked, salted or preserved	170,228,000	20,937,106
Flour of Wheat	173,943,000	51,223,271

These are the latest statistics available. The 23 countries are: United Kingdom, Australia, British India, British South Africa, British Straits Settlements, British West India Colonies, Irish Free State, New Zealand, Argentina, Belgium, Brazil, Chile, China, Cuba, Czecho-Slovakia, Dutch East Indies, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Netherlands, United States.

The accompanying figures tell something of the possibilities for sixteen Canadian manufactured commodities already in the export field. They also show what Canada has accomplished in twenty-three countries—a creditable performance for nine million people scattered over half a continent. But we can accomplish greater things if we go after them in our straight-forward Canadian manner.

Every Canadian manufacturer should keep a map of the world hung up in his office—a silent reminder that Canada cannot live to herself.

In entering foreign trade the Canadian manufacturer must be prepared to: 1. Give a standard of quality. 2. Make the articles required by the importer. 3. Pack in the manner the importer desires. 4. Deliver promptly. 5. Maintain contract dates.

The advantages of export trade to the manufacturer are: 1. Keeps plants in full operation. 2. Brings about a lowering of production costs at home. 3. Lowers prices to home consumer. 4. Stabilizes employment.

We help you get the facts about new markets

The Department of Trade and Commerce has a fully organized and experienced Commercial Intelligence Service working solely to help Canadian exporters. Under the direction of this Service are 24 trained Trade Commissioners, strategically located in different parts of the world. Each of these Trade Commissioners is acquainted with the demands and requirements of the people in his territory.

Trade Commissioners are ready to conduct preliminary surveys regarding the marketability of any Canadian product. They will put the Canadian exporter into touch with reliable representatives, or introduce his travellers to trade houses. They constantly aid Canadians in maintaining business contacts. These services cost the Canadian exporter nothing.

Hundreds of Canadian firms have built up substantial export accounts which can be traced directly to the efforts of the Trade Commissioners.

If you are a Canadian manufacturer or producer you cannot afford to overlook export opportunities. The Commercial Intelligence Journal, published weekly, by the Department, will give you ideas on foreign demand. Write us today about your products and your capacity to participate in export trade. The information in possession of the Commercial Intelligence Service is at the disposal of every Canadian exporter.

ABOUT TITLES.

It is impossible to work up a great deal of interest in the proposal of C. H. Cahan, M.P., to have a committee of the House reconsider the question of titles in Canada.

There have been no titles awarded Canadians since 1919, and while it cannot be complained that any of us were any happier or more prosperous because of that fact, no evidence is to hand to indicate that there has been any great suffering because of the disappearance of Canadian names from the list.

During the nine years several citizens of this country have undoubtedly, by reason of their services, shown themselves to be richly deserving of such recognition at the hands of King George—Dr. Banting is one whose name readily suggests itself—but their fame is probably as secure and as great as if a "Sir" preceeded their name.

The average Canadian is cold to the whole question; he does not see any particular harm or any outstanding merit in titles, but having gone along for nine years without them he cannot find any strong reason now for re-opening the matter.

The Cahan motion will probably not get very far, nor is there any particular reason why it should.

THE TOLL OF THE AUTOMOBILE.

A country engaged in a war that entailed casualties to the extent of 26,618 killed and 798,700 wounded and economic loss to the amount of $672,097,000 would undoubtedly feel that a resort to arms was the most costly way of settling an argument.

Yet the United States suffered those casualties and sustained that loss last year, and nobody seems to be greatly concerned—except, of course, the relatives of the slain and the injured.

Possibly because the agency that caused such havoc was not warfare, but that familiar object, the automobile.

These statistics, compiled by the American Road Builders' Association, show 1,316 more fatal accidents than in 1926, and the total toll of the motor car over 800,000, a considerable increase over the record of the previous year.

Canadian casualties, it can be presumed, were heavy in proportion, and the slaughter on this Continent last year, largely because of the misuse of a machine designed for man's comfort and convenience, was enough surely to create a full-voiced demand for an armistice in this destruction of human life.

There will be more cars on the road during the coming summer than ever before; does that imply that when this year's killings are totalled the death toll will be found to be correspondingly greater?

Or is this problem to be tackled determinedly and generally as sensible people realize the price we are paying?

A CHANGE FOR THE BETTER.

Most readers will be in hearty agreement with the opinion voiced by R. R. Hall, K.C., at The Examiner's successful banquet on Saturday evening that the newspaper which prints fairly and impartially reports of the speeches and activities of all political parties, leaving it to its readers to form their own opinions, is of much more service than the party organ of yesterday which published as a rule only what helped its own party and left its readers in the dark as to other views and policies.

The majority of Canadian newspapers of the present day are free from party affiliations, and as a consequence it is safe to declare that public intelligence is more enlightened and more conversant with the real merits of the issues before the people.

With the coming of this condition some of the fervid partizanship of the old days has gone; people have less reluctance to change their allegiance, and there has developed a large body of citizens who look more to policies than to parties and who constitute the balance of power that sways elections and changes governments.

The day when a man had to subscribe to newspapers of both political colors in order to be informed as to the viewpoints of both parties has gone; today the independent journals, like The Examiner, publish reports of political meetings and political events without comment and without color, and the reader, armed with the arguments of the various parties, is capable of drawing his own conclusions and forming his own opinions.

Decidedly this is a change for the better, and The Examiner is sure that its readers will concur in that opinion.

ACROSS THE SEVEN SEAS.

The Federal Department of Trade and Commerce has paid a very convincing tribute to the efficacy of newspaper advertising in the interesting advertisement, entitled "Across the Seven Seas," appearing in The Examiner and many other newspapers throughout the Dominion.

This national publicity has been issued for the very laudable purpose of stimulating Canada's export trade, and arousing in Canadian manufacturers and producers an interest in the opportunities that are offered them in the world market.

The advertisement is striking alike in its form and in its material.

The statistics showing the amounts imported by twenty-three countries of products Canada exports, and also the extent to which this country participates in this trade, are of special interest.

They show that, while Canadian manufacturers have done remarkably well in this lucrative field, there is great opportunities for expansion.

They indicate, too, that the manufacturers in this country who do not take advantage of the experienced Commercial Intelligence Service maintained by the Department of Trade and Commerce and of the assistance generally that the department can give them are losing a great opportunity.

Between our manufacturers and the Department of Trade and Commerce there should be efficient teamwork, and the "Across Seven Seas" advertisement should do much to help bring about closer working relations.

Trade opportunities are available; can we not make use of them and thus bring about a lowering of production costs at home, the keeping of plants in full operation, lower prices to the home consumer and a stabilization of employment?

POETS AND POLITICIANS.

Mr. R. B. Bennett must be thanked for one thing: he has reintroduced poetry into Parliament. In the first fifteen minutes of his speech this week he quoted Tennyson, Byron and Browning; and the Prime Minister (who, by the way, always keeps Browning on his porch at Kingsmere) rose to the occasion by coming back with a couplet from Goldsmith. What the back benchers and the hard-bitten scribes of the Press Gallery thought about it all, we don't venture to think (poetry doesn't make good copy), but nevertheless it was a happy relapse.

At Westminster, where men still quote Lucretius, and where the Latin phrases of the Oxford Union do service, poetic effusions are not rare. In our own House of Commons, however, the practice has all but died out. In the old days, and, indeed, right up to ten or fifteen years ago, most of our best debaters were masters of the apt quotation. Sir Richard Cartwright knew all the old masters and used their best thoughts effectively; Sir Wilfrid had a thorough sense of literature; and a speech by Dr. Michael Clark without a few lines from Pope or Dryden was something exceptionally rare.

The new men have been different; they are stronger on statistics than on poetry. It must be confessed, too, and sadly, that all or most of them seem to have a fondness for the same poets. Burns is a favorite, and we recall that a few years ago, when they were debating titles, his "A man's a man for a' that!" was quoted and misquoted so copiously that many of us in the Press Gallery wanted to scream. Tennyson, too, has his followers. In fact, we can hardly recall a debate on our status without somebody getting up and using the lines: "Broadening down from precedent to precedent." We suspect, however, that some of our M.P.'s have picked this up from Hansard rather than from a close study of that great poet's writings.

Among the Farmers, Goldsmith seems the best known. "Ill fares the land" and so on is still occasionally recited, and "a bold peasantry, their country's pride" sometimes touches the heart. Of course, we haven't really got a peasantry, except in the imagination of our intelligentsia, and our country's pride speed their swift cars along the countryside; but what matter? Poetic license must be for people who quote poetry as well as for poets.

However, we should all welcome a revival of the habit of quoting verse. It makes speeches less dull, it shows that our legislators are not irreparably oblivious to beauty, and sometimes it clothes a thought in words that make it infinitely more appealing. Much depends, to be sure, upon whether the quotation is apt. Mr. King, for example, was quite happy when, after Mr. Bennett had shown himself a master of a dozen intricate questions, he applied to him the lines:

And still they gazed, and still the wonder grew
That one small head should carry all he knew.

But he wasn't nearly as happy or as effective as O'Connell in a similar circumstance. A British Tory member had delivered a fierce attack upon the Irish party. At that time, as now, few members of the British House dared to openly use notes, and the member who had attacked the Nationalists had concealed his in his hat, from which he tried to extract them surreptitiously. His attempt at concealment, unfortunately, did not escape the terrible eye of the "Liberator," and when O'Connell rose he brought down the House by a parody on Goldsmith:

And still they gazed, and still the wonder grew,
That one small hat should contain all he knew.

Let us trust, too, that mention of the names of the poets will not lead our M.P.'s, or some of them, to confuse them with politicians. For we recall the story that is told somewhere about a Democratic meeting in New Jersey. At this gathering the first speaker discharged "Goldsmith's lines" at the audience and went on his way rejoicing. The next spellbinder, just arrived from another meeting, innocently repeated them. So did the next and the next. The wise grinned; but the simple were perplexed. Then somebody, a little hazy about the candidates and issues, turned to somebody else and asked: "Is Goldsmith running?"—Ottawa Journal.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., March 26 (Canadian Press).—There was little or no demand from foreign buyers for grain on Saturday and in consequence business in cash grain on spot was quiet, the demand being confined to odd cars for local and country account. The tone of the market was steady and prices unchanged.

The flour market closed steady with car lots of first patents selling at $8, second patents at $7.40, and strong bakers at $7.20 per barrel in jute bags, ex-track, less 10c per barrel for spot cash. The movement of Winter wheat flour was also somewhat limited and prices were unchanged.

The underlying strength that has featured the situation in millfeed for some time past continued as much in evidence as ever. Current levels are the highest on record with the single exception of one period during the world war, but the fact has not proved any deterrent to buyers whenever supplies are available. An active business has been done and prices were firmly maintained.

The egg market on Saturday closed weak at the further decline of 1c per dozen which made a net reduction for the week of 5c per dozen for extras and firsts, and 2c per dozen for seconds. The consumption continues large and the market was active with final sales of extras at 39c, firsts at 37c, and seconds at 35c per dozen.

Receipts of butter on Saturday were 55 packages, as against 519 packages for the same day last week. The feature of the trade since this day has been the weakness that prevailed in the market and prices have scored declines amounting to 2¼c per pound. The volume of business was small and the market closed quiet and easy at the decline with car lots of Eastern Townships No 1 pasturized creamery butter quoted at 39c to 39¼c per lb, and broken lots at 39½c to 40c per lb. The jobbing price of butter was reduced 1c per lb. on Saturday to 41c per lb for solid packages, and to 42c per lb. for 1 lb blocks. Receipts of cheese in Montreal on Saturday were 42 boxes, as compared with 47 boxes for the same day last week. Owiang to the limited supply of cheese held in first hands and the steady demand for the same for local consumption a firmer feeling has prevailed in the market and prices closed ¼c to ½c per lb higher than a week ago with latest sales of small lots of Western September made No. 1 white and colored at 22½c to 23c per lb, and earlier makes at 22c to 22¼c per lb.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Ills, March 26 (Canadian Press)—Wheat gave prompt evidence Saturday that at present the market for that grain is virtually a weather affair. Indications of showers over the wheat belt before today caused holders to sell Besides, export demand Saturday for wheat from North America proved slack.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ⅛ to ⅜c net lower, with corn ¼ to ⅝c off; oats ¼c down to ⅜c up, and provisions varying from 5c decline to an equal advance.

Prospects of more moisture appeared to emphasize willingness on the part of many wheat traders to await results of growing weather instead of acting on an end-of-the-winter basis. In this connection it was noted that crop reports Saturday concerning wheat were generally unfavorable from the Central West but from the southwest were optimistic. Meanwhile, too, bears made much of the fact that the United States visible supply is the largest since 1919 at this season of the year.

Estimates that Saturday's export buying of North American wheat amounted to only 300,000 bushels or less, drew special attention to talk which was current that there will have to be unusual decreases to reduce domestic stocks materially between now and the 1st of May and the 1st of July. On the contrary however, wheat arrivals in Chicago Saturday were the largest in some time and primary receipts for the week although somewhat under the previous week's total were decidedly larger than a year ago.

Notwithstanding indications of a fair amount of export business in corn, weakness showed itself from the outset in the corn market. Selling was associated with the circumstance that hog values were at about the year's lowest level. It was also pointed out that planting of the new corn crop has started in the southern part of the belt and the corn acreage is reported as likely to increase almost three per cent. Oats were easy, sympathizing with weakness of corn and of wheat.

In the provision market the effect of grain price declines were counterbalanced by relative firmness Saturday in hog values.

"THE day is not far distant when salesmen will do even more of their selling by Long Distance. Sending salesmen back over a territory frequently to pick up repeat orders will be discarded as unnecessary and economically unsound"—said the President of a large distributing organization to his directors, a few days ago.

Business ethics are now on such a high plane, and Long Distance connections are now made so quickly that in many cases Salesmen find Long Distance quite as satisfactory as a personal call.

If you know the distant number, Long Distance is almost as quick as a local call. In the great majority of cases, while you hold the line the Long Distance operator will make the connection.

To ensure your always having the distant numbers, give us a list of the firms you talk with by Long Distance. We will add the numbers and return the list to you.

Dazzling Color!

A brilliance and purity of hue that positively makes one blink! Bold Oriental designs arranged lavishly and heedless of convention! Flat back grounds that, far from setting off the designs, actually vie with them for color honors!

That's the first vivid impression one gets from these startling new Coolie Coats. They're of kashaline, on which Chinese motifs, pagodas, bamboo bridges and seajunks are printed in full, pure colors.

Coolie Coats!—what are they? Why, they're what Palm Beach and the Riviera have raved about all winter for beach wear. Now they're being adopted as house smocks and negligees. And they fill the bill excellently in their own gay way.

They will be a Feature Tuesday at $4.95

OBITUARY

ANNIE GRIFFIN.

LAKEFIELD, March 24.—News was received in the village on Wednesday of the death in Peterborough, of Miss Annie Griffin.

Miss Griffin was practically a life long resident of Lakefield, and the Griffin home on Regent and Albert Streets with its beautiful garden was a village landmark; built many years ago by Jonathan Griffin. It remained in the family home until last spring when it was purchased by F. G. Erskine and the family moved to Peterborough in the autumn. The late Miss Griffin was in poor health for several years and was devotedly nursed by her sister, until death ended her suffering. Miss Griffin was a member of St. John's Church and was faithful in her attendance until her health failed. During the war the Griffin sisters were selfless in their devotion to the work of the soldiers comfort club, Miss Annie being assistant to Mrs. Hilliard as work convenor and during the entire duration of the war their faithful efficient service was given to the cause.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffin, one sister, Sarah, and two brothers, Roland and Everett predeceased her, while two sisters, Miss Gussie and Mrs. C. W. Finnemore, Jr., survive.

Obituary

JOHN REEVES

MADOC, March 26—John Reeves died on Wednesday, March 21st, aged 70 years.

MADOC, March 26.—David Laundry, an aged resident of Elzevir Township, passed away at his home on Saturday, March 3rd. Mr. Laundry had reached the advanced age of eighty years. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. J. York, of Elzevir, and Mrs. Marchen of Trenton, and one son, David, on the homestead. The funeral took place on Tuesday and was in charge of Rev. A. D. Waite.

EARL LEEPER.

NORWOOD, Mar. 26.— Word was received here early on Sunday morning of the death of Earl Leeper in Detroit. His death folowed an operation for appendicitis about ten days ago. Deceased, who was in the prime of manhood, was the youngest son of Mrs. R. Leeper of this village. He leaves a widow and two small children. The body will be brought here for burial.

MRS. R. E. WATSON.

HASTINGS, March 26.—The death took place in Nicholls Hospital on Thursday morning of Myrtle Annie Hess, beloved wife of Roy E. Watson, formerly of Norwood, but late of Peterborough. Deceased was born in Castleton on October 17, 1895, and removed with her parents, Dr. J. H. and Mrs. Hess, to Hastings at a very early age. She was married to her now sorrowing husband on June 5, 1918, and went to reside in Norwood, where she remained until her removal to Peterborough one year ago.

The remains were brought to Hastings via C.N.R. on Thursday, and were taken to the home of her parents, where they remained until Saturday, when they were taken to the United Church, where service was held . Rev. A. C. Hie conducted the funeral service. Rev. Mr. Hie read John 14, 1-18. Neil McDonald sang "Face to Face." Rev. Mr. Hie then took as his text "My tabernacle is spoiled, and all my chords are broken. My children are gone forth of me, and they are not; there is none to stretch forth my tent any more and to get up my curtains," taken from the 10th chapter of Jeremiah, verse 20. He referred to the two broken circles in the bereaved families. The tent is the home, and now that the mother and wife is gone, the chords are broken. The greatest chord of a famil ycircle is the mother, and no one akes a greater contribution and sacrifice to making of a home than she. "A home lost through fire or failure in business can be rebuilt, but a home broken through loss of a mother can never be rebuilt," quoted Rev. Mr. Hie in part. "As a child breaks his toy and is broken-hearted until the parents fix it, the mourners weep and mourn for the lost one which was dear to them. The spiritual love of God only can heal this wound, and as some children do not understand their parents, therefore we do not understand our God. A cloud may hide the sun, but the light of God shines through all clouds, and we bow our heads in prayer, saying, 'Father, Thy will be done.' He who comforts all men will comfort the bereaved through their sorrowing moments, saying 'I will go with thee,'" were his closing remarks.

"Safe in the Arms of Jesus" was then sung by request, as this was the hymn sung at the funeral service of her daughter some five years ago. As the body was being removed from the church, "Nearer, My God, to Thee" was played on the pipe organ by Miss Carrie Doxsee.

The floral tributes were many and showed the esteem in which the deceased was held. There were wreaths from husband and children, father and mother; Clifford, Zetta and Everett Hess, Mr. and Mrs. Watson, and Cecil; Lloyd and Mae Hess, Mrs. N. Beavis, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill, Wooler; Mr. and Mrs. J. Hess, Mr. and Mrs. V. Finkle of Trenton, Dr. I. McGillicuddy, Mrs. Bell, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Whitred, Hamilton; Mrs. Campbell and family, Detroit; Ladies' Aid of Hastings United Church, Sunday School of Hastings United Church, Ladies' Aid of Norwood United Church, Women's Institute Norwood United Church, Women's Missionary Society Norwood United Church; Reeve and Council, Hastings; Mr. and Mrs. W. Brake, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Runnels, Mr. and Mrs. A. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. H. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Learmouth, Mr. and Mrs. N. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. John Duff, Hazel and Jean McDonald, A. F. and A. M. Lodge, Hastings; L.O.L. No. 50, Peterboro; L. O. B. A. 244, Peterboro; Mr. and Mrs. Childerhose, Peterboro; Lowe and Outram, Peterboro; Alexander Estate, Peterboro; John Sloan & Co., Peterboro; John Sloan Employees, Peterboro; Retail Grocers, Peterboro; Mary Batten and Howard Tretheway, Peterboro; R. and M. McMillan, Norwood; Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Scriver, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Mullen, Lindsay.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. J. M. Baker, L. E. Kelley, W. R. Learmouth, J. F. Jones, C. B. Plant and W. A. Walker.

Besides here sorrowing husband, she leaves to mourn the loss of a loving and devoted mother, two little girls, Evelyn, aged 8 years, and Madeline, aged 3 years; also father and mother and three brothers, Lloyd of Lindsay, Clifford and Everett at home, who have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their sad bereavement.

Interment took place in Norwood Cemetery beside a little daughter who died five years ago.

COMMUNION

Too tired to rest, too weary now to sleep,
Across the west I watch the shadows creep,
Too sad to weep.

Who has not had this moment in the years,
A time too sad to be a time for tears,
Too dark for fears?

There comes a day when human hearts conceal
Too much to say, too much to quite reveal
How much we feel.

Speech is the balm of those who suffer least
There is a calm a thousandfold increased
When words have ceased.

There is a pow'r that lifts our souls again,
There is an hour we stand apart from men—
But near God then.

CALLS HUMANS RADIO SETS

That radio-telegraphy and mental telepathy seem to be identical processes, is the declaration of Abbe Moreaux, one of the greatest Roman Catholic scientists in France. "Scientists," he said recently, "think today that the various waves in the atmosphere are of an electric nature at their base, and that all atoms, including those forming our brains, emit waves similar to those sent out by radio stations, and that they are capable of influencing appropriate receivers. According to our capacity we receive—generally without knowing it—an infinite number of radiations of all sorts that affect our brain cells, and, by their intermediary, our intelligence and our nervous system; and in the same way solar activity acts not only on individuals but on all people at the same time. I showed in 1910 that the great wars always follow large sun-spots."

HOW TO USE CHEESE

In Europe, Asia, and even in South America, cheese is eaten very largely in place of meat, while in America it is used somewhat as a condiment, being used for forming dishes or eaten in small quantities with crackers or bread near the end of a meal. Various cooked cheese dishes are served at after-the-theater suppers.

It is such a well known fact that these cooked cheese dishes produce nightmares that one of our first weekly comic pictures published in America was about the adventures met with in "Rarebit Dreams." It is unquestionably true that cooked cheese does not digest as readily as that which is not cooked, but part of the trouble is caused by the improperly cooked toast and other starchy foods which are used at these late supper meals. The diner has perhaps eaten a hearty dinner three or four hours before, and the stomach is still laboring with the evening meal.

Many people who have had unpleasant experiences with these cooked cheese meals get to believing that cheese is bad for them and that it is an unhealthful food.

Cheese makes an excellent substitute for meat, but should not be used in addition to meat. It is best to use plenty of leafy green vegetables with the cheese, and not use any other protein or any kind of highly starchy food at the same time.

The making of cheese in Europe must be considered an art, and requires great skill in order to produce and repeat a certain required flavor. In America cheese making has developed into a science, and there is little of domestic art about it. We now produce more cheese than any other country, but there is doubtless something lost which is found in the virtually homemade cheeses of the Old World. Those who can afford to buy so much of the imported cheese, and continue using a certain kind that has a certain peculiar flavor they like, will find that the cheese made in America is equally as wholesome and much cheaper in price.

The Cheddar cheese, named after the village of Cheddar, England, is much like our American York State or Canadian cheese. It is made from sweet milk, but the milk may be either whole, partly skimmed, or skimmed, and the cheeses may be white or colored yellow, and marketed either fresh or thoroughly ripened. The Camembert is a soft, rich cheese, which originated in Normandy, but is now also made in America. Cottage cheese, or "Smearcase," as it is called in Germany, is a sour, skim-milk cheese which is usually eaten quite fresh, but may be packed away in tubs to prevent further ripening. An excellent cheese may be made at home as follows: Allow whole milk to stand in the icebox for about ten days. Pour both curd and whey which has formed into a bowl, beat with an egg-beater, pour into a sack-shaped cheese cloth, tie the ends with a string and hang in the sun until all the whey drips away. This is something like the cottage cheese but being made with the whole milk has a rich flavor and is smooth, due to the fact that the normal amount of butter fat remains. Cheese made in this way is more easily digested than when the milk is partially cooked over the fire.

There is never any excuse for throwing away either skimmed or whole milk, for cheese can always be made from left-over milk. It is better to keep the milk on ice so the bacterial changes take place slowly. Try using cheese in place of meat part of the time, but use it with the green vegetables and not with the starches.

Questions and Answers.

Question: T. P. M. writes: "Please advise me what causes my head to ache. Sometimes I have a headache for a whole week without relief."

Answer: There are many causes of headaches. Here are some of them: Auto-intoxication, constipation; prolapsed organs, uterine congestion, eye strain, nerve depletion, and toxic poisoning from some chronic disease. Only a diagnosis will tell you which of these causes produces your headaches.

Question: Mother asks: "What is the best artificial food for a baby? How old must a baby be before he may have vegetable juice?"

Answer: After changing from breast nursing the baby should be given nothing but Holstein milk and orange juice up to about two years of age, after which he should take a little less milk and begin using the minced, non-starchy vegetables.

Question: H. L. M. asks: "Could a person having an old chronic osteomyelitis leg have dead bone in the leg? Would having slight pain, with scars on leg turning red, mean there was pus or dead bone there? This happens only when I do a lot of walking or driving a car. After once having osteomyelitis will I always have attacks every so often?"

Answer: Osteomyelitis can be cured in certain stages either by dieting or through surgery or by a combination of both of these treatments. The walking probably irritates your chronic osteomyelitis, but would not necessarily indicate that there is any dead bone remaining. A good diagnostician can tell you the exact condition of the bone through the aid of the X-ray. A permanent cure is possible if you take the right treatment in time.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

MONDAY, MARCH 26, 1928.

This may be a decidedly disappointing day to many, for threatening aspects dominate in the planetary government, astrologers announce. The afternoon is supposed to be more favorable to business than the morning.

The rule is more friendly to men and women who possess wealth and power than to the strivers of the world.

It is not an auspicious sway for soliciting favors of any sort and those who seek employment will be luckier under another rule of the stars.

The aspects may inspire a contentious and contumacious attitude of mind which precipitates quarrels.

Arrogance and stubbornness are supposed to be intensified at this time when a desire to demonstrate force may be strong.

The direction of the stars may encourage divorce and the record of 1928 will out-distance all previous years, it is foretold.

Lawmakers will be subject to severe criticism and many in legislatures as well as in Congress will lose favor in the coming months, astrologers forecast.

Although there may be many discouraging conditions apparent in the world today the seers prophesy that human attainment will reach a height never before even imagined.

Minds of supreme endowments are now at work in remote or hidden places and the results of their labors will make the century the most illustrious in history, it is prognosticated.

Education is subject to the most stimulating and progressive influences. In the colleges master instructors will multiply.

This is not a configuration favorable to women and they should turn their backs on romance until better aspects dominate.

The evening is read as an auspicious time for important conferences, or for making plans of any sort. It is lucky for state banquets.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a happy year in which there will be pleasure journeys and increased income.

Children born on this day should prosper in business. Both boys and girls born under this sign have the qualities that insure success.

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

TUESDAY, MARCH 27, 1928.

The early part of this day is read as favorable by astrologers who find the configuration lucky for most human ambitions.

This is a day auspicious for beginning long journeys and those that include long voyages should be fortunate.

Increase of travel among Americans will be great this spring when novel schemes will lure persons of small means.

New plans for bringing the peoples of the world into closer understanding will be launched with success, it is forecast and a political candidate will further them.

This is a day most stimulating to big enterprises and engineers should benefit especially.

Again the construction of costly public buildings is to be given impetus, it is prognosticated.

Beauty which is to gain tremendous influence even among commercial-minded Americans is to put its stamp upon many cities, if the stars be read aright.

The seers point out that the next few decades will mark the flowering and fruition of the highest ideals in the United States, but they warn of a far-off tide of trouble.

Today's planetary government is good for the keeping of promises and for honest exposition of every sort.

It should be a first rate sway under which to buy real estate or to invest in stocks, although a tricky market may be expected.

Women should find this a lucky day for shopping and they may even buy jewels without great fear of being foolish in their choice.

Persons whose birthdate it is should have a prosperous year with much new business or added income.

Children born on this day should succeed in mercantile pursuits. The subject of this sign are usually hard workers, but they often meet with setbacks.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE WATER STREETS

Baby Bunty and Vallie, the little rabbit girl who had been found in a Valentine basket on Uncle Wiggily's stoop, stood close to each other in front of the Italian rabbit burrow and waited to see what would happen when Mr. Longears reached the back end of the hole. For there Bunty said she had seen a big, white Bear.

"It is, very likely, my friend Mr. Whitewash, the Polar Bear from the North Pole," said Uncle Wiggily. "Though how he ever got over here to Italy I can't imagine."

"Perhaps he paddled his way on a cake of ice," suggested Vallie. When the little rabbit girls saw how brave Uncle Wiggily was they were no longer afraid.

"I don't believe Mr. Whitewash could come here on a cake of ice,' answered Mr. Longears as he kept on toward the back of the burrow. "In Italy the sun is always so warm, except in the high mountains, that the ice cake would melt. Hello there! Who are you?" suddenly asked Uncle Wiggily. He had seen the same white figure of a Bear that Bunty had noticed. But, strange to say, the Bear did not move.

"Hello there!" cried Uncle Wiggily again.

"What's the matter?" asked Bunty as she and Vallie walked toward the rabbit gentleman. "Won't Mr. Whitewash speak to you? Is he angry?"

"Oh, I couldn't think that of my friend Mr. Whitewash," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "But he is certainly acting queerly. He hasn't moved."

"Maybe he's frozen," suggested Vallie timidly.

"You can't freeze a Polar Bear," said Baby Bunty. "Can you, Unkie Wig."

Uncle Wiggily did not answer. He was looking at the big white Bear and listening to a noise in the burrow next door where the Italian rabbit lived.

All of a sudden this Italian rabbit, with the green rooster feathers in his hat, came into the hole where he said Uncle Wiggily and the bunny girls might sleep that night.

"What's the matter?" asked the Italian rabbit, whose name was Parma.

"Look at that big, white Bear!" exclaimed Bunty. "He might scratch us, for he isn't Mr. Whitewash as we thought at first."

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Parma. "That Bear will never bite anybody!"

"Why not?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Because he is only a bear carved out of white, marble stone," answered Parma. "He is just an image, or statue, of a Bear. You know the Italians are great people for making statues and images. That white stone Bear has been buried here a long time. I can see him from the end of my burrow. I came in to tell you about him so you wouldn't be afraid."

"But why do they leave this beautiful marble statue of a Bear buried in the grounds?" asked Bunty.

"It is a very old statue, I suppose," said Parma. "Italy is a very old country. Many years ago the people made statues and then came earthquake and eruptions of volcanoes or smoking mountains and whole cities were covered with dirt and ashes. Where we have our burrows was once a city and I suppose this Bear statue was part of it. Maybe the people who built a new city on the ruins of the old one don't know this Bear is down here. Some day he may be dug up."

"Well, as long as it is only a white, marble Bear he will not harm us," said Uncle Wiggily. So he dug more with his paws, making the back of the burrow larger so Vallie and Bunty could sleep in it. And soon they went to bed, close to the buried white marble Bear, who kept watch over them all night.

Uncle Wiggily curled up in the front of the burrow, after sitting with Mr. Parma for a time and eating some Italian lettuce, and almost before Bunty and Vallie knew it morning had come.

"Hello there!" cried Uncle Wiggily again.

"Where are we going today?" they asked as they found some clover leaves for breakfast.

"Mr. Parma is going to let me take his balloon airship and we are going for a ride," said Uncle Wiggily. Soon he and the little bunny girls were in the airship, which was made of a clothes basket with some toy circus balloons fastened to it. Up in the air they sailed and soon the wind was blowing them across Italy. They could look down and see the green country, where grapes were growing. Soon they sailed over a beautiful city. And Bunty, looking down, cried out:

"Look! Look! The streets are filled with water. See the water streets. There must be a flood!"

Uncle Wiggily looked over the edge of the clothes basket and laughed as he said: "Yes, those are water streets, all right, but it isn't a flood. This is Venice, a most beautiful Italian city. We shall go down and see those water streets."

Vallie and Bunty wondered how they could walk in water street, but they said nothing, waiting for what was next to happen. And if the sugar spoon will take a slice of bread for a ride in the gravy boat I shall tell you tomorrow about Uncle Wiggily and the smoking mountain.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The new "dripping" hemline is seen in this frock of navy-blue georgette trimmed with blue and rhinestone embroidery.

The spotlight of fashion is at present focussed upon the skirt. And in the struggle that ensues to determine the coming trend of fashion, the battle will rage almost entirely about the skirt.

For sports wear—real or assumed—the fairly short, fairly straight, fairly scant skirt remains. One or two of the French dressmakers are trying to offer a circular movement for sports skirts in place of pleats, but this is not particularly important.

Skirts of the non-sports sort may conveniently be grouped into one of two classes—the dripping sort and the sort that tend to bustle. And between these two skirts a wide gulf is fixed. There is no possible sort of compromise, and the silhouettes which they sponsor are as far apart as red is from yellow. Uneven, apparently informal drapery and an uneven, apparently irregular hemline characterize the former sort. More precise, more regular outlines are to be found in the latter sort with a tendency to raise the drapery upward toward the back where there is sometimes a bunching of material, or a sash-like arrangement suggestive of a bustle.

With the former fashion soft silks, georgette and chiffon are the more appropriate materials—with the latter, stiffer satins, taffetas, organdies and other crisp fabrics. There is a downward dipping toward the back with the first, an upward lifting toward the back with the latter. A decolletage deeper at the back than the front characterizes evening frocks of the first persuasion while in the latter sort we may see a revival of the fairly deep V decolletage at the front.

It is only fair to say that the dipping, dripping, uneven, skirt and silhouette have the floor at present and American dressmakers are in no hurry to see this fashion superceded by the crisper, more formal mode that is suggestive of 1880.

ASSOCIATION LINKS GRENFELL HELPERS

International Body Co-ordinates Work of Societies in Various Counties.

Some years ago it was found unsatisfactory that England, Canada, Newfoundland and the United States should each be contributing separately to the hospital and humanitarian work established by Sir Wilfrid in Labrador and Northern Newfoundland without co-ordination. Out of this need grew the International Grenfell Association. This Association is purely administrative. Twice each year representatives from the Royal National Mission of England; the Newfoundland Grenfell Association; the Grenfell Labrador Medical Mission of Canada; the New England Grenfell Association, with offices in Boston, and the Grenfell Association of America, with offices in New York, meet, discuss the needs of the entire Mission, determine what is essential, make up a budget and assess the contributing associations in proportion to their resources. For some years now the International Grenfell Association has been functioning admirably to the betterment of the work and with increasing economy. It has been the constant endeavour of the International Grenfell Association to throw more responsibility upon Newfoundland and Canada for the reason that their populations are the ones most concerned. As a reward for these efforts both Newfaundland and Canada have steadily increased their grants to the work, showing that its value is recognized, and the people benefitted have each year paid more liberally for service rendered.

The International Board consists of two representatives from each National Association, together with Sir Wilfred Grenfell as founder and superintendent and an executive officer. These ten representatives give of their time and thought voluntarily to forward this Mission work, in which they thoroughly believe.

MOVING PICTURE PROGRAM PLANNED

Will Be Shown at St. Paul's Under Auspices of W.M.S.

The W. M. S. of St. Paul's church has arranged a very interesting program for Tuesday evening of this week, when a four reel moving picture, with organ music, will be presented. The picture is made up of the following titles: A Prophecy Fulfilled; The Little Big Fellow; Voices Across the Sea; and, I See You Calling Me. Those who have seen the pictures say they are highly entertaining at the same time as they are educational, and are well worth seeing.

Vocal solos will be rendered by Harold Snelgrove, tenor, and John Anderson, baritone. There is no charge for admission, but the audience will have an opportunity during the evening of making a contribution toward the expense fund of the society under whose auspices the pictures are being shown.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

"Show me the road to happiness."
Brother, it isn't so hard to guess
Or so hard to find. It's a busy road;
You'll hear the whir of many a mill,
The chuck of many a wagon load,
For the road to happiness runs uphill.
It is farther on than the level land
Where the cowards pause and the idle stand.

And yet it is near to you; very near.
It is always around you, now and here.
Do not look for a castle's towers.
But an open door, and a cottage fire,
Look for a garden red with flowers.
And a little church with a single spire;
And women sweeping the dust away,
And men at labor, and babes at play.

Show you the road to happiness?
Brother, it isn't so hard to guess;
You will know the road by a thousand things:
The tap of the hammer, the clang of tool,
The little song that a mother sings;
The romping children home from school—
For earth is lovely; and God is kind;
And happiness not so hard to find.

Victorias Win First Game In Allan Cup Series

TAKE ONE GAME LEAD IN SERIES BY WHITEWASHING MANITOBA UNIVERSITY SEXTETTE 2 TO 0

Western Aspirants Put Up a Hard Battle Against Montreal Club.

STRONG ON DEFENCE.

Teams Clash in Second Game For Allan Cup To-night.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 26.—(Canadian Press.) — Montreal Victorias carried the challenge of the east for supremacy in amateur hockey into a one game lead over the western aspirants for the title by trouncing the Manitoba University sextette 2-0 here Saturday night. Coming as they did on long shots from far outside the Varsity defence, both of the goals could be classed as nothing other than the "soft" variety. They were tallied, however, at a time in the final period when the Victorias were tossing every ounce of their strength against the bulwarks of a defensive wall that had beat them back unmercifully throughout the two opening periods, and for that reason alone it cannot be said the goals were unearned.

The second game of the series, victory in which decides possession of the coveted Allan Cup, will be fought out Monday night. One more win by the Montrealers will send the trophy back to the Victoria club, which held it the first year it was introduced by Sir Montagu Allan for competition. The western prides must defeat their eastern opponents two straight games to capture the ancient silverware and the Dominion amateur title which goes with it.

The Manitoba representatives will not go into the second game of the series with a lessened prestige because of their defeat Saturday. They showed themselves to be a team with defensive strength galore and an abundance of fighting ability on the attack. But the close back-checking of the Victoria crew was too much for them and only a few of their offensive thrusts could pierce in close enough to really threaten the eastern goal citadel.

Play Strong Offensive.

On the offensive the Vics appeared to have had a shade the best of the play, but the Students' bulky rearguards, Bard Novey and Guy Williamson, were easily the stronger of the two defences. Throughout the tussle Victorias were carried out of the danger zone by the hefty Manitoba backs and to pierce through them for a close-in shot on the western net bordered on the impossible. The Varsity team also had a way of packing its defence that made it approximately as difficult to crack as a stone wall. The Manitoba goal zone was being this protected when the Easterners registered their two goals.

Nearly eight minutes of the final frame had gone when Jimmy Thomson ,wiry Vic right winger, accounted for the first tally with a backhand shot. Thomson checked the rubber away from Ward at centre ice and set for a charge but on his own wing he was blocked completely. Jimmy flashed across the arena to the left boards looking for an opening in the Varsity defence and when none presented itself, re pivoted and lifted the rubber over the heads of the Students. Art Puttee dropped to his knees in an effort to catch the floating puck, but it struck his goalstick and ricochetted into the twine.

The second goal was a heartbreaker for the large Manitoba following which was numbered among the some 6,500 fans who witnessed the tussle. Stewart Shearer, the star defenceman for the Montreal club, notched it on a long range shot he sent in from near centre ice. Shearer broke away with the puck from near his own net but he was met by the same packed Vasity defense wall that forced Thomson to shoot from far out. Noted for his vicious shooting, Shearer let fly an accurately placed smoking drive. The puck grazed the arm of Guy Williamson in its flight and dropped to the ice just in front of the Manitoba net. Putee attempted to bat the disc out to the side, but it bounded crazily over his stick, and bulged the twine. This goal came five minutes and twenty seconds after the first Vic counter.

Play Their Positions

The Manitobans tossed everything they had on the offensive for the remaining minutes of the battle but as before, the Victorias were a pack of back-checking demons playing their positions perfectly and the Students could not get in close enough to really threaten the Easterner's goal advantage.

Offensively, the winners had their strongest members in Howard Grant, Sig Slater, Art Abbott and Thomson. Grant moved with the speed of a greyhound on all of his many rushes but he did not carry sufficient weight to break past the helfty Western players.

Ward McVey, Andy Blair and the diminutive Jack St. John scintillated on the Manitoba line-up. Blair won the applause of the large crowd early in the game by his masterful stick-handling. Many times he broke away with a burst of speed that carried him in menacingly but he could not catch the Victoria netman, Bill Cockburn, off guard. None of the Students managed to squirm through the Montreal backs more often than the sorrell-topped St. John and on three separate occasions he was robbed of what looked certain goals when Cockburn sprawled his form clear across the mouth of his net. McVey was one of the best on the ice. Defensively he was a tower of strength and for a man of his great size he displayed remarkable speed on the attack.

The strenuous checking which prevailed for the entire sixty minutes of play on only a very few occasions developed a vicious strain. Only four minor penalties were handed out by Referee Burgoyne throughout the game. The line-up.

Manitoba.—Putee, goal; McVey and Williamson, defence; Blair, centre; Mackenzie and Watson, wings; Collins and St. John, subs.

Montreal.—Cockburn, goal; Shearer and Carlin, defence; Abbot, centre; Slater and Thompson, wings; Grant and Valois, subs.

DELEGATES DISCUSS ROUTINE BUSINESS

C. A. H. A. Meet N. H. L. Rules Committee For Discussion On Tuesday.

OTTAWA, March 26. — Canadian Press. — Routine business in the main occupied the attention of the delegates to the fourteenth annual convention of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association which opened at the Chateau Laurier on Saturday. The meeting will continue tomorrow when it is expected that its deliberations will be concluded.

There will be a meeting with the National hockey league rules committee on Tuesday to discuss a uniform code of playing rules. This committee will be named to-day and it is probable that W. A. Hewitt, the registrar and treasurer, will be the chairman of the body, meeting President Calder and his N.H.L. associates.

The meeting was quiet and uneventful. The morning deliberations were curtailed by the operations of the automatic riveters engaged in work on an extension to the hotel building. The main discussion centred around the application of the Canadan National Railways for affiliation.

The mercantile and commercial hockey problem is a contentious matter among the amateur authorities, and it was decided to leave it in the hands of the resolutions committee composed of the senior delegates from the nine provinces.

There was formal discussion on the proposal by P. H. Scott, W. Kilby and C. R. Croon, representatives of the C.N.R. They emphasized the fact that sooner or later the C.A.H.A. would have to give recognition to the mercantile hockey organizations.

In Quebec and Manitoba commercial hockey is very popular and instances were recorded by delegates where they were seriously interfering with the progress of hockey coming under the jurisdiction of bodies affiliated with the C.A.H.A. In Winnipeg the Mercantile League there has actually established an ascendancy in the matter of achieving public recognition.

W. A. Fry, vice president of the C.A.H.A. who presided in the absence of Pres. F. E. Sandercock, of Calgary, turned the request over to the resolutions committee, who will make their report later.

E. A. Gilroy, president of the Manitoba amateur hockey association, opposed the proposal in toto, but the Quebec delegates representing an affected district, were inclined to compromise with the situation, provided the C.N.R. would abide by regulations laid down by the C.A.H.A.

They promised to do this in making their application.

While the question may be shelved at this meeting it is felt that it constitutes a live issue. Some were inclined to believe that mercantile hockey menaces the existence of amateur hockey, or at least the control of the C.A.H.A. President Gilroy was inclined to view its possibilities with grave concern.

Other delegates felt that if the C.A.H.A. relaxed from its rigid code and admited to the C.N.R. that it would have to undertake the control of other organizations which would considerably widen the scope of its operations. The question may broaden out in to-day's deliberations to become a contentious issue.

In future teams entering the C.A.H.A. playdowns will be allowed to use three extra players plus a spare goalkeeper instead of two. This was passed unanimously. Some radical changes, regarding the ruling out of a player when he breaks his stick, and to define the powers of assistant referees were voted down.

The treasurer's report showed that there was a balance of $3730.26 for the junior hockey account as contrasted with the balance of $174.95 for the senior account.

Registrar W. A. Hewitt emphasized the fact that there had been a notable increase in the junior registration. Representatives from the nine provinces will confer with Mr. Northey, Allan cup trustee, to complete the transfer from the trustees to the C.A.H.A.

It is expected that there will be considerable more discussion to-day when the mercantile hockey problem will be disposed of and officers elected. Before adjourning Saturday P. J. Mulqueen spoke briefly on the accomplishments of the Canadian Olympic team and W. A. Hewitt followed along similar lines. Mr. Mulqueen took occasion to state that no part of his expenses were paid by the C.A.H.A. when he accompanied the Grads to Europe. His statement was gratuitous as there had been no discussion raised on this point and it was not in question.

Promoters Form Alliance To Break Monopoly In Heavyweight Division

CHICAGO, March 26 (Canadian Press)—A promotional alliance to break into what they termed "the monopoly in the heavyweight boxing division" was formed here Saturday by Humbert J. Fugazy, New York promoter, and James C. Mullen of Chicago.

The two promoters, their statement said, joined forces to develop a logical contender to challenge for the heavyweight title, and also contenders in other boxing divisions.

Fugazy, who plans building the Metropolitan Coliseum in New York, a sports arena seating 32,000, said he would co-operate with Mullen in building a similar arena in Chicago. They announced their intention of holding elimination bouts, not only in the heavyweight division, but in all other divisions.

Fugazy and Mullen propose to sign all logical contenders in all divisions, assuring them matches in New York as well as Chicago.

While the promoters did not mention Tex Rickard's name in their statement, it is generally accepted in boxing circles that they were brought together in a mutual desire to compete with him.

IN TRAINING CAMP

TID-BITS FROM MAJOR CAMPS IN SOUTH

LAKELAND, Fla. March 26.—(Canadian Press.) —Eddie Lautenbacher is shaping out as a promising hurler for the Reading Internationals, who rounded out their third week of spring training here.

Lautenbacher has turned in some impressive performances in the preseason drive which indicate he will be an effective moundsman when the Keystones get under way in the championship struggle.

During the closing stretch last year, Lautenbacher distinguished himself in his first start for Reading by shading the veteran Al Mamaux, in a hook-up with the Bears at Newark. The Bears scored a run on Eddie in the first inning, but were shut out thereafter in a tussle that went ten innings with Reading the eventual winner by 2 to 1.

Reading has only six pitchers, all right-handers, but reinforcements of three hurlers are due from the Chicago Cubs. The starboard heavers besides Lautenbacher are Slicker Parks, Nick Harrison, Steve Woodgie, Lester Touprich and Harry Siebold. Manager Harry Hinchman says he has an airtight infield with two veterans, Deacon Scott at short and Chick Hawks at first, along with two youngsters, Tommy Sewell at third and Charles "Tweet" Walsh at second.

The Keystones are equipped with veteran backstops in Harry Lake and Fred Songstock. The regular outfield is to be made up of Frank Kern, from Nashville, George Quellich, a holdover, and either Jimmy Moore or Andy Moore.

While the Reading club had a poor season in the last championship, Biss Hinchman is optimistic about the prospects for the approaching struggle which he says will find the Keystones in the thick of the battle.

LES CANADIENS WIN 4 TO 0 TILT FROM SENATORS

Spectacular Goal-tending of Connell Saves Ottawa From Greater Defeat.

PLAY TIGHT HOCKEY.

Senators Unable To Break the Air-tight Defence of Flying Frenchmen.

MONTREAL, Que., Mar. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—Canadiens, leaders of the Canadian section of the National Hockey League, finished up their scheduled season in a blaze of glory here Saturday night by whitewashing the Ottawa Senators four to nothing. The victory of the Canadiens was as clean cut as the score would indicate, and the Senators would have been considerably more humiliated but for the spectacular goal-tending of Alex. Connell. One goal in each of the first and second periods and two in the third session gave the locals their margin of victory.

For the first ten minutes of the initial session it looked like as if the Senators were going to give the Canadiens a hard battle. However, the Canadian section leaders' airtight defense, backed up with some excellent work by Hainsworth, kept the Capital team at bay. The first goal came in a little over eleven minutes after the game started. Morenz engineered the play that resulted in Patterson scoring. The Stratford flash started on one of his characteristic rushes and when he was skated into the corner by the Ottawa defense, he passed out to Patterson who was uncovered. The latter gave Connell no chance with his bullet-like drive from a few feet out. For the balance of the session the Senators battled like Trojans in an effort to tie the issue but their efforts crashed on a solid Canuck barrier.

Canadiens continued on the offensive in the middle session and kept the visitors backed up in their own territory for the greater part of the time. Clancy, Boucher and Kilrea were the only members of the Ottawa team to break through for shots, and these were handled with ease by Hainsworth. Just before the end of the period, and with Clancy and Smith on the penalty bench, Leduc took a pass from Gaudreault in the goal mouth and drove home Canadiens' second counter.

The visitors had several good chances to score in the third period, but a combination of erratic shooting and poor passing at the goal mouth robbed them of possible goals. Shields, one of the latest additions to the Senator line-up ,went through alone on one occasion and his shot just missed by inches. Kilrea repeated the performance a few minutes later when he had only Hainsworth to beat.

With defeat practically certain, the Senatorial management made frequent use of their substitutes. Canadiens made it three to nothing when Gaudreault went through for tripping. Just before the game ended Joliat scored the final tally of the game.

The teams:

Canadiens—Goal, Hainsworth; defence, Mantha, Gardiner; centre, Morenz; wings, Gagne and Joliat; subs, Langlois, Hart, Larochelle, Gaudreault and Leduc.

Ottawa— Goal, Connell; defence, Boucher, Clancy; centre, Nighbor; wings, Kilrea, Finnigan; subs, Grosvenor, Broadbent, A. Smith, Denneny, Shields and Godin.

The Summary.

First Period.
1—Canadiens, Patterson, 11.45.
Penalties: A. Smith. Grosvenor, Boucher.
Second Period.
2—Canadiens, Leduc, 18.20.
Penalties: Mantha (2), Grosvenor, Morenz, Clancy, Smith.
Third Period.
3—Canadiens, Gaudreault, 17.51.
4—Canadiens, Joliat, 2.00.
Penalties: A. Smith, Gaudreault (2), Shields.

Henry Ciuci Wins Florida Golf Honors

JACKSONVILLE, March 26.—Canadian Press. — Henry Ciuci, the New York professional, won the Florida Open Golf Championship here on Saturday with a card of 235 for the 72 holes.

The little New Yorker staged a driving finish in the final 18 hole round to overtake Bobbie Cruickshank also of New York, who had been in the van of the field throughout.

Al. Watrous, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, finished second with 287 and Cruickshank tied with Al. Espinoza, Chicago, at 289 each for third money.

Eddie Held, New York amateur, sank his tee shot on the 186 yard par three hole for a hole in one on the afternoon round.

The hole considered the most difficult par three on the Florida Country Club course, is an island affair with three deep sand traps almost surrounding it. He finished with a 296.

CELTIC WILL PLAY RANGERS

Glasgow Teams To Meet in the Final For Scottish Association Cup.

SOCCER RESULTS.

GLASGOW, Scotland, March 26.—(Canadian Press Cable).—For the first time since 1909 the two great Glasgow soccer teams—Celtic and Rangers—will meet in the final for the Scottish Football Association Cup. These two teams emerged victorious from the semi-finals Saturday. Celtic defeated Queen's Park at Ibrox Park in the presence of 55,000 people by two goals to one, while Rangers won from Hibernians at Edinburgh by three goals to nil before a crowd numbering 44,000. The last time these teams met in a Cup final there was a riot and the trophy was not awarded to either team.

The game at Glasgow was played in a downpour. Queen's Park were out of luck and did not deserve to be defeated. Both of Celtic's goals were secured in the first half and were of the lucky variety, the first coming from McLean and the second from McGrory. McLelland got through to score for Queen's Park a minute after the re-start. The amateurs had the Celtic team floundering on the defence for forty minutes, but could not get the equalising goal owing to fine goalkeeping by Thompson and very bad luck. McAlpine, inside left for the amateurs, was the star of the game.

Rangers had an easy journey against Hibernians. The match was played in fine weather. Archibald scored in the first two minutes of play, Robb badly misjudging the shot on goal. McPhail added the second easily. Simpson scored after the interval. Rangers always looked like winners, as the Hibernians played like disjointed units.

New Club.

LONDON, Eng., March 26 (Canadian Press).—The Argonauts, a new national amateur association football club, proposes to compete in the English Football League games. Yesterday it was announced that this club had rented the White City stadium as a home ground, and would play there next season, provided it was elected to the Third Division, Southern Section, of the English League. It is not thought there will be much difficulty in the amateur club securing admission to the League.

Replay Staged To-Day.

LONDON, Eng., March 26 (Canadian Press Cable).—The re-play in the semi-final game between Huddersfield Town and Sheffield United necessitated by the tie of these two teams Saturday will be staged at Everton to-day.

LINDSAY TEAMS BEAT NORMALS

Budding Teachers Go Down To Defeat Before Collegiate Pupils.

.. FAST BASKETBALL. ..

The Lindsay Collegiate basketball teams, girls and boys, went home with a clean slate, following their Saturday afternoon campaign against the Peterborough Normal School teams on the local "Y" gym. floor. The girls had won their game against the lady "teachers" by 30-10, and the boys had carried off the weighty end of a 23-16 count; both games were played before a fair-sized gallery of spectators and were fast but clean throughout. Miss Jane Stewart of the L.C.I. handled the first game, while Scotty McLeish, of Peterborough, was on the whistle for the boys' set-to.

In both games the visiting students showed a better organized attack than their opponents, yet they went through many anxious moments when the teachers climbed in and threatened to pull the proverbial fat out before it was all burned. The girls' game was closest in the earlier stages while the boys dished up their best in the last ten minutes, when the Normalites momentarily recovered from a streak of wild shooting and outscored their opponents.

The Girls' Game.

The girls' game got under way sharp at 2.45 p.m., and for the first of the three ten-minute sessions was as close as could be desired. The Normal school girls showed some close combination efforts and were going along on an almost even plane with their opponents, with the result that when the whistle blew only four points separated the two teams, Lindsay having counted twelve to the eight of the opposition. Incidentally, it might be mentioned that three of the Normal players were former L.C.I. girls, namely, H. Sluggett, T. Harcus and E. Davidson.

Lack of practice told on the local girls in the middle and final sessions, which went to the visiting cagers by 8-2 and 10-0 respectively. Seemingly they put up just as good a game as in the initial chucker, but their shooting fell off and plays went astray which earlier in the struggle might have registered. Nevertheless, it was a good game to watch. With all due credit to the winners, it should be a healthy scrap when the same teams meet in a return game on the Lindsay floor.

The teams:

P.N.S.—Forwards, E. Davidson, C. Lockeridge and M. Redden; centres, N. Teskey, F. Walbridge and H. Sluggett; guards, T. Harcus, A. Perrin and E. Miller.

L.C.I.—Forwards, M. Werry, M. James and M. Dark; centres, B. Keys, M. Fitchett and H. McLennan; guards E. Sanderson, M. Ferguson, F. Fever.

Boys' Game.

The boys' game was well worth the price of admission, though to the home town fans it may have been a disappointment in that the Normalites went down by 24-16. Scotty McLeish, in charge, kept the play going every minute, and went hard on those who showed any tendency toward rough stuff, though there was very little of this to be checked. The local school representatives, having had plenty of practice within the last couple of weeks, nevertheless found the going heavy owing to the close checking methods of the opposition. The visitors not only uncorked some good defensive work, but showed plenty of speed on the attack, so that when the first of the two periods was over there was a large count on the score boards, Lindsay being ten up, having counted sixteen to the teachers' six.

It was in the last period that the locals showed their best form, for they climbed right in and outscored the visitors by 10-7. In so doing, they showed a much better attack and more rational shooting than in the previous session, while the Scugogites suffered a lull in their shooting barrage. They came back strong in the dying minutes to add a couple of sinkers, however, and both teams were standing the wear and tear well at the final whistle.

The teams:

Normals — Forwards. Howe and Campbell; centre, Cook; defence, Gardiner and Godden.

L.C.I.—Forwards, Sinclair, Mitchell; centre, Brethour; defence, Tamblyn and Beatty; subs, Spratt, Begley and O'Leary.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE BIG PARADE" AT THE CAPITOL TONIGHT, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY, WITH DAILY MATINEES — THE BIG PICTURE IS BEING SHOWN AT REGULAR PRICES.

An interesting feature is the marvelous reception of "The Big Parade" which opens a three-day engagement at the Capitol to-day has received in all the cities where it has been shown is the unanimity of opinion from all reviewers that "The Big Parade" is 100 per cent. Generally in each big town there is one severe critic whose comments the press agents carefully put in cold storage whilst they repeat only the encomiums of the more complacent. But in the case of "The Big Parade" the whole sheaf of reviews can be laid on the dramatic editor's desk. So far there has been no Zeno or Diogenes to damn it.

Perhaps one of the causes of this astonishing unanimity is that both Laurence Stallings, author, and King Vidor worked with heart and main to present the truth of the Big Show, as the doughboys called the Big Parade of the A.E.F. to the front. Anyhow, the burden of all the reviewers' comment is that they attained essential truth and irradiated it with romance and humor. John Gilbert stars in the picture with Renee Adoree as the featured player.

AT THE REGENT.

LITTLE LORELEI LEE TUMBLES THEM ALL.

Readers who think that Anita Loos book "Gentlemen prefer Blondes," is an epic of the American gold diggers are right, but those who think it is an indictment of her have missed the point entirely.

"Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," which Paramount produced and which is at the Regent now, is a great woman's picture. Every woman who sees it is going to enjoy seeing the male characters of the picture yield to the glib, innocent-seeming flattery of the little defenceless girl, who has no weapons but her sharp wits.

For it is the utter foolishness of the male sex that Miss Loos ridicules. It was there, hidden sometimes but there nevertheless in every line of her book. Malcolm St. Clair and his splendid cast got the same spirit into the picture. Lorelei, like those famous policemen of the north, always gets her man with ulterior motive, his pocketbook. It is not exaggeration, either. Miss Loos has simply hit on the fact that most men are simply waiting around for some clever little gold digger to pluck them.

It makes no difference what kind of a man he is—a girl as shrewd as Lorelei could get him. In the picture there are shown dozens of men succumbing to her wiles—she gets 'em all. There are farm hands, business men, travelling salesmen, policemen, judges, college boys and reformers. They are American, English and French. It makes no difference what nationality or the occupation. Lorelei is smart enough to get them all.

Those people who think that Miss Loos' satirical darts were directed at the gold digger are dead wrong. It is the male sex she aimed at—and hit.

BRITISH MUSIC BEING FEATURED

Songs of Period From 1750 to 1850 in Male Voice Choir Program.

"RULE BRITANNIA" LEADS.

One of the interesting features of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir concert program is that British composers (1750-1850) have been remembered. This year being the fiftieth anniversary of the death of Dr. Thomas Augustine Arne, the composer of the famous patriotic song, "Rule Britannia,' 'this song, which will continue to be heard as long as love of country animates the breasts of Britishers, is their opening number. Dr. Arne was the first to introduce female voices in oratorio choirs. He is chiefly known in these days for his setting of Shakespeare's songs and his charming ballads.

"The Wolf" (Robber) — another famous song by William Shield, Master of the King's Music, 1317, is also included. The composer must have had Robin Hood, the Captain of the Foresters, in mind when writing this song.

A selection, "Reminiscences of British Song Masters" (1750-1850) will be sung. Songs included are:

"I Am a Friar of Orders Grey" (Reeve).

"Will-o'-the-Wisp" (Cherry).

"Good-bye, Sweetheart, Good-bye" (Hatton).

"The Death of Nelson" (Braham).

(As a national song this has pleased, and continues to please, a vast majority of the people of the British Isles.)

"Friend of the Brave" (Callcott).

"The Bell-Ringer" (Wallace).

No composer of his day enjoyed so varied and picturesque a career as Wallace. He led an orchestra in th Dublin Theatre in boyhood. When he migrated to Australia, 100 sheep from Governor Sir John Burke were part payment for a concert given in Sydney. Then he wandered into New Zealand, where he was rescued from death by the daughter of a native chief. He embarked on a whaler and narrowly escaped death in a mutiny on board the vessel. He next appeared in India, where he won the admiration of the Begum of Oude, and before returning to London toured Latin America. In 1845 he composed the opera, "Maritana," probably the best known opera in the Old Land.

THE CHURCHES

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL

Speaking with regard to the coming fortnight, the ending of the Lenten season in the Passion time, Rev. P. Costello adjured his congregations at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday to strive to refrain from worldly amusements during this finale to the penitential season.

"The whips and scourges of our sins lacerate the sacred Body of our Divine Lord. Christ on the Cross, looking down through the centuries, could vision the spectacle of those created in His own image and likeness, sinning against him time and again and in many ways. We see our Divine Lord an object of ridicule before the populace, suffering because of the sins of mankind.

"In this Passion time, Mother Church gives up an opportunity to perform acts of penance, reparation and mortification. The Stations of the Cross form an admirable devotion for this season. As we meditate upon the sufferings of Christ, we can see ourselves standing upon the platform with Pilate and condemning Jesus to death, we can see ourselves as those soldiers who forced Him upon the way to Golgotha, and we can behold ourselves in that hard, stiff-necked race who rejoiced at His sufferings on the cross. We who are guilty of mortal sin take an equal part in the Crucifixion of our Lord. In His agony in the garden, in His scourging at the pillar, in His mental torture when He was mocked and reviled and spit upon, we have a hand, when we contribute to the scandals and the immodesties of a sinful world. We drive the nails in His sacred hands and pierce His sacred head with thorns when we persist in evil ways. In this holy season, we have an opportunity to expiate through acts of penance and mortification and through more assiduous attention to prayer."

CUSHENDUN PLAN WINS APPROVAL

Britain Congratulated On the Statesman Attending Arms Limitation Conference.

LONDON, March 26. — Canadian Press Cable. — Lord Cushendun's proposed plan in his note at Geneva to the United States, France and Japan limiting all future battleships to thirty thousand tons, reducing guns from a 16 inch maximum to 13.5 inches, and extending the life of capital ships from twenty to twenty-six years, is described by the Daily Teelgraph's Geneva correspondent as a happy outcome of the recent session of preparatory disarmament committee conferenec.

On one point all parties seem to agree, the correspondent says, and this is that Great Britain is to be congratulated upon being represented on the committee by so able a statesman and orator as Lord Cushendun.

NEW YORK, March 26 (Canadian Press).—The Times to-day quotes an unnamed representative of the Radio Corporation of America as predicting that "one year ought to see television in the home."

GERMANS BEGIN FLIGHT TO U. S.

Will Refuel at Dublin on the Journey From Berlin To New York.

THREE MEN IN PLANE.

NEW YORK, March 26 (Canadian Press).—The New York Evening Post, in a copyrighted story to-day, says that a German Junkers monoplane with a crew of three men left Tempelhoffer airfield at 8.20 this morning to the first lap of a flight to New York. An overnight stop will be made at Dublin, Ireland, where the plane will be re-fuelled for the long atlantic hop. The aviators are Baron Von Huenfeld, owner of the plane; Capt. Koehl, pilot, and Mechanic Spindler. With favorable weather conditions they plan to leave Ireland at daylight to-morrow, and to arrive at Mitchell Field on Wednesday.

Bremen Used Again.

Not even the closest friends of the fliers knew that they were starting the long flight, and the take off was somewhat of a mystery to the officials. The flight was undertaken with the Junkers' single motor plane Bremen, which was used in an attempted westward flight last summer but only reached the west coast of Ireland, being forced to turn back by gales after a 22 hour flight.

Later reports from Berlin substantiated the Evening Post story, and said that the fliers had taken off at 8.20 on what purported to be a trial flight. When they had not returned shortly afterward it was believed that they had headed for Ireland.

The Bremen took off with only a limited supply of fuel and for this reason it was assumed that Captain Koehl would attempt only to reach Baldonnel. Mechanic Spindler is a former war aviator. Koehl, still chafing under last years failure to make the westward flight, had steadfastly denied that he was planning another flight, although he was recently in Baldonnel for the purpose of inspecting the accommodation for a final take off for America from that point. The Bremen was favored by ideal flying weather to-day.

Arrives at Baldonnel.

DUBLIN, March 26. — Canadian Press. — The German Junker trans-Atlantic plane, Bremen, on the first lap of a flight from the east to the west across the Atlantic, arived at Baldonnel aerodrome late to-day from Tempelhofer Field.

Advertising Then And Now

It was the custom back in 1850 when farm animals were lost for the owner to have notice sheets printed, such as the one exhibited in The Examiner's window, in order to bring them back into the fold.

Nowadays, however, a small advertisement in the newspapers is not only cheaper, but reaches more people.

GARDEN HILL BOY WINS SILVER CUP

Franklin Bannister Adjudged Best Junior Orator in East Durham.

MILLBROOK, Mar. 26.— An oratorical contest, for the farm boys and girls of East Durham, under the auspices of the Junior Farmers' organization, was held in the town hall here on Friday night, the event being the initial one of its kind to be carried through in this community.

J. Y. Kellough, agricultural representative for Durham, was in the chair and explained the nature and purpose of the contest, the advantage to the young folk of being able to speak in public with comparative ease, and the educational value in preparing the material on the subject presented, being two features given particular emphasis. The age limit for contestants is from 16 to 28 years.

The judges were W. B. Reynolds, B.S.A., of Port Hope, and Mr. Whitslock, of Toronto. The presentation of the prizes won by two of the junior farmers, George McKnight and Archie Matchett, for judging at the Winter Fair, Toronto, which should have been made at the public banquet recently held in the armouries, but had to be postponed because of lack of time, took place on Friday evening, Mr. Kellough giving the boys the awards — books on live stock written by the late Professor Wade Toole.

Miss Jean Hawkins, of Canton ,won first place in the contest for girls, giving a fine address on "The History of Agriculture"; Miss Bertha Lang came second, her theme being, "Jack Miner and the Birds."

Franklin Bannister, of Garden Hill, stood first in the boys' competition, his subject, which was handled in a most commendable manner, being "The Beautification of Farm Homes"; second standing went to Mackintosh Bradshaw, of South Monaghan, his theme being, "Agriculture"; Dickson Hutchison, of Cavan, came third, speaking on the topic, "Reforestation"; Carmen Seymour stood fourth with an address on "The Educational Value of Fairs and Exhibtions," and George McKnight fifth, his choice being, 'The Junior Farmers' Organization."

The handsome silver cup for the best speech of the evening was won by Franklin Bannister, Mr. Whitelock making the presentation. Helpful criticism was offered in a most kindly manner by the judges at the conclusion of the speaking contest, and appreciatively mentioned by the prize winners in acknowledging the varying awards.

Mr. Kellough gave a brief address explaining the work of the agricultural representative in reference to the junior farmers' activities and mentioned also some plans for future work among the boys and girls of the rural districts throughout the county.

The one disappointing feature of Friday's gathering was the smallness of the attendance. This could probably be accounted for in two ways—the lack of a sufficient amount of publicity in making the contest generally known, and the decidedly unfavorable weather. Through unavoidable circumstances the musical numbers, which were intended to add variety to the program, had to be omitted.

George McKnight and Archie Matchett were among the 500 boy who won a free trip to the Roy Winter Fair in connection with th Junior Farmers' judging competition, and the awards presented o Friday evening were because o standing obtained when essays o the trip were subsequently written

What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

VII—Man's Growing Independence.

VOLTAIRE was no "atheist" as the narrow clerics of his day proclaimed. The charge of atheism has been the too ready cry of formalism against all courageous thinkers; even Socrates was denounced by pious Athenians as "the atheist who says there is only one God." Voltaire erected a church to God and has left us a clear and noble statement of his faith.

But hundreds of thousands of the men and women of his day were atheists, and some of them were made so by that Lisbon earthquake. They could no longer tolerate a deity who would slaughter thirty thousand people gathered humbly in his worship.

So in that age, and in all ages, the wickedness of nature has grasped hands with the widening discoveries of science as the second great fact in the case against religion.

The third fact in the case is man's growing independence. While the struggle for existence still hung in the balance, man needed the help of whatever gods there were. But the struggle is nearly, if not entirely, won. Famine has been banished from all well organized communities.

Modern nations have solved their problems of production; when farmers are in trouble these days it is not usually because they have raised too little but because they have raised too much.

Free From Elements

It has been remarked by many historians that so long as men live in the country and get their sustenance direct from the soil they tend to be religious. They are inescapably conscious of their dependence upon the favor of the elements. But transport them into cities and that consciousness diminishes. There, life is ordered by powers that can be felt and seen and measurably controlled. Food comes from the grocery, and water from the tap; neither the sun nor the clouds are facts of supreme importance.

Similarly, prosperity has almost always been accompanied by a decline of religion. Even so faithful a believer as Sir Francis Bacon noted that fact, saying: "The causes of atheism are, divisions in religion, if they be many; for any one division addeth zeal to both sides; but many divisions introduce atheism. . . . And lastly, learned times, especially with peace and prosperity, for troubles and adversities do more bow men's minds to religion."

Religion Among Weak

To which we may properly add the testimony of Seelye, the great teacher and divine: "Religious feeling is generally strong in proportion to the sense of weakness and helplessness. It is when man's own resources fail that he looks most anxiously to find a friend in the universe. Religion is man's consolation in the presence of a necessity which he cannot resist; his refuge when he is deserted by his own power of energy or ingenuity. Negroes are religious; the primitive races, in the presence of natural phenomena which they could not calculate or resist, were intensely religious; women in their dependence are more religious than men; Orientals under despotic governments are more religious than the nations of the West. On the other hand, a time of great advance in power, whether scientific power over nature, or the power to avert evils, given by wealth and prosperity, is commonly a time of decline in religious feeling."

In other words, the ladder of faith is good while you are down and struggling to get up, but it is normally forgotten when you have arrived.

Outlook Not Bright

We are in the sort of age which Seelye describes in his last sentence. The "advance in power over nature" has been greater than ever before. "Wealth and prosperity" have increased beyond all dreams, and so skilfully are we beginning to master the intricacies of the "business cycle" that there are some, including Henry Ford, who believe that "a hundred years of prosperity" lie ahead. If that be true the outlook for religion, according to the observations of Bacon and Seelye, is not bright.

Science goes on merrily stripping the universe of the mysteries which once were religion's stock in trade. Nature continues unmoral regardless of all preaching of the rule of a loving God. And prosperity is becoming so abundant as to conquer the sense of need.

Religion Past?

Does not all this mean that the days of religion are past? Should we now abolish without regret what we have seemingly outgrown? Is it time to welcome bravely the new day of science, of natural law, of prosperity humanly created and controlled?

Before we give a final answer, and just as a matter of historic interest, we may pause long enough on the threshold of this glorious era to reflect that it is not without precedent. On several occasions in the past humanity has seemingly won its upward struggle and been blessed with power and plenty. There came such a period in the latter days of Greece.

Tomorrow—"No More World to Conquer."

What the Canadians Were Doing.

On the morning of the 25th the armoured cars and several batteries were hurried to the southern edge of Cizancourt, where the line of the Nineteenth (Imperial) Corps had been pierced. On the way a squadron of enemy planes swooped down and engaged the column, getting the worst of the battle. They lost one plane and, taking discretion as the better part of valor, fled to their own lines. The enemy now knew of the presence of the armored cars and continually swept the roads with high-explosive shells, but all the gun cars got through unscathed. One of the Sifton cars found a batallion of the Sherwood Foresters in difficulties owing to a machine gun nest in a clump of bushes, and decided to go to its assistance. It sauntered down the road with all the confidence of a tank, and engaged the enemy guns, finally clearing the copse. But immediately the enemy launched an infantry attack on the armoured car, which could not turn on the narrow road, and soon the crew were firing point-blank at the Germans whilst the latter attacked it with hand grenades. By clever work the car was turned round finally, and it departed over a hill, spraying the discomfited enemy in its parting. Attacks on Licourt and Omiecourt were held up to the last by Canadian garrisons, which were finally taken away under heavy fire by the armed trucks. Again at Cerisy and Hamel the cars were in action, rushing along the macadamized roads and firing on the advancing enemy at from four hundred to six hundred yards. They had become such a terror to the enemy that the Germans often broke and scattered for cover when they suddenly made their appearance round a turn in the road.

ed to by W. A. Zeihr, the latter telling of the great development in printing since its inception.

Gordon Butcher and Gordon Logan sponsored the vote of thanks to speakers and artists.

The address by R. R. Hall, K.C., was the outstanding event of the program. Mr. Hall was introduced by T. Harry Theobald, who referred to his association with many of the "kings" of the country during his term in Parliament and to his sportsmanlike attitude in victory and defeat.

Mr. Hall referred first to his pleasure in joining with the staff of The Examiner in their annual banquet and thanked Mr. Theobald for his kind remarks. He went on to speak of the influence of the press, "which is truly the fourth estate of the realm." He referred to the three parts into which a newspaper office is divided, the business office, the plant, and the editorial office.

It has been said, he stated, that nowadays the editorial end of the paper has become subservient to the business end and that the high standard of criticism attained in the past had disappeared. In this connection, he maintained, the publication of the news is the most important and that The Examiner had pursued the proper course in giving accurate presentations of both sides of every question and letting the people decide for themselves. Speaking of the plant, he declared that the desire of himself and Mr. Glover was to have the finest plant of its kind.

Mr. Hall then turned his attention to the more general theme of literature. Referring to Mr. Theobald's mention of great men, he told the character of Edward Farrar, a newspaper man with whom he had often discussed such subjects. He stressed the necessity of placing oneself as much as possible into the character being studied. This is particularly helpful in the study of plays, said Mr. Hall, quoting a number of lines from Hamlet to prove his point.

A newspaper man has an intense interest in literature, continued Mr. Hall. He reads much and gains information. Writing that information down brings exactitude, and discussing it in conference makes him ready with it. No occupation commends itself more to intellectual development.

Mr. Hall concluded his instructive and interesting discourse with an expression of the pleasure it gave him to visit The Examiner office and discuss various matters with the members of the staff.

PHONE SERVICE

communication, its gradual development until last year when it had been found practicable to inaugurate a comemrcial service between this continent and England, and the extension of the service to Canada in October. How the system was operated, Mr. Beamer said, could best be explained by the use of moving pictures.

With a movie machine operated by Mr. Holland, of the Bell Telephone staff, a most interesting reel was thrown on the screen, illustrating in detail the intricate and fascinating series of operations that took place before the voice of a subscriber in Toronto could be heard in Plymouth, England, and vice-versa. Every step of the progress of the sound of the voice was clearly shown, and the picture was the most convincing and effective explanation of the means of operation that could have been given.

Following the reel was another film with a comedy twist to it that illustrated very effectively the various links in the chain of communication when one telephone subscriber talks to another.

Mr. Beamer's address and the moving pictures accompanying it provided a very interesting half-hour for members of the Rotary Club, and the vote of thanks moved by Rotarian Jim Matthews was not a perfunctory one, by any means.

An interesting feature of to-day's meeting was the attempt of Rotarian John Crane to secure greater results as a song leader than could be obtained by Rotarian Dave Melton. The former's appeal for some real singing was met with dead silence, and he promptly admitted that he was the loser of the contest.

MINES.

F. G. Oke and Company wire us as follows:

TORONTO, Mar. 26.— The market showed better strength during this morning's trading, the feature being Howey Gold, Malartic, Kirkland Lake and Barry Hollinger. Apparently the anticipation of favorable news to be given out at a meeting of Howey Gold is the reason for the strength shown in Howey. Results of exploration and development underground at Malartic all reported to be indicating an important gold mine and we would not be surprised at much higher prices.

Barry Hollinger's strength is undoubtedly on account of the favorable reports expected from work on the 1125-foot level which should be under way during the next week or two. Kirkland Lake gold made an appreciable advance this morning and rumors are on the street of $2.50 per share for this stock quite soon. It looks as though there is considerable covering in this stock and that the buying is passing into strong hands.

The Abana meeting held on Saturday afternoon in Montreal is reported as harmonious and quite successful. The new directors were A. Savard, D. B. Rochester, J. McDonough, P. D. Vale of Toronto, and Mr. Authir of Amos, Que.

Further we are informed that another meeting is to be held within the next thirty days when information will be given of results of operations up to date. In view of splendid developments on Abana during the past few months some important information is anticipated which will probably have its effect on the Abana market.

As a whole the market looks much stronger and we would not be surprised at further advances in the more popular issues and we believe that particular attention should be given to Abana stock at current quotations.

F. G. Oke and Company.

Crop Loss Reports Cause Rise In Wheat

CHICAGO, March 26 (Canadian Press).—Influenced by reports of a prospective large abandonment of acreage in soft winter wheat sections, wheat values developed strength early to-day. Corn also went upward in price, owing to unfavorable weather for corn movement. Opening at ½ cent decline to 3-8 cent advance, wheat later showed a rise all around. Corn started ½ cent off to ¼ cent up and subsequently scored general gains. Oats followed corn. Provisions likewise became firmer.

Opening prices were: Wheat, March 139 7-8, May 139; corn, March 97, May 98 7-8; oats, March 56 5-8, May 56¾.

Losses and Gains Balance On Standard

TORONTO, Mar. 26.— (Canadian Press.)—Losses and gains were about evenly divided in active trading on the standard mining exchange to-day, with no price changes of a very remarkable character. The firmer list was led by Pend Oreille with a 25 point gain at 17.30, Ankerite at 51, Barry Hollinger at 119, Howey at 132, Kirkland Lake Gold at 211, Teck Hughes at 865, Wright Hargreaves at 495, and Sherritt Gordon at 720. The easier issues included Noranda, down 20 at 18.15, Hudson Bay half a dollar easier at 17.00, Sudbury Basin at 10.05, slightly lower, and Vipond at 85, a six point loss.

SACRED CONCERT WELL ATTENDED

Good Program Presented Last Night at Regent Theatre.

The sixth program in the series of Sunday evening sacred concerts under the auspices of the Humane Society was presented in the Regent Theatre last evening, with a capacity audience, over two hundred people being turned away. The entertainment provided for an appreciative audience was fully up to the excellent standard maintained throughout the series, and was enhanced by the appearance of Norman Cherrie, baritone soloist, who was in the city yesterday for the performance of Stainer's "Crucifixion" at Trinity United Church.

The programme was as follows: Vocal solo by Miss Bertha Hill, "How Lovely are Thy Dwellings," piano solo, "La Cascade," by Miss Mildred Hetherington; vocal solo, "Nearer My God to Thee," by Miss Ruby Quartermaine, vocal solo "The Lord is my Rock," by Mrs. H. F. Doig, vocal solo, "Flee as a Bird" by Miss Alma Coon; vocal solo, "Rest in the Lord," by Miss Margaret Wolstenholm; reading, "Laddie," by Mrs. Hazel Davidson McClelland; violin solo, "Liebesfreud" by Stanley Northrop; violin solo, "Adoration," by Mrs. P. Hooper; vocal solo, by Roy Pitchford, "Hear my Prayer," quartette from Trinity church choir, (Messrs. Downey, Skitch, Kennett Park) singing "Sweet Sabbath Eve," duet, "Watchman, What of the Night?" by Messrs. E. Humpage and J. Smith; cornet solo by Deputy Bandmaster Austen of the Salvation Army, "On the Banks of Allen Water," and "Debutante" played by the Army Temple Band. Mr. Norman Cherrie of Toronto, sang "Arm, Arm, Ye Brave," from the oratorio "Judas Maccabeus," as a solo number, and a encore was sung in duet with M. H. Park, in the duo number from the "Crucifixion" given at Trinity church last evening.

Accompanists for the evening were the Misses Gwen Donley and Agnes Logan, Mr. John Crane, Mr. F. G. Mann and Mr. Harry Northrop.

The chairman for the evening, by whose arrangement the concert last evening was delivered was Dr. J. J. Craig, who will also have charge of the last concert of the series to be given next Sunday evening.

At a meeting held after the concert last evening it was decided to refuse to admit little children unaccompanied by adults, next Sunday. Groups of little boys who make a great deal of noise, attend these concerts alone and take places which might be used by adults to better advantage.

INTEREST SHOWN IN DIRECTORATE

Interest in the annual election of the directorate of the Chamber of Commerce is growing. This fact was emphasized by the secretary, in conversation with The Examiner to-day.

"With over four hundred members to hear from, seventy per cent. of whom are new members, there is considerable interest and speculation being shown," said he. "During the Peterborough Forward Movement, it was made clear that no member of the executive council or even the secretary would maintain office unchallenged. In fact, it was generally understood that the members, new and old, would be given opportunity after the campaign, to elect an entirely new board if they wished. Yet the net result of the nominations by the membership is the nomination of the entire 1927 executive council to which have been added sixteen other candidates, making a total of thirty-two.

"The retiring executive council, on being re-nominated, is therefore vindicated of criticism made in connection with the Peterborough Forward Movement and it is also evident that in the opinion of the membership, the 1927 Board has been fulfilling its mission," concluded Mr. Stinson.

CREEK BREAKS BOUNDS AGAIN AND FLOODS MANY CELLARS; ACKERMAN PLANT IS HARD HIT

Basement of Dalhousie Street Factory Full of Water This Morning.

FIRE PUMPER USED.

Heavy Rains of Last Night Cause Stream To Rise Swiftly in City Limits.

Jackson Park Creek reached out and beyond its bounds, flooding many acres of city property and cellars of homes and factories in its course, during and following last night's heavy rain storm. All that the city's workmen, marshalled by the heads of the Board of Works, Fire Department, and Utilities Commission could do, meant little or nothing in preventing heavy property loss, and this morning, since the water has somewhat receded, owners of the homes and buildings which suffered are attempting to form an estimate of their loss.

Perhaps the firm hardest hit by nature's break from the normal is that of B. F. Ackerman, Son & Company, leather goods manufacturers, whose plant is located on the north-west corner of George and Dalhousie Streets. This morning, though a cold north wind blows, and the scene is anything but an inviting one, firemen and city workmen, as well as employees of the firm, are at work with fire engine and hose in an attempt to relieve conditions left by the flood. The entire cellar, running the length of the building, is filled to within a couple of feet of its ceiling, and a confusion of floating barrels, packing boxes, and stock greets the eye of many a curious visitor to the plant. There is little warmth in the building save for a number of small heaters, for the two large furnaces are almost completely submerged. Almost two carloads of leather lie in the cellar the shoe finishing department with all equipment is inaccessible, while in another part, a large number of collars and harness materials remain out of reach of anyone. How much time must elapse before the water will have been pumped or drained out is largely a matter of conjecture, though it appears that in a day or two the cellar may be cleared.

It was at 8.30 p.m. that Fire Chief Gimblett had his men pull out of retirement and get steam up in the old fire engine which was taken to the Ackerman plant. Already the Utilities Commission men and volunteer workers were doing yeoman service yet the water continued to rise, partly due to the rains and partly to the low bridge under which the creek normally flows on Dalhousie street. Within the block, yards were flooded to a depth of four and five feet, and private homes and sheds were also suffering. There was no ice jam—just an excess of water, but for over an hour the engine pumper held its own in keeping the water level from rising in the Ackerman cellar. Shortly after nine-thirty, however, the fight began to appear futile and within the next half hour all hope of "outflooding the flood" was gone.

The work of the men on duty was not without its humorous incidents. Fireman Astells and a man named Johnston gained momentary glory in their rescue of a team of horses and a cat from a shed north-west of the Ackerman building. Wading through several feet of water they were successful in locating the horses and untethering them, but before leaving, one of them men espied a cat making the best of things on a beam of the roofing. He climbed to a horse's back and doing a neat balancing act brought Puss from her perch and carried her to terra firma. She still has her nine lives.

The flooding of other stables turned many of "man's most faithful friends into the streets, according to those who happened to be out very late last night or early this morning. It was not an unusual sight to see a man riding up George Street on horse back and leading a second animal, searching for shelter for his mount.

Other Buildings Suffer

While the water was flowing over the Dalhousie street bridge, almost a foot deep, the cellar of the Maple Leaf flour mills was being flooded, while further upstream, the Peterborough Lock manufacturing plant cellar was also proving far from high and dry. In conversation with City Engineer Parsons, The Examiner gained an interesting view of the trouble. That official stated that beyond doing what had already been done, his men could but await further developments. There was no blasting of ice jams to be done as it was simply a case of too much water. He did not know at the present time whether more flooding might be expected as his department had not had time to take cognizance of conditions outside the city.

Flood At Port Hope.

PORT HOPE, Ont., Mar. 27 (Canadian Press).—The worst flood here since 1924 struck Port Hope to-day when the Ganeraska River overflowed its banks, tore away bridges in Hope Township, and swept down on the city in a raging torrent, carrying with it huge pieces of ice. The help of citizens was summoned to save the stock in many stores threatened by the flood.

BUS INJURES SMALL CHILD

Jack Hickey, Five, Taken To Hospital in Critical Condition.

WAS CROSSING STREET.

Little Jack Hickey, five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hickey, 5 Fleming Place, was struck by one of the Border Transit Company's 'buses yesterday afternoon, about five o'clock, and injured so critically that fears were entertained for his life. Dr. F. P. McNulty was summoned and had the child removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where X-ray examination revealed fractures in the pelvic region, with other injuries and a condition of severe shock.

The little boy, with a small neighboring child, was running across the street near the corner of Aylmer and Brock, bent on making his way toward the creek. He evidently ran directly in the path of the 'bus, which was approaching at an ordinary rate of speed, and which stopped almost instantly after striking him. The other little boy escaped injury.

The victim's mother received a severe shock when the first news of the accident was conveyed to her by a child who informed her that "Jack has been killed by a 'bus."

FARMER FACES ASSAULT CHARGE

Boy's Story of Cruel Treatment Results in Court Case at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 27.—Investigation into the charges of brutal treatment made a few days ago by a young Scottish immigrant, is responsible for the assault charge laid yesterday against Gordon W. Hunt, West Flamboro farmer. W. S. Lowe, the boy in question, will testify against his former employer. Lowe was a patient in the General Hospital suffering from frozen feet, and he attributes his present weakness to the lack of food at the Hunt farm, where he worked for some months. After being engaged at $15.00 a month, he was told, he states, that his services were not satisfactory, but he could stay and work for his bed and board.

Frank McDonald, a member of the Scottish Clans, who has interested himself in the lad, said that S. H. Mooney, District Inspector for the Settlers' Board, Toronto, never saw Lowe after August, when he was sent to the Hunt farm. The boy, asked why he did not leave the place, said he recalled signing a legal document and was told that if he broke his contract, Police Court proceedings would be taken against him.

The case will be called before Magistrate Vance on Wednesday morning, in County Police Court.

TAKEN OVER BY NEW INDUSTRY

This plant, built by the Henry Hope Company, has been taken over by the Johnson Outboard Motor Company, and will be prepared at once for work. It has stood idle for some years, since the Birmingham Motor Company closed down. It was used by the Hope Company first for the manufacture of steel sashes, etc., and then as a munition works.

Two Thousand Men Now Out in Protest Against Wage Cut.

PROSPECTS NOT GOOD.

OSHAWA, Ont., Mar. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Three hundred striking men in the trimmers department of the General Motors of Canada, objecting to a cut in pay schedule, were reinforced to-day by all the other piece workers, and two thousand men are now out. The workers of the other departments at a meeting yesterday decided to join the protest and they failed to report for work to-day. Representations are being made to the management, while another mass meeting is being held. Further men are expected to walk out later in the day.

Prospects for an early settlement were not very promising. The trimmers are unanimous at present in their decision not to return until the old scale of wages is restored, while the assembly men have pledged their support to the demand for the former wage. The cut is between thirty and forty per cent. and the trimmers claim it is the third reduction in six months.

The management has given no indication of even a partial concession to the strikers.

In addition to the strikers, workers in the paint and hardware departments are idle, being held up for work.

Asks For Less Noise Answered By Bullet

MONTREAL, Que., Mar. 27. — (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Michael Farmer was sitting alone in her home on Lafontaine Street on Sunday morning and tapped on the ceiling to ask the folks upstairs to make less noise. The only answer was a revolver shot, which tore its way through the ceiling and into the floor of the room in which Mrs. Farmer was sitting. She is in delicate health, and the sudden shock gave her a set-back.

Police, who investigated, discovered the bullet in the floor and were informed in the flat above that the shot was fired by accident, the gun having gone off while it was being cleaned.

GERMAN AVIATORS AWAIT GOOD WEATHER FOR FLIGHT

Koehl and Companions Land Safely at Baldonnel Airdrome, Near Dublin.

PRESS BARRED FROM FIELD.

Unable Tto Start To-day, But May Hop Off To-morrow Morning.

BALDONNEL, Ireland, March 27.—(Canadian Press).—With the Junkers plane Bremen ready for the most hazardous venture of the air, the flight across the Atlantic from East to West, three silent Germans to-day waited on wind and weather. They were Captain Koehl, Baron Von Huenefeld, and Arthur Spindler, who flew yesterday from Berlin over a course of nearly a thousand miles in about nine and a half hours. It may be late to-day, it may be to-morrow, or even the day after when the Bremen takes off, and all precautions have been taken to insure safety. Conditions are not considered likely for the start to-day, but five o'clock to-morrow morning is set as the tentative time.

DUBLIN, March 27 (Canadian Press).—Setting out in secrecy on the first stage of the perilous flight to America, the Junkers airplane Bremen landed at Baldonnel Airdrome, near Dublin, last evening, and its occupants immediately took refuge behind another wall of silence.

Piloted by Captain Herman Koehl, who had the benefit of an unsuccessful start on a westward trans-Atlantic flight last year, the Bremen came humming over Dublin to find Commander Fitzmaurice aloft in a Free State plane, waiting to greet the arrival of the Germans and furnish an escort to guide them to the air station.

As soon as Captain Koehl and his two companions, Baron von Heunfeld and Spindler alighted and they beban to stretch themselves; the Free State authorities closed the gates to newspapermen and declined to give information of the German airmen's intention.

Await Favorable Weather

It was learned, however, that the crew of the Bremen expect to observe weather conditions and launch out when these are favorable on their adventurous journey over waters where numerous daring spirits, including two women, have found unmarked ocean graves.

The plane was left in position, ready for a quick resumption of its flight, and it is believed that Koehl and his companion will take off early to-day if wind and sky are not too forbidding.

While the Free State officials professed surprise yesterday when informed that the Germans were on their way to Baldonnel station, there are indications that they were acquainted with the Junkers plans and had agreed to respect the request of the Germans for secrecy. It is reported that several German mechanics arrived in Dublin several days ago and have been awaiting at the airdrome the coming of the Bremen to re-groom the heavily laden ship for the strain of the great adventure over the Atlantic.

Complete first Lap

BERLIN, March 27 (Canadian Press)—Eluding the vigilance of both the Luft Hansa and Aerial Police Captain Herman Koehl, Baron von Huenfeld, sponsor of the flight; and Arthur Spindler, a war aviator, as mechanic, took off shortly after eight o'clock yesterday morning from Tempelhofer airdrome on an attempt to span the Atlantic, with New York as the final objective.

The single-motored plane Bremen, carrying the intrepid fliers, reached the Baldonnel airdrome in Ireland yesterday evening and thus the first leg of the long air journey from Germany to America has been accomplished.

Captain Koehl took off from the airdrome in utter secrecy, in the face of the opposition of German aviation circles, especially Luft Hansa, the national organization, with which he had been identified, and which reiterated its contention that the east or west crossing was only possible with a triple-motored hydro-airplane. Koehl succeeded in disguising his intentions so well that he was enabled to make a fortnight's preparations for the flight without his intentions being discovered.

Kept Secret

For a number of days, Koehl has been flying six or seven hours daily, ostensibly to test the motor and instruments of the old Bremen, with which he attempted to fly to America last year. His real purpose, however, was not to attract attention to the start which he, von Huenfeld and Spindler planned for yesterday. Not even to his wife did he divulge his full purpose, merely saying that he intended to make a trial flight to Ireland, where his future movements will be guided by English weather reports.

The successful non-stop flight to Baldonnel represents a distance, as estimated here, of 902 miles, which was accomplished in about 9½ hours, or an average of nearly 106 miles an hour.

The mystery surrounding the flight has not yet been lifted, especially as it is learned that Baron von Huenfeld, who is connected with the North German Lloyd Steamship Company, applied to the British Embassy at Berlin for permission to start for America from Baldonnel. He had recently said, however, that "as an entirely independent private person" he had purchased the Bremen from the Junkers works and intended to make a long "sporting flight" with Captain Koehl.

The venture is not viewed with Stephen Emery Faces Charge Under Inland Revenue Act.

PLEADED GUILTY TO SALE.

Provincial Constable N. F. Maker and Inland Revenue Officer William Buller seized a still and full equipment for the making of whiskey, in the township of Belmont, about ten miles north of Havelock. As a result of the find Stephen Emery is in the cells in the police station and will probably be arraigned on a charge under the Inland Revenue Act. Emery appeared before Magistrate Langley on Monday and pleaded guilty to selling liquor and is now awaiting sentence on that charge.

TRY TO CONQUER ATLANTIC

Herman Koehl and Arthur Spindler two German aviators, accompanied by Baron Von Huenefeld, landed safely at Baldonnel airdrome, near Dublin, last night on the first stage of their perilous flight to America. It is believed that Koehl and his companions will take off early to-day if wind and sky are not too forbidding. Pictured above is a plane similar to the Bremen, in which the flight is being made, while below are Herman Koehl and Baron Von Huenefeld.

Taking Over Henry Hope Plant For Assembly Work This Year And Manufacturing in Future

WORKED FOR INDUSTRY.

HIS WORSHIP MAYOR DENNE, Whose energetic work is largely responsible for the decision of the Johnson Outboard Motor Company to locate here.

Peterborough Chosen For Canadian Plant Because of Proximity To Many Summer Resorts and Large Number of Boat Factories in District.

COMPANY ONLY SEVEN YEARS IN BUSINESS CONTROLS LARGE PORTION OF WORLD TRADE

Factory Here Will Be Used To Supply Ever-Increasing Canadian Business and To Take Care of Export Demand, Says Hugh Campbell, Resident Manager.

The Johnson Outboard Motors Company, the largest manufacturer of outboard motors in the world, has decided to locate its Canadian branch factory in Peterborough, and will commence operations immediately in the old Henry Hope & Sons plant on Monaghan Road, north of the Aladdin factory. Motors will be assembled here for this year, and complete manufacture begun shortly.

Starting in a small way the company hopes to grow and become one of the leading industries in this city and the Dominion of Canada. Although only seven years old, the youngest outboard motor company on the North American continent, the company controls 60 per cent. of the world's trade, and intends to make the Peterborough plants its export factory.

During the past three years the Canadian business of the company has increased so rapidly that it has been forced to establish a factory in Canada. Peterborough, with its abundance of rivers and lakes near at hand, and with the Peterborough Canoe factory, the Canadian Canoe factory, and many other small lake and river boating industries, was chosen as the logical place for its Canadian factory.

Arranging Plant.

Hugh M. Campbell, manager of the new plant, is now in the city, with Mrs. Campbell, and they are accompanied by Albert D. Counsell, of Toronto, who will be the head accountant. These men are making arrangements for the putting of the plant in condition so that it may be occupied at the earliest possible moment.

It was a long, uphill grind, lasting over a period of two years on the part of the city officials, in order to get this splendid industry to locate here, but at last it is. Mr. Campbell, the manager, says: "We are now sold to Peterborough."

The Manufacturers' Committee of the City Council commenced negotiations some two years ago with the Johnson Motor Company, but it was left with Mayor Denne, Alderman McIntyre, chairman of the committee, and City Clerk S. Armstrong, to bring these negotiations to a successful conclusion whereby the company decided to locate its Canadian branch in the city of Peterborough.

Many other towns and cities in the Dominion were after this firm, and as late as March 7 the firm had decided to locate in Toronto and a location had been viewed and employees advertised for. Mayor Denne, Alderman McIntyre, and Mr. Armstrong felt that they would make one last effort to land the firm, and the morning of the 8th they took the train to Toronto. In that city they met the representative, and before they left that evening they had secured a promise from them that before final decision was made they would pay Peterborough a visit. They were scheduled to come to this city the next day, and it was such a day as this, stormy, windy, and raw. In turning out that morning in Toronto one of the representatives suggested sending a wire to Peterborough telling them that they could not come, but Mr. Campbell, being of sturdy Scottish descent, and not afraid of the storms, desired to visit this city, and the representatives arrived on the noon train.

Sold on Peterborough.

Mayor Denne had made splendid preparations to receive them, and a noon luncheon was held in the Empress Hotel, to which heads of the leading industries, especially the American branches, were present. These Peterborough manufacturers told the visitors how they found conditions in Peterborough, and from these men's experience the Johnson Outboard Motors Company was "sold on Peterborough."

During the afternoon they saw the available buildings in the city and decided that the old Henry Hope plant was the most suitable. The visitors returned home to the United States delighted with the prospects in this city and in a week's time R. Abbott, manager of the Canadian Raybestos Company, which owns the Henry Hope plant, was asked to come to the head office in Waukegan, Illinois, where an agreement was reached whereby the company leased

HELEN MARTIN STILL IN CELLS

Police Are Investigating Her Story—Appearance Much Improved.

POINTS OUT PLACES.

Helen Martin is to-day in the cells at the Police Station waiting until her story has been thoroughly investigated by the Police Department. This morning Detectives Meagher and Carey took her out so as she might point out to them some of the places where she claims she hid last week.

Her appearance in the Police Station yesterday was certainly that of a girl who had been sleeping out wherever night found her. Her clothes were most dirty, and her face and hands appeared not to have been washed.

To-day she is like a changed girl, having received the careful attention of the police matron.

People on the street to-day are considering that her story is quite feasible. The girl decided to run away from her home, but when she committed the act on second thought she found she had no place to go, and fearing punishment she hid for a week.

Many Wild Fowl Seen At Dundas Sanctuary

DUNDAS, March 27 (Canadian Press).—For the first time in the memory of the oldest inhabitants, each morning thousands of Canadian geese and large flocks of swans rise from the Dundas Bird Sanctuary and circle over the valley as if considering the locality as a likely place to settle and as if they were granted having to leave at all for the far north it seems as though those going south last fall spread the news of the beautiful safe feeding ground as nothing else could account for the numbers invading the marshes.

Jeffersonville Authorities Running Down All Clues To William W. Ross.

The authorities at Jeffersonville, Indiana, are still waiting for word from the relatives or friends of William W. Mr. Ross is supposed to have been a member of the Masonic Lodge in Toronto but investigation there has not lead to any further identification as there are many names the same on the list. The only solution left is to find the N. or W. Scott in Smith township who wrote the Christmas card to the deceased in 1925. Chief Constable Newhall would like to have Mr. Scott communicate with him immediately so that the Jeffersonville authorities may be notified.

TROUT CREEK AT CAMPBELLFORD FLOODS LOWER PARTS OF TOWN

Stream Rises Higher Than At Any Previous Time Within Memory.

HOUSES SURROUNDED.

Dam Breaks at Warkworth, Allowing Water To Flood Main Street.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 27.—From a comparatively normal level for this season of the year, Trout Creek has risen to a flood level higher than any within the recollection of most of the older residents of the district. At eight o'clock last night, there was no apparent danger from a flood. Before midnight the water had risen to a level where all or parts of six town blocks are under various depths of water. One concrete bridge was completely submerged and a second rose a few inches above the waters which swirled and eddied under and around it. Palliser and Simpson streets were impassable to foot traffice and it is doubtful if a vehicle would have been able to effect a crossing. This morning there was a slight drop in the water level. Where the creek empties into the Trent River at a point just south of Balaclava street, the muddy waters rushed far out into the swiftly flowing river before their color showed them to be carried down by the stronger current. The river itself is flowing swiftly with the majority of the stop logs out of the dam on the southern outskirts of the town. The small cakes of ice pass the Bridge street bridge quickly as the water eddies about the piers of the bridge in its made rush downstream.

The flooded portion of the town extends west from a rock ledge in Trout Creek just above the Balaclava street bridge, about one block from the river. If the water had risen another foot, portions of four more blocks would have been under water. Jenkins' wood yard present the aspect of floating timber, while a wire fence on the opposite side of Palliser street forms a barrier for pieces of driftwood and is holding the water at a higher level there. The resistance which the fence continues to offer to the force of the flood does credit to the quality of both the workmanship and the material. The residence of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Black is a floating island, the water rushing around the house and across the lawns, and Linkerman street back to the creek.

The Palliser street bridge at the same corner is under several inches of water as is also the street itself for considerable distance on both approaches to the bridge. Fully half Palliser street between Sebastapol and Balaclava streets is under water. Simpson street bridge, one block west, stands several inches above the stream, but the road approaching it from both north and south is blocked in the same manner and to about the extent as Palliser. The residents in the section lying along the creek and between these two streets found themselves more or less flooded out when they awakened in the morning.

Above Simpson street, the logs in the McKelvie and McCook sawmill yard are mostly afloat and the mill itself is partly under water, but from this point west, there are no houses near the creek except those on higher ground and the likelihood of any damage in this section is negligible. The heavy rainfall yesterday is generally conceded to be the immediate cause of the flood, which will result in considerable property damage, the extent of which can not yet be even approximately estimated. In one case, judging from external appearances, the ground floor of a fair-sized dwelling seems to be under water. This may not be the case, however, since it was impossible to get close enough to the house to investigate.

Trout Creek is a stream of considerable size with a dependable flow of a considerable amount of water. Its source is in a number of springs about five miles west of the town. Invariably there is a Spring freshet, but the damage is usually small. Even in times such as this, the regulated flow of water in the river has been able to successfully cope with the situation, but the water in the river has risen several inches in the last few hours as well.

Take 2 Trout creek

Farmers report considerable quantitiesof snow lying in the low and sheltered places and the rain last night washed most of this into the streams flowing into Trout Creek. This may cause the water to remain at its present high level for several hours with an increasing amount of damage to property. While older residents of the town are able to recall more serious floods, the present Trout Creek situation is the worst in a good many years. This opinion is put forward by a resident who has lived in that vicinity for more than thirty years.

Dam Broken at Warkworth.

WARKWORTH, Mar. 27.— Never in its history has Warkworth had such a flood is told by the oldest residents. Early last evening Bowman's dam broke and the raging torrents rushed into the Warkworth mill pond, which overflowed its banks. The water rushed down Main street, washing everything in front of it. In places on the street the water is four feet deep, stores and dwellings are partially flooded out and on the street large rocks are to be found having been washed there from the mill pond.

Bridges throughout Percy township are washed out and in many places large trences are washed out of the roads. Early this morning the waters are still raging through the streets.

Highway Flooded.

ORLAND., March 27. — The highway from Brighton to Campbellford was flooded for a distance of about 400 feet to a depth of one foot when the mill pond here overflowed. Before there was time for any damage to be done to the road the abutment supporting the flume of the dam gave away, allowing the flume to fall and the water to flow away.

The damage will amount to about $1000 and is ascribed to the breaking of another dam several miles up stream before the spring freshets.

R. B. Ryckman still has possession of the mill although he sold it a few weeks ago to Mr. Smart of Rochester.

Madoc

MADOC, March 27.—Mr. James Hill had several ribs broken about a week ago, when he fell on a fork handle, while at work at his barn.

Phillips, of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. F. Davis, Melrose; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bouck, North Bay; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Coulter, Smithfield; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Armstrong, Colborne; Mrs. S. Remington, Mr. and Mrs. B. Belshaw, Mr. Roy Belshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pyear, Mr. Arthur Pyear, Mrs. Arthur Brown, and Mr. and Miss Bradshaw, of Stirling; Mr. and Mrs. A. Reid, Mr. Nelson Jones, Miss Hazey Huffman, Mr. Allan Huffman, of Belleville; Mrs. John Huffman, Markham; Mrs. Johnston, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sayers, of Holloway.

STANWOOD CLUB PRESENTS PLAY

Petherick's Corners People Enjoy Funny Episodes in "Two Days to Get Married."

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, March 27.—Stanwood Dramatic Club gave its annual play on Friday evening entitled "Two Days to Get Married" and much to the credit of the hero, James J. Dare (Jack Sparks), he secured the necessary wife in half that time, the lady being Miss McShane (Mrs. G. Redden). His trouble was not over however, as a Mrs. Boyce, with whom he had been corresponding, took the situation serious and arrived on the scene to prove her claims. This part was taken by Mrs. J. Rose, who proved to be the new Mrs. Dare's mother, when the tangle was made clear. Walter Blair (Charles Stephens) the eccentric uncle, whose million dollar gift to James Dare if he secured a wife in time, was the cause of all the trouble, finds after many mirth-provoking scenes that Mrs. Boyce is really his wife. Mr. Sawyer (Harold Rutherford) is Dare's family lawyer and bears the blunt of many an embarrassing situation. The hight lights of the play were provided by the varied and usually interrupted efforts of Chase, Dare's negro servant, to propose to his colored lady-love, Miss Pink. These parts were taken exceptionally well by Robert Lisle and Mrs. J. Lane.

A comic sketch "Pat Entertains" preceded the main play, and was well presented by C. Rowe, F. Petherick, and A. Rutherford. An orchestra composed by Miss R. Lawrence, E. Anderson and R. Lain, supplied music during intermission.

League Meeting.

Gladys Simpson, social convenor, was in charge of the League meeting with Margaret Petherick as leader. There were forty-two present, the Ford group leading. In the absence of the president, Fred Barnum, Roy Fry took charge of the business session. The meeting hour was changed until eight o'clock. The devotional period was in charge of L. Anderson and Rev. C. Daniel. The final report of Cobourg Winter School, the young people's training class conducted by the Rev. Mr. Langford and the Rev. Mr. Doyle, was given by Miss Jennie Fry. Albert Gifford, who recently paid a visit to his boyhood home in England, was present and sang a solo. A Shamrock contest closed the program.

A great many of the young people are preparing for the annual plays in the different societies to which they belong.

First Form Provides Good Program at Meeting at Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 27. — The Campbellford High School held the final meeting of its Literary Society for the year yesterday afternoon. The program was given by the pupils of First Form and received favorable comment from the critic. Since this was the final meeting for the term and many of the present members would not be present another year ,the final number of the program consisted of some of the school yells, with Dickson Dawson as cheer leader. The debate, "Resolved, that crime is due more to wealth than poverty," was the main number, and the judges' decision was given in favor of the negative. The speakers for the winning side were Leslie Bennett and Martin Russau, for the affirmative John Cleugh and Margaret MacGregor. The judges were Dorothy West, Donald Kidd, and Grant Thain.

The first number on the program was a piano solo by Miss Gladys Stephens, followed by the current events by George Palliser. Ronald Richardson's violin solo was encored. Before the debaters began their speeches, there was also a reading by Helen Gurry and a vocal solo by Helen Smith. Following the debate, Fern Weatherill played a violin solo. After the critic's and judges' reports had been heard, Dickson Dawson led the school yells and the meeting closed with the National Anthem. This is the last meeting of the society till it meets again in the fall term for the purpose of reorganization.

MILLBROOK BRIDGE IS CARRIED AWAY

Flood Fills Cellars, Extinguishing Fires—Street Under Water.

MILLBROOK, March 27.—Owing to the unusually mild weather, and the consequent breaking up of the ice on Attwool and Sheppard ponds, a flood threatened the downtown section of the village on Saturday afternoon. A small bridge at the rear of the Queen's Hotel was swept away, and the lower section of King street was under water for a time, while the cellars were filled with water almost to the ceilings, which smothered the furnace fires out. The water ran level with the floor of the foot bridge on Distillery street most of the afternoon, and almost as high under the bridge at the east end of the business section of King street.

BARN DESTROYED.

W. S. Nelson, of Warkworth, Suffers Heavy Loss During Saturday's Storm.

WARKWORTH, March 26.— The electric storm which passed over this district Saturday morning was pretty severe, destroying completely a barn owned by W. S. Nelson. Very little insurance covers the loss.

STORM AND MUD SPOIL MEETING

Young People From Warkworth Unable To Get To Campbellford Meeting.

ROADS ARE BAD.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 27.—The social evening which was to have been held in the Sunday School rooms of St. Andrew's Church last night was not the success which it was expected to have been since the Young People's Society from Warkworth did not put in an appearance. But this was through no fault of theirs. About eight o'clock, word was received by telephone that the young people were unable to get through on account of the condition of the roads, and, at the time of telephoning, were stuck fast in the mud and snow. Since it would be impossible for the visiting society to arrive before a late hour, they decided to return to Warkworth.

Owing to the intense electric storm which passed over the town between seven and eight o'clock, there was not a large attendance of local young people at the meeting. Lunch had been prepared during the afternoon for about one hundred and fifty persons, and the committee were busily planning the most beneficial method of disposing of the surplus. The program for the evening was entirely impromptu.

YOUNG PEOPLE DEBATE ON WAR

Warsaw United Church Organization Has Pleasant Evening Meeting.

WARSAW, March 27.—"Resolved that war is not consistent with Christianity" was the subject of the debate at the Young People's meeting of the United Church. Cecil Bolton and Ivan Drain upheld the affirmative while Miss Florence Tedford and Fred Crowe were on the negative side. Mr. Bolton contended that war is nothing short of murder, and is ineffective as a means of furthering Christ's Kingdom, while Miss Tedford stated that a man's duty to God does not interfere with his duty to his country; that Christianity is a religion of love and brotherhood, and this is why the last war was fought.

Mr. Drain said that Christianity was built around Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace. He gave himself and called upon his followers to give themselves for the brotherhood of man. Men fight because they refuse to recognize this brotherhood. War comes as a reslult of conditions upon which no Christian can frown, and in the end, it leads to a deeper spiritual life in the nations involved.

The judges were David Miller, James Hawthorne and John Sargent, and decided in favor of the negatives.

Refreshments were served at the close of the program.

CAVAN INSTITUTE IS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. F. M. Staples is Hostess When Pleasing Program is Presented.

CAVAN, March 27. — Mrs. F. M. Staples entertained the members of the Cavan Women's Institute on Thursday afternoon. The president, Mrs. D. J. Hunter, occupied the chair, while the secretary, Mrs. R. Matchett, read letters received from persons who had received fruit or flowers, and also grateful acknowledgment of local relief given. The roll-call was responded to by suggestions for economy of time and strength, many of these being very appropriate as the time for spring housecleaning draws near.

A committee was appointed to buy supplies to be made up for the annual bazaar. Many of the members would like to see the start of a good library, with a few of the better class of books. This was discussed, but the difficulty was the place to keep it.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Rowen and Mrs. E. Syer, and Mrs. C. Carr read a paper on "The Institute Ode." Mrs. Rowen gave a reading which related an incident showing the beauty and helpfulness of little kind deeds performed as the opportunity offers.

Miss Eileen Hunter sang a solo in pleasing manner, and Mrs. Howden gave a reading.

The lunch committee, Mesdames Fee, Syer, Swain, and Elliott, assisted the hostess in serving lunch. The gentlemen, who had kindly brought sleighs to convey the ladies to the meeting, joined them for the social time at the tea hour.

Trustees Meet.

The trustees of the Cavan United Church decided to build a separate cement building for the lighting plant for the church. This is at present installed in the basement of the church, but they felt that it would be safer if a separate building was built for it.

COUGH KEPT HER AWAKE ALL NIGHT

Doctor Ended Trouble by Using Novel Hospital Method; Gave Quick, Sure Relief!

Coughs, colds and bronchitis can be relieved quickly—often in a few hours—by a pleasant and inexpensive home method now endorsed by doctors because of its splendid record in hospital, private practice and home use among numbers of Peterborough families.

The case of Mrs. Wm. Nelson, Jr., is typical of many here, according to leading druggists. She neglected her cold several days and developed a deep cough that threatened bronchitis. For two nights she heard the clock strike almost every hour—unable to sleep because of constant coughing. Then she phoned her family physician, who prescribed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a concentrated mixture of ingredients which hospitals have found to be the quickest, safest and surest to end colds, coughs and bronchitis.

With the first swallow she felt its comforting, healing warmth deep down into her chest. The coughing was eased immediately and in a day or so all traces of the cough were gone.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by the physicians who treated each case.

Doctors find that this hospital medicine does far more than stop coughing instantly. It is absorbed by the whole system. This quickly checks phlegm, heals irritation and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Cherry Pectoral now and you'll feel like a different person tomorrow. Hospital directions with each bottle.

FLAWS IN ELECTION ACT NOTED AT LAST SESSION OF INQUIRY

Judge Sees No Evidence Pointing To Specific Offence.

CARELESSNESS NOTED.

Weaknesses In System Pointed Out By Counsel For Probe.

TORONTO, March 27.—Evidence and argument in the South Ottawa "floating ballots" case were concluded yesterday before Justices Hodgins and Magee. One mystery—what became of 3,000 sheets of unprinted ballot paper—was cleared up by the testimony of George Smith, an employee of the M odern Press, Limited, Ottawa, who recalled having come across it when he cleaned out the storeroom some four months after the election. The paper, Smith stated, was in six packages, one of which was broken. He cut the paper into perpendicular strips by machine to prevent its further use, and then had it thrown in the waste-paper basket.

So far, approximately only 300 of the undistributed ballots have been accounted for, leaving 1,050 on the wandering list.

J. C. McRuer, K.C., counsel for Mr. Sinclair, called no witnesses. The Commission adjourned the inquiry sine die for the preparation of their findings. Before leaving the bench they thanked counsel on both sides for their assistance.

Offense Not Indicated

Justice Hodgins expressed the opinion there did not seem to be any provision in the statute directly covering what had transpired, and that there seemed to be nothing directly pointing to any one as having committed an offense against the Election Act.

Mr. McRuer submitted that great carelessness (a term which he and J. R. L. Starr, K.C., applied to Returning Officer Scott) would be a breach of duty, at any rate.

"We are bound to report," said Justice Hodgins, referring to the terms of the Commission, "whether any criminal offense against the Election Act or any other act has been committeed."

Mr. McRuer, during a discussion with the Commissioners, said he certainly thought there had been an unauthorized use of the undistributed ballots as contemplated under Section 187 in leaving them around in a building and not returning them to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery.

"I don't say offhand that abstaining from returning them to Toronto is any unauthorized use," said Justice Hodgins.

Relation to Election

"In reference to the other question your Lordships asked me, as to whether it had any effect on the election or not. I don't know," said Mr. McRuer. "We cannot tell because we cannot check up as to what ballots were used and what were not."

Justice Hodgins—We might have to report that an offense, if it occurred, was not covered by the act. We may report that it was.

Mr. McRuer commented on the "loose way" the ballots were handled, and in reply to Justice Magee he said it would be possible for each D.R.O. to have had a package of ballots without any hint of it in the evidence.

Pointing out a "weakness" in the act, Mr. Starr referred to the apparent absence of any specific clause requiring the return of used stubs by the D.R.O.'s. As a matter of fact they had been returned because envelopes were provided for the purpose.

Mr. Starr submitted that, unless a D.R.O. was corrupt, the undistributed ballots could not have been used; and that, moreover, scrutineers on each side were watching him. Collusion all round would be necessary.

RHEUMATISM EASED RIGHT UP

WHEN HE STARTED IN ON TANLAC

"It is certainly surprising what the right treatment will do to get a man feeling right again" said Mr. Charles Coulter, 125 Sackville Street, Toronto. "My hands were so swollen with Rheumatism that I could not play my violin. My right leg hurt so badly I couldn't bend over; and I suffered so much that I could neither eat or sleep. I was getting steadily worse until I started Tanlac. The Rheumatism began easing up when I had taken a few doses; and in a week or two the pain was all gone. I have not been bothered with Rheumatism since, and feel fine in every way."

Tanlac purifies the blood and builds up run-down systems. It corrects Stomach Trouble and helps you digest your food. It is pure and good—Nature's roots, barks and herbs—and costs less than 2c a dose. Get a bottle at your druggist's today—your money back if it doesn't help you.

ONTARIO'S IRON DEVELOPED SOON

Minister of Mines Thinks Minnesota Mines Must Give Out in Time.

TORONTO, March 27.—Production of iron on a commercial basis from mines in Northern Ontario is regarded as a development which lies in the not too distant future by Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, who addressed a meeting of the Women's Conservative Association in the King Edward Hotel last night. Explaining that beneath the earth in New Ontario there were millions of tons of iron which were not yet of commercial value because of competition from the more favorably situated Minnesota fields, Mr. McCrea declared that it was just a matter of time before Minnesota mines gave out and Ontario would have her "inning."

"In that comparatively small area of the United States where our Pre-Cambrian Shields 'kicks over' the border," he said, "there has been built up the greatest steel and iron industry in the world. If that happened in a little strip there, what may happen in the vast areas of Northern Ontario which are rich in iron ore?"

When Mr. McCrea glanced into the future last night, he appeared to find plenty of grounds for optimism. As well as the possibilities of iron production he found a supply of nickel sufficient to meet the needs of the next 175 or 200 years at least, and he found, as far as gold and silver were concerned, that the surface had only been scratched.

But he also found that the "mere scratching" in the past had yielded pretty high value. He quoted figures showing that up to the end of 1927 silver production in the Cobalt camp had totalled $239,000,000, and that dividends paid by mining companies there had totalled $95,000,000; that the Porcupine and Kirkland Lake gold camps had produced $249,000,000 worth of gold, and had paid $71,000,000 in dividends; and that the Sudbury district had yielded nickel and copper to the value of $340,000.000 and companies there had paid $95,000,000 in dividends.

FLOODS TROUBLE WESTERN STATES

Hundreds Homeless In Northern and Central California and Nevada.

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 27.—(Canadian Press.)— Flood waters roared through Northern and Central California and Western Nevada with renewed violence to-day. Hundreds of persons were homeless in Californio and the property damage was estimated at half a million dollars. The city of Reno was threatened with further inundation. Continuous rains over the northern portion of the state, high winds, snow flurries at Reno and in the Sierra range near there aggravated the situation.

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Pains or Bladder is Irritated.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so then no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

AGED MAN KILLED ON RAILWAY BRIDGE

Struck By Train and Hurled Into Ditch Beside Track.

TORONTO, March 27—While walking on the railway bridge over Rogers Road, near Blackthorn Avenue, York Township, yesterday morning, Matthew O'Connor, aged 82, was struck by a southbound C.N.R. passenger train, and sustained injuries from which he died sometime afterward.

According to the police, the deceased was walking on the tracks toward the train, and, when about half-way over the subway, evidently saw the approaching engine and tried to run back to the end of the bridge. Although it is claimed that the engineer drew his train to a standstill within a short space, some part of the engine caught the unfortunate man and hurled him 10 feet into the ditch at the side of the right of way. The train crew picked him up unconscious and from the nearest station he was rushed to Grace Hospital, where he died about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

BEER AND QUEEN TROUBLE MAYOR

Mederic Martin, Seeking Re-election, Meets With Difficulties.

MONTREAL, March 27. — Because Mayor Mederic Martin, a devotee, was official host to Queen Marie of Roumania for one hectic day, but particularly because His Worship allowed his photo to adorn bottles of a new beer, many of the electorate are threatening to vote against him at the civic elections next Monday.

Camillien Houde, former Conservative in the Quebec Legislature, is the Mayor's opponent, and has made a good start by doing something that many a politician has failed of accomplishment when fighting the veteran, Mr. Martin. He has the Mayor on the defensive—on the run, some people say.

Ponderous civic matters are being flung nightly from election platforms, but so far as the mayoralty is concerned, Roumania's Queen and Martin's beer flash as the most important issues.

INTER-EMPIRE TRADE.

Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce, in a speech at Montreal on Saturday called attention of Canadians generally to the British Empire Shopping Week, which is to be held next month and is designed to arouse Canadians to the desirability of trading within the Empire.

Mr. Malcolm stressed the point that Canadian-made goods were Empire-made goods.

In other words, the intention behind the movement is to first stimulate the buying of Canadian-made goods and to urge that when this is not possible that goods from other parts of the Empire should be purchased.

No one surely would quarrel with that policy, and the campaign should appeal to most Canadians as a sensible effort to promote a sensible trade policy.

Empire Shopping Week, however, will not be a general success in Canada if it is not generally participated in, and in this connection The Examiner would be delighted to announce that plans are under way to have Peterborough take part in the campaign.

This city should be represented in any drive that is based on the idea of buying as much as possible from ourselves, what else we need from the other members of the British family, and as little as possible outside.

ELECTING AN EXECUTIVE.

It is to be hoped that every member of the Chamber of Commerce will exercise his privilege of helping to name the Executive which will direct the affairs of the organization during the next year.

From the thirty-two candidates on the ballot it should be possible to select sixteen men who will be thoroughly representative of the city's business and professional life, and whose record shows them capable of good service in the important position for which they have been named.

Every member of the Chamber of Commerce is entitled to vote—and should do so either through the mails or at the polling booth in the Council rooms of the Chamber.

Thursday of this week is election day, and the choosing of the new Executive should be done by the whole body of the members, not left to a section of the membership.

There is excellent material from which to make a choice, and with ballots mailed to every member there is no reason why the Chamber of Commerce should not be able to name one of the best boards of directors in the history of the organization.

All new and old members should regard it as a duty of great importance to use their ballots in this week's election.

PICKEREL AS GAME FISH.

The agitation to put a stop to the slaughter of pickerel in this district has evidently proved successful, judging from the intimation that these fish in the waters of the Peterborough district are to be designated as game fish, which will put an end to fishing through the ice and to the sale of pickerel.

The Peterborough Fish and Game Association and other sportsmen throughout the Province who co-operated with the local organization in fighting for the conservation of pickerel, are entitled to thanks for the successful campaign which will be found to be very much in the general interest.

It is difficult to see how the pickerel fishing during the coming summer can fail to be affected by the extent to which fishing through the ice has been carried on during the winter, but henceforth these fish will be protected, and with sale prohibited, the results are bound to be beneficial.

In regard to bass and maskinonge, the reduction in the size of the day's catch, making it illegal to catch more than two maskinonge and six bass in one day, will be accepted as inevitable, in view of the falling off in the numbers of such fish being caught in Ontario waters.

Changes such as these are necessary unless this Province is to be placed on the angler's list as a district absolutely "fished out"—with results, so far as the tourist traffic is concerned, that would be serious.

THE "BALLOT" MYSTERY.

With the evidence of an employee of the Ottawa printing firm which printed the ballots used in the South Ottawa election that he burned the unused ballot paper, the "mystery" brought to the attention of the Legislature by W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, has been to all intents and purposes solved.

In regard to the ballots found on the streets it is clear that the returning officer was careless in his treatment of the unused ballots, failed to send them all back to Toronto, and they were found and distributed by newsboys, who some time after the election used the room formerly employed as the returning officer's headquarters.

The missing ballot paper caused some speculation until yesterday when it was discovered that it had not been sent to the returning officer, but burned at the printing office.

Nothing that in any way creates cause for suspicion that there were any irregularities in the actual conduct of the election has been disclosed, but it is obvious that instructions as to what should be done after an election have not been very carefully observed, probably because the official responsible felt that there was no need to be particular.

It is a nice question as to how many other election officials were equally careless as to their responsibilities after election day, and an examination of all the returns from the various ridings might disclose some interesting evidence on that point.

The inquiry has served to show what trouble may develop out of a failure to carry out instructions, and election officials everywhere in the Province will probably be much more careful in the future.

Why do similar opportunities make a hero of one man and a fool of another?—Kitchener Record.

A WARNING ALWAYS IN ORDER.

There was a High Court case here this week in which the right of way of the fire motor trucks was involved to some extent, and judgment was given against the city. We are not going to discuss that verdict, although anyone has the right to do so, but there are technical legal angles which the layman would do well to avoid. But when it comes to a case of common sense, it must be conceded that motorists should give the fire trucks the whole pavement and all the room possible, and the sound of the siren should demand instant attention and obedience.

The Vancouver Sun, only this week, carried the following editorial, which is applicable to St. Catharines:

"Yesterday the trucks of the fire department whizzed by this office with the customary wail of sirens.

"According to the law, all traffic within hearing of these sirens should pull to the curb and remain there until the warning is no longer audible.

"Yesterday, one lone automobile pulled to the curb when the fire trucks passed. The rest went on their way, ignoring the signal.

"If this practice keeps up, Vancouver is going to have one of the most disastrous traffic accidents in her history.

"The fire trucks have the right of way over all traffic.

"Motor car drivers should be made to realize that fact with a few stiff fines."

According to law in Vancouver all traffic must pull to the curb when fire trucks are approaching. We believe we have the same law here. Outside the question of damages or right of way, it is the height of folly for motorists not to obey the civic injunction. Not to do so is merely to flirt with the undertaker, and risk the lives of others as well.—St. Catharines Standard.

DEATH ON THE HIGHWAY.

That tragic accident in which a man and his young daughter were killed near Stamford on their way home from church Sunday evening, when struck by a car driven by a brutal driver who, without stopping to ascertain the condition of those he hit, sped away, serves to emphasize two things. The first of these is the extreme danger of walking on the highways, especially after dark. Many people have been killed while walking on the highway and the majority of these tragedies occurred in the night-time. People who walk on a much-travelled roadway take their lives in their hands every time they do so after daylight is passed.

Yet some people are forced to travel this way because there is no other route for them. The recurring deaths of pedestrians on the highways make it increasingly plain that something will have to be done sooner or later to obviate the necessity of walking on the highway, and the sooner this is done the more lives will be saved. The time will come when a foot-path will be built along the side of every highway through the co-operation of the Government and the municipalities.

Public opinion should unite throughout the Province to agitate for the building of these foot-paths without delay. Conservation of life has been very much to the front in recent years, and properly so because every life saved is a big asset to the community. Foot-paths along the highway will aid very materially in conserving life, and will repay for themselves many times over when the values of the lives to the state, which they will save, are considered.

In the meantime, those who find it necessary to walk on the highways should exercise the greatest precaution, keeping ears and eyes constantly open for the sound and lights of approaching cars. And they should make a practice of walking on the left side of the road so they will be facing the oncoming traffic. This may be a little awkward, but it will be a lot safer.

Another lesson to be learned from the tragedy near Stamford is that there are some reckless, callous, cowardly drivers, who are more bent on making headway than in preventing an accident. They seem to hold human life cheaply, and if they do hit somebody, keep right on going instead of stopping to see if they can render aid. The Stamford double slaughter teaches that there are some drivers who cannot be depended upon to exercise ordinary care on the highway, and the only safe plan for the pedestrian to follow is to act upon the assumption that all drivers are of this type; in other words, to be continually on the watch lest he be overtaken by injury or death.

It will be a matter of great regret if the fiend who killed the two near Stamford cannot be located and properly punished. He richly merits a severe punishment which will teach others to be more careful. Every person in the Niagara Peninsula should bend his or her energies toward ascertaining the identity of the driver of the death car. With every person on the watch, there should be no trouble in locating him. The reckless manner in which he was driving, and his cowardly act in running away, do not entitle him to consideration even at the hands of his friends.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Peterborough's creeks have evidently decided that spring has arrived.

The Ottawa ballot mystery is every day in every way getting less mysterious.

Great Britain will attempt to break the four principal air records this year. And the Britishers have a way of finishing what they start.

Port Hope should be grateful to the Ganeraska River for overflowing every spring and putting the town on the front page once a year.

Mayor McBride of Toronto complains that the new Police Chief does not come up to the height requirements. Perhaps His Worship thinks heads of police departments should be selected on a poundage basis.

During the six months ending April 30, 1927, 157 drunken drivers were convicted, while in the six months up to October 31, 1927, during five months of which the Liquor Control Act was in force, the number of convictions on this charge was 485. Possibly the fact that the first period included the winter months when traffic was lightest may have had something to do with the difference.

The Globe suggests that it is too early to take them off—and the warning has merit.

Scientists claim that man's cycle of life will soon be increased to 100 years, which will be a great boon to the instalment business.—Columbia Dispatch.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, March 27.—With a fairly heavy run of good average quality cattle, the market opened slowly. While the smaller buyers were quietly filling their requirements at prices steady with last week's close, the big fellows were evidently awaiting developments in view of the heavier run. Bidding was lower for the heavy choice steers, but up to the noon hour transactions were few. The feeling was that the market would hold steady.

Calves were 50c higher at $14.00 tops.

Yearling wool lambs were a trifle easier at $15. About 400 Western lambs, special quality, sold at $16. Spring lambs selling in bulk, at $14 to $16 each.

Hogs steady to firm at $9.00 f.o.b.

Lambs—Choice, $14 to $15; medium, $13 to $14; heavy, $12; culls, $12; spring, $14 to $16.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., March 27 (Canadian Press).—The inquiry from foreign buyers for Canadian grain here yesterday was of a very disappointing character and the volume of business was small. The domestic trade was also dull, but prices were unchanged.

Prices for all grades of Spring and Winter wheat flour were firmly maintained under a quiet demand.

The undertone to the market for all lines of milifeed was strong under a continued urgent demand from all sources. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was steady and values were unchanged.

The weakness which characterized the local egg situation for the most part of last week was again in evidence yesterday and prices scored another decline of one cent per dozen. This was due to the increased offerings from the interior and the prospects for large receipts this week. The receipts were 1,911 cases.

A feature of the potato trade was the weaker feeling that developed and prices were reduced ten to fifteen cents per bag. This was attributed to the heavy arrivals and the small demand.

The butter trade was extremely dull, but the undertone was firm. The receipts were 43 packages.

A moderate amount of business was done in cheese and prices ruled firm. The receipts were 96 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 27 (Canadian Press)—Sensational private estimates of crop losses through abandonment of soft Winter wheat acreage gave a decided upward swing to the wheat market yesterday; one Chicago crop authority reported that Illinois, Indiana and Ohio 78 per cent of the fields seeded to soft varieties of wheat are practically a failure.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm ½ to 1⅝ cent net higher. Corn finished ⅞ cent to 1⅜ up; oats unchanged to ½ cent advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7 cents.

Reports of big abandonment of acreage in soft Winter wheat sections were given all the more attention yesterday because prevailing weather of the last few days has been warm enough to bring the wheat out if the plant was alive. On the contrary, however, advices at hand yesterday indicated about the worst Winter losses in soft Winter wheat ever known. Out of 80 experimental plots at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., only seven would be left for harvest, it was stated, and all of the seven are seeded with hard Winter wheat, not soft.

Considerable selling of May delivery of wheat and simultaneous buying of deferred deliveries took place at one time as a result of announcement of the United States visible supply had decreased only 637,000 bushels for the week, leaving the total at 68,000,000 bushels compared to 50,000,000 a year ago.

Besides, European demand yesterday for wheat from North America was apparently almost at a standstill, and domestic flour demand for at least the time being was not very brisk.

An unexpected sharp decrease of 1,388,000 bushels in the corn visible supply did much to give independent strength to the corn market. In addition, unfavorable weather for corn movement was a bullish factor, especially as stocks of corn at Eastern points were small. Oats were firmer, sympathizing both with corn and wheat.

Scattered buying in the provision market acted as more than a counter-balance for a decline in hog values.

GOD'S MINUTE

I was brought low, and He helped me.—Ps. 31:32.

We thank Thee, O God, that we can call Thee Father, for no parent ever loves as deeply as Thou. We acknowledge with sorrow that we have grieved Thee time and again, for even when we would do good, evil is present. But, praise God, when we sincerely confess our sins, Thou are faithful when we sincerely confess our sins, Thou art faithful to forgive.

We thank Thee for the daily blessings of life, seen and unseen. We thank Thee that Thou art mindful of us even when we least think, and dost tenderly care for us. We pray Thee to write over the door of our home, "Peace be unto this household." Help us daily to create such an atmosphere in our home as will the better tend to bring all up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.

Keep us from temptation. Make us happy and blessed Christians, and help us in all we do, think, and say, that we may prove a blessing to others.

When sorrow comes into our lives, may we yet praise God and trust Him. And if we should be imprisoned in grief, may the hand of God open for us the iron gate, as when Peter was liberated. And when our work is finished, take us to Thyself in Heaven, for Jesus' sake. Amen.

NOTED LADY TRAVELLER VISITS TORONTO

Lady Richmond Brown, one of the most notable of English world travelers, is in Toronto visiting Mrs. Joshua Smith, wife of the miniature artist. These pictures show Lady Richmond Brown during some of her remarkable exploits, and some of the interesting places she has visited. No. 1 is a picture of the explorer taken after she returned from the wilds of Central America some time ago. No. 2 shows her with Mitchell Hedges, who also made the trip. They are looking over their collection of native reduced skulls, from Indian tribes near Ecquador. The Indians down there chop the heads off their captives, and then by a process known only to them shrink them. No. 3 shows Lady Richmond Brown as a markswoman. She is an expert with a rifle. No. 4 shows her with Hedges, a native and a shark they have just landed. No. 5 shows her with a giant sawfish, weighing 5,700 pounds. No. 6 is a picture of one of her camps. She is seen in front of the hut.

HUSBAND AND WIFE IN COMMONS

Mrs. Walter Runciman, victor in the recent by-election in St. Ives, Cornwall, is the ninth woman member of the mother of parliaments at Westminster. She won the seat for the Liberals, the contest being noteworthy for her spurning any help from Lloyd George, the party's leader. She is seen ABOVE with her husband, a former chancellor of the exchequer, also a members of parliament, and who introduced her when she took her seat in the Commons. They are the first married couple to hold seats in parliament at the same time.

PAINTS PACIFIC SCENES

Jan van Empel, described by one critic as the painter of the best Canadian mountain landscape, is shown here with a sample of his Rocky mountains and Pacific coast pictures, which are creating much delightful comment in Ontario.

SCREEN STARS' MOTHER DIES

Mrs. Charlotte Smith, mother of Canada's own Mary Pickford, died recently at her home at Beverly Hills California. With her at the time of her death were Mary and her other two children, Lottie and Jack, both of whom have attained wide screen prominence. The passing of Mary's mother recalls the period during which the family lived in Toronto, where all three children were born. The old home was on University avenue. Mary Pickford was born there. Here picture (1) shows Mary and her mother, (2) is Mary, (3) is Mary's brother, Jack, taken in New York; (4) is the house at 211 University avenue, Toronto, where Mary and her mother lived for a while; (5) shows Mary and Mrs. Pickford standing on the steps of the old house; (6) is Lottie Pickford Mary's sister; (7) shows the original house in Toronto where the Pickford family lived.

BYRD'S PLANE PASSES ICE TESTS

The Bellanca monoplane, which will be used by Commander Byrd in his South Pole flight, has completed ice tests on Lake Champlain in the vicinity of St. Albans, Vermont, and in Quebec. The ski-landing gear was pronounced satisfactory, and replaced with wheels before the plane recently returned to its home hangar at Miller Field, Staten Island, N. Y. The illustration shows the crew in front of the ski-equipped Bellanca at St. Albans. From left to right they are: Bernt Balchen, Floyd Bennett, T. B. Mulroy, chief engineer, and V. S. Wetherly.

Of six Ford cars made in 1904 at Windsor, all but two have disappeared. One of them is in Henry Ford's museum, the other is kept as a curiosity in Toronto. The six Fords were among the first cars made in Canada. The 1904 Ford shown above used to burn up the roads at eight miles an hour, and it can still do so. When new it cost $1,185 with $50 extra charged for the fringed canopy, considered very smart in those days, and a cylinder engine under driver's seat, and the gasoline tank is under the hood.

SONG RECITAL VERY PLEASING

Pupils of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park Give Delightful Program.

WIDE RANGE SHOWN.

A very interesting and enjoyable program of music was given in the hall of the Conservatory of Music last evening, when pupils of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park were heard in a song recital, which demonstrated a great degree of careful training on the part of the teacher and earnest study on the part of the pupils. Attention to phrasing, tone production, and articulation was stressed in the program of songs, which ranged from numbers of light, pretty calibre to selections by the classical composers.

Accompaniments for the singers were played by Mrs. Park and Miss Mary Agnes Logan, both of whom received lovely bouquets of flowers. Little Eleanor Brown, one of the junior pupils, also received a bouquet. The program was as follows:

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SMOKING MOUNTAIN.

Down toward the strange and beautiful Italian city of Venice floated the airship with Uncle Wiggily, Bunty and Vallie seated in the clothes basket part. Some of the gas had escaped from the balloon, which was the reason the ship began to fall.

"It's almost as bad as falling into the ocean to drop down on a city where the streets are made of water instead of paving stones and asphalt," said Bunty.

"I don't see what we are going to do," spoke Vallie. Both little bunny girls looked at Uncle Wiggily. The rabbit gentleman twinkled his pink nose and said:

"Not all the streets of Venice are water, for I see some that are paved with stones. I also see some beautiful little bridges and what would be the use of bridges to cross water streets if there were not dry places for the ends of the bridges to rest on? I think we shall find room enough to hop around in Venice even though it has many water streets, or canals."

"Why does it have them?" asked Bunty.

Before Uncle Wiggily could answer, the airship after passing over one extra wide water street settled down in a sort of paved square, not far from what seemed to be part of the ocean. On one side of the square was a large church with a high tower, and on the other sides were beautiful buildings. And fluttering in the air and walking among the little tables and chairs of which there were many in the square were thousands of pigeons. None of the men and women, boys and girls walking or eating ice-cream at the tables paid any attention to Uncle Wiggily as he and the bunny girls stepped from the airship.

But the pigeons flocked around the rabbits and one of them cooed:

"Welcome to Venice, Uncle Wiggily! We are glad to see you!"

"Well," said the rabbit gentleman with a smiling twinkle of his pink nose, "I didn't expect to come to Venice, so I didn't bring my rubber boots to wade in your water streets."

"You won't need rubber boots," cooed a white pigeon. "Though Venice has many water streets, or canals, there are also dirt and stone streets and paths such as you have at home. But even on the water streets you don't have to wade with rubber boots."

"What do you do then, if you please?" asked Bunty.

"You can ride in gondolas," said a brown pigeon.

"What's a gondola?" Vallie wanted to know. "It is something to eat?"

"It's the kind of boat used on the Venice water streets," explained a blue pigeon, and then some of the pigeons fluttered to show the way to where the water lapped the stone edges of the street not far from the Square of St. Mark, where the airship had come down.

Uncle Wiggily and the bunny girls saw some strange long, narrow, black boats, with brass lions and the edges and cute little cabins in which sat boys and girls. On the back end of the boat stood a man with a long oar with which he sent the boat through the canal streets.

"Why do they have canals in Venice instead of streets?" asked Bunty.

"Because, many years ago, Venice was the home of fishermen who lived on islands at the edge of the sea," answered a gray pigeon. "In time the fishermen made their islands larger by putting willow sticks down at the edges and filling in with dirt and stones. There were many islands and between them some water was left, for all of it could not be filled up. And the water that was left between different islands was used as streets, or canals, the people going about in boats instead of walking. The canals of Venice are very old."

There were many things about Venice Uncle Wiggily wished he could show the bunny girls, but he said they had better start for home. So with the help of the pigeons of St. Mark the airship was mended and once more the traveling bunnies started off. They were sailing along through the air, toward home as they hoped, when all of a sudden, looking down, Vallie cried out:

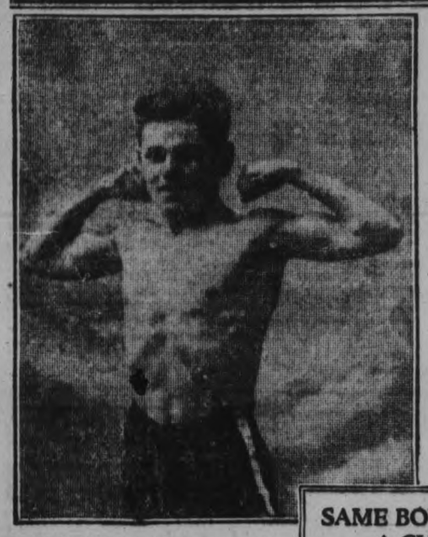
"Oh, look at the smoking mountain!"

"And we are dropping down toward it!" said Bunty.

Uncle Wiggily looked over the edge of the clothes basket.

"Yes, that is a smoking mountain, or volcano," he said. "It is called Vesuvius. I am glad we came near it for I want to show it to you. It is one of Italy's great sights. We shall go down and see the smoking mountain."

Mr. Longears let gas out of some of the balloons and slowly the airship began to settle. Great clouds of smoke came from the crater of Vesuvius, but Bunty and Vallie were not afraid.



How VIROL builds FOR LIFE

GEORGE POVALL TO-DAY

Age 18

PROOF that only VIROL can show

At 6½ months, Feb. 8th, 1909, George Edward Povall, 5, Central Fire Station, Salford, Eng., wasted away until he weighed only 6 lb. 8 oz. "He was nothing but skin and bones" (see Photo 1). Then he was put on Virol. On March 9th, 1910, just thirteen months after he was first given Virol, he weighed 31½ lbs. and was the fine healthy baby you see in Photo 2.

Not only did Virol effect an immediate improvement in this terrible case of wasting, but it laid the foundations of healthy growth and development. Since Virol saved his life, George Povall has not had a single day's sickness. He has won prizes for running, played football regularly, and to-day he is a well-built muscular boy of 18, in perfect health (see picture at top), as the doctor who attended him in his first and only illness has certified in a letter written recently.

But Virol is not only a life saver. Its extreme value to mothers lies in this. Virol builds up weakly children or children you are "just a little bit anxious about," to really robust permanent health."

SAME BOY WHEN A CHILD

March 9th, 1910. Age 1 year 7 months; weight, 31½ lbs. AFTER 13 MONTHS on VIROL

These are guaranteed to be genuine photographs and accurate particulars of George Edward Povall. This and every other case published by Virol, Ltd., are open to the strictest investigation by any Doctor interested.

LINDY WITHDRAWS FROM PUBLIC LIFE

Plans To Pursue His Hobby as Private Citizen From Now On.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Acclaimed as no other individual in the history of the nation, Col. Charles Lindbergh officially withdrew himself from the public focus to-day to follow his long cherished pursuit of a normal citizen. Weary of jostling and admiring masses, decoration ceremonies and constant formal affairs in his honor, the youth who has done as much for aviation as any other man since the Wrights and Langley, calmly contemplated the future and how best he might acquit himself in the interest of his lone hobby. Lindy doesn't know what he's going to do yet. His "Spirit of St. Louis" was tuned up to-day at Bolling Field to take him whenever and wherever his heart desires, but it is safe to say he wants no reporters around when he takes off.

INVALID SAVES TWO BOYS

William Calder, an iron moulder of Glasgow, Scotland, has just been awarded a Carnegie hero certificate and check for $50 for having rescued two boys from drowning. Calder was ill and out of work when he saw the two struggling in the water. Without discarding his clothing he jumped in and saved both with much difficulty. As the result of his immersion he was treated in the Western Infirmary for 10 weeks.

from old Peru

In Peru, IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED ended a world-wide quest for an ideal crude petroleum from which to manufacture motor oil. In Canada IMPERIAL developed facilities to process this crude into Marvelube, an inherently better oil.

New refining processes; mighty fleets of tank ships plying the Atlantic and Pacific; thousands of tank cars moving between the great IMPERIAL refineries and 2,000 distributing points; all these—and Peruvian Crude—are factors in the production of Marvelube.

Back of Marvelube are the resources, enterprise and integrity of Canada's largest refiners of petroleum products.

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

SNATCHED FROM THE BRINK OF NIAGARA

The subject of this story was led to commit a ghoulish crime in the quest for buried jewels.. Full of remorse, he contemplated suicide, but was stopped in a remarkable manner. Then he found the Pearl of Greatest Price

By ADJUTANT BRAMWELL COLES
Reprinted, with permission, from The Easter War Cry.

It seemed the only way out. The foaming waters of the rapids rushing madly on as if eager for their terrible plunge, seemed to be calling the despairing man. A sudden, desperate leap, and then—exit! Better a short agonizing struggle in the cruel waters of Niagara than this awful, maddening burden.

Jimmy R—— (never mind his real name), was in a tight corner; there can be no two opinions about that. Behind him, young though he was, a ghastly crime he could never undo; before him, black hopelessness. And all the time haunting him like some terrifying ghost, a guilty conscience.

He had fled to Niagara in his desperate efforts to elude the arm of the law, with some vague hope of escaping across the border, although he knew that were well nigh impossible. In terror of every policeman he saw, he lived in a perpetual nightmare of apprehension.

This was not all—for the Devil pays his wages in good measure. Added to his mental agony were the pangs of remorse caused by thoughts of the shame and suffering his prodigal ways had brought to his faithful but broken-hearted wife and his sorrowing mother.

Yes, he was in desperate straits. He had got into a pretty awkward mess. Why endure the worry of it all any longer?

* * *

As he thus meditated, there passed rapidly before his mind the sequence of events which had brought him to this terrible pass. If only he could have torn those pages from his life's book and destroyed them!

It was twelve months previously that, while waiting at the Relief Office, he had struck up a casual acquaintance with a man who during the course of conversation had exclaimed, "Wish I knew where I could get some 'easy money'" Now Jimmy had heard a story going the rounds at M——, his home town, of how $200,000 worth of jewelry had been buried in a certain grave in the cemetery there Unthinkingly, for he was then innocent of any criminal intent, he told the story to his companion, who to his surprise, pounced at the idea like a cat at a mouse. Jimmy somewhat alarmed and surprised at the readiness with which the older man had grabbed at this supposed chance of getting "easy money," and at once recognizing the true character of his chance acquaintance, bluntly refused to pursue the matter further.

Eight months later Jimmy ran into the man again in Toronto. At once the "easy money" coveter broached the subject of the buried wealth. The younger man again turned the proposition down, refusing to be an accomplice to the ghoulish and criminal plot proposed. But his companion's appetite had been whetted. He had set his mind on carrying the job through and mentioned that he was in touch with a man who "knew all the ropes" where "easy money" was concerned, proceeding to paint alluring pictures of the wealth which would be theirs once they got hold of the "swag."

His picture painting hit Jimmy in a weak spot. The young man thought of his wife and child, and of how the money would bring comfort to their drab, poverty-stricken lives. He weakened; the older man noticed it, and using every crafty artifice of which he was master, he battered the crumbling defence until Jimmy was down and out!

So it came about that the three men—Jimmy, the man who coveted "easy money" and the man who "knew the hopes"—met to plan their ghoulish plot. It was first arranged that Jimmy should go to M—, ascertain exactly the position of the grave, and generally reconnoitre the position. This he did, returning with complete details of the locality of the grave and with further confirmation of the story of the buried wealth.

Final plans were then laid, and on the day appointed, a car was secured —a deposit of $20.00 accomplished this—some canvas, shovels and a pick were thrown in, and some decorators' paraphernalia placed on top of these as camouflage. Then the trio set out for their one hundred and thirty mile journey to the scene of their proposed crime. They arranged their schedule so as to arrive at M—— under cover of darkness. It was therefore near midnight when they crept into the cemetery and, finding the grave, commenced to dig. They rolled the turf, for they planned to cover all traces of their crime by refilling the grave, and relaying the turf.

All their evil plans had so far functioned like a well-oiled machine, and they were congratulating themselves on their "good luck" when an oath sprang to the lips of one of the diggers. His spade had struck the rough box in which the casket and the supposed jewels were buried. It was made of steel! And to their unutterable disgust their frantic attempts to prise it open with a chisel and other instruments proved futile.

They knew then that it was all up. Their castles in the air burst like bubbles. Their visions of affluence vanished like a desert mirage. Cursing their "hard luck," they hurriedly refilled the grave, relaid the turf, tumbled into the car and made off.

* * *

All these gruesome details, like a horrible dream flashed before Jimmy's mind's eye as he stood within sound of the mighty torrent, the waters of which promised him a speedy deliverance from his haunting conscience and escape from the consequences of his wrong-doing and from the disgrace he had brought upon himself and his family.

What had life for him? Only bitterness and wretchedness. Black despair faced him on every side. In a vague sort of way he realied he had brought it all on himself. He had worked for the evil, he must take the evil's wages. He had no one to blame but himself.

Bluntly, he was cornered. There was one way out. It was a quick and easy way. He would take it.

As he thus calmly determined to "blot out his life," to use his own phrase, there came an arresting sound—the music of a band It may seem almost like fiction; but ask Jimmy; he will soon settle your mind on the question. He stopped to listen, and some strange influence drew him in the direction of the sound.

You will have guessed that it was The Army Band at an Open-air meeting. As the despairing man drew near and heard the Salvationist's message, he thought again of his broken-hearted wife, loyal and faithful through thick and thin; of his sinful state Tears of remorse came unbidden to his eyes.

Let him tell this part of the story in his own words. "That music of the Band stopped a sinner who was going to further serve the devil by taking his own life," he says. "It seemed to say to me: "Come back to God.' As I stood near, the Captain who was leading the service, noticed me. What it was that made him speak to me I don't know. Perhaps he saw the tears which I could not stop; perhaps he saw that the message had found a billet. Anyway, he spake to me about my soul. I told him I was too far gone. He told me that no man was so low but that the love of Jesus could not save him.

"But there were so many things to right that I felt my particular case was hopeless. Before I could find pardon from God I must confess my sin and suffer the consequences. I felt I could not do this, but in response to the Captain's persuasion, I promised to attend the meeting at The Army Hall next morning.

"I went, and a Sergeant came and begged me to seek God's pardon. I decided then and there to confess everything and pray for God's forgiveness and Salvation."

* * *

The rest of the story is soon told. Jimmy fully resolved to make a clean breast of his participation in the M—— crime, and to bear the penalty whatever it might be. With firm purpose he made his way to the mercy-seat and there, on his knees, in true repentance, humbly and earnestly prayed that God, for the sake of Jesus who died for "whosoever will," would blot out his sins. He rose from his knees with the assurance that he was a sinner saved by grace.

The future. What did it trouble him now. The load had vanished. His sins were blotted out. To the sympathetic Officer of the local Corps, he confessed the whole story of his part in the ghoulish crime, signifying his intention of making a clean breast of everything to the police, taking his punishment like a man, and then starting again with a "clean sheet."

* * *

He was sent to Toronto, the Adjutant giving him a letter of introduction which fully explained the case to The Army Men's Social Department, and there the repentant man saw kindly Officers of The Army, to whom he repeated his story, concluding by reaffirming his determination to make a full confession.

Suffice it to say that an Army Officer went with Jimmy when he made a clean breast of everything to the police authorities and eventually stood his trial.

He cannot begin to express the depth of his gratitude to The Army for its kindly shepherding of himself and his faithful wife and little girl throughout many troublous weeks of stress and suspense. But of this we are not so much concerned here; it is all in the day's work of our Men's Social Samaritans.

Jimmy has found that God has not failed him. To-day he is a free man; his wife and child are restored to him. The Army has found him a job on a farm and provided him with an outfit. His child was dedicated in The Army recently. He has gained his manhood, and is holding fast to an Arm that is stronger than his own, facing the future with optimism and courage.

His thoughts no longer are turned on quests for buried jewels. The saved man has found the Pearl of Great Price, and his heart now sings for joy.

Yes he has many things to be grateful for; but to his dying day there will ever ring sweetly in his ears the music of that little Army Band, the strains of which arrested him and snatched him from the brink of Niagara.

EMERY WHEEL KILLS GRINDER

ASSISTANTS ESCAPE.

TORONTO, Ont., March 27.—James Malloy, aged 51, a grinder, living at 189 Jarvis Street, met death in a peculiar way last evening, when an emery wheel, weighing about 700 pounds, suddenly burst. A large piece of the wheel struck him in the face, forcing him against a steel upright of the galvanized iron workshop, and badly crushing his head. He was rushed to St. Michael's Hospital in an ambulance, but was found to be dead on his arrival there. The body was subsequently removed to the Morgue. An inquest is probable.

Malloy sharpens blades used in paper mill work. He had a helper, John Sweeton, 189 Jarvis street. Malloy, Sweeton and Harry Doncaster, 61 Roberts street, Mimico, were at work in the shop about 5 o'clock last evening, when with a roar that could be heard for blocks, the emery wheel burst in pieces. Malloy was standing by his work bench, when a large piece of the debris hurled him with a crash against the steel girder. Another large piece missed Sweeton by an inch and crashed with a resounding clang against the galvanized sides of the factory. Doncaster also had a narrow escape.

The sound of the explosion sent Mrs. Malloy and other inmates of the house scampering into the workshop. Neighbors rushed to their doors in an effort to ascertain just what had happened. Someone walking along the street who had heard the noise of the blast notified the police of East Dundas Station by telephone.

Sergeant Horton and constables repaired to the scene. They found Malloy lying unconscious on the floor of his shop, his head crushed and terribly mangled.

Wheel Comparatively New

Sweeton and Doncaster, badly unnerved by the tragedy, told what had happened. Sweeton said that he could not account for wheel bursting, as it was comparatively new, having been in use only about two months. An examination of the interior wall, where the piece of the wheel had crushed Malloy's life out, was bulged outward four or five inches by the shock of the impact. Scattered bits of the emery were found all over the plant.

Some of the larger pieces of the broken wheel were gathered up by the police and will be examined carefully for signs of flaws.

Deceased was well-known in the Jarvis street district, having resided there for some time. He is survived by his widow, Ada, and relatives in England, where he was born.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN AND STOCK

Fred Ellis, of Havelock, Loses Team, Seven Calves and Forty Hens.

EQUIPMENT BURNED.

HAVELOCK, March 27. — Fire, caused by a lantern exploding, destroyed the barn on the premises of Fred Ellis, who lives about five miles east of here, about 9 o'clock, on Sunday evening. Mr. Ellis hung the lantern in the usual place, and was bedding the calves when the explosion occurred. The flames spread so rapidly that it was with difficulty that he saved one team and the cows. Another team, seven calves, forty hens, a new carriage, harness, fanning mill, and a large quantity of grain were burned. The loss is heavy as only a small amount of insurance was carried.

ORPHANAGE WORK IMPORTANT ITEM

Grenfell Activities in Labrador Include Care of Homeless Children.

From the day, many years ago, when Sir Wilfred was called upon to bury a Labrador widow, leaving five homeless children unprovided for, the School-orphanage work began. Now it has grown to large proportions, due largely to the fact that occupations on the coast are hazardous and take heavy toll of human life, thus leaving an increasing number of children to be cared for and brought up by the Grenfell Mission.

Many of these children are exceptionally bright and talented and are brought out by Sir Wilfred and Lady Grenfell for technical training and then return to serve their own land. Several girls have become teachers or graduate nurses while the boys are given special courses in carpentry, motor mechanics and trades of that nature. Sir Wilfred feels that all these educated young people will raise the standard of community life and improve home conditions in every way. Educating and equipping Labrador children is a good investment in human life, and friends of the Mission undertaking to finance such work feel amply rewarded.

In The Examiner of very recent date was reported the total destruction by fire of the northern orphanage at Gordon, North Labrador. The fifty children living there were saved and are being cared for by fishermen but all clothing, food and other supplies were ruined. It was a wooden building, since that was all the International Grenfell Association could afford; and in consequence it was only partially insured, because insurance rates on wooden structures in North Labrador are extremely high. The needs for funds for reconstruction will be urgent, and it is earnestly hoped that Peterborough will do its share when the appeal is made for the Grenfell mission.

MRS. KATE MORRIS TO GIVE ADDRESS

Will Present Lady Motorists' Views at Automobile Association Banquet.

Of special interest to lady motorists in Peterborough is the acceptance by Mrs. W. R. (Kate) Morris of an invitation to deliver an address at the annual general meeting and banquet of the Peterborough Automobile Club, to be held in the Empress Hotel at 6.30 p.m., on Tuesday, April 3.

"Mrs. Morris," said Secretary Frank G. Stinson, "is herself a motorist, and will, no doubt, have something to say in connection with the lady motorist's point of view on highway and traffic matters which is a view that heretofore has not received deserving attention.

"In addition, Mrs. Morris is a Peterborough lady very much in the public eye, and the fact that she has consented to address the annual meeting should, in itself, warrant a good turnout of lady motorists who are members of the club, their friends and motorists generally.

"The annual gathering is not restricted to the two hundred and fifteen members of the club for all motorists are cordially invited.

OBITUARY

GEORGE HUFFMAN.

MADOC, March 26. — George Huffman, a well known resident of this village and district, passed away at his late residence, Prince Albert street, Madoc, on Sunday morning, March 18th, at the age of 68 years and seven months.

The deceased been ill only a short time. Two weeks ago he fell in Trinity United Church and injured his foot but this was rapidly healing. On Tuesday pneumonia set in, and his heart being weak, death came on Sunday.

The late Mr. Huffman was born in Madoc township on the farm now occupied by his son, Wesley, which has been in the family for four generations. He was the son of the late John Wesley Huffman and Isabel Bradshaw. Nearly all his life was spent on the farm until he moved to Madoc in 1915.

In 1884 he was married to Hannah Brown of Madoc village, who survives him.

The news of his death came as a great shock to his many friends in the community. His kindly smile and friendly greeting will be missed, for he had a greeting for everyone he met. He was a member of Trinity United Church and took a great interest in church work.

He leaves to mourn his loss besides his widow, one son, Wesley, of Madoc township, two daughters, Mrs. Frank Bouck, of North Bay; and Mrs. R. P. Wellman of Madoc Village; also three sisters, Mrs. I. McCarthy and Mrs. G. Gray of Peterborough; and Mrs. F. Davis of Melrose.

The funeral was held at Trinity United church on Tuesday, March 20, at 2.30 p.m., where the service was conducted by Rev. G. W. Rivers, who took for his text, Acts 21: 38: "Sorrowing most of all for the words which he spake, that they should see his face no more," and who spoke comforting words for the bereaved ones. Mr. Gay of Foxboro, sang an appropriate solo "I know-He cares for even me." Interment was made in Lakeview cemetery where deceased rests beside his pa[illegible].

STAINER'S CRUCIFIXION

All those who braved the elements on Sunday night and turned out to hear the oratorio, Stainer's "Crucifixfiion," rendered at Trinity Church by a well-balanced choir of about forty-five voices, must have felt well repaid for their effort. The congregation, which nearly filled the church, was a very appreciative one.

The soloists of the evening were Norman Cherrie, baritone soloist of Timothy Eaton Memorial Church, Toronto, and Maurice Park, tenor soloist of Trinity Church. Judging by the comments heard on every side, Trinity choir, under the able leadership of Miss Mabel Clarry, gave a good account of themselves, the whole work being rendered in fine style. Mr. Cherrie's singing of the various solos was all that could be desired, his fine baritone voice being admirably suited to the work, showing perfect control fine tone, and splendid enunciation which gave to it a very descriptive effect. The duet by the two soloists deserves special mention, the voices harmonizing well, and was much appreciated by the audience. Mr. Park was also heard at his best and rendered the different solos in his usual effective manner.

The chorus throughout showed to good advantage the fine training imparted by the director and the efforts of the members themselves in response, with the necessary patience on both sides in the difficult rendition of such a work. The bowling of the mob of "Crucify Him, Crucify Him," was especially effective and dramatic. The choir and its director are to be congratulated on the success of the presentation. "Fling Wide the Gates" was a beautifully-rendered number, also the unaccompanied presentation of "God So Loved the World."

In the morning, Mr. Cherrie's solo numbers were "It Is Enough," from Mendelssohn's "Elijah," and "The Lord Is My Shepherd," by Dvorak In the evening he sang, "Jesus, My Lord, Is Crucified."

4TH PETERBOROUGH TROOP

The meeting opened on Thursday with flag-break and inspection, followed by the investiture of Jack Cowling into the troop as a member of the crow Patrol.

The troop was then formed into a large circle with the Patrol Leaders in the centre. The Scouts had to try and hit the patrol leader of any other patrol but their own. The Kangaroos won this game.

The troop was again formed into a circle with one patrol in the centre. The other patrols had to hit the Scouts in the circle and get them out as soon as possible. The Kangaroos stayed in for 25 seconds, the Crows 20 seconds, and the Owls 15 seconds.

A game of night-stalking was played in which each Scout was blindfolded and one patrol started from the north end of the headquarters and one patrol from the south end. At the signal to start the two patrols started up the room; a Scout touched was out. There are many instances in everyday life when one wants to measure something and have nothing to measure it by; so a Scout is prepared by knowing the measurements of the different parts of his body. Four of the measurements were taken this week—the height, height to finger-tips, armpit to finger-tips, and finger-tip to finger tip.

The council fire was then quickly arranged. Everybody joined in the opening song, "O Canada."

The next song, "There's One More River to Cross," gave the troop a chance to let off steam. Arthur E. Paddon, the provincial field secretary talked to the troop for a while, telling of the importance of the council fire at the troop meeting. "It recalls," said Mr. Paddon, "the memory of your camp life, the flames roaring high, and the dancing shadows on the tents."

Mr. Morris, a member of the troop committee, was also present at the meeting.

The Owl patrol is now flying along at the head of the troop competition.

First thing in the morning and the last thing at night, massage your gums with Forhan's for the Gums. Just apply Forhan's to the index finger and thumb. WHAT THE CANADIANS WERE DOING.

On March 27 at 4:05 p.m. the 1st Canadian Division was ordered to move to the Couturelle area as far south as the roads went through Aubigny, Avesnes-le-Comte, and Sombrin. It was a rush order and men and units pushed off without much of their equipment, travelling light. It was understood that the enemy had broken through so seriously in the Cambrai area that the presence of the Canadians was an urgent necessity. All roads were cluttered with transport and the troops were still marching southbound when the enemy struck heavily astride the River Scarpe and motor cycle despatch riders hastily turned them back to meet this new menace in the Arras area. At dawn on the 28th they were thrown into an almost unknown line in the back gardens of Arras.

It is difficult to follow all these changes even in such brief review. Imagine how difficult it was to execute them. They were stirring days. Take the 4th Canadian Division, for instance. At daybreak one morning, it was defending the left flank of Vimy Ridge; before midnight its infantry were stumbling in the dark into strange trenches which but a day before had been the scene of the desperate defensive of the 56th (Imperial) Division. With the infantry came the gunners and engineers and men of all units and all formations that completed the divisional strength. Roads and routes that had known only occasional traffic were jammed with marching men; with guns and ammunition limbers; with field ambulances; with horse and mechanical transport; with motors and lorries and general service wagons until the roadsides were white with dust and the countryside resounded with the shouts of men—infantry jostling artillery and mechanical transport threading its way through both, while staff cars wound in some miraculous way through the turmoil which was order, only outwardly cloaked in seeming confusion. And with all this on the roads there were buses crammed with infantry. Other troops went forward by the light railways and tramways. The area about Vimy was alive as it had not been for months. Battalion headquarters moved in the morning to find themselves in strange quarters at night. Brigade headquarters followed them. The divisional staff reached its permanent destination in the morning and by night Major-General Watson and selected officers were miles further forward in battle headquarters. In previous days, the 1st and 2nd Divisions had hurried south, where General Byng's glorious Third Army was fighting night and day in one of the most desperate battles of all history. On strange roads and in strange places, troops had marched or been hurried forward in scores and scores of buses or they crawled by train over burdered railways to constantly changing destinations. Trench fighting had given place for the moment to what approached open warfare. Men had billeted where they could in farmhouses and outbuildings, in camps, and in the open. One division had changed its headquarters three times in one day. Brigades had changed as often. Bewildered battalions with tired officers and tired men had seemingly been thrown from place to place, at the whim of higher commands. But bewildered as they were and tired as they were, Canadian officers and men, both north and south of the Scarpe, were eager for the battle; eager for a struggle from which all indications were that many would not return. There was business to be done—the business that had brought fathers and sons out to France for the doing of it—and the cause was greater than the individual. Men moved by night and day with their "tails in the air", as the expression goes, which means that the Canadian Corps was confident of itself, that its moral was high, that all ranks welcomed days of action after days of quiet, and, putting away the petty things of routine, turned to the vital things of combat, sure in their record of the past and in no way alarmed for the future. They had no illusions concerning what might be in store for them. On March 27th General Currie issued a special order to the corps, which is reproduced herewith. It should rank among the great documents of Canadian history.

SPECIAL ORDER BY SIR ARTHUR CURRIE.

"In an endeavour to reach an immediate decision the enemy has gathered all his forces and struck a mighty blow at the British Army. Overwhelmed by sheer weight of numbers the British divisions in the line between the Scarpe and the Oise have fallen back fighting hard, steady and undismayed.

"Measures have been taken successfully to meet this German onslaught. The French have gathered a powerful army commanded by a most able and trusted leader, and this army is now moving swiftly to our help. Fresh British divisions are being thrown in. The Canadians are soon to be engaged. Our Motor Machine-Gun Brigade has already played a most gallant part and once again covered itself with glory.

Looking back with pride on the unbroken record of your glorious achievements, asking you to realize that to-day the fate of the British Empire hang s in the balance, I place my trust in the Canadian Corps, knowing that where Canadians are engaged there can be no giving away.

"Under the orders of your devoted officers in the coming battle you will advance or fall where you stand facing the enemy.

"To those who will fall I say, 'You will not die, but step into immortality. Your mothers will not lament your fate, but will be proud to have borne such sons. Your name will be revered forever and ever by your grateful country and God will take you unto Himself.'

"Canadians, in this grateful hour, I command you and I trust you to fight as you have ever fought, with all your strength, and with all your determination, with all your tranquil courage. On many a hard-fought field of battle you have overcome this enemy. With God's help you shall achieve victory once more."

MAIN ESTIMATES DOWN $6,000,000

Province Plans To Spend Nearly Forty Million—Hydro Program Reduced.

TORONTO, March 27. — Main estimates for the fiscal year of 1929, totalling $38,639,318, were brought down by the Ontario Government yesterday, and show a reduction of some $6,000,000 as compared with those of last year. The figures seem to point to the inauguration of a period of decreasing expenditures by the Government, and the total is smaller than has been asked in the main estimates for some time past.

A reduction of nearly $8,000,000 has been effected in the program of the Hydro Commission alone, which stands this year at $8,335,600, as compared with $14,970,000 last year. To this latter amount the supplementary estimates added a sum of nearly $3,000,000. This reduction is due in part to the fact that the Thunder Bay district development of Alexander Landing is near completion, which reduces the appropriations this year by $3,800,000. Expenditures on transmission and distribution lines in the Niagara system alone have been reduced from $7,225,000 in 1928, to $2,550,000 in 1929.

New Transformer Station.

The estimates provide for the expenditure of $1,500,000 on the Leaside transformer station, which will provide the last link in the transmission of power from the Gatineau River to Toronto. The total appropriations for the Niagara system are $5,750,000; for the Georgian Bay system, $635,000; for the St. Lawrence and Ottawa systems, $375,000; for the Thunder Bay system, $325,000; for the Central Ontario system, $620,000; for the Nipissing system, $437,000; and for the Algoma system, $10,000. There are no payments next year on bonuses for rural transmission lines, which accounts for a further reduction of $750,000.

The estimates under the heading of Legislation provide one of the exceptions, where an increase of some $2000 is shown. The indemnity to the members of the house stands at $230,000, instead of $228,600, presumably to take care of a newcomer who will take his seat representing the constituency of South Bruce when the Legislature assembles next year.

The grant of $300,000 to Western University will be continued in 1928, and takes its place under the Department of Education, together with the initial appropriation of the University of Toronto, amounting next year to $166,900.

An increase of $200,000 is seen in the Department of Lands and Forests, though if the supplementary appropriations this year are included the requirements set out for 1929 are $24,000 less.

Initial appropriations point to a much smaller expenditure in 1929, in the Department of Public Works, though the supplementaries next session may bring a substantial incrase. As it stands, however, the total of $1,262,165 is approximately 50 per cent of that provided for 1928.

In the Game and Fisheries Department the $5000 set aside this year in supplementary estimates for the purpose of a general survey of conditions in the province, has been continued. Wolf bounties included under another section of the estimates calls for an initial appropriation next year of $100,000, instead of the $75,000 included in the main estimates for 1928.

GIVES LIFE FOR UNFORTUNATES

Impressed with the need for welfare work among the people of the east end of London, R. Kennedy-Cox, a visitor in Canada, gave up a life of ease to assist the unfortunates. Establishing a two-room mission 20 years ago the work has grown to such an extent that there are now three large vocational and recreation missions. ABOVE is shown a sketch of one of the new centres established by Mr. Kennedy-Cox with a photograph of the founder, inset.

MAKING PROGRESS ON GAS STATION

Shell Gas Depot Being Erected at Charlotte and Rubidge Streets.

For several years past, the Shell Gas Company, of Canada, has maintained an up-to-date distributing depot at Lindsay, Ontario, but the sale of its products has so increased in the counties of Victoria and Peterborough that it has seen fit to place a large and entirely modern service station in this city.

During the past six weeks, the work of razing the residence on the old McKee property, south west corner of Charlotte and Rubidge streets, has been in progress and it, having been completed, contractor A. A. McIntyre is now employing a staff of men in building the service station on the same site. Though far from completed, the work gives every indication of resulting in a splendidly appointed station.

Three 28-foot cement driveways, one leading off Rubidge street, and two off Charlote street, will lead the highway motorist up to his choice of three pumps, a double visible and two singles, which will be supplied from two one thousand gallon tanks and two five hundred gallon reservoirs located beneath the concrete flooring beneath the large canopy. This canopy, supported by brick columns, will be particularly well lighted.

Having been supplied with gas and oil, and possibly having taken advantage of either of two grease pits situated at the west side, the motorist on entering the office will find it quite as modern inside as out. Made from brick and tile materials with concrete floor, it will consist of one large room, seventeen feet square, heated by hot water system and fitted with modern plumbing equipment, lavatories, etc. The outside will be covered with stucco and Barrett quartered roofing. Of course, yellow and red, the company's colors will be quite noticeable, while lamp posts, six in number, as well as two lighted signs are to be seen, the work of W. Gordon Hall, who holds the contract for the electrical work. There will also be a large flag pole erected. R. G. Sturgeon holds the plumbing contract and together with Messrs. McIntyre and Hall, as well as officials of the company, expects to see the station ready for use within the next couple of weeks. It will be supplied from the Lindsay depot for this year at least.

Dyspepsia Troubled Him for Many Years

THE SPRING TIME IS YOUR TONIC TIME

Run-Down People Find New Health Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

With the passing of winter many people feel weak, depressed and easily tired. There is no particular disease, but the system lacks tone. You find yourself tired, low-pitched, often unable to get sound sleep at night. All this is the result of closer in-door confinement of the winter months, and shows that the blood has become thin and watery. New, rich, red blood is what you need to put you right, and there is no other tonic medicine can give you this new, rich blood as surely and as speedily as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This new blood goes to every part of the body and quickly improves the general health. The digestion is toned up, and you have better appetite, the nerves are strengthened and sleep is refreshing. The special value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at this season is shown by the statement of Mrs. Elizabeth Clarke, R.R. No. 1, Hastings, Ont., who says: — "I know Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a great blood builder because I use them in the spring, when one naturally feels run-down after our long winter. Last spring I was feeling weak and easily tired, and again used the pills with the result that I have had splendid health since. Naturally I never hesitate to recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to people who are run-down."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

On one of the pages of a small publication entitled "The Beaver," which is published weekly in Toronto in the interests of the Native Sons of Canada, appears the following article, signed by "Minitte," and headed "Madame Helen Farnum, the dramatic contralto" (now Mrs. Fletcher, of Peterborough, Canada):

"Canadian by birth, this fine singer has spent a great deal of her artistic career in New York City.

"One need only to read of her very splendid four years' engagement with the "Judson Memorial Quartette" of New York City to be convinced of her outstanding ability in church and concert hall.

We often wonder why we, as native-born Canadians, hear so little of our own people who make good in other countries .It must be that they are simply driven there due to oversight or lack of sympathy on the part of ourselves.

"Would it not be very educating for our various universities, musical, artistic, business and other clubs to pay greater heed to advancing just such fine artists as Mme. Farnum? This would in no wise conflict with the engaging of outside talent, and while mentioning the subject, why not remunerate our own native-born singers in the manner, as we reimburse the strange singer within our gates?

"The Native Sons of Canada feel sure that they could stand something like this once in a while without completely shattering the "Constitution" of our much beloved Dominion of Canada.

"When the Native Sons of Canada are duly established in Peterborough, it is to be hoped that Mme. Helen Farnum, and other artists of equal note, may receive a small portion at least ,of the recognition which is due them. The writer also hopes to enjoy Mme. Farnum's fine singing again."

THE RIGHT WAY TO BANISH FAT

Combat a cause which modern research has discovered. Turn food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat. Supply a natural element which your system lacks. That is the method embodied in Marmola prescription tablets.

People have used Marmola for 20 years—millions of boxes of it. They have told others the results. Now, in almost every circle, you can see the results in new beauty and new vim. Why not learn the way to attain them?

A book in each box of Marmola tells you the formula, also the reasons for results. You will know why the effects come, and why they are beneficial. Go ask your druggist—in fairness to yourself—for a $1 box of Marmola.

KERNELS IN THE NECK

Most people have noticed little lumps which appear at the side of the neck when one has an acute cold. Those with chronic catarrh often find that a few of these lumps persist over a long period of time.

These kernels are really enlargements of lymph nodes which are little reservoirs in the great lymphatic circulation. The contents of the lymphatic vessels is much more than that of the blood vessels; in fact, this watery-like circulation in the body is equal to one-fourth of the body's weight. The little lymph nodes are situated in every part of the body, but there are large groups in certain places, such as the neck, under the arms, and in the groins.

The lymph nodes in children seem to be fully as large as with adults, and can be more easily felt, due to thee immature development of the tissues around the lymphatics.

With acute tonsillitis or a bad nose or throat cold the lymph glands enlarge a great deal, but usually return to normal size after the acute disorder has disappeared.

A chronic enlargement of the lymph nodes is called tubercular adenitis, although only in rare cases are the tubercular germs found in the enlarged glands. Tubercular adenitis is seen particularly among the poor, and those who live among unsanitary conditions. In the United States it is most common in the negro race.

In nearly every disease it is possible to find some micro-organism which is commonly associated with that particular disorder. With tubercular adenitis and with similar disorders, a great deal of research has been done in an effort to find the germ or bacterial cause. Much good time and energy have been lost in such research, for it is easily apparent that any enlargement of the lymphatic glands only shows that the body, through the lymphatic circulation, is attempting to carry away waste products and toxins from certain sections.

In a case of enlargements of the lymph nodes in the neck, the source of such toxic waste will be found in the nose, throat, ears, teeth, or some of the adjacent organs or structures. There may be a type of invading micro-organism found in the tonsils or elsewhere in the neighborhood, but such invasion is only possible because of constitutional derangements due to faulty habits of living.

The removal of the enlarged glands by surgery has accomplished little good, as the other glands which are left are compelled to do more work and consequently enlarge even more than the ones which were removed.

The sensible treatment for all enlarged lymph glands in any part of the body is to entirely stop the food intake so that the white blood cells and the lymphatic fluids can carry off the accumulated wastes while not being burdened with the assimilation of food and its distribution to the cells.

Only today I re-examined a young man who had just completed a two weeks' fruit fast. His neck glands are now practically normal where before they were so enlarged as to make his neck protrude to a thickness of more than two inches on one side. This young man is about twenty-five years of age. Young children get even more rapid results, and it is usually only necessary for them to take a fruit fast for four or five days, when the lymph nodes are emptied enough to be sure that a cure will be effected if a rational diet system is followed afterwards.

Hot applications over the glands will help some in increasing circulation of fluids.

If your child has swollen glands try the fast and heat applications first before you resort to surgery.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Mrs. L. asks: "Will you please state in your Question and Answer column how to cure itch, not eczema, but just plain, old fashioned itch. I know of people who have been trying for almost a year to get rid of it."

Answer: Any skin eruption or constant itching of the skin is caused from some kind of acidosis. This can positively be eliminated by careful dieting. I have written many articles on this subject and will be glad to send you some of them, or you can continue to watch this column for additional articles which will appear on the subject.

Question: Mrs. M. H. asks: "Is there any kind of food one should eat that would bring more color to the hair when it is beginning to turn gray?"

Answer: The use of plenty of green vegetables unquestionably has some effect on preventing the graying of the hair, but there is no one single food I know of which is a specific to be used in keeping the hair its natural color.

Question: E. M. A. writes: "I am very interested in your health and diet advice through the public press and think it a wonderful and most worthy effort. What causes fallen or low stomach and intestines? Is this a serious condition? What can be done for same by diet or exercise?"

Answer: Prolapsus of the stomach and intestines comes from the abdominal muscles being too weak to hold these organs in position. Since man has learned to walk upright it has been found necessary to develop the abdominal muscles to an extraordinary degree or the abdominal viscera tends to slip down into the lowest part of the pelvis. Exercises, particularly those taken while lying on the back, are a sure cure, but must be persisted in for even months to get complete results. Diet has an effect only as it influences the general health and strength.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 27.— Mr. Claude Hoard left yesterday to assume the position of lockmasters at the Hastings lock, Trent canal. Mr. Hoard is a returned soldier and has had considerable experience on the canal.

Mrs. Fred Free was in Peterborough last night to sing at the recital given in the Peterborough Conservatory of Music by the pupils from the studio of Dorothy Allan Park.

An interview with Jack Linton confirmed the rumor that he has purchased the MacIntosh block, Front street. Mr. Linton has signed the agreement and made a cash payment. The remainder of the purchase price will be paid when Mr. Linton takes possession June 1st. Mr. Linton is recently of the firm of Linton Bros., Front street. As yet he will make no statement regarding the business which he will conduct on his new premises, or whether he will take an active part in merchandising or not.

At a meeting of the Christ Church Men's Club in the Parish Hall last night it was decided that the members should attend the eleven o'clock service on Easter Sunday morning, as a body, for the purpose of presenting their annual donation to the church fund. The members have arranged to meet outside the church and enter in a body, occupying the pews arranged for their occupancy.

The Reverend N. Clarke Wallace, rector of Christ church, received a cheque for the amount of $56.30, being his share of the estate of the late Charles Miller, Toronto lawyer whose will aroused such widespread interest a few years ago. Mr. Wallace has not finally decided as to what use will be made of the money, but is inclined to favour charitable purposes. As an item of interest, the Rector announced the matter to the men's club last night and received a shower of suggestions for the disposal of the sum. Whether or not he would act on any of them, Mr. Wallace was not prepared to state.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 28, 1928.

Benefic and malefic aspects are both strong in the configuration for this day, according to astrology.

It is a day that is read as favorable to small financial transactions, but menacing for big enterprises.

Both men and women who hold places in the Sun may be difficult to deal with under this direction of the stars.

It is well not to seek the aid of banks or the support of financiers until a more fortunate day.

Newspaper and magazines again are subject to the best possible planetary influences, so far as money is concerned.

Advertising will be in great demand and there will be some strange innovation introduced for the benefit of the public, the seers forecast.

Under this sway much gossip will be prevalent and libel suits may be numerous.

Scandal is to put its stamp upon certain political plans as the year advances, it is foretold.

The seers repeat their warnings regarding the prevalence of the speculative spirit. This is also encouraging to gambling in various form, it is emphasized.

Women will be much affected by the desire to play games of chance, it is announced, and drawing-rooms will be places of high play.

There is a wonderfully promising sign for hotels and for resorts of every sort.

The evening of this day is read as auspicious for lovers who will appear to best advantage under this direction of the stars.

Persons whose birthdate it is may expect many changes and numerous odd experiences in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will have adventurous careers. Although the sea will call them home should be their real haven.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

At the top a bag from Jane Regny of Paris—of angora with appliqued silk flowers and shell frame. The passport bag just below it is of black calf, fastened with a black button and buttonhole in the leather. Marine blue alligator is used for the next bag, which is fastened with a new silver clasp. Below that is an evening bag from the house of Louiseboulanger of Paris with sequin embroidery in fish design, and a cord fastening.

Angora, jersey, calfskin, alligator, silver and gold lame, sharkskin, antelope, moire silk, suede leather, pleated kid, morocco leather, lizard, tweed, galuchat calf, wolf-fishskin, Rumanian embroidery, goatskin, hand, blocked linen, printed silks, pin seal, ostrich leather, pigskin, felt, trout calf, patent leather, and quilting—these are just SOME of the materials that are mentioned these days when the subject of handbags is discussed.

The most important thing about the whole handbag situation is that it is no longer left to the firms which have specialized in the intricacies of this particular sort of manufacture. The dressmakers like Louiseboulanger and Patou and Chanel have started the production and selling of handbags as a side line. Even milliners, notably Jane Regny, are making them—so that now the woman of fashion calls her favorite handbag not by the name of the material of which it is made but by the name of the dressmaker who made it or the original from which it was copied.

One wonders where it will stop. Almost none of the famous dressmaking houses of Paris content themselves with mere dressmaking. They deal in perfumes and cosmetics, include hats and lingerie and artificial flowers, boudoir pillows, all sorts of jewelry, bedspreads and bed linen and traveling bags in their collections. They are becoming more versatile than the American corner druggists who serve lunches and sell everything from children's toys to umbrellas.

Leather bags are no longer merely those of the more severely utilitarian sort. Fine leathers, such as morocco, are dyed in lavendars, light blues, and other pastel shades. Leathers are dyed gold or silver and given an iridescent pearl finish.

"200 Years of Excellence 1728 – 1928"

WHEN the grave young scientist, Dr. Joseph Fry, was introducing his famous beverage in 1728, he found his best advocates were the quality, flavour and absolute purity of his Cocoa. Such, indeed, remain its best arguments today.

Fry's

Purity Always First

For 200 years no demand, however great, has ever been allowed to cheapen or to hasten in the least degree the processes by which this famous Cocoa is made. It means something to know that 200 years of experience and adherence to century-old ideals of purity and care, are represented in that tin of FRY'S which you will buy today.

Regina Monarchs Win Dominion Junior Honors

REGINA WINS MEMORIAL CUP GUNNERS CRACK IN THIRD PERIOD

Monarchs Take Final Game Seven Goals To One.

EASTERNERS CRUMBLE.

Losers Fail To Cope With Western Team Either Defensively or Offensively.

TORONTO, March 27.—The Memorial Cup goes West!

After making a real hockey game of it for 55 minutes last night, Gunners cracked in the dying seconds of the all-important titular match, and allowed Regina Monarchs to run in four goals in five minutes and make the final score read: Monarchs 7, Gunners 1. Thus the worthy young hockeyists from the Saskatchewan bear west with them the Memorial Cup, emblematic of the junior hockey championship of the Dominion of Canada.

The big ice surface proved very much to the westerners' liking, and enabled them to repeat their triumph of last Wednesday night, when they outdashed and outskated the slower Ottawans into defeat. Gunners, good as they are at back-checking and stick-handling, had no way of coping either offensively or defensively with the flashing skaters from Regina, and could only hold on as best they could. True, they should have had more goals, but there is a wide world of difference between what teams should have and what they do have, and conditional verbs never won any team a championship; goals do.

Loss of McInenly.

As a hockey match it was inferior to the first two games. But it looked as if the cup might be either team's until Regina got its third goal, halfway through the second period. Even then optimistic Ottawa supporters believed that the Gunners could cut down a two-goal lead. The collapse of McInenly, however, after an accident down near his own goal, totally eclipsed any chance his team had of winning, and with Murphy on the ramparts and with only one substitute left to give the other players a breather, the Gunners could only hold on as best they could. With McInenly off the defence the team might be likened to a man astride a rearing broncho trying to hold on to his hat and the reins at the same time. The Westerners finally threw the Gunners over.

But fans who really knew the situation of the Gunners had a lot of sympathy for the players, if to a lesser extent for the management. In Howe the second best man of the series was disclosed. Cheeks as rosy as apples, his youthful locks hanging down over his youthful brow, just as he might look up from his speller in school he turned back every player of the Regina team with his relentless poke-check, and won the plaudits of thousands of fans who liked his play. Not only was he a veritable Nighbor, sweeping the puck from rival sticks as he cruised about mid-ice, but he revealed himself as a stick-handler unequalled by any one in the series. Used more or less as a substitute in the first game, he came into his own when he got a chance, and the team coach kept him on as much as possible last night. Howe is a real comer, and if he adds bulk to the brain and ability he already has he'll break into the hockey headlines yet.

The rest of the Gunners, like the rest of the Monarchs, are not "standouts." All honor and credit due the other members, of course, but none of them showed anything that would warrant such special and honorable mention as in the case of March and Howe. It is true Peterkin was very good in Gunners' goal, and it is equally true that Achtzener and Bergl played great defensive hockey for the West. And it is equally palpable that McInenly and Armstrong did great things on the Ottawa rearguard. But they didn't stick out like a week's beard by any means, and they will all have to be content with honorable mention.

RANGERS FAVORITES FOR SEMI-FINALS

To Defeat Pirates in American Group Series of N.H.L.

NEW YORK, Mar. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—On season's form, the New York Rangers have been installed as slight favorites to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates in the semi-finals of the American group of the National Hockey League. The series opens here to-night, the second game being scheduled for Thursday. The winner on total goals will battle the Boston Bruins in the group final, the first game of which will be played at Boston on Saturday.

In their six games this season, the Rangers have won three, lost two and tied one, outscoring the Pirates 15 to 11. Lester Patrick's sextette won all their home games against the Pirates, 2-0, 4-1 and 3-0. At Pittsburgh, they lost two games 4-2, and played a 2-2 tie.

The Pirates apparently were not afraid of a jinx when they chose to play their "home game" at Madison Square Garden. Odie Cleghorn's sextette perfomed at the Garden five times this season, but have scored only one goal. That was when Tex White saved his team from a blanking January 22 when the Rangers defeated the Pirates 4-1. Besides the 2-0 and 3-0 Ranger victories at the Garden, the Americans blanked the Pirates 1-0 and played a scoreless tie in inter-group games.

A capacity crowd of 17,500 persons is expected to witness to-night's game, which will be in charge of Lou Marsh and Bobby Hewitson of Toronto.

All Star Line-ups.

The Ranger line-up includes two players who have been chosen in a concensus of league managers for an all star team. They are Ivan "Ching" Johnson, defense players, and Captain Bill Cook, right wing. Lorne Chabot will be in the net and Leon Bourgault is expected to get the left defense assignment. Bun Cook will be on left wing and Frank Boucher at centre. Taffy Abel and Patsy Callighen will be available for relief defence work. Alex Gray, Murray Murdock, Billy Boyd and Paul Thompson relieving on the forward line.

Roy Worters, Pittsburgh net guardian, was the choice of League managers as all-star goalkeeper. In front of him will be Martin Burke and Jack McKinnon. Hib Milks will be at centre, flanked by the two Harolds, Darragh on right wing, and Cotton on left. Spare defence players are Bert McCaffrey and Roger Smith, with Duke McCurry, Herb Drury and Tex White substitute forwards.

The Pirates have not been defeated since March six, when Canadiens trimmed them 2-1. They beat out the Detroit Cougars for third place in a driving finish which saw them win six consecutive games. After failing to win a game during the first five weeks of the season, the Pirates staged a sensational spurt which landed them in third place. No sooner there, they slipped for a week or so, but when the League schedule ended were going strong and predicting dire things for the Rangers and Bruins.

MAROONS TO MEET SENATORS TO-NIGHT

OTTAWA, Ont., March 27 (Canadian Press). — Suspense reigns over the hockey fandom of Ottawa. To-night will see the first game of the international section of the National Hockey League play-off when Montreal Maroons and Ottawa Senators open their two-game series here for the right to meet Canadiens in the sectional finals.

In the opinion of local fans there has seldom been two such evenly matched teams in big team hockey as the Montrealers coached by that wise hockey general and erstwhile Senator defence star, Eddie Gerard, and the present world champions directed by the imperturbable Dave Gill. With the exception of the last occasion when these two teams met at a time both squads were conserving their energy for the more important struggle, the breaks have almost invariably decided the winner, and the margin was limited to one goal, during the many occasions on which they have battled for supremacy.

Both teams have rode along easily during the past few games, taking care not to get any of their players hurt or severely penalized. They have been careful also not to display the tactics they will adopt in the play-offs by using them earlier either against each other or against the Canadiens whom one of them will have to play later on. The beatings received by the Senators in Montreal during two successive Saturday evenings has not discouraged the local fans. In fact, their confidence in the hockey brains of the veterans who now hold the Stanley Cup would more likely have been shaken if the outcome had been otherwise.

Stronger in Subs.

Those games may have proved, however, that the Montreal teams are stronger in subs than are the Ottawas. The followers here are inclined to think that may, and if so, the hope of the red-white-and-black will rest on the regulars having a margin which will balance the scale in their favor.

The auditorium will not be large enough by many thousands of seats to accommodate all who will desire to witness the struggle. The teams will be at full strength. There are no injuries nor no sickness anywhere among them, and they are keyed up for a tilt in which the speed, the brains, and the brawn of the squad will be pitted against those of the other.

It is hardly expected, however, that the games this week will prove the bumping bees that have often featured the clashes between them. They will both be playing with a later meeting with Canadiens in view, and will no doubt use discretion in the ruggedness of their earlier games.

Mike Rodden and Jerry Laflame, both of Toronto, will handle the game.

When Carolyn Bishop, stage and film star and noted dancer, was holidaying at Miami, Florida, recently, she was seen constantly in the company of Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion. When Tunney was at the station saying farewell to the young lady upon her departure for Beverly Hills, California, newspapermen queried them about rumors that they were engaged. Tunney confessed that he "thought Miss Bishop one of the loveliest girls" he had ever known. While Miss Bishop admitted that she regarded the literary pugilist as "one of the most admirable men of our age." The illustration shows Miss Bishop in dancing attire and Tunney engaging in his favorite recreation—golf.

ROMAN PROBLEM IS STILL FAR FROM BEING SETTLED

Setback in Negotiations Between Vatican and Mussolini Government Predicted.

RESULT OF POPE'S SPEECH.

Pontiff Speaks Sharply of Attitude of Italian National Centre Party.

ROME, Mar. 27.— (Canadian Press.)—A setback in the negotiations between the Vatican and the Mussolini government was predicted last night as the result of an address which Pope Pius made Sunday to the diocesan board of Rome. This viewpoint was expressed especially in Vatican circles and among leaders of the Italian national centre party, the attitude of which toward the state drew especial fire of the Pontiff.

The Pope said that he had been pained at realizing that the party was "putting on the same footing and attributing the same right to the despoiled Holy See and the state responsible for this spoliation."

Naturally, everybody in touch with the party councils and with the inner circles of the Vatican is now trying to explain the reason for this attitude, which is in direct contrast to former statements by the Pope. Members of the Centre party believe that the reproach was administered purposely in order to bring down to earth the inflated expectations of an impending settlement of the differences between the church and the state.

Nothing having happened in Italy to explain the Pope's change of attitude for the use of such severe words, Catholic leaders who are favorable to the Fascist Regime believed the Pontiff has been influenced by foreign elements, who desire to prevent an understanding between the Vatican and the Quirinal, so long as the Fascisti are in power at the latter place.

Criticized On Two Points.

It is even intimated by some who are believed to know what is going on behind the scenes at the Vatican that a srong influence has been exercised by Cardinal Piffl, Archbishop of Vienna, who recently had a long interview with Pope Pius. Also attributed to the Austrian cardinal is a report sent out recently by the Austrian Telegraph News Agency as coming from their Rome correspondent (who is a member of the Austrian legation staff) in which the Pipe was quoted as condemning alleged government prohibition against the use of German in church services in the Tyrol. The National Catholic Centre party has been severely criticized by Pipe Pius on two points—that it has not shown sufficiently warm allegiance to the Holy See and because of its surrender to the influence of the Fascist state.

Printed in Organ.

The Pope's criticisms were addressed to the members of the Roman Diocesan Board when they were received at the Vatican Sunday and his words were printed in the official Vatican organ, Osservatore Romano, which gave them a significance that had been previously overlooked.

The Pontiff, dealing with the recent convention of the Catholic party, began by saying that they met in Rome "without feeling the need to come and pray over the tomb of Rome's first bishop, the Prince of the Apostles, and without coming to visit his unworthy successor, the common father of all the sons of the great Catholic family."

Instead, the said, they went to the Capitol and not the Vatican, adding: "This fact is already symptomatic and significant by itself, and such it seemed to true, good Catholics throughout the world, and not only to Italian Catholics."

The Pope was particularly aggrieved at the party's apparent assumption that the differences between the church had been settled or were on the way of being settled. Referring to the ovation the party convention accorded his name, he said: "Sincerely and sorrowfully, it would have been more Catholic, more humane to spare us that remembrance and applause."

W. A. FRY TO HEAD C.A.H.A.

CUP TRUSTEE RESIGNS

OTTAWA, Ont., March 27. Canadian Press. — Delegates to the 14th annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association wound up their sessions here late yesterday afternoon by electing M. A. Fry of Dunnville, Ont., as their president for the ensuing year. On the previous slate Mr. Fry held office as vice-president.

J. W. Hamilton of Regina, was chosen for the vice-presidency while Fred Marples of Winnipeg and W. A. Hewitt of Toronto, were re-elected to their offices as honorary secretary and registrar-treasurer respectively. Previously the delegates had voted Mr. Marples and Mr. Hewitt an increase in their annual salary, bringing it up to $700.

At yesterday afternoon's session William Northey of Montreal, who has been custodian and trustee of the Allan cup since it was presented 20 years ago by Sir Montagu Allan as the emblem of suppremacy in Canadian senior amateur hockey, resigned from his position. He turned the trophy over to the C.A.H.A., and that body immediately selected Silver Quilty of Ottawa, E. A. Gilroy of Portage la Prairie, Man., and A. R. King, Okotoks, Alta. as a trustee committee to take charge of the Allan cup and matters directly bearing on the annual competition for it.

As custodian of the cup, Mr. Northey also had charge of finances and oth. matters in connection with it, and in tendering his resignation he turned over to the association a financial statement showing a surplus of $20,700.

The delegates adopted a vote of thanks to Mr. Northey for his past and present interest in the winter pastime, and presented him with a beautiful silver tea service. He was voted a life membership in the association, as was also "Capt." James T. Sutherland of Kingston, who through his work in the interests of the amateur ice game has won for himself the title of "Father of Canadian hockey."

Deficits Incurred.

It was drawn to the attention of the meeting that deficits has been incurred in British Columbia and Saskatchewan during the past season in the promotion of the junior branch of the sport. A motion granting the Pacific Coast and Saskatchewan branches of the association the sum of $300 to help defray their deficits, was unanimously passed.

Owing to the increased membership brought about by the entry of the Maritime provinces to the association, the delegates voted to increase the size of the registration committee from five to six.

The following were appointed to the committee for the next year: W. A. Hewitt, Toronto; Cecil Duncan, Ottawa, Fred Brown, Montreal; Logan Barnhill, Truro, N.S., and G. Murphy, Fort William.

On the vexatious question of adopting rules to prevent "ragging" of the puck in games the association approved a motion calling for a face-off for the first offence ten feet to the side of the goal net.

In future district winners must be declared by March 12th instead of March 5th as heretofore, it was decided.

The delegates dealt with the question of recognition for mercantile hockey leagues by voting to allow the Canadian National Railways recreation club and kindred commercial organizations to become associate members of the C.A.H.A. provincial branches. He mercantile teams will not, however, be allowed to compete in the C.A.H.A. cup competitions.

MANITOBA UNIVERSITY RALLIES TO TIE ALLAN CUP SERIES

Western Sextet Score Four Goals in Final Period.

SCORE 6-3.

Third Game Will Be Played in Ottawa To-morrow Night.

OTTAWA, March 27. — Manitoba University poured a shower of goals in the net of the Montreal Victorias in the third period of a nerve-racking game here last night to force the Allan Cup final series into a third game. The students turned a withering bombardment on the Vic. citadel to score four goals in the closing frame and forge to the front to defeat their Eastern opponents 6-3. Blake Watson, curly-topped left winger for the Westerners, rose to the heights to count three times in the last twelve minutes of the contest.

The final game for the trophy and the title of Canadian senior amateur champions will be fought here on Wednesday night, with Winnipeg decided favorites on the strength of their closing rush that brought them victory.

Reversal of Form.

It was a vastly different team that skated out against the Montreal crew last night from that which went down to a 2-0 trouncing before the Easterners in the first contest on Saturday. They sped into the lead four minutes after the start of the game when Guy Williams tracked the Vic rearguards to take his own rebound and scored.

The Maroon and White crew opened up a stiff offensive with the inauguration of the second period and tied the count when Stewart Shearer tricked Art Puttee on a scooping shot. The students forged to the front again five minutes later through Lee Collins, who tallied when the puck bounded off a Victoria defence man's skate into the Montreal net. At the start of the final frame it looked like a certain win for the East when Jimmy Thompson, diminutive right wing, smashed the Western lead and then counted a second time to put the Vics in the lead with a pair of goals that came within fifteen seconds of each other.

Then the students spurted. Only 25 seconds later Watson counted his first goal to tie the score a third time. The Manitobas were a fighting pack of demons, and on their continual scrimmages into the Eastern territory added through Andy Blair's stick and twice more through that of Watson.

Jack St. John, the smallest man of either of the competing teams, again displayed craft in squirming in close when he went behind the Montreal net on two occasions to pass out for goals. He aided Blair in bagging the sixth tally of the game and came right back to flip the puck out to Watson for the latter's second counter.

The closing period was a marked contrast to the first two frames in that it found the University team boring in continually. In the previous play both teams had been contented for the most in drilling their shots from long range. A crowd of approximately 3,800 witnessed the fray.

EMIL JANNINGS in "THE LAST COMMAND"

O GREAT FIRST CAUSE

Composed for those who pass their lives in peril of the air, possibly as a timely memorial in verse to the many brave airmen who have passed to their last accounting within recent months, the following are the noble words of a hymn-anthem entitled, "O Great First Cause," composed by F. M. DelaFosse, to which a beautiful musical setting has been given by Frederic G. Mann:

O Great First Cause, Thou God of all Creation,
Before Whose throne angelic myriads stand,
Ready to bear the message of salvation
To those who seek Thine aid on sea or land;
We ask Thee now to succour those, who, speeding
Through storm-racked regions of the trackless air,
Thy constant help and sure defence are needing,
Father, we pray Thee, keep them in Thy care.

Obedient to Thy Will, by impulse bidden,
Thy sons have scaled earth's fastnesses and steeps,
Roamed the vast ranges, sought for secrets hidden
Through immemorial years in ocean's deeps;
And, eager still to scan Creation's pages,
And trace the wondrous pathway Thou hast trod,
Have learned of Thee, Great Ruler of the ages,
To "look through Nature up to Nature's God."

So, led by Thee and quickened by Thy guiding,
Grave things they ponder and great deeds perform;
Soaring through space and in Thy love confiding,
They brave the whirlwind and defy the storm;
Yet, day by day, they need Thy sovereign power
As newer fields and wider prospects call;
Where'er they rove, however dar k the hour,
Stretch out Thy hand to save them, Lord of All.

CHAMBER RECEIVES MANY INQUIRIES

People All Over World Want Information—Contacts Maintained.

Asked this morning about contacts, communication, or co-operation between Chambers of Commerce generally, Secretary Stinson, intimated that Chambers of Commerce throughout the world are the best means of obtaining accurate information from reliable sources on almost any subject. Trade inquiries, sometimes of a private nature, are received at the local Chamber, from all parts of the world. In recent months a number have been received from Italy, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Africa, Australia, Japan, and other Eastern points.

The best means of communication between secretaries in North America is through the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries. This Association boasts some 2,200 members in Canada and the United States. Nearly all full time secretaries are members and certainly all secretaries in cities possessing live Chambers of Commerce.

The secretary pointed to the Code of Ethics of NACOS, as the Association is called for brevity's sake, which was adopted at the annual convention in 1927. This Code of Ethics has been framed and is on view in the offices of some fifteen hundred secretaries at the present time, according to a report issued by the NACOS secretary.

Of course, pointed out the secretary, if a man were living up to the Code without the occasional "slip," he would be a super man, but nevertheless, it is a mark at which to aim—an objective, so to speak, and one can feel justly proud of belonging to an Association with such high ideals.

"Code of Ethics," National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries.

The Secretary's Obligations.

To Himself.

The secretary must be a man of CHARACTER, hewing to the line in the matter of conduct.

The secretary must be true to himself, if he is to be true to every other man; must respect himself, if he wishes to win the respect of others.

The secretary must not sacrifice right for expediency. Moral "shortcuts" are never conducive to peace of mind, and, moreover, they seldom win the goal.

To the Organization.

Exploitation of the organization for his own advantage should never be attempted.

Entanglements with any clique or class should be avoided; service should be given to all members, without distinction, whether they are in small business or represent large interests.

Every proposition should be given careful study, and recommendation to the board of directors or committees should always be candid and sincere.

Loyalty to the organization is a prime requisite. The secretary should never be weakly subservient when a moral issue is involved. He should be ready always to weigh both sides of a question.

He should frankly admit an error and face the consequences manfashion.

Credit for accomplishments should go to the organization rather than to the secretary.

Opportunity for service should be a constant inspiration to the secretary.

To the General Public.

The secretary should consider himself a public servant, and his every act should be performed with that thought in mind.

The secretary, while conducting himself with becoming dignity, should not act in such a way as to give the general public the idea that he thinks the Chamber of Commerce is the whole community and he the chief citizen in it.

The secretary, when speaking for the organization, should sense his responsibility and never exaggerate to gain unmerited credit.

To Other Secretaries and Chambers of Commerce.

The secretary's belief in the value of the Chamber of Commerce should prompt him to do his utmost to help a fellow secretary.

Every secretary should be scrupulously fair to other secretaries and other Chambers of Commerce.

Adopted, October 26, 1927.

PRAISED BY PRESS.

Miss Margaret Northrup, soprano soloist with the Peterborough Male Voice Choir at their annual concert, to be presented in St. Paul's Church on Friday evening of this week, has received flattering press notices from many appearances. Critics of New York say of her:

"She sang with a voice of bell-toned clarity and beauty. The German group ended charmingly with the Serenade of Strauss, while the first of her French pieces, Fourdrain's Butterfly, had to be repeated." —Times.

"A voice produced with freedom and ease. Her style was musicianly, her intonation excellent."—Herald.

"A voice flexible, well-trained, responsive to the demands of several styles. It was comforting to note the ease with which she rose to high notes. She entered into the true spirit of Schumann's "Roslein, Roslein." Her highest achievement was the same composer's poetic "Mondnacht," in which the liquid tones fell like a healing balm on ears tormented by so much throaty singing one hears these days."—Post.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger, commenting on Miss Northrup's appearance in that city with the Philadelphia Orchestra, G. Thunder, conductor, said:

"The soprano soloist, Margaret Northrup, was new to Philadelphia audiences. She has a fresh young voice and sings with excellent artistry. Her arias, "Come Unto Him" and "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth," were perhaps the finest bits of solo work of the performance."

The Philadelphia Record said: "In Miss Northrup we have an agreeable addition to the ranks of oratorio singers. She not only has an unusually good voice, very clear and high, but she also has artistic intuition and a remarkable feeling for color, her interpretations of the famous arias allotted the soprano partaking of a spiritual quality that is indeed rare."

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE BIG PARADE."

Life in the raw, life as it is lived in super-normal moments, when the world shakes under the thundering tread of Mars the war god, and men and women live and love, fight and die, at the apex of human emotion and conflict, is the atmosphere of "The Big Parade" feature picture at the Capitol Theatre. Those who went through the Great War and those who remained behind, know the truth of much of the filmed story, with its smashing action, its thrills, its pathetic romance and it sprinkling of relieving comedy.

Jim Apperson and his pals, Bull and Slim, ex-bartender and ex-riveter, make the trio of fighters in "The Big Parade." Jim is the son of wealthy parents, but war levels all ranks. He lives through scenes of terrible conflict to see his two friends killed in a desperate action, and to lose a leg himself. He goes home to find his former sweetheart has chosen another lifemate, and then returns to France—and Melisande.

This role of Melisande, the French girl with whom Jim falls madly in love is played by Renee Adoree in a manner that makes her a wonderful foil to John Gilbert's portrayal of Jim's part. Some extraordinarily touching scenes are filmed in the episode where Jim, called by duty, is compelled to leave the little French girl and she tries to keep him with her.

The war setting has masses of men in its fighting scenes, with machine guns and tanks and airplanes—all the paraphernalia of modern methods of killing en masse. There is outstanding photography in much of the picturization and the comedy element that relieves the note of tragic conflict and of romantic strain is furnished by the two "buddies," Slim Jensen and Bull O'Hara.

AT THE REGENT.

ANITA LOOS' LORELEI A WINNER ON SCREEN

Last night at the Regent the audiences were rewarded by the film version of Anita Loos' great success, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." This epic of the modern gold digger as portrayed by Ruth Taylor will go down in the film annals as one of the great satirical portrayals. Miss Taylor until her great chance as Lorelei Lee was given her, was practically an unknown in the movie world. After the folks have seen her thoroughly admirable performance in the year's best seller, they will vote her definitely "in."

The direction by Malcolm St. Clair is so deft and well done that readers of the book will have nothing but praise for the able production. What a characterization Ruth Taylor gives! She makes this modern Lorelei so real, so enjoyable, that not for one minute is there any lagging. Alice White, whose reputation is high now, gives a performance as Dorothy, Lorelei's friend, that will enhance her position in the cinema art. The rest of the cast consists of Ford Sterling, Holmes Herbert, Trixie Friganza, Chester Conklin, Emily Fitzroy, Blanche Friderici, Mack Swain and many more familiar comedy players.

On a farm in Arkansas, little Lorelei Lee starts her gold digging career. From there she goes to Little Rock, where she wins the help of the judge who is presiding over the case. Chester Conklin plays the part of the philanthropic arbiter. He softened by the seeming sorrow of Lorelei, gives her enough money to go to Hollywood so that she may make a career for herself. From Holywood she goes to New York where her education begins in earnest. To Paris she goes and manages to win for herself the world's richest bachelor.

All through her travels she conquers hearts to the tune of dig, brother, dig. Only her wide innocent eyes and guileless manner are her weapons but the way she 'takes' the gentlemen is a caution.

"Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" has the widest of appeals. The women will love it for its marvellous scenes wherein our little Lorelei appears in most beautiful gowns. The men will have the time of their lives watching this little "miner" do her stuff.

Our prediction is that you will enjoy "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" as much as we did, and if you do, you will have one of the most enjoyable evenings of your motion picture-going lives.

General Motors Employees Walk Out in Protest of Wage Cut.

OSHAWA, Ont., March 26 (Canadian Press).—Three hundred trimmers of the General Motors of Canada, Limited, walked out to-day in protest against a forty per cent. cut in wages effected on Saturday, and declared to be the third cut in six months. As a result, the hardware and paint departments are also idle.

H. A. Brown, general manager, in a statement, contended the scale of wages in Canada was higher than in the United States, that the strikers would be dealt with individually and not collectively, and that the company would have "little, if any, difficulty" in filling the jobs.

What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

VIII—"No More Worlds to Conquer."

A MARVELOUS company of human intellects gave splendor to the latter days of Greece. The single little city of Athens boasted more men of first-class genius than the whole world managed to produce in several centuries afterward. Pericles ruled with vision and tolerance. He had no taste for war. Instead he sought the welfare of all citizens and erected as monuments those works of art, including the Parthenon, that have been the envy and despair of all builders.

Euripides and Aristophanes and AEschylus produced plays that are still studied as models. Phidias and a shining group of sculptors lifted art to perfection. Socrates began to teach the processes of inquiry by which the human mind has won its subsequent victories, and one of his disciples, Plato, dared to dream and to write of a perfect commonwealth. It was indeed a golden age.

To the north of Greece there came a little later a monarch, Philip of Macedonia, who dreamed of an empire that should spread over all the east, carrying Greek culture everywhere.

He knew that his dream was too big for a single lifetime and so he sought to educate his son, Alexander, more carefully than any prince had been trained before. He employed the best minds of the age as teachers, heading them up with Aristotle, the pupil of Plato, the man whose mind ruled the intellectual world for many centuries.

Jealous of Father

The mother of the prince was even more ambitious, so much so that she poisoned the boy's mind against his father. Thus when news of Philip's victories came back to court, Alexander, instead of rejoicing as a natural son might be expected to do, was outspokenly jealous.

"Father will get everything in advance, boys," he complained to his companions. "He won't leave any great task for me to share with you."

The mother was a weird neurotic sort of woman, a devotee of dark religious rites in which snakes, and sexual orgies, and revolting sacrifices all played a part. She quarreled with Philip and left the court, taking Alexander with her. Later, when Philip was stabbed to death, she openly rejoiced and insisted that funeral honors equal to those given to the king should be paid to the murderers.

She was no good influence for her son when he returned in triumph to take charge of the great empire which his father's genius had created.

Alexander's Start

Alexander started brilliantly, though with cruel excess. He consolidated his father's conquest in Greece, burning the rebellious cities and levying on their populations for larger armies. He crossed to Asia Minor and captured Sidon and Tyre, rasing the latter to the ground.

He conquered the whole decadent empire of Darius; he invaded Egypt and founded at the mouth of the Nile the new city of Alexandria, which for a century afterward was the intellectual capital of the world.

Here, under his successor Ptolomy, science made its first brilliant conquests. Here Euclid wrote the works on mathematics that still are used in our schools; here Archimedes came to study—the man who said: "Give me a lever long enough and strong enough, and a place to stand on, and I will move the world"; here Herophilus made researches into human anatomy, dissecting the bodies of condemned criminals while they were still alive.

These men came after Alexander had gone, but they worked in the city that he built and were supported by a monarch who had been one of his generals; let us give credit where credit is due.

Alexander's Search

As for Alexander himself, his genius was much too restless for scientific research or solid building. He must be on his way, seeking another king to subdue, a new nation to add to his empire, as if there were always the hope that the next victory might bring satisfaction, that beyond the next range of mountains he should find the answer to the great why of life.

He marched through the Libyan desert in order to consult the oracle of Jupiter Ammon, whose priest saluted him as a son of Jove. Perhaps thereafter he began to believe that he really was a son of Jove, at least he acted as though he did, and he was very angry with his companions when they ridiculed his pretensions. He finished the conquest of Egypt; he humbled all of India that could be reached.

Nowhere in the world was there any organized power to give him the stimulus of a good fight. He had whipped it all; he was the supreme master; he was not yet thirty, and there was no more.

No Peace

His search for contentment was tragic. He married Oriental princesses. He drank. To gratify the whim of Thais, an Athenian courtesan, he set fire to Persepolis, the wonder of the ancient world, and reduced it to an ash heap. When Hephaestion, his favorite, died he determined on a display of grief such as the world had never known. He pulled down the battlements of neighboring cities, and slew by thousands the unhappy inhabitants of captured towns; he levied a ransom of millions upon the country for a gilded tomb.

These things did Alexander when he had conquered the world. But in the doing of them there was no inner peace, no satisfaction. "There are no more worlds to conquer," he exclaimed, and, weeping, he threw himself into a drunken debauch. Being tired of living, he died.

EMPLOYEES BUY COMPANY SHARES

Seventy-seven Per Cent. of the Bell Staff Paying For Stock.

The modern tendency in industry seems to be toward decentralization of ownership. Public utilities particularly are encouraging the widest possible distribution of their stock among employees and subscribers,—the people most vitally interested in the management of the industry.

In its annual report for 1927, the Bell Telephone Company of Canada gives interesting figures on the ownership of its stock among its employees, 13,041 of whom are eligible to subscribe. Of this number, 10,137 employees—over 77 per cent are now in process of paying for 35,095 shares. Since the inauguration of this easy payment plan in 1922, 36,828 paid-up shares with a par value of $2,682,800 have been issued to Bell workers indicating the commendable extent to which this plan encourages thrift and savings. 1d-74-833

Selling Of Corn Sends Wheat Down

CHICAGO, March 27. — Canadian Press. — Speculative selling of corn weakened the corn market early today and brought about something of a set back in wheat. Better weather for the movement of corn was a bear factor. Opening at ¼c decline to 3-8c advance corn later underwent a general drop. Wheat started at 3-8c off to 5-8c up and subsequently averaged lower than yesterdays finish. Oats were easy. For the most part provisions showed a downward trend.

Opening prices were: Wheat, Mar., 140 5-8; May, 139 5-8; corn, March, 97¾; May 10 1-8; oats, March 57¾; May, 57¼.

Many Weak Spots Visible Nickel and Oils Drop

TORONTO, Mar. 27. — (Canadian Press.)—The market turned easier on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, led by International Nickel and the Oils, which were active features. Nickel was run down to a low of 90½ recovering to 92½ for a net loss of three points. International Petroleum was weakest of the oils with a loss of 1½ at 38. British American eased to 37⅛, Imperial Oil to 61⅞ and McColl to 33¾. Cockshutt Plow preferred was sharply sold down to 115½ and Hiram Walkers lost fractionally at 62½. Industrial Alcohol was marked a weak spot, losing four at 42½. Otherwise price changes in the regular list were negligible.

Pend Oreille Makes Gains Other Stocks Are Weaker

Toronto, March 27. — Canadian Press. — Stocks turned generally weaker on the Mining exchange today though no spectacular losses occurred in the business session. Again the general weakness Pend Oreille was a strong exception, climbing another $1.50 share at $21. Kirkland Lake Gold softened 7 at 205, and others of this group weakened except Laek Shore, which firmed to 24.25. Bidgood at 96, Amulet at 360, Argonaut at 16, Howey at 128, and Noranda at 18.00, were all slightly lower while Malartic sold down 11 at 134.

New York Market Breaks After Hectic Four Weeks

NEW YORK, Mar 27 (Canadian Press).—A wide open break in the stock prices, followed by a partial recovery, to-day brought to a dramatic climax the spectacular "bull" movement of nearly four weeks' duration. Extreme declines ran from five to nearly twenty points, but half of these losses were made up in early afternoon recovery. So great was the volume of trading that the ticker fell nearly 35 minutes behind actual market before mid-session, with indications by the end of the third hour that the day's sales would exceed the record of 4,176,200 shares established yesterday.

There was nothing in the day's news to explain the sudden decline, which was generally characterized as a natural sequel to the unbridled speculation of last few weeks. Stiffening money rates, threatening continuance of an abundant supply of funds for securities speculation, may have been a contributing factor. Conservative bankers had frowned on the recent antics of the market and their warnings also may have had a wide influence.

General Motors, which attained a record high price at 199 in the last few minutes of trading, opening at a spread price of 198 to 196, and then plunged to 180, dropping from 185 to 180 between sales. Nearly half of the loss was recovered in a noon-day rally. Radio, after dropping from 157½ to 146¼, soared to 161, or five points above last night's close. Dupont fell from 394⅜ to 380¼ and snapped back to 386, and Sears Roebuck dropped from 110½ to 97½ and rallied to 105 7-8. Sharp recoveries also took place in General Electric, Montgomery Ward, Hudson Motors, American International and other speculative favorites.

Sudbury Mine Shares Still In Spotlight

(Special from the Financial Post Syndicate.)

Toronto-Sudbury mning isues continue to command attention and Canadian market leadership has again been assumed by Sudbury Basin Mines. This company has put down at least three drill holes which have cut high grade ore similar to the bodies proven by the Treadwell-Yu n to the east. Expectation that this operation will develop on a scale similar to the Treadwell, which is regarded as a billion dollar mine, has created a heavy demand for the shares.

Northern Manitoba issues continue to attract the attention of the public, sharing the honors with Sudbury. Mining men are predicting a boom in these two camps. One leading engineer who is just back from a trip to the north stated that the situation at The Pas and at Sudbury, reminded him of the Porcupine situation in the early days, just before the tremendous boom broke in that camp. Rather a satisfactory condition in regard to these two camps is that no wildcatting has developed. Companies that have appeared so far are well sponsored and are being handled under sound technical and engineering guidance.

Two important mine reports have appeared recently, Dome and Noranda, covering 1927 activities. Afterthoughts are that both were prepared in an ultraconservative way and that neither reflected the true position of the operation. For instance the Noranda showed ore reserves of $27,00,000 down to the 300-foot level. This is but little increase over a couple of years ago. The report tells of getting ore at deeper horizons, but it is only natural that shareholders who are not familiar with the true position of the venture should be tremendously disappointed with such a statement. However a careful reading of the remarks of General Manager E. H. Hibbert, revealed a decidedly encouraging condition. He says that the mine on the 400 and 500-foot level is in the same stage of development as was the case with the 300-ft. level a little over two years ago. At that time there was but one ore body on the 300, and now there are five. Shareholders are concerned with regard to the Noranda ore deposits at depth, there having been much gossip that the ore did not go down to a great distance. Mr. Hibbert says that the drills have shown that commercial ore exists on the 700 and 800-ft. level, and in a further discussion on this phase of the operation he makes the point that the degree of replacement, where the pryhotite has given way to the chalcopyrite (copper) varies from practically nothing as was the case with "H" ore body on the 100-ft. level to almost complete replacement in "K" ore body on the 300-ft. level. So many sulphide bodies have been found on the property that it is only reasonable to suppose that these will be met with on lower levels where the pryhotite has been largely replaced. No geological reason is as present known which would lead to any other conclusion. Figures are given in regard to the December operation of the smelter, which has been recently stepped up to 600 tons daily. In that month, 10,740 tons were treated and this ore had had a gross content of 1,756,599 lbs. of copper, 2916 ozs. gold and 10,-805 ozs. silver. Taking copper at 13 cents this would average $21.26 per ton; silver at 55 cents shows 55 cents per ton, or just about one ounce, and gold $5.43, or a total gross per ton of $27.24. It is understood that the results since the smelter has been properly turned up, that the extraction is much better and that the blister copper which the company is producing is running around $120 to the ton of gold.

Dome's report shows that in so far as tonnage is concerned the mne held its own during the year, the new ore put in sight being equal to the amount that was mined and treated. However the new ore is a little lower grade so that the actual ounces of gold in the new ore, which is the big factor, will be a little lower. Dome is extensively searching in the greenstone mass below the sedimentary rocks for a new mine and has considerable ore partially opened up between 8 and 12 levels. Little success has been met with in drilling in the wide porphyry body that has been cut into on the 23 level. There are some optimistic reports going the rounds in regard to Dome having encountered some new ore. It may be that some of the shareholders will be able to draw this information out of the general manager when the annual meeting is held. Dome's net income was $1,960,,000 which is nearly double the company's dividend requqirements.

TAKING OVER HOPE PLANT

the Henry Hope plant with an option to purchase at any time.

Assembly Plant This Year

Mr. Campbell told The Examiner to-day that his new plan would start in a small way, feeling out the prospects, and this year it would be only an assembly plant, but if at the end of the year the company found that its location had been a logical one, machinery for manufacturing the engines would be installed, materials bought, and manufacturing commenced.

"In the last three years our Canadian trade has grown to such bounds that we have been forced to come to Canada. We looked over several locations and were practically sold on Toronto until Mayor Denne, Alderman McIntyre, and Mr. Armstrong came along and now we are definitely settled here," said Mr. Campbell.

The main factory is in Waukegan, Illinois, where there is a plant with 150,000 square feet of floor space and although this has only been built a few months the company is planning to add another 100,000 square feet floor space. "We are starting here on a small scale, employing only a few man, but in a couple of years we will grow," says Mr. Campbell.

Five models of outboard motors are made by the company, ranging from the small 1½ horse-power engine weighing 26 pounds, to the new "Giant" developing 25 horse-power and weighing 110 pounds. The company's advertising appropriation in the United States this year is $500,-000, and next year Mr. Campbell expects that there will be a considerable amount spent in Canada.

The Peterborough Canoe Company will still retain control of the Eastern Canadian sales market, and Hoffers Limited, Vancouver, Western Canada, said Mr. Campbell.

Factory Built in 1913

On November 10, 1912, just one month after the De Laval Company decided to locate in Peterborough, the Henry Hope and Sons, Limited, an old established English firm, decided to come to this city. The Henry Hope factory was given a free site by the city and the by-law, which was submitted to the people on January 6, 1913, carried by a majority of 1,390. The industry had an authorized capital of $240,000. Early that summer building started on the new plant. Originally the plant was to be built north of the De Laval but at the last moment it was decided to build on its present location on Monaghan road. Just as the factory commenced to operate, making steel sashes and doors and other fire-proof building material, the war broke out and the factory commenced to make shells to help meet the great need for ammunition. In the building slump after the war, the factory was taken over by the Birmingham Motors, but this firm never really got down to the manufacturing of cars.

Outstanding Firm.

"Peterborough is fortunate in having secured another link to the diversified chain of industries," was the comment of Secretary Frank G. Stinson of the Chamber of Commerce, in discussing the establishment of the branch of the Johnston Outboard Motors in the Henry Hope factory Monaghan Road.

"The exhibit of the Johnson Outboard Motors at the National Motor Boat Show, New York, is always a stellar attraction at the Motor Boat Show. I have at one time or another met the various officials of this company and know them to be the type that means a success of any business venture attempted, hence we may look upon the Canadian Branch in Peterborough as a fortunate acquisition.

"I understand that His Worshop Mayor Denne, displayed considerable ingenuity in the securing of this branch to Peterborough and that he has successfully exploded the theory that Peterborough manufacturers were not interested in the acquiring of additional industries, as at the dinner to the Johnson Outboard representatives no less than seven or eight Peterborough manufacturers were present, lending their weight and experience in an effort to sell the city to the visitors. Mayor Denne iss urely to be commended."

CELLAR CLEAR AT ACKERMAN PLANT TO-DAY

Men Able To Get Into Basement—Small Amount of Water Left.

MUCH WATER PUMPED.

Chief Estimates Steamer Took Out 594,000 Gallons in 18 Hours.

Though the flooding from Jackson Park creek in the neighborhood of the Ackerman plant, corner of George and Dalhousie streets, had considerably lessened following the Monday night outbreak, there was a further threat of it giving trouble again yesterday evening, when the water rose nearly ten inches, only to be lowered again last night by slightly more than that measure. It has gone down a great deal more since that time. Much has been done to empty the cellars of private homes as well as factories.

Some interesting statistics have been prepared by Fire Chief Gimblett, through whom the fire engine pumper was brought into action in clearing the cellar of the Ackerman plant.

Engineer Masters and Fireman McDonald started the pumper at 11.43 a.m. Tuesday, and the same pair remained on duty continuously for approximately eighteen hours, that is, until 5.40 this morning, during which time the pumper "bailed" the cellar at the rate of 550 gallons per minutes, or 33,000 gallons per hour. Therefore, the firemen roughly figure that some 594,000 gallons were carried away and this morning there was only about a foot of water in the entire basement. Incidentally, it is interesting to note that 4,500 lbs. of coal were used. Though an estimate of the flood damage to the factory and stock was not given, firm officials were able to get about and form some idea of the loss incurred. Attempts were also made to open some drains which had been closed for the purpose of preventing the water from backing up.

The Maple Leaf Milling Company has suffered considerably as a result of the overflow at Dalhousie street, for the entire cellar beneath its plant has been flooded. On Monday night and Tuesday morning the water came in to a depth of almost six feet, and as a result the large furnace in the forepart of the building was quenched—and remains quenched—while three electric motors wer put out of commission. Today a number of men are employed with a large pump and the water level has gone down to about eighteen inches.

The creek, though running high, enjoys a free course, and there has been no further flooding over the bridge on Dalhousie street.

PREMIER BALDWIN REJECTS PROPOSAL

Three Fighting Services To Be Combined Under Single Minister of Defence.

LONDON, Mar. 28 (Associated Press). — Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister, yesterday declined in the House of Commons to accept a proposal from the Liberal side that the three fighting services—land, sea and air—be combined under a single ministry of defence.

The Prime Minister said that the policy of defence could not be considered apart from the foreign and the Imperial policies for which the Cabinet was responsible under advice from the committee on Imperial defence. He recognized that a process of evolution was leading in the proposed direction and he promised that all suggestions would be considered without prejudice. But he considered that such a great change should not be hurried or made at all until there were very solid and convincing arguments in its favor.

LABOR ARGUMENT DELAYS OPERATIONS

Structural Work On New York Buildings Held Up Pending Settlement.

NEW YORK, Mar. 28.—(Canadian Press.)— Structural steel operations on $50,000,000 worth of building in five boroughs of the city was at a standstill yesterday pending settlement of a labor dispute.

Three thousand employes of the structural steel board of trade were ordered from their jobs by their employers after organized bricklayers quit work in protest against the open shop policy under which the steel work is erected.

Although bricklayers have returned to work on five of nine projects affected, the board of trade said it would not permit its men to resume work until the bricklayers had returned to all the construction jobs.

Not Taking Chances On German Fliers

LONDON, March 28 (A.P.).—Lloyds will insure against almost any calamity which may befall humankind, but it isn't willing to take any chances on the three Germans who are marking time at Dublin in preparation for a dash for Mitchel Field.

"No odds," was the reply to an inquiry at Lloyds for the better rates on the success of the proposed Junkers flight of Baron von Huenfeld and his associates.

Lloyds will insure against twins and triplets, and almost everything else under the sun, but there is too much uncertainty even for Lloyds in westward airplane flights over that foggy, icy, stormswept reach between the Irish coast and the Grand Banks.

50 MEN HIRED FOR G. M. PLANT

Company Begins Attempt To End Strike at Oshawa.

30 GIRLS WALK OUT.

OSHAWA Ont., March 28. Canadian Press. — The management of the General Motors plant here, where fifteen hundred men are on strike, to-day took the first step towards ending the walk out, by hiring fifty men to take the places of strikers.

Another mass meeting was held this morning, but was of brief duration, the strikers leaving to parade to the offices of the company as part of a demonstration to aid their cause. Thirty girls walked out of the trimming department in sympathy with the trimmers to-day, and the stampers may leave later in the day.

The general manager of the plant stated to-day that the company would gradually fill the positions if the men refused to return.

GIRLS ENTERTAIN THEIR MOTHERS

George Street Group Holds Mother and Daughter Banquet.

The Canadian Girls-in-Training of George Street United Church entertained their mothers at a very enjoyable "Mother and Daughter" banquet in the Sunday School auditorium last evening, about sixty being present. The guests were received by a committee of the girls, dressed in their uniforms of white middies, with blue collars and blue pleated skirts. The girls were Misses Irene Cox, Gertrude Butcher, Ruth Harrison and Margaret Vance.

The room was attractively decorated in the C.G.I.T. colors of blue and white, and the tables were lovely with blue runners and silver baskets of spring flowers. Community singing enlivened the meal.

Miss Mary Elliott acted as toastmistress, and proposed a toast to "The King." This was responded to in the usual manner by singing "God Save the King."

A toast to "Our Mothers" was proposed by Miss Alice Donley and responded to by Mrs. R. Lang.

The following program was then rendered:

Piano solo—Miss Ruby Jackson.
Vocal solo—Miss Alma Blanchard, accompanied by Miss McFadden.
Reading—Miss Eva Outram.

A splendid address was given by Miss Stella Bennett on "God as seen in nature."

Girls assisting in serving were: Misses Marjorie Hall, Marion Manning, Evelyn Reynolds, Gladys Constable, Lillian Heard, Nellie Taylor, Margaret Skitch, Helen Heard and Olive Elcomb.

A great deal of the success of the banquet is due to the untiring efforts of Miss Helen Spencley, the leader, assisted by Miss Gladys Coon.

THE WEATHER

With a different variety of weather almost every day, March is living up to its reputation. This morning a couple of inches of newly-fallen snow greeted us. The morning was also sharp, the temperature being down to 18 degrees. The precipitation this week is already over 1½ inches, and if it had not been for the cold nights lately the local floods would have been much more serious. There was a drop in temperature from 54 to 14 degrees.—W. P.

FINE SPIRIT SHOWN IN DEAL

Raybestos Company Plays Big Part in Bringing New Factory Here.

OWNS HOPE BUILDING.

In connection with the coming of the Johnson Outboard Motor Company to Peterborough, Mayor Denne pointed out to The Examiner to-day that the fine spirit of co-operation shown by the Canadian Raybestos Company had been a material factor in bringing this promising new industry to this city. The Raybestos Company were the owners of the Henry Hope building in which the Johnson organization is to locate, and in order to make it possible for Peterborough to land this much-desired industry, the Raybestos firm accepted a reduced figure for the plant, and Robert Abbott, head of the company here, made a trip to the headquarters of the Johnson Company to close the deal. "The sacrifice made by the Raybestos Company and their willingness to co-operate with the city in this matter are much appreciated," Mayor Denne remarked to The Examiner.

In Port Dover to-day it was felt their plight was a serious one ,and the rescue tug looked for an all-day job in the effort to reach the ice-bound vessel.

The keeper, F. Cooke, said the Altawandron drifted three or four miles during the night. "I don't think there is any danger of her breaking up," he said.

Zoological Garden Keeper Injured In Terrific Struggle With Huge Monkey

VANCOUVER, March 28 (Canadian Press). — "Hogan's Alley," vicious zoo monkey, which escaped from its cage in the local zoo after biting a keeper severely, is dead. A well-directed bullet ended the huge Simian's career last night.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 28 (Canadian Press)—David Keddie, Park Board employe, is in the St. Paul's Hospital with a badly lacerated wrist, following a terrific struggle in the monkey house at the Zoo just before noon yesterday. Keddie, a keeper, was attacked by the Simian, a huge beast presented to the park last year, when he entered the cage to feed the animals.

The monkey flew at the keeper's throat as he stepped into the enclosure. Keddie threw up his left arm to protect himself and the enraged animal sunk his teeth into the tendons of his left arm. The man seized the animal and tried to wrest it from its hold, but only drove its teeth deeper into the flesh. Keddie tried to seize it by the throat but failed and pounded it about the head with his right fist, calling all the while for assistance. In his struggle to free himself from the beast he stumbled against the door, which was not fastened. It flew open, and seeing its way to freedom the monkey let go and sprang away, disappearing in the heavy bush.

Heavy Rains Cause Near Floods in Central Part of Province.

While the wind was at its maximum in Buffalo with a velocity of 68 miles an hour, the plant of the Buffalo Flour Mills Corporation was destroyed by fire, entailing a loss estimated at $240,000. One fireman was injured.

In another section of the city, fire, fanned by the gale, destroyed two barns and damaged a house. A dozen downtown stores reported broken windows.

Trees were blown down at Lockport and in Batavia, electric power was off five hours. At Middleport a score of roofs, barn doors and trees fell before the storm.

A heavy fall of snow blanketed Northern Ontario. From one to two feet fell. In the central part of the province, heavy rains caused near floods. Reports said many bridges were washed away and roads were impassable.

East and north of Toronto and in Western Ontario, broken wires caused interruption of communications. Owen Sound was cut off and service was not restored until late yesterday afternoon. GERMANS DELAY START FOR U. S.

Will Not Take Off Until Weather is Suitable—Byrd Plane Off.

FLIES TO ST. PAUL.

DUBLIN, March 28 (Canadian Press).—Refusing to risk a start until weather conditions are favorable, the crew of the German monoplane Bremen to-day scanned the weather charts carefully in prepartion for their projected flight across the Atlantic. "The Brement will not fly before tomorrow at the earliest," Baron von Huenfeld, leader of the expedition said to-day.

Flying to Pole

DETROIT, March 28 (Canadian Press). — Floyd Bennett and Bernt Balchen, flying the huge all metal Ford monoplane, which Commander Byrd will use in his South Pole expedition, took off here to-day for St. Paul, their first stopping place on the trip to The Pas, Manitoba. They plan to remain in St. Paul overnight.

DUBLIN, March 28 (Associated Press). — Captain Hermann Koehl, Baron Von Huenefeld, and Arthur Spindler, comprising the crew of the Junkers plane Bremen, intend to take off for New York at daybreak to-day. This was their announced intention at ten o'clock last night, the "if" in the situation being the state of the weather.

The intrepid and taciturn Germans, who on Monday flew the plane more than 900 miles on a roundabout route from Berlin, were as quietly confident of the success of their plans last night as when they arrived here. Seemingly they have banished from their minds the spectral wraiths of the men and women who have failed on the East-to-West crossing of the Atlantic.

Baron Von Huenefeld and Captain Koehl called on President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State yesterday. The President wished them "bon voyage," and the airmen expressed to him their great appreciation of the courtesy they had met here and of the manner in which the facilities of the Free State Air Force had been placed at their disposal.

Mechanics were busy all day at the airdrome filling the tanks of the Bremen with special motor fuel and putting finishing touches on the adjustments and oiling of the motor.

AGED MAN DIES IN SNOW STORM

Severe Cold Reported From Northern Ontario Yesterday.

HORNEPAYNE 32 BELOW.

NORTH BAY, March 28. — From reports received yesterday the snowstorm which raged throughout Northern Ontario districts Monday and on into Tuesday morning, was one of the severest of the year. The storm covered a wide area stretching from the Great Lakes east to the Ottawa valley, as far north as the Transcontinental, and some distance south wards Though the storm was felt on all the sections covered by northern railroads, no serious interruptions to traffic were experienced. Severe cold was reported at Hornepayne, with 32 below Hearst 30 below and Cochrane 15 below.

A fatality occurred at Sturgeon Falls for which the storm was partially responsible. Richard Flannigan, a man in his later seventies, employed at the paper mill, was found dead in a snow drift. It is presumed that he collapsed, worn out with battling his way through the drifts. The deceased was a prominent Orangeman and was well known throughout the north. He is survived by his wife and four children. Alvin, of Toronto; Arthur, Victor and Mrs. Stanley Leppan all of Sturgeon Falls.

C.A.H.A. PRESIDENT.

W. A. Fry ,of Dunnville, Ont., who was elected president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association at that body's fourteenth annual meeting in Ottawa.

Aviators Killed In Plane Crash

MEXICO CITY, March 28 (Canadian Press)—Three Americans were killed yesterday when a plane which they were flying from Nogales, Ariz., to Mexico City crashed in the streets of Toluca, about 45 miles from their objective. The victims were Sterling Rohlfs, pilot; William E. King and Wallace Springer.

Efforts were being made last night to locate their homes and relatives in the United States.

The plane was about 1,000 feet above the city when a strong wind caught it. The pilot apparently attempted a landing, but the machine nose-dived and crashed in a side street near the centre of the city. The plane was completely wrecked, and the bodies of the occupants were badly broken.

HERTZOG CLAIMS ABSTRACT RIGHT

IF EMPIRE IN DANGER.

LONDON, March 28 (Canadian Press Cable). — The Morning Post, in an editorial touching on the recent declaration of Premier Hertzog of South Africa had the right to remain neutral if Great Britain were at war, also alludes to the question of dominion status as having troubled the South African Premier and the Premier of Canada, Mackenzie King, some years ago. On the question of neutrality, The Post says that while Premier Hertzog discussed it in the South African Parliament only as an abstract right, he nevertheless insisted that it was the "proud right of South Africa to remain neutral when war threatened the Empire."

The Post, however, expresses confidence that none of the British Dominions would seek refuge in neutrality if danger came again to the Empire.

A gang of men with several C.P.R. officials came by way of Lindsay and had the tracks in repair for the evening train.

THE EXAMINER'S TIE BREAKER

During the past few days several questions have been asked by contestants in regard to the tie-breaker puzzle and in order that no misunderstanding should exist on these points, we are giving these questions and answers for the benefit of all concerned:

Q.—Is it necessary to have the same number of groups of figures in each section to get the same total?

A.—No. You can have a different number of groups in each section providing you keep within the minimum and maximum allowed for each section.

Q.—How does one determine the left hand side of each section? Is it necessary to turn the wheel around to do this?

A.—The wheel should be turned around so that the section you are working on is at the top, and therefore the left hand side will then be the same for every section.

Q.—Does a person have to keep on going to the right, or can you double back again if necessary towards the left?

A.—You may zig-zag anywhere in the section, but do not touch the extreme left hand side twice as this is equal to making two starts, but in proceeding across the section you can double back towards the left if you wish, but be careful not to cross your path or touch in any way while doing this.

Q.—What advantage do I have by not using too many groups of figures; for instance, if I should get 4 paths the same with about 40 groups of figures each and a total of 20,000 each and someone got 4 paths with about 55 groups each and a total of 22,000 in each path, who would win?

A.—The one with 22,000. As stated in the rules, the tie-breakers come in the order given. The first essential is for the paths to total the same. If two or more get this, then the one with the largest total for each, regardless of how many groups they have taken, wins, but if it should happen that they have the same total, then the one with the fewest groups would win. The fewest groups only takes preference if the two previous tests have resulted in ties.

CATTLE RAISING IN CANADA NOW ON SOUND BASIS

More Prosperous Years Ahead, States Winnipeg Stock Buyer.

IMPROVE QUALITY.

Suggests Adoption of National System of Grading To Improve Market.

MONTREAL, Que., March 28 (Canadian Press).—"Following several years of great difficulty the cattle raisers of Canada now find the industry on a sound and paying basis with prospects of several more prosperous years at least," said R. J. Speers of Winnipeg, President of the corporation bearing his name, here yesterday.

"But," he cautioned, "while prices are now high, and we hope they will continue so, it is not in the interests of the cattle industry that prices should soar, because in that case the inevitable will happen, viz: a curtailment in consumption, which, in fact, is already taking place, while some people are switching over to pork and others to beef substitutes. What the producer needs more than anything else is a steady market with prices on a profitable basis.

Improve Quality

Mr. Speers said there was an immediate need of an effort to improve the quality of the cattle which were being offered for sale, rather than to endeavor to increase the number of cattle. "In the past there has been a tendency among our producers to go in for cattle raising when prices are high and to go out of cattle raising when prices are low. The reverse is preferable; but even that is not a sound policy to follow. The better policy to to always have a few cattle on hand and try to have them of as high quality and finish as possible when they are being placed on the market," Mr. Speers said.

"Feeding is just as necessary as breeding," he contined. "I would not want to be understood, however, as suggesting that we should let up in our efforts to improve the breeding of our cattle, but rather that we should improve our methods of feeding and handling. Canada to-day consumes about 85 per cent of the beef cattle produced in our country; the other 15 per cent is exported. It is obvious that this 15 per cent represents the cream of production, because this would be the only class of cattle which could absorb the carrying charges. The result is that the home market, which is our best market, is being asked to absorb our cheaper cattle. Canadians enjoy good beef just as much as the people of any other nation. If a better class of beef were sold over the counters of Canada, the increase in beef consumption in Canada would soon reach the point where it could absorb the 15 per cent that we are now sending outside the country."

Adopt Grading System

Mr. Speers said there was a pressing need to establish confidence among the beef consumers of Canada and he suggested the adoption of a national system of grading. "Some people argue," he asserted, "that Canada has not a sufficient quantity of high grade beef cattle to justify establishing a grading system. My answer to that statement is that Canada had very little butter of a quality which would justify sending it to the markets of the world, when grading was started, and just as soon as the grading of cream and the grading of butter was put into effect there was a marked improvement in the quality and a phenomenal increase of total production of butter in the Dominion of Canada. Particularly was this true in respect to the Prairie Provinces."
